DEATH OF ANGELES MARKS PASSING OF THE BRAINS OF OPPOSITION TO CARRANZA

Man Educated by Mexico in Its Greatest Military Schools Wound Up as Aid to an Ignorant Bandit.

By CLAIR KENAMORE.

NOW that Gen. Felipe Angeles is finally removed, by the effective firing squad, President Carranza will sleep better of nights. With the death of Angeles there passed away the brains and heart of the opposition to the Carranza Government in Northern Mexico The brawn remains, personified by Villa and similar chieftains, but Carranza has leaders who can handle such purely physical opposition.

With Angeles it was different. He was a distinguished soldier with a keen mind, and an honesty of purpose which inspired men of high position to believe in him. This was of greater value to him in the United States than in Mexico, because it was not a quality which brought him a following of men who could be turned into soldiers to fill the ranks of an army. He was not magnetic, and he would not promise his followers the rich loot of cities as reward. Angeles was in his element on the battlefield when directing an action, or in the directors' room of some big corporation explaining the plans for a revolution, and seeking aid for it. He was not a good recruiter.

His activity ceased only with his death. While he lived he kept up the unceasing work of scheming, plotting and fighting for what he believed to be the best for the Mexico which he loved. He and Carranza were friends and comrades in arms in those hard days on the campo after the killing of Madero. Carranza was the large, still man about whom the people were to rally to put down the usurper, Huerta; Villa was the roaring torch which was to fire the popular imagination, and Angeles was the small, quiet man who was to make the rabble into an army, train it to fight and guide it to victory on the field. Before Carranza and Villa fell out, it was to Angeles that Carranza went for advice and counsel. One can only speculate on how much of Carranza's success was due to Angeles.

Once Carranza's Comrade.

Those were hard days with the ragged, hungry Army of Deliverance on the Chihuahua desert. Men and horses were thin and short of food. They never had enough arms, and ammunition came sparingly across the American border. But the revolution went on with varying fortunes. Carranza in the presidential palace in Mexico City last week must have had strange memories when into his hands was put the last chance to save the life of his one-time friend and comrade.

It was not to be expected that the big, silent, dull-looking President would extend his clemency to Angeles, for many years have passed since the two men sat in the shade of a mesquite bush in Chihuahua, and ate "jerky" out of the same dish. Carranza is an astute politician who has won through to the highest position in his country, and through all his life of power, Angeles has been the lean and hungry Cassius whom he feared. Angeles was captured while in open rebellion to the Carranza Government, and was sentenced to die the death. A word from Carranza could save him, and Carranza continued to keep the silence which has always been his main political asset. Old times were forgotten. The exigencies of the hour must be served.

I met Gen. Angeles first in the field in Mexico. He wore a most disreputable uniform, if such it might be called, and in place of a shirt, a sweater of the kind which slips over the head. Later I saw him in his home a few miles below El Paso. He was shirted, shaven and urbane. He had a pleasant home, a beautiful wife, and several children, one, a daughter of about 18, of rare charm and beauty. He said he was done with revolutions and wars, and that he had settled down to make a fortune, doing something which I have forgotten, probably mining. Later in the conversation he said he saw little hope in the Mexican situation from any angle. I had gone to ask him what he thought of Felix Diaz's chances for success in the south of Mexico. Angeles thought but little of Felix Diaz, believing he had nothing on the credit side of his books but a distinguished name.

Called Villa Great Savage.

The next time I saw Angeles was on a train going from El Paso to Kansas City. He began as usual, that he was done with all military affairs, to the study and practice of which he had devoted his life. He had taken up civilian pursuits. Didn't I think silver was sure to go to a dollar an ounce? It is a long ride from El Paso to Kansas City, and after a few hours the Mexican political situation was being thoroughly dissected. Angeles was traveling under the name of Mr. Knox and he was going to Kansas City, he said, to report to certain Eastern gentlemen who had interests in Mexico, on conditions there.

That was after the Villa raid on Columbus, and Angeles said most earnestly (and I believe that he meant it at the time) that he would never again ally himself with Villa. He said Villa had no military ability as the word was understood in civilized war, that he was simply a great savage.

Villa's power over the people, he said, was largely due to this savagery. He was an idol, just as all the successful bandits of partially civilized countries are always idolized bl the lower classes.

"Through With Villa."

Angeles laughed when he thought of his own case. A man who had been educated by the state in its greatest military schools, who had been a student in the great French schools of war, consulted by the greatest makers of artillery in the world, and what had he become? The assistant and aid of a bandit whose ignorance was surprising and whose ferocity was appalling. "But I am through with him for all time," he said. "I shall doubtless be a soldier all my life, as it is the only training that I have, but not with Villa."

I was much surprised to learn that Angeles, after his work for the French Government in New York was finished, had returned to Chihuahua and again taken the field with Villa. I thought at the time that he must have obtained promises of strong financial backing from either American or French interests and expected to see him displace the discredited Villa as the head of the revolutionary movement in Northern Mexico.

Angeles had always been friendly to the United States and its citizens. He and Obregon, his enemy, had been the two conspicuously clean and worthy political and military men in the northern tier of states. It was doubtless under Angeles' advice that the Villista force took Juarez the last time. He expected to set up his Government there and from there to spread over the north of Mexico. It must have been a serious blow to him when the American troops crossed the Rio Grande and drove the rebels out of Juarez. After that there was nothing for him to do but to take to the hills, which he did and which resulted in his capture. Once established in Juarez, he would have been a very serious menace to Carranza. When he was driven out, the menace abated for a time, but his mere existence at large in the north of Mexico meant trouble for Carranza. When all these things are considered and the nature of the Jefe-politico is taken into account, there is little wonder that he did not commute the death sentence of Angeles.

Friend of America.

Angeles' friendship for America and Americans was strong and real, but it never was sycophantic or servile. The thought of American intervention in Mexico was horrible to him. He believed that America had no more right to intervene in Mexico than Mexico or England would have had to intervene in the United States during the Civil War. He held firmly that Mexico had a right to its own growing pains and spasms incident to its developments. He believed his country should be allowed to find itself in its own way.

We parted on the trip to Kansas City in the diner. We had lunched together, ending with watermelon. The talk was of American intervention.

"Good-by," he said, smiling, as we shook hands. "Till we meet again, whether over the watermelon or the trenches."

That Angeles had the Legion of Honor was news to me, but it was typical of the man that he would never have mentioned that this decoration had come to him. However, I never saw him in a dress uniform I doubt if he had had one in later years.

Angeles was about five feet, five inches tall, strongly built and deeply tanned. He looked much like an Indian, but I believe he was said to be of pure European blood His Spanish was of the kind learned in schools and much different from that usually spoken in the north of Mexico. He spoke French perfectly and a little English.

Admired by Mexicans.

As a student, he had been something of a protege of old President Diaz, it was said, but he never attempted to defend the Diaz regime. He believed in the spread of liberty and education among his people and in the establishment of commercial and financial stability and he believed the only way these things would come about would be through force of arms. Mexicans generally

How Lord Leverhulme Spares His Workers

British Soap Manufacturer Plans Six-Hour Day to Save Employes

And Takes Them as Partners in His Factories

He Believes Labor Problems Can Be Solved by Double Shift Method, Placing Burden on Machinery and Conserving Lives of Men and Women.

By MARTIN GREEN.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.

PERHAPS it would be misleading to call Lord Leverhulme of Great Britain, whose soap manufacturing enterprise is one of the great productive activities of the world, an industrial revolutionist, but it is safe to say that he has brought to the United States ideas and theories relating to manufacturing which are novel and will provoke wide and spirited discussion.

Basically, his idea is to reduce the hours of his human labor and increase the hours of machine labor in all lines of industry in which the overhead cost is equal to or in excess of the weekly wage bill. The result, as he sees it, would be:

1. Fifty per cent increase of production, due to working machinery 12 hours a day, with two shifts of workmen, putting in six hours each, as against a single shift of workmen, putting in eight hours a day, and the plant of machinery working only eight hours as at present. In Lord Leverhulme's factories today, with a single shift, he gets only 48 hours a week service from his machines. With the double shift he would get 72 hours' service from his machines a week, an increase of 24 hours a week, the equivalent of three full eight-hour days.

2. The increased output would lower the cost of the product, create a wider market and a steadier demand—although this contention is bitterly disputed by the union labor leader of the very workmen whose working hours Lord Leverhulme is planning to reduce.

3. The increased output and enhanced turnover of products would enhance profits and enable the manufacturer to pay the same wage for six hours' work that he now pays for eight hours' work.

4. Reduction in working hours would give working people more opportunity for rest, recreation and education in daylight, and, as Lord Leverhulme expresses it, "make finer men and women."

5. The increased demand for cheapened product would call for more output, more machinery and more labor.

He Accepts His Employes as Partners.

This about summarizes Lord Leverhulme's innovation, which, despite existing obstacles, he expects to put into effect in all his factories—including one near Boston—in the near future. But he has ideas about other matters than increased production. He believes and practices that employes who deserve it should have a co-partnership interest in their employer's business, and that working men and women have the right to organize into unions. He is against Government ownership and operation—or so-called nationalization—of any industry anywhere.

He is opposed to prohibition by legislation and does not agree with employers who hold that the workman who is deprived of his beer or wine or liquor by law is more efficient than the workman who is free to regulate his own appetite. He believes that in the course of time Great Britain will elect a Labor government, but he does not look for this in the next election; nor is he alarmed at the prospect. He is not frightened over Bolshevistic activities, holding that there have been Bolshevists, operating as highwaymen, pirates, burglars and enemies of toil, in all ages.

Lord Leverhulme is a stocky, ruddy, active man, with a shock of iron-gray hair. His appearance is that of a man in his fifties. He sat at a table in the Plaza Hotel yesterday and talked at great length about his enormous business, with a capital of $500,000,000, held by 86,000 persons, and about his co-partnership plan, by which something like 5000 of his employes in Great Britain, on the Continent and in the United States are shareholders by reason of a stock certificate distribution plan, and about his project to make finer men and women. He is a fast, certain talker, as a man should be who is sure of the soundness of his theories, and he has a keen sense of humor and a habit of interspersing his conversation with stories. In the course of his conversation he quoted Oliver Wendell Holmes, Thomas Carlyle and Abraham Lincoln and gave evidence of having mentally browsed in a wide and nourishing field of literature.

Pays Tribute to Working Men and Women.

Although his six-hour working plan is quite likely to be criticised by American manufacturers and financiers, Lord Leverhulme apparently has not allowed contemplation of such criticism to divert him from open advocacy of the idea. He prefaced his remarks on this subject with a tribute to the working men and women of Great Britain and the United States.

"I am proud of them," he declared, "proud of their patriotism, proud of their common sense, proud of their levelheadedness. The world has just gone through the greatest cataclysm in history. Everything that has gone before was like setting off a fireworks display on a village green in celebration of a festival. And what do we find?

"We find that the working men of Great Britain and the United States—and they were the men who met the foe and fought him face to face—are turning back into the avocations of peace with an absence of serious disturbance that is almost miraculous. Of course, we have had widespread discontent and agitation, but we expected that. It was a natural outcome of a four years' war that upset the entire world. The wonderful part about it is that we have made such substantial progress in the direction of re-establishment of production and trade.

"Now, as to the plan of establishing a 36-hour working week in industry. I think my idea has, perhaps, been misunderstood in this country. I do not advocate the establishment of a six-hour work day as such. I think I may express it best by saying that I want to establish a 36-hour working week and a 72-hour plant week. I want my men and women to work only 36 hours, but I want my machinery to work 12 hours a day—72 hours a week. I want to sweat my machinery and save the sweat of the working men and women.

Couyright by Press Illustrating Service.

LORD LEVERHULME.

Plans Establishment of 6-Hour Day.

"My plan is to establish in my factories a 12-hour day, with two working shifts, each shift to work six hours each week day. This might be done by dividing the working day into two six-hour periods, but the British working man has acquired the habit of taking his Saturday afternoon off, and he would not sacrifice that half-holiday. Therefore, I have had to modify my calculations.

"I purpose to establish two shifts, a morning and afternoon. The morning shift is to work six hours and have the rest of the day for recreation or anything else. But to allow for the Saturday half-holiday the afternoon shift will work approximately seven hours and 12 minutes—say seven hours and 15 minutes one day and seven hours and 10 minutes the next day—or any such division which will make the average afternoon shift of work of seven hours and 12 minutes duration.

"At stated periods the morning six-hour workers will be transferred to the afternoon shift and the afternoon seven hours and 12 minutes workers will be transferred to the six-hour morning shift. You see how it works out? For instance, on a Friday the afternoon shift would knock off work in the evening and not report again at the factory until the following Monday, to go to work on the six-hour shift, and the six-hour shift workers would knock off at noon on Saturday and be at liberty until, say, noon on Monday, when they report for the seven-hour-and-12-minute shift for the succeeding week.

"The machinery will be running under this plan 12 hours a day. There is the advantage of the plan. If a machine wears out by being sweated, it can be replaced and the world is the richer for the replacement, for the men are paid who build the new machine. But if a man or a woman wears out by reason of being sweated the world is the loser, for the premature subtraction from the productive energy of the world of that particular worker.

Predicts Increase in Production.

"Opponents of my plan have advanced the idea of establishing two workday shifts of eight hours each. But the domestic relations of the worker must be considered, and under such a plan stable hours for sleep and meals and recreation could not be provided.

"With the machinery working 12 hours a day and always operated by fresh, enthusiastic men and women, production will be greatly increased, and the increase of output means lower costs to the consumer.

"Workmen, however, are slow to adopt innovations, and I might say that this slowness is not entirely confined to the working people. But the workman has noting but experience to guide him, and he knows he has had to fight for every advantage he has gained. At the beginning of the last century the 12-hour day was the standard all over the world.

"The trouble with the workman and his union leaders is that they are afraid increased output will fill the warehouses, reduce demand and thereby cut down the number of working people. They cannot see, as yet, that cheapening the products makes for a wider and constantly increasing market, although they are coming to see it, and they will see it.

All the workers in my factories are members of unions. We shall have to educate not only the workers, but the union labor leaders, who are prone to confine their judgment to the limits of their understanding, and few of them have been ardent students of the principles of political economy.

"I had planned to put my six-hour-day principle in operation during the summer of 1920 but it will be delayed because of the union opposition. The Government is favorable to it, and when we get the workers to see the advantages the Government will amend the factory laws, which are at the present time not applicable to the two-shifts-a-day plan. We are making substantial progress toward our goal.

Nationalization of Industries Is Impracticable, He Tells Interviewer, Declaring Government Could Not Operate Candy Shop Successfully.

"You may reasonably ask me what industries could be operated on the six-hour workday principle. I say, any industry in which the overhead charges are equal to or exceed the weekly wage bill. Even before the war the cost of buildings, machinery and other items constituting the overhead were steadily mounting, and they are now excessive. The only way to meet the overhead is to increase the output. An overhead cost distribution over a meager output will kill any industry.

Would Sweat Machines, Save Workers.

"So I am forcing the output by sweating the machinery and shortening the working hours, without reducing the wage. We must consider that the boy or girl going into the factory at 14 or 15 years of age is, save in exceptional cases, going into factory work for life, and factory work is hard and exacting. Under prevailing conditions, the only chance the factory worker has for recreation in the working week is during the Saturday half-holiday. That is not enough, in my opinion, and I anticipate the establishment of my opinion in the minds of the directors of industry everywhere."

"Some of our farmers are agitating for shorter working hours," suggested the interviewer.

"The shorter-hours plan will not work on a farm," said Lord Leverhulme. "On a farm the labor wage cost exceeds the overhead charges. And besides, farm work, while requiring long hours and laborious hours in certain seasons, is not so exacting and exhausting a work in productive industry, or in railroading."

Lord Leverhulme is not a believer in profit-sharing as it is understood by a majority of manufacturers, but he is a firm believer in co-partnership with his workers, and he has been operating for the past 10 years a co-partnership plan which has come through the fires of experience and emerged more virile and satisfactory at the end of each year.

Every white employe of the concern over 20 years of age, who has been employed by the company for one year or more, is eligible to co-partnership profits. Up to this year four years of service were required. For purposes of distributing the profits to the deserving, the working people are divided into four sections or divisions.

Explains Co-Partnership Plan.

Each employe's work, attendance and general conduct is under constant scrutiny. At the end of the year co-partnership certificates which draw dividends are distributed, length of service, salary or wages and excellence of service contributing to the size of the allotment to each individual.

"We started our co-partnership plan in 1909," said Lord Leverhulme, "but dated it back to 1901. I had a sentiment to date the inauguration of the plan from the first year of the twentieth century. Workers who were with us in 1909 and had been with us since 1901 drew what might be called accretions, which were quite substantial, as you may imagine.

"As an illustration of how the plan works, we will take the case of a workman—or a workwoman—who earns, in approximate relation to American money, we will say, $15 a week, or $780 a year. That person, computing from averages, will, if competent, energetic and punctual, draw at the end of the year, co-operation certificates amounting to about $75, or 10 per cent of his or her wage. Many draw more; some draw less.

"These certificates draw the same dividends as the regular stock, less 5 per cent. We deduct that 5 per cent because the co-operation certificates do not represent money invested and are not subject to the risk of loss run by capital.

"We distributed in 1918 in co-partnership certificates approximately $1,030,000, figuring the dollar to the pound as per the exchange rate, which is most commonly understood in this country and England—$5 to the pound. This distribution was made to about 4500 employes. We expect to distribute at the end of this year approximately $1,250,000 in co-partnership certificates. We have outstanding in co-partnership certificates the equivalent in English money of about 5,000,000 American dollars at this time and will continue the distribution in $1,000,000 allotments.

Workers' Committee Hears Grievances.

"A worker feeling aggrieved because no shares have been allotted to him or fewer shares have been allotted than he thinks his due, has the privilege of an appeal to a committee composed of workers. The committee takes up the matter with the management and we have never had any trouble straightening out such complaints and grievances.

"We have encountered union opposition to our co-partnership plan. The British labor unions are opposed to all plans savoring of a bonus to energy or application. They want a straight wage system which will give the good workman the same pay as the bad workman. But they are getting out of that. Education is at work. That opposition, by the way, has grown up in the past three years. It was not in existence before the war.

"There are about 15,000 employes in our organization who are eligible to participation in the co-partnership certificate distribution. Of recent years we have had a large labor turnover because of conditions arising from the war—that is, our personnel has shifted considerably. Our rule requiring a year of service and that the co-partner be 21 years of age or over cuts down the number eligible. We have thousands of employes who are ineligible because of condition of their employment, such as our negroes in the Congo in Africa. They are taken care of in different ways.

"You might reasonably ask me if our system pays—if we get back the $1,030,000 we distributed last year, and I must say that I cannot tell. But I do know that our business is prosperous and our people are happy and our people are attached to the firm. We have many employes who have been with us 40 years—and I have been in business only 53 years—and we have fathers and sons and grandsons working in our factories. I do know that our people are contented and if our system tends to their happiness and to the making of fine men and women I do not ask for a better result. I would much rather help make fine men and women than make fine dividends, and I believe that if we can make finer men and women the dividends will take care of themselves.

Fosters Scheme to Encourage Thrift.

"We have established another innovation which is not compulsory. Workers who sign a specified form may have their weekly wages deposted in a bank. The management makes the deposits which draw the regular interest.

"Our hope is that the scheme will encourage thrift. At present there are many apparently unsurmountable obstacles in the way of a wage earner, who might want to save money. Many of these obstacles will present themselves when he is on the way to the bank wtih his pay in his pocket. By depositing the money ourselves we take him around the obstacles. The plan thus far has met with gratifying success."

Lord Leverhulme was asked his opinion of the demand of the English coal miners that the mines be taken over by the Government.

"If I was a mine owner," he replied, "I would be glad to have the Government take over my mines at this time or any time in the future, although I think the Government would be foolish to do so. Oil is the coming fuel and we are about to obtain energy in a great many ways. The mine owner of the near future will have to compete with oil, electricity, water power, sun heat, the latent force of the tides and God only knows what else.

"I don't believe in nationalization of anything. I don't think the Government could successfuly run a taffy shop, for instance—a candy store, as you call it here. Supposing the coal mines are nationalized. The miners will elect to the governing body men who will pledge themselves to work for higher wages and the cities which consume coal will elect to the governing body men who will pledge themselves to work for cheaper coal."

Emphatically Opposes Prohibition.

"What do you think about prohibition?" Lord Leverhulme was asked.

"I am emphatically and absolutely

COAL CONTROVERSY SHOWS NECESSITY FOR ACCURATE STATISTICS ON THE BUSINESS

Congress Failed to Provide $100,000 Requested for Work of Getting Data, and Public Is Paying Bill.

By DAVID LAWRENCE,

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1919.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.

WHATEVER else the coal controversy may teach its has revealed how first the Democrats and then the Republicans in Congress neglected to heed the appeals, warnings, petitions and pleas of several bureaus of the Government for funds to get the facts about coal.

Anticipating just such a situation as had arisen, where statistics are supreme and where figures reliably gathered can alone carry conviction, Congress turned a deaf ear to the requests for money to bring out the facts about coal production, its costs and factors of distribution and sundry other items all of which, Dr. Harry A. Garfield, Fuel Administrator, confessed in his open statement of last Tuesday that Congress had failed to provide.

Everything went well until the war, when the fuel administration was created, for the United States Geological Survey and the Federal Trade Commission were made integral parts so far as coal was concerned of the machinery of that administration. Funds were provided by the fuel administration. Then the armistice came and the fuel administration was dissolved. The Geological Survey asked for funds to continue the work. The appropriation committees of Congress last January failed to grant the request. When the Republicans came into power in May and appropriation bills were considered the matter came up again and in June the director of the Geological Survey told the Senate that "this country is not yet out of danger of a fuel shortage and needs weekly reports."

Congress Refused Funds.

Later on the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission appointed a subcommittee headed by Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey to make an inquiry into the coal situation.

The New Jersey Senator was amazed to find that the Geological Survey was unable to furnish data concerning the country's coal requirements. He went so far as to ask the Secretary of the Interior, in whose department is the Geologic Survey, to request Congress again for that appropriation. It was only $40,000. The Senator from New Jersey was so impressed with the necessity for funds to get coal data that he appeared himself before the Committee on Appropriations and supported the request of the Geologic Survey. But some of the Senators felt that the thing should originate in the House and no action was taken. The House Committee on its side wouldn't reopen the bill. That happened in September.

Somewhat similar experience confronted the Federal Trade Commission. It had the machinery to do even more than the Geologic Survey, but particularly with reference to costs of production. Sixty thousand dollars was requested. Chairman Good of the House Appropriations Committee was willing, but the time of Congress was otherwise spent and the House took no action.

These facts reveal the tendency of Congress to turn down requests for funds that have anything to do with statistics. The Bureau of Labor Statistics has had many a discouraging encounter with Congress on that score, and whether the United States Government ever adopts a budget system or not, the flaw will never be cured until the men in Congress become responsive to the advice of those various bureaus which are in touch with public needs.

Just now the Geologic Survey is putting out some coal reports after a fashion, but it is somewhat humiliating for the bureau to be required to accept the generosity of the National Coal Operators' Association, which is helping to foot the bill. There are those who, for instance, fear that if the figures, or statistics of the Geologic Survey are ever attacked, the public may have a wrong impression from the fact that they are gathered by funds furnished by interested parties. On the other hand, a certain amount of co-operation is necessary between the operators and the Government bureaus, but the latter would feel better if it could point to the figures gathered as its own, and so would the coal operators, who would be able to use those figures without embarrassment.

All sides, the operators, miners, Government bureaus, and such men as Dr. Garfield, who had experience in the Fuel Administration, are agreed that the data is necessary. They have been agreed ever since the armistice, but Congress hasn't seen it that way. The argument that there must be economy first, seized the Democrats as the armistice came and the Republicans on coming into power in May, have added ever more zest to the cutting down process. If the curtailment of expenditures were scientific, the boasts of the party politicians about the amount of money they have saved would be valid, but it so happens that a failure to appropriate relatively small sums like $40,000 or $60,000 may mean an expense to the public of several millions of dollars, much inconvenience, and much suffering due to coal shortage.

Furthermore, facts would have enabled the public to learn exactly what the supply of fuel was, so that buying would be better regulated. And a more regular method of purchase might have assisted the operators in furnishing more regular employment to miners so that much of the controversy about lack of opportunity to work and lagging production might have been examined in the light of unquestioned data.

Importance of Statistics.

The whole controversy ranges around statistics. Whose figures are right, whose computations are accurate, or fair? Many Government agencies have existed to do the job of answering such questions, but the effort in Congress to make a record of "economy" has caused the executive branch of the Government to grope its way through unlightened paths of averages, estimates, calculations and individual guesses.

And while the party politicians orate and point to their achievements the public pays the bill of neglected opportunities.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

"Profiteers and Fair Price Lists."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It seems as though the bulk of the profiteering centers on sugar, and, according to the manner in which officials are handling the case, little will be done towards cornering the ones responsible for the high prices. In the minds of the public it is either the farmer or planter who is guilty of profiteering, or it is the so-called Sugar Trust, the latter being the more openly accused. The public has time and again appealed to the Government to curb this trust, but it is seemingly useless. There is but one alternative left, that being to arrest and prosecute all those connected with this Sugar Trust. When the people protested and then demanded that the leaders of the trust be prosecuted, the Government defended itself by declaring that it did not know who the leaders were, but the "measures would soon be taken to curb them." However, up to the time of this writing, little or nothing has been done.

But it is already fixed in the minds of the people that these profiteers can and will be prosecuted. It is, therefore, evidently due to the failure of the Government to prosecute these profiteers that the sugar continues on its high scale. When the Government placed the price of sugar at 18½c a pound, 400,000 tons were immediately available. Now when the price is fixed by the so-called "fair price fixers" at 13c a pound, all the sugar seems to have disappeared. The facts are strange. I believe that the "fair price lists" were evidently made to "silence a clamoring public."

It is time that the Government take a hand and do everything within its powers to curb these profiteers, which the public knows it can do, then its greatest accomplishment would be scored.

Johnson Duly Authorized.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I think it only just to William E. Johnson, the Anti-Saloon League of America under whose direction he is working in England, the United Kingdom Alliance of Great Britain, and the students who engaged in the prankish attack on Johnson, to say several things:

1. Mr. Johnson is in England at the express invitation of the alliance and other dry organizations which are older than the Anti-Saloon League. Last summer a number of Englishmen, including clergymen, physicians and others, made a tour of the United States and Canada, looking at the results of prohibition, and asking for the co-operation of American drys. Dr. C. W. Saleeby, chairman of the British birth control commission, earnestly asked the aid of the league in making the British Empire dry. At Washington there was formed the World League Against Alcoholism, with English representatives present. One of the four presidents is Lief Jones, member of the British Parliament.

2. While the drys of the United States are helping the drys of England, the wets of the United States are over there helping the wets of England. One, of course, has as good a right over there as the other.

3. Although the United States has adopted prohibition and it is the law of the land, English wets are in the United States helping the American wets to set aside prohibition, and yet never a protest has been made either by the Government or the drys.

4. The Lord Chancellor of Great Britain has declared that Mr. Johnson has a perfect right to speak over there. So all talk of "butting in" is pure "bunk."

To Reap, One Must Sow.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Sunday I went to church, and came away with a thought which persisted in staying with me.

The speaker took for his text the words "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap," with the implied thought that in order to reap, a man must sow, and that he must sow the seed which will bring forth the fruit he desires. In other words, to quote the preacher, "we must be willing to pay the price." Through an experience of his own he applied this to the "idle rich" who dawdle along through life and have a good time, with never a thought of paying. He also told of how one time he asked the Commissioner of the Poor of New York City what would happen if all the wealth of Fifth avenue were turned over to the poor of the East Side, without restriction, and how the Commissioner answered, "They would all be in hell by morning," showing that both rich and poor must "pay the price."

It seems to me that the world needs just such a creed at the present time, when capital and labor are ready to jump, each at the other's throat, at a moment's notice. Capital must "pay the price." Labor must "pay the price." Neither of them should be permitted to reap without first having sowed.

In closing I want to say that I hope the good pastor will pardon me for taking the liberty of "writing up" his sermon without permission from him, but I am trusting he will understand the spirit which moves me to do it.

A CHURCHGOER.

RATIFICATION BY COMPROMISE.

If the United States is to have peace there are only two courses of procedure by which peace can be obtained. One is to ratify the treaty of Versailles; the other is to negotiate a separate treaty with Germany.

The Lodge plan to declare by concurrent resolution of Congress that the state of war is at an end is the product of senatorial hysteria, and may be dismissed as such. Any resolution of Congress declaring an end to the state of war would have to be submitted to the President, and it would be the President's solemn duty to veto it.

The New York Tribune now admits that "some of the Lodge reservations are superfluous or duplicates, and may be taken out without sacrifices of principle." As for the rest it makes this frank concession:

"The language of others may be altered, but the essential points that the President is not a Kaiser, with complete power over foreign relations, and that the national independence cannot be destroyed by treaty must stand."

The President's powers over foreign relations have been delegated to him by the Constitution. They cannot be increased or diminished by treaty or by act of Congress. As for the national independence, we know of nobody who is trying to destroy it by treaty. That issue, raised originally by Borah, is a fake and a fraud.

But if the Tribune can pledge the Republican Senators to its view of the reservations, nothing stands in the way of an honorable compromise that will bring about the speedy ratification of the treaty of Versailles at the session of Congress opening tomorrow.

Nobody can object if the Senators write into a resolution of ratification the undisputed fact that this is a Government of enumerated Powers, with three independent, coördinate branches; that Congress alone can declare war; that Congress alone can appropriate money whether for the league of nations or for dredging a creek; that the executive has no right to create offices except with the consent of Congress; that the Monroe Doctrine is the Monroe Doctrine, and that the United States has a right to refuse to submit to the jurisdiction of the league of nations questions which it has heretofore regarded as domestic and relating to its internal affairs.

That is all very simple, and if that is what a majority of the Republican Senators want, neither the Democratic Senators nor the President can quarrel with them. More than 80 Senators have voted in favor of the treaty of Versailles, some without reservations and some with reservations. Eighty Senators are considerably more than the necessary two-thirds who must advise and consent to the ratification of the treaty. If there is an honest desire for compromise, compromise can easily be arrived at; but it must begin first with the rejection of the impossible Lodge preamble, and as a second condition there must be a radical change in the tone and temper of some of the reservations, which are as arrogant in their language as anything that ever came out of Wilhelmstrasse.

Some of the trouble is undoubtedly due to the temperament and antipathies of President Wilson and Senator Lodge. No two men in the country are less fitted to work with each other, and Senator Lodge is under the obsession that his first duty is to oppose everything the President wants, and favor everything to which the President objects.

His point of view is vividly illustrated by the conversation reported by the Rev. D. D. Irvine, who on Aug. 30, asked for a hearing in behalf of the Society for American and British Friendship. Senator Lodge, according to Dr. Irvine, replied:

> Doctor, if you have anything to say against the President or the League of Nations, we want to hear you. But if you have anything to say for the President or for the League of Nations, we haven't time to listen to you.

Although Senator Lodge calls the Irvine statement "a complete falsehood," Dr. Irivine repeats it, and insists that it is true. Whether he has reported the exact words of Senator Lodge correctly or not, that is the spirit in which the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee has acted, and it is fatal to any treaty.

A broad basis for compromise exists in regard to any legitimate differences of opinion as to reservations, but to succeed it must be a compromise that has for its aim the preservation of the treaty of peace, not its nullification.

THE PRINCE AND THE PIES.

The visit of the Prince of Wales to this country has done great harm. The hands of progress have been set back on the dial of time. The pie-throwing era, which had begun to wane, has been indefinitely prolonged. Reason: The Prince laughed at the pie throwers.

It has been noted for some time by movie devotees that the pie throwers were slipping. The causes were not clear. Some thought that the humor of the pie slingers was getting too subtle for the gradually deteriorating intelligence of that part of the populace which relies upon the screen for its mental stimulus. Others suggested that the reason was not to be sought above the ears, but in the region below the belt. In other words, that the revolt was gastronomic and not intellectual. In either event, it was a case of too much pie.

Then along came the Prince, who wanted something to laugh at and the New Yorkers, with remarkable acumen, provided a pie-pitching scenario. And the Prince laughed. We choose to think that he laughed because he wanted to be polite. He probably concluded, because he asked for something to laugh at and they gave him pie throwers, that, syllogistically, pie throwing was supposed to be laughable. However that may be, he laughed, and the harm was done. Everybody else felt called upon to laugh because the Prince laughed, and the pie throwers were given a new lease of life.

We may now look for a perfect pandemonium of pie projecting. No movie drama will be complete without a custard climax.

OUR SOUTHERN PORTS.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has entered a vigorous protest against the proposed sale to private interests of the boats built or otherwise acquired by the Government during the war and now under the control of the United States Shipping Board.

In its protest the Atlanta body recites familiar facts which, however, bear repetition. It is pointed out that, previous to the war, most of our merchandise shipments went through North Atlantic ports. The South Atlantic and Gulf ports got comparatively little of the business. The reason for such discrimination is obvious, and its results are obvious, too. In this way greater haulage was obtained for the transcontinental railroads. And our maritime commerce, if not strangled, was prevented from coming into its rightful own.

If the people of the South Atlantic and Gulf coasts were alone affected by this policy they might have difficulty making their complaint heard. But as a matter of fact the whole country is the sufferer from this short-sighted selfishness, excepting, of course, the handful of special beneficiaries, though the South and the Middle West, manifestly, are hurt most of all.

The vast South American market, which should have been ours, had been largely occupied by Europe, or, to be more specific, by Germany and England. The war compelled South America to turn to us. As a result the Southern ports awoke from their long sleep. The Government diverted shipments to those ports. It routed freight, not according to special interests, but according to natural market requirements, namely, the shortest haulage by rail and sail.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce fears that those ships, if the Government sells them, will come into the possession of interests that will revive the old pre-war conditions under which Eastern ports were stuffed and Southern ports starved. An appeal is, therefore, made to the commercial organizations of the Middle West and South to join in urging the Government to continue in the shipping business until our maritime commerce is firmly organized along correct lines, which means the utilization of all our ports and the merging of our railroads and rivers into the highest possible transportation service.

A PLACE IN THE SUN FOR BOLIVIA.

Chile curtly denied a report that she had ceded to Bolivia a narrow strip of land just south of the Peruvian boundary to connect Bolivia's inland territory with the sea. That the report proved untrue is to be regretted. The withholding of an outlet to the Pacific is a potential cause of international war in South America, which is already cursed by war of the internecine description.

Nowhere else in the world is there a country which has a claim to a place in the sun more justifiably than unfortunate Bolivia's. This Switzerland of South America—a goodly part of it is a plateau 12.000 feet high and it has peaks of more than 21,000-foot elevation—was assigned a generous stretch of seacoast in the original distribution of continental territory after expulsion of the Spanish. However, in the hinterland back of this stretch was the Atacama desert, with its enormous nitrate deposits, which were developed by Chilean capital. Chile did not need any more ocean frontage, having already more than 2000 miles of it, but friction with Bolivian authorities over the nitrate resources resulting, it seized the nitrate port of Antofagasta in 1879. War following with the Peruvian and Bolivian allies, it annexed all of the latter's coast territory and part of the former's.

Another danger point in South American relations is found in Peru's Alsace-Lorraine, the province of Tacna, which Chile took, subject to a plebiscite to be held in 10 years, and then never permitted the vote to be taken.

It is not to be expected that a country with Bolivia's 2,000,000 people, immeasurable wealth of all kinds and 473,500 square miles of area—a half larger than the German empire—will consent indefinitely to be hemmed in with access to the sea denied by an ill-disposed and smaller neighbor.

Continued deniel of natural opportunity to Bolivia will some day cause war, just as the violation of pledges as to Tacna will some day give rise to war unless a compromise adjustment is reached.

by Clark McAdams.

THE "ALL OUT-DOORS."

The "I" in the following dissertation is also the "You" and the "We." It applies equally to every human being possessed of consciousness. It is the scientific view of life from the standpoint of one who has seen the light beyond the clouds of sense.

* * * * * * * * *

LOSING consciousness of the body, I find myself in a condition which may be expressed by the phrase "all out-doors."

There are now to my consciousness no material forms. There is no earth, sun, stars. There is no thing. But there is an illumination, a universal diffusion of light, of which I am an integral factor. It is myself, and it contains all that is. But all things have disappeared—all visible, material forms. And yet I am fully aware that they are all still in existence. Everything is safe—no thing has ceased to exist.

Then why do I not perceive things? Why this seeming emptiness? Because I encompass all things. I am still "all out-doors," and everything that exists is within me. Suns, and planets, and all that lives and moves lives and moves within my all-pervading self. They are myself. * * *

Why am I not alarmed at finding no body and no thing in which or on which to rest? Because I have but to think of a body and of things and I shall be focused in a body and be surrounded with things. What will have happened? I shall have simply "gone indoors," retired into myself. But I was in myself before. Yes, but also outside myself as regards all forms. Am I then essentially formless? I am. But I am also essential form, for I contain all forms.

All forms being within me, it is evident that when I become unconscious of form and hence formless, I do not and cannot escape from form, but only from the consciousness of form. I am superior to form, but form is essential to me and stays with me eternally—in the same way as, while focused in a form of flesh I am superior to the heart and other portions of the body, but the heart and those other portions are essential to me while thus focused.

Pervading and containing all forms, a special, particular form is not necessary to me except for the purpose of limitation. And limitation is necessary in order that I may possess memory and undergo experience, thus developing character and enjoying all the pleasures of individuality. For although the formless condition is absolutely serene, and is satisfactory as long as memory and form do not manifest themselves, that condition is not satisfactory when the self becomes convinced that, in exchange for serenity it may have action and in exchange for perfect peace the positive thrill of growth.

This growth in form, however, is but an appearance, necessary in order that there may be a cessation of samelessness. Growth is real in experience and memory and the development of individuality, but as a change from form to form it is nothing but a lasting dream.

And so for the sake of becoming positive, I assume form and a particular form. But should that form, as is the law with forms, be destroyed by the change which form necessarily undergoes, I, the possessor and container of all forms, having by my assumption of form started the process of memory and experience, can carry that process on without a special form; or I may consciously pervade, as I have hitherto pervaded unconsciously, other forms and the entire universe of forms, so as to gather further experience and increase my store of memories.

Bodies are indeed nothing to me except instruments for this purpose, and all the bodies that exist, existing already in me, may become my tools to exploit the world of form. * * *

Do I trespass upon your experience, Oh self in another form, possessed of a different memory and calling yourself by another name? Then I trespass. But I take nothing but what is mine by right. Yours also, as mine is yours.

You, too, in the formless condition, are none other than I, and I none other than you. Is your experience, then, a real possession of some one and not mine by right? And is my experience not also by right yours? Can there be property rights in experience when that which experiences is the same?

Take, then, my experience, Oh Other Self, and enrich yourself with it. Take my memory, as you are destined to do. Assume it and weave it in with yours. All experiences and all memories shall become ours. We shall mingle and yet retain our individuality. I will weave for you beauties and glories from my stock, and you shall weave for me beauties and glories from yours.

Experiences and memories being infinite, never shall we fear that the stock may become exhausted or the joy of growth therefrom and therewith come to a standstill.

And, Oh Other Self, Oh friend in form, knowing and feeling our essential oneness and our superiority to form, all help of mine is yours, and all joy of mine is yours. All that has been said of me has been said of thee. For we are one.

In inclosed clipping from the Post-Dispatch of September 14 I see someone advertises "black and tan" cows for sale that will hunt rabbits;' "also tree squirrels." I presume said cows will also give milk or lay eggs, etc. At any rate, they are cows of some versatility and "cheap" at any price.

SOME QUESTIONS AS TO SUGAR.

From the Boston Transcript.

WHY permit further exports of sugar until American homes are supplied? Refiners are not allowed to sell to retailers in the United States granulated sugar, refined from Cuban raws, at more that 9 cents a pound. That figure affords a liberal profit to the refiners, but not so great a profit as can be made by exporting; and the United States pays out to the refiners approximately 1 cent a pound on every pound of Cuban sugar refined here and exported. And why try to replace the sugar which refiners are rushing out of the country with sugar from Brazil and elsewhere, which cannot be landed in the United States at less than 14 to 15 cents a pound? Why not keep the sugar that is here and the further supplies constantly coming from Cuba in large shiploads?

If an embargo against sugar exports is not laid, and soon, the profiteers will accomplish their announced purpose of more than doubling the cost of sugar in every American home, and will do it so cleverly as to avoid being jailed.

All the time refined sugar is being rushed out of the country in shiploads—millions of pounds a week. And all the while American housewives are denied the privilege of buying what sugar they need. Is it not quite time to call a halt—a decided halt—on the exporting so disastrous to American homes and so expensive to the United States Government.

TRADE WAITS ON BLOCKADE.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

WHAT the blockade of Russia is costing business men of this country was strikingly illustrated in the facts given out by A. A. Heller, commercial agent for the Russian soviet republic's bureau in New York in regard to the orders which his country has placed, or is prepared to place, with American manufacturers. He cited an order amounting to $4,500,000 given to the Lehigh Machine Co. of Lehighton, Pa., for 1000 printing presses, and verification of this is given by Emerson P. Jennings of that company, who tells the Lehighton Leader that the company has presented the matter to the Government in the hope of securing clearance papers and safe transfer of money. Russia is a tremendous market for tools, machinery of all kinds, and many other manufactured articles which this country has to sell. If the allies are to abandon their war on the soviets there is no very apparent reason why this highly profitable trade should not be thrown open to the business interests of the United States.

WHERE TO SEND WILHELM.

From the Saturday Review.

WHICH was the greater rogue, Ferdinand of Bulgaria or Constantine of Greece, is a nice point. "Between a louse and a flea I cannot decide the precedence," as Johnson said. Probably Ferdinand is the worse, because more intriguing knave. 'Tino was a weak creature, bullied by his wife and her brother. How these men, in penury and exile, must love the Kaiser. Ferdinand has lost for his subjects all that Bulgaria gained in the first Balkan war, and a good deal more. Dedeagatch, the port of the Aegean Sea, and Strumnitza, in Macedonia, are taken away and given to Greece and Serbia respectively; and Bulgaria is condemned to pay an indemnity of £90,000,000 spread over 30 years. By the bye, to whom are these indemnities to be paid? And who is to collect them?

We have never joined the "Hang the Kaiser" crowd, believing that if William were tried by any forms of law known to Western nations he would probably be acquitted, or dismissed with a reprimand. But it is a little too much that this man, who has contributed so largely to the ruin of the world, should be allowed to settle down comfortably in Holland and build himself lordly pleasure houses, and establish a court which would be the headquarters of the anti-British schemers in Europe.

Events in the Social World

Social Set Outdoing Itself in Philanthropic Activity, Making Happy Coincidence in Reign of Miss Marian Franciscus as Veiled Prophet Queen—Orphans' Home Benefit at Schubert-Jefferson Tomorrow.

THE ecstatic period that separates Thanksgiving and Christmas always is the season of giving, and the atmosphere this year seems more strongly charged with the giving spirit than ever before. Perhaps it is the beauty of this autumn, or, again, maybe St. Louis' wave of prosperity is prompting it, but society certainly is outdoing itself in the way of philanthropic activity.

With the Charity Ball hardly forgotten, came Thanksgiving, followed by tag day for the Saturday and Sunday Hospital Association, which is continued today, and the matrons and maids will turn immediately to the three benefit theatrical performances which will engage much of their attention this week. It is a happy coincidence that so many charity functions are marking the reign of Miss Marian Franciscus as Veiled Prophet Queen, for it is a line of activity in which she had previously distinguished herself and to which she is lending her regal aid with unflagging energy.

The first of the benefits will be tomorrow evening at the opening performance of Chu Chin Chow at Schubert-Jefferson Theater and which will be given for the benefit of the St. Louis Protestant Orphan's Home. The society women who are interested in this worthy charity have been working assiduously for three weeks disposing of the tickets which had been bought by the board of managers, and the affair promises to be one of the fashionable events of the season. The first and second rows of the balcony have been converted into boxes, making 19 boxes, all of whic hhave been sold.

Debutantes to Distribute Programs.

The debutantes of the season will distribute the programs and a number of large theater parties have been arranged in honor of debutantes and other society belles. Two of these are Mrs. Claude Kennerly's party for Misses Betty and Eunice Hodgman and Mrs. Elliot K. Ludington's party for her daughter, Miss Lucy Ludington. The theater party will be followed by a supper and dance at Hotel Jefferson. Two orchestras have been engaged for the night and will play until 2 o'clock. More than 600 reservations have been made and both dining rooms will be open.

Among the box holders at the theater party are Mrs. Edward Goltra, Mrs. George Steedman, Mrs. J. Harrison Steedman, Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Dwight Davis, Mrs. J. Howard Holmes, Mrs. Judson Bemis, Mrs. Warren Goddard, Mrs. H. J. Steinbreder, Mrs. Clinton Whittemore, Mrs. Marshall Hodgman, Mrs. Edward Faust, Mrs. Edward Steedman, August Busch Sr., Mrs. F. O. Watts, Mrs. Edward Mallinckrodt, Mrs. A. Deacon, Mrs. Harry McCormick, Mrs. William T. Hill, Mrs. Cecil Gregg.

Mrs. Clinton Whittemore, president of the home, has been assisted by the following committees: Program, Mrs. E. K. Ludington, chairman; Publicity, Mrs. William J. Lemp, Mrs. Albert Terry, Mrs. Henry Boeckelr; Tickets, Mrs. James McCluney; Entertainment, Mrs. Alden H. Little; Supper and Dance, Mmes. Charles Wiggins, Edward A. Faust, Edward P. Goltra, Warwick M. Hough, George F. Steedman, Albert Terry, E. K. Ludington, Harry McCormick.

Actors' Fund Benefit Friday.

On Friday, which will be observed all over the United States as Actors' National Memorial day, two matinee benefit performances will be given, one at the Schubert-Jefferson and the other at the American Theater, all of the proceeds to go to the Actors' Benefit Fund. At these two performances a group of young society girls who wish to do their bit for the actors who gave their best for the Red Cross during the war, have volunteered their services, and will assist by selling programs and flowers. They will wear attractive frocks in light colors to help give a holiday effect. Mrs. Julius S. Walsh will be in charge of this group, which will include Misses Elizabeth Smith, Lucy Ludington, Elizabeth Kennard, Frances Garrison, Nancy Walker, Mary Plant, Juliette Reyburn, Henrietta Davis, Alice Little, Doris Drummond, Erwin Hayward, Ruth O'Reilly, Ada Johnson, Jane Bemis, Georgie Anderson, Caroline Tyler, Louise Francis, Muriel Clemens, Margaret Kendrick, Eunice and Elizabeth Hodgman, Eleanor Knapp, Elizabeth Benoist and Marian Franciscus, who is chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Battle of 13 Washington terrace will give a ball at the St. Louis Club Wednesday evening, Dec. 17, in honor of their daughter, Miss Helen Battle, a debutante of this season.

Mrs. J. Lawrence Mauran of 46 Vandeventer place will give a tea dansant next Saturday afternoon for her debutante daughter, Miss Elizabeth Mauran. The hours are from 4 to 7 o'clock. On the same afternoon there will be a tea dansant at the St. Louis Woman's Club for the debutantes and belles and beaux of the younger set. Mrs. Thomas L. Anderson will receive from 4 to 7 o'clock.

The Princeton University Triangle Club, after a lapse of three years, due to war conditions, has been reorganized forits, 1919-20 season and will give a performance of its new play, "The Isle of Surprise," at the Odeon Christmas eve. The coaching is to be done entirely along nonprofessional lines by Daniel Clive Stuart, Princeton professor of Dramatic Literature, to the end that the production may retain the spontaneity of the amateur player.

The idea of Broadway "jazz' has been relegated to a back seat. Every aim is directed toward semi-classical music with enough syncopation to remove all stiffness. The plot centers in India. The leading role will be taken by J. R. Forgan of Chicago. He is supported by an excellent cast and chorus, carefully chosen for their ability.

After two preliminary performances in Princeton, the club will fill the following engagemens: Dec. 18, New York; Dec. 19, Syracuse; Dec. 20, Buffalo; Dec. 22, Columbus; Dec. 23, Chicago; Dec. 24, St. Louis; Dec. 25, Cincinnati; Dec. 26, Cleveland; Dec. 27, Pittsburg.

She wore a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Chester A. Dougherty, who was matron of honor. The bridegroom was attended by Chester A. Dougherty as best man. A wedding breakfast was served to the immediate relatives at the home of the bride's mother, after which Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell left for the East on their honeymoon.

A marriage of the past week was that of Miss Alma Sweeney of 4204 West Pine boulevard to Albert Kempernolte, which was solemnized at a nuptial mass at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning at the New Cathedral, the Rev. Francis Gilfillan officiating. The bride wore a suit of blue French dovetone with a corsage of white tea roses. The bridesmaid, a cousin, Miss Ruth Gaffney wore dark brown with a corsage of pink tea roses. Michael Mulcahy acted as groomsman. Immediately after breakfast which was served at the bride's home, the couple departed on a honeymoon in the east.

The "Jollyettes" gave their last outing of the year, a 12-mile hike to and from Cliff Cave last Sunday. DEATH OF ANGELES ENDS BRAINS OF CARRANZA OPPOSITION believed he was the best soldier the country had produced since Diaz.

To persons who knew and liked Angeles, there is comfort in the knowledge that he met death bravely. He had seen a great many men die, and knew how to do it when his turn came. Bravery before the firing squad is not exceptional in Mexico. The meekest peon usually meets death in a fine manner.

I told Angeles one time that he reminded me of the Gadfly, in the novel of that name. He had read the book and said, laughing, that he could not see the resemblance since he was not a "Red" and was very little of a plotter. He acknowledged being fond of chocolates, as the Gadfly was, but contended that the resemblance ended there. I recalled this when I read that Angeles had, like the Gadfly, directed the work of the firing squad which put him to death.

I asked him once why he did not go to Europe, and take service with the French. This was before the United States entered the war. He was a firm friend of France, spoke the language, and he was considered one of the foremost artillerists in the world. It seemed to me that, having been trained in war from his youth up, he would desire to take part in this, the greatest of all wars, in which his sympathies were so strongly enlisted. He said that he had no interest in war merely for war's sake, his one ambition and desire, he said, was to redeem Mexico and make it great and respected among nations. If he thought he could help Mexico by going to Europe he would go, but much as he loved France, he loved Mexico more.

Was Menace to Carranza.

I fancy he took the position with the French Government in New York with a three-fold motive; to earn the salary which he doubtless needed, to help France, and to find new friends for his next move in Mexico.

It is fruitless to speculate on the effect of Angeles' execution. I do not believe Villa ever had any affection for the artillery officer, but he may use his death as an excuse for new activities.

The action will cause Carranza to lose many friends, but Carranza's viewpoint has changed. He looks at affairs from Mexico City, the rich and populous South, and the opinion of the desolate northern tier of States where he got his start, means little to him. Probably his only thought is one of satisfaction that the arch-intriguer, the brilliant soldier, the most active and powerful enemy and ever-present menace to the present Government has received the coup de grace. It simplifies matters greatly in the capital.

Angeles, the polished and gracious, was the friend of the United States and of France, and he was always against Germany. Carranza was always dully antagonistic to the United States and France, and covertly or half openly a friend of Germany. Now Angeles is dead in Chihuahua City and Carranza reigns in the high valley of the capital.

Proceeds for Dinner Fund.

The proceeds of an informal dance and entertainment at the Washington Hotel, King's highway and Washington boulevard, Thursday evening, will be devoted to the St. John's School Dinner Fund. Father Sesnon furnishes dinner free to deserving school children.

SAYS CHRIST'S TEACHINGS WILL SOLVE INDUSTRIAL PROBLEMS

Director of Presbyterian Social Service Calls Attention to 15th Verse of 18th Chapter of Matthew.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Ninety-six hundred Presbyterian churches in the United States were advised today that the teachings of Jesus Christ would solve the whole industrial problem. These churches were urged by Dr. John McDowell, director of the social service division of the Presbyterian New Era movement to apply the teachings of Jesus understandingly to the solution of industrial questions.

Dr. McDowell declared that the fifteenth verse of the eighteenth chapter of Matthew constituted "the law of brotherhood, conciliation and arbitration," and he urged its application to present-day industrial moves. The Bible reference reads:

"Moreover, if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother."

Dr. McDowell urged the church members and pastors to get in touch with outstanding groups of their communities, such as employers and employes, boards of education and teachers, political, recreational, press, health, official, social and disturbing groups, learn their points of view and side with them when right.

"I believe," he said, "that eventually there will be industrial courts, similar to city, State and Federal courts, in which labor disputes can be solved. These courts would be graded as are the present local courts, with the right of appeal."

Dr. McDowell called attention to the following social creed adopted by the Presbyterian General Assembly in 1910.

"Acknowledgement of the obligations of wealth; application of Christian principles to the conduct of industrial organizations; more equitable distribution of wealth; abatement of poverty; abolition of child labor; regulation of the conditions of the industrial occupation of women; release of every worker from work one day in seven; conciliation in industrial disputes and development of a Christian spirit in the attitude of society toward offenders against the law."

Prior to the address, the association, beginning at 6 p. m., will hold the second of its pay-as-you-enter dinners.

W. C. T. U. Meeting Tomorrow.

The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. Federation will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 in the assembly room of the Y. W. C. A., 1411 Locust street. Much of the program will consist of echoes from the State and national conventions. There will be an informal address by J. A. McMillan, State secretary for the society of the Near East Relief. McMillan recently returned from Russia.

New Standard Retail Price List of Nemo CORSETS

Effective December 1, 1919

This increase is due to the unprecedented cost of manufacturing, and our desire to maintain the high standard of quality and service of Nemo Corsets.

To accomplish this it is imperative to use only first class and perfect materials, and all but expert operators must be eliminated.

Nemo Corsets represent a genuine economic investment, and any advance in prices is based solely on the increased cost of production. They still remain what they always have been—the cheapest in the long run, as they wear twice as long as corsets of any other make.

SILVER FOXES RAISED ON RANCHES ARE REAL EPICUREANS

Are Fed With Choicest Cuts of Steak and Pork Chops, Cereals and Vegetables.

By the Associated Press.

REGINA, Sask., Nov. 29.—Silver foxes o na ranch near here are epicurians and live on the fat of the land. This need not be wondered at, for silver foxes literally are worth their weight in gold.

The little aristocrats are fed as expensively as guests in the best hotels. The meat served them is kept in a perfectly regulated and spotless refrigerator. It consists of the choicest cuts of tenderloin steak and pork chops with a little horse meat. The foxes have shredded wheat and other cereals and vegetables.

The ranch is tightly fenced in with wire eight feet high and sunk in the ground several feet. The fox houses are constructed on scientifice hygienic plans. They are kept scrupulously clean.

The success of this fox ranch and of several others near Winnipeg has demonstrated that the prairie provinces are as well adapted to breeding silver foxes as Prince Edward Island which is the world's center of the industry. Some of the fox ranches in Prince Edward Island are operated by corporations capitalized at several hundred thousand dollars. Many of them have made immense fortunes for their owners. Others have lost heavily. Breeding foxes seems to depend as much on "know how" as any other business. A number of silver fox farms are operated in the United States.

One rancher started two years ago with two pairs. He now has 56 animals. He has sold $16,000 worth of pelts. A silver fox pelt brings from $200 to $2500. Two-year-old animals sell at $400 to $2000. He sold 18-months-old pups this year at public auction at $900 apiece. His breeding stock is valued at close to $100,000.

MOTOR BUSSES FOR COLLINSVILLE

Five motor trucks, accommodating 40 persons each, have been purchased by the Red Line Bus Co. of Collinsville, Ill., to be used between Collinsville and East St. Louis. The first bus will be put into use tomorrow in Collinsville, hauling passengers to Pennsylvania Station and taking children to school. As soon as the road between Collinsville and East St. Louis is hard surfaced the busses will operate between those cities.

BOSTON TECH ALUMNI HERE TO PUSH FUND CAMPAIGN

Appeal Being Made to Industrial Leaders to Help Maintain Standard of School.

St. Louis alumni of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (Boston Tech) are taking active steps to interest the industries in the $4,000,000 campaign that has been launched for the benefit of the school.

The St. Louis alumni say that industrial leaders are the only source of revenue left to the school, as the tuition fees cannot be increased. They are sending out letters containing extracts from President Maclaurin's address to the alumni in which he said that the hope of America rests primarily in maintaining the highest form of education to be found anywhere in the world and that Technology would never be content with anything but the best in the field that she had made her own.

SILVER MINE RUNS 400 YEARS

Potosi Workings Have Yielded Bullion Worth Billions of Dollars.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—A great revival in the silver mining industry is in progress in Bolivia, according to Alberto Palacioa, Bolivian Consul here.

During the war silver mining was replaced by tin and tungsten, thousands of tons of which were sold by Bolivians to the allies. The low price of silver during this period caused many of the silver mines to be abandoned but with the return of a demand for silver bullion and consequent high prices, the silver industry is taking on something of its ancient aspect as the leading industrial activity of the South American republic, Palacioa states.

Figures show the export of the precious metal from Bolivia is now about 30,000,000 pounds a year, valued at $2,200,000. The famous Potosi mine, which has been in continuous operation for almost 400 years and has given up silver valued at billions of dollars, now is being worked at fullest capacity, acording to the Consul's advices.

LORD LEVERHULME SPARES HIS WORKERS IN SOAP BUSINESS

against it," he responded, "even though I was quite prominently connected with the movement to promote temperance in Great Britain during the war. I am for temperance, but against prohibition, nor do I hold the belief of some employers of labor that absolute prohibition makes for efficiency of workmen.

"I think that legislation to deprive a man of what he thinks he wants to drink or eat is fundamentally wrong if the prohibition does not apply to things that are, by force of proof, injurious to life or health or morals. But, on the other hand, I am sincerely in favor of a campaign of education to show people that alcohol taken in excess is injurious. The Almighty never made any prohibition for any class of people.

"Look what you have done in your country by education along that line. I have been visiting New York for many years—my last visit was in 1913—and I have noted a steady decline of the habit of drinking liquor. The same is true of England. Education has done the work."

Lord Leverhulme said he is not disturbed over the growth of the Labor party in Great Britain, although union leaders have combated his ideas for the advancement of labor.

Foresees Labor Government in England.

"We shall have a Labor Government in England," he said, "but not soon. Its arrival is inevitable and there is no danger in it. We have a labor Government in Australia. I am not afraid of labor's part in Government. The intelligence of a nation is not monopolized by lawyers and capitalists and scholars.

"As for the so-called Bolshevism, I am not afraid of that either. We have had it in every age. Not so long ago we called our Bolshevists highwaymen or pirates." Bolshevism means the appropriation of property by people who have not earned it, and that principle cannot live in these times any more than it lived in the days of Dick Turpin or Robin Hood or Jesse James."

Lord Leverhulme is accompanied by a staff of secretaries and keeps abreast of his work at all times. In one hour yesterday afternoon he disposed of a great mass of letters and cablegrams and telegrams awaiting him at the Plaza. He left the Mauretania by tug at quarantine in the morning and on the way from the battery to the hotel found time to deliver an address at a luncheon tendered by some of the leading bankers of New York and keep several business appointments in the financial district.

PROPOSES POSTAL CARD VOTE ON RATIFICATION OF TREATY

St. Louisan Telegraphs President, Urging That Day Be Designated for Expression of Sentiment.

Warren V. Eaton, of 5571 Bartmer avenue, manager of industrial plants of the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co., yesterday sent a telegram to President Wilson urging that a special day be set aside for every qualified voter to mail to Washington on a postal card, the voter's opinion on the ratification of the treaty of peace and the league of nations.

In the message Eaton expressed the opinion that the vote would show overwhelmingly that the voters supported the President's action and disapproved of the Senate's rejection of the treaty. The vote will show, he said in the message, "just how badly misrepresented the business interests and the people of this country have been by the individual and joint action of certain Senators for the past four months. This would show them up individually and collectively."

TEACHERS' APPEAL FOR IMMEDIATE AID SAID TO BE FUTILE

USE OF $828,918 SURPLUS OPPOSED

Secretary Also Asserts He Would Object to Reduction of Other Appropriations for Emergency.

Public school teachers, who, at a meeting two weeks ago, directed that a communication be sent to the Board of Education requesting immediate financial relief in view of the fact that the school tax increase authorized at the special election Nov. 11 will not provide funds for the teachers' payroll until January, 1921, are still asking if there are not other funds at the disposal of the board from which money can be transferred to the salary account.

The question was submitted to members of the board and to Charles P. Mason, secretary and treasurer of the board, by a Post-Dispatch reporter.

In addition to the general fund, from which the salaries are paid, there are several individual funds, such as school board fund, permanent insurance fund, school lunchroom funds and various bequest funds totaling $2,923,564.55, but these, it is said, are "sacred funds," provided for specific purposes, and the school board, simply acting as custodian, has no authority to divert any portion thereof.

The balance in the general fund at the opening of the present school term, subject to appropriation after annual apportionment, totaled $828,918.96. Members of the board, with one exception, are opposed to reducing the amount of this surplus, which is based upon anticipated revenue taxes yet to be collected. They contend that it would be poor business policy to attempt to finance the public school system, entailing an annual expenditure of nearly $6,500,000, without maintaining a reserve fund of at least $800,000.

It was pointed out by board members that when suggestion was made by one of the members that $250,000 should be taken from this fund for the purchase of the old Southern Hotel building to convert the property into an extension school for vocational training, the proposition was successfully opposed by other members, who argued that the law required the board to keep on hand a reserve fund for unexpected emergencies such as fire or storm damage to school buildings. An emergency such as a salary increase was not contemplated, it was said.

President McDonald said that he had this reserve fund in mind when he expressed himself in favor of giving the teachers temporary financial relief at the beginning of the next school year in September, 1920.

Members State Objections.

"The board cannot appropriate to the last dollar of its anticipated revenue for running expenses," said he. "We have not been able and will not for some time be able to make a sufficiently accurate check of expenses and of prospective income to help us determine when additional salaries can be given to the teaching staff. I hoep that the conditions will be such that the board can make the desired increases at the beginning of the next school term. notwithstanding the increased income from the tax rate voted recently will not be at our disposal until January, 1921."

One member of the board called attention to the fact that a $10 a month increase for each of the 2700 teachers in the elementary school would require a special appropriation of about $162,000 for the remaining six months of the present term. That, he said, would reduce the surplus to little more than $500,000, which is $200,000 in excess of the minimum specified by law.

Another member said that he believed sufficient money could be obtained to give the teachers immediate financial relief by curtailing expenses in other branches of the Department of Instruction, but he would not venture a suggestion as to what curtailment could be undertaken without impairing the efficiency of the school system. He said that he might call upon Superintendent Withers to recommend steps in this direction at the next meeting of the board.

Secretary Mason said that he would be opposed to eliminating or reducing appropriation for any other branch of the department on the ground that the change would hamper the efficiency of the entire system.

SUGAR SHORTAGE IS MORE SEVERE IN EASTERN CITIES

Conditions Here Improve, One Firm Having Received 1,000,000 Pounds Last Week From the West.

NEW YORK TO HAVE NO CHRISTMAS CAKES

Exports to Europe Deprive Boston of Supply—"Bootleggers" Get Fancy Prices for Sugar in Philadelphia.

Some cities are suffering more than St. Louis from a shortage of sugar. Inquiries made by the Post-Dispatch to ascertain conditions elsewhere disclose that some cities are worse off, while others have not suffered as much as St. Louis. Eastern cities, and those in Ohio, have had less sugar than those farther west, the replies indicate. In some places sugar has been provided for hospitals with difficulty.

Conditions here are improving. James Hutchinson & Sons, one of the largest sugar brokerage concerns in the city, reported yesterday that it received 1,000,000 pounds of sugar last week, or more than 10 times as much as the preceding week, and expects to get between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 pounds this week.

Railroads Are Blamed.

This firm blamed the railroads largely for the sugar conditions it being said that one carload, shipped 25 days ago from Wyoming, had not yet arrived. Western beet sugar, which is St. Louis' allotted source of supply, is now arriving. Replies to the Post-Dispatch's inquiries, received from other cities, follow:

Cincinnati—The sugar shortage here has been acute for more than four weeks. Hundreds were without sugar for their pumpkin pies and cranberry sauce Thanksgiving, and many small candy stores have closed. Fortunate stores that got any sugar asked customers to buy $1 worth of other merchandise in order to get one pound of sugar. A reporter who visited 15 stores could buy only one pound. Prices range from 14 to 22 cents a pound.

Cleveland Gets Two Carloads.

Cleveland—Housewives here have practically been without sugar until Tuesday of this week. Hospitals could not get adequate supplies for patients. Dealers, excepting large grocers, who sold in one-pound lots, have had no sugar until Tuesday, when city officials succeeded in having two car loads diverted here. This was distributed to grocers in 100-pound lots. However, an increase in price has been granted by the Government to beet sugar manufacturers, and the end of the shortage is in sight.

Boston—The export of large quantities of sugar to Europe, and the increased use of it in candy manufacture is largely responsible for the shortage here, which has resulted in housewives being limited to one or two pounds a week. The two large refineries here had not received any raw sugar for three weeks until this morning, when one started unloading 7,000,000 pounds from Cuba.

In the face of this, 1,400,000 pounds was released for export a week ago, and a resolution was filed yesterday in the Massachusetts House of Representatives, charging that the food shortage here was due to profiteers shipping it to Europe, where they are getting huge profits.

"Rainbow Sugar" Attacked.

Prof. Lewis B. Allyn, long identified with the pure food movement, has caused a stir by asserting that the so-called "rainbow sugar" on sale contains arsenic and coal tar dyes, and is unfit for human consumption. The producers contend it is harmless.

New York—There has been a sugar shortage here for four weeks. About two-thirds of the groceries have had enough to supply regular customers in one-pound lots, if other marchandise was purchased at the same time. An inquiry has been started to ascertain how sugar is being used in candy manufacture. Bakers have announced there will be no Christmas cakes. There is no prospect of immediate relief.

PHILADELPHIA.—So many complaints of favoritism in the distribution of sugar and in the State have been received that an investigation has been ordered by the Federal authorities. A photographer arrested here yesterday for selling sugar at 30 cents a pound claimed he sold it for 11 cents, and charged buyers 10 cents a pound for delivering it. Grocers here are getting just one-fourth as much sugar now as they were receiving last year. Efforts are being made to supply hospitals, serum laboratories and children's institutions. Syrup is used in coffee.

"Sugar bootleggers" sell it at 25 to 30 cents a pound, collecting cash in advance, and refusing to say where they get it.

Cuban Sugar Received.

Four steamships today brought in 29,254,000 pounds of raw sugar from Cuba for the refineries. The ship Captains say there is plenty of sugar in Cuba, waiting for vessels to take it away. The new crop, they say, will be very large.

Baltimore. — Many stores here have been without sugar for four weeks. Some sold only on condition that customers make other purchases. The condition is slightly improved.

Omaha.—Sugar has been scarce here for four weeks, but few stores have been without. Omaha is near the sugar beet fields, and Nebraska factories are turning out 1,000,000 pounds a day. Nobody has been entirely without. Sugar is being shipped from the factories while it is yet warm.

Detroit.—The sugar shortage here for the last six weeks resulted in each customer being limited to two pounds at a time. There is no brown sugar here. Some small stores have been without sugar.

Indianapolis.—Persons here, fac-

stomed to the lower prices of ichigan beet sugar, refused to buy ouisianna sugar when it was reeived, and have been without any, hile beet sugar manufacturers and the Department of Justice wrangled over the maximum price.

Manufacturers refused to release two carloads, and it remained on tracks here until the Department of Justice agreed to a price of 12 cents a pound plus the New York freight rate, which is .449 cents a pound. Dealers here say the refiners sell their sugar as near as possible to the mills, because they get the amount of the New York freight rate, regardless of how far the sugar is shipped.

ARE YOU A PRISONER BEHIND UNLOCKED DOORS?

For ten long years a man once lay in prison; ate what was brought to him; wished hourly for freedom. And then, one morning he just walked out—into the sunlight; unharmed, unhindered.

The door had never been locked—but he had never tried it!

And there are others like him. There are those who long for homes of their own; for travel; for education; for money to invest; for all the many things that ready cash will bring. And yet they never save!

They are prisoners to debt and worry—and they have never tried the door.

It's easy to save after you have made a start.

THYRSUS CLUB TO GIVE PLAYS

Three Offerings This Week Will Open Students' Season.

Three one-act plays are to be produced by Thyrsus Club of Washington University next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, these serving to open the season for the club. They are to be given in the former Y. M. C. A. canteen on the campus, which was donated to the university and has been turned over to the student body as a home building.

The plays are "In the Zone," by Eugene O'Neil, a story of the sea, supervision of which is in the hands Dan Bartlett; "Freedom," by the Province Town Players, called a farce, direction of which is by Pinckney McElwee, and "The Dear Departed," by Stanley Houghton, a comedy, which Mignon Rosenthal is coaching. Stage management for the club has been placed in the hands of William Saunders.

ORGY OF SPECTACLES IN "CHU CHIN CHOW"

Arabian Nights Extravaganza Opens Here Tomorrow Night, in Fourth Season.

An opus combining on a monumental scale the arts of scenography, drama, music and dancing—this is "Chu Chin Chow,' the famous Oriental extravaganza, based on the Arabian Nights' tale of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, which begins its first St. Louis visit tomorrow night at the Shubert-Jefferson Theater.

The work is the creation of Oscar Asche, the eminent English actor-manager and producer; the music is by Frederick Norton, some of whose melodies are said to be almost of operatic pretentiousness; and the scenery and costuming are by Percy Anderson, an English rival of Leon Bakst. "Chu Chin Chow" had its first production at His Majesty's Theater, London, on Aug. 31, 1916. On Oct. 17 last it achieved its 1467th performance, breaking all theatrical records in the British metropolis.

New York saw it first on the spacious stage of the Manhattan Opera House, with Tyrone Power and Florence Reed in the chief roles. Then it removed to the Century Theater, where the principal parts were assumed by the actors to be seen in St. Louis, Lionel Braham and Marjorie Woods. But for the influenza epidemic, the play would have arrived here last year.

The fable is a free adaptation of one of the most delightful tales told by the Sultana Scheherazade, and Chu Chin Chow is the name adopted by Abu Hassan, the legendary robber of Bagdad, when for professional reasons he wishes to pose as an opulent Chinese mandarin. His purpose in visiting Bagdad is to plunder the rich and miserly old Kasim Baba, brother of the bibulous Ali Baba. The Oriental intrigue, sinister and crafty, spins its way along until Chu Chin Chow is stabbed by his former confederate, the wild desert woman, Zahart-Al Kuleb. An idyllic note is added to the elaborate story by the love passages of Ali Baba's son and the singing slave girl, Marjanah.

Many Gorgeous Spectacles.

The story is unfolded in a series of 13 stage pictures which have been described as overwhelming in their parade of all the glories of color. The first scene, showing the palace of Kasim Baba in the Bagdad of a thousand years ago, is a vision in gold and black, with Nubian slaves in snowy costumes silhouetted against the background like statutes. Chu Chin Chow, in gorgeous robes, reclines upon a throne chair. Then a lurid splash of red crashes upon the eye with the entrance of the crimson-garbed steward, Abdullah.

In addition several other scenes stand out in impressive splendor. There is the slave market of El Kabar, with its rich trappings and bizarre ornaments bathed in white sunlight and projected against a turquoise sky. There is a mean street in Bagdad, with its sun-scorched huts and luxuriant palm trees. There is the Cave of the Robbers, with its greenish rocks and heap of glittering treasures. There is the Blue Palace setting in the second act, with a throng of sapphire pillars fading away into the distance, against which flashes a ballet of dancers in costumes of scarlet.

Then, as the climax of all, is the bazar scene, where at first only an old cobbler sings at his work, but whither comes the little shrewish wife of the now fabulously wealthy Ali Baba to examine the latest Bagdad fashions. To display his marvels the merchant brings forth his mannequins, who strut and pose in costumes which for dazzling variety and daring color are declared to beggar description. Among these heroic spectacles are inserted several alcove scenes, as wonderful in the miniature style as the others in their epic proportions.

The cast, as announced, promises a notable array of talent. Lionel Braham came to this country five years ago with Granville Barker's company to play the giant Christian captive in "Androcles and the Lion." He created the title role in Percy Makaye's masque, "Caliban of the Yellow Sands," and took next the part of the huge sea captain in "The Wanderer." Eugene Cowles, who has the part of the steward, is a widely popular basso.

Notables in the Cast.

Marjorie Wood is a young leading woman who has won remarkable success in the past few years. Don W. Farraudou, who has the comedy role of Ali Baba, is an actor and singer of versatile experience. George Rasely, the young tenor of the company, went on the stage two years ago from the choir of the "Rockefeller Church" in New York. Felice de Gregorio, baritone, who has the part of the cobbler, and who sings the most popular melody of the play, "The Cobbler's Song," was rescued a few years ago from a pottery in Connecticut, and provided with vocal training by admirers of the beauty of his natural voice. Others with prominent parts are Hattie Carmontel, Stella St. Andrie, Helen Gunther, Albert Howson, Thoral Lake and Gladys Earlscott.

The 25 members of the cast are surrounded by a throng of kaleidoscopic nationalities—Javanese dancers and fanners, Nile girls, desert dancers, jewel dancers, slaves from Circassia and Turkestan, Chinese merchants, fruit sellers, peddlers, water carriers, manequins, pedestrians and wedding guests. It is said that the personnel of the show totals 300, including musicians and the force of stage workmen. There are even four-footed actors—three camels, eight donkeys and two sacred yaks from Thibet.

For the opening night performance all the seats of the theater have been purchased by the St. Louis Protestant Orphans' Home, and will

NOT A BITE OF BREAKFAST UNTIL YOU DRINK WATER

Says a Glass of Hot Water and Phosphate Prevents Illness and Keeps Us Fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind incombustible ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomainelike poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before breakfast each morning drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the bowels the previous day's poisons and toxins, and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

AUTOISTS HELD AS WITNESSES AFTER DRIVER IS KILLED

Couple Drive Away, Leaving Companion Where He Falls After Collision With Empty Truck.

James C. Gannon of 4628 McPherson avenue, one of the publishers of the Mississippi Valley Magazine, and Mrs. Eunice Houck of 4300 McPherson avenue, were held by the police as Coroner's witnesses after James Bogy Roberts, 35, of Maplewood, an advertising solicitor for the magazine, was killed in an automobile accident near Twentieth and Locust streets at 4 a. m. yesterday.

The three, with Roberts at the wheel, were driving east on Locust street when the machine hit a Union Electric truck in front of the Union Electric garage at 1918 Locust street. Roberts was thrown to the street. His skull was fractured, and he was dead when picked up.

After the accident Gannon and Mrs. Houck left Roberts lying in the street and drove to Thirteenth and Locust streets, where they abandoned the machine. A policeman saw Gannon, bareheaded and bleeding from a scalp wound, at Fourteenth and Olive streets. When Gannon saw the policeman he ran. The policeman followed to the Alamac Hotel at Fourteenth and Chestnut streets. In a doorway there he found Mrs. Houck with her right arm broken. The hotel was searched and Gannon was found in the basement, hiding behind a furnace. He was taken to the inebriate ward at the city dispensary.

Mrs. Houck was taken to the city hospital. She said Gannon and Roberts called at her home and asked her to go for a ride. They drove into the county, she said, and four breakdowns delayed their return to the city. She said she had no drinks and did not think the men had been drinking heavily.

At Roberts' office in the Syndicate Trust Building it was said he bought an automobile of the same make as that abandoned, two or three days afo, and had been trying to learn to run it.

Roberts' parents live in Cape Girardeau. He made his home here with his aunt, Miss Eleanor Bogy of 2637 Arthur avenue, Maplewood.

The tour of the quartet among the manufacturing plants here is a part of the enlarged program of activities of the St. Louis "Y," that includes work among employed boys, high school boys, factory and industrial workers as well as Americanization classes among foreign-born residents.

Adam Schaefer, 64 years old, of 4238 Blair avenue, died at the city hospital at 3 a. m. yesterday from a bullet wound in the head inflicted last Monday when he attempted to kill himself at his home.

His wife told policemen they were eating supper when he suddenly left the table, walked to a front room, where he obtained a pistol, and shot himself. She could give no reason for his action.

WHAT RED CROSS HERE HAS DONE IN LAST YEAR

Reports Show How Extension Program Was Carried Out After Signing of Armistice.

The achievements of the St. Louis Chapter of the Red Cross in the year that has elapsed since the close of the war are related in the annual chapter report made public yesterday. How the Red Cross completed its war work in St. Louis, expending $528,447 in this task, was told last week at the annual meeting of the organization at the Planters Hotel.

Some of the activities carried on include the furnishing of approximately 10,000,000 surgical dressings to Government hospitals through the efforts of more than 75,000 women workers; the making of 413,267 hospital and refugee garments and 435,571 knitted articles; the collection of 123,000 pounds of clothing for Allied relief; the outfitting of United States General Hospital 40, formerly at 5800 Arsenal street, with complete recreational facilities for wounded and disabled soldiers.

Some of the projects of the new peace time program were the founding of a community camp and "vacation village" in Forest Park during the summer; the waging of a campaign to prevent drownings in the Meramec river and the establishment of a "teaching district" and nursing center at 2338 South Broadway, where qualified women might prepare themselves for public health nursing.

The success of the campaign against drownings is indicated by the fact that following its inception not one death by drowning was reported along the Meramec during the summer bathing season.

139,000 Members Here.

Results of the second war fund drive of last year were given by Frank V. Hammar, chairman of the membership committee as $3,332,298. Up to last night returns of the membership campaign held from Nov. 2 to 11 last a total of 139,000 members in St. Louis.

The establishment of a department of public health and welfare, and the proposal to form in St. Louis a "Council of Public Health," to be composed of representatives of various local public health agencies, was announced by Mrs. Frank V. Hammar, chairman of the St. Louis chapter.

One of the last of the war time activities to close was the canteen in Union Station yards. The report on canteen activities was read by John Lawrence Mauran, commandant.

The record for the year shows that the canteeners served 584 trains bearing 209,331 men with 15,244 gallons of coffee, 466,470 sandwiches and cakes, 12,646 box lunches, 700 doughnuts and 242,370 cigarettes. A total of 315,000 men was served during the period the canteen was open.

When the armistice was signed 9,940,003 surgical dressings had been furnished by more than 75,000 women workers in surgical dressing workshops about the city.

In 22 sewing workrooms of the St. Louis Chapter the making of hospital and refugee garments continued until 413,267 such garments as well as 435,571 knitted articles had been furnished.

Home Service Record.

Following the armistice the volume of work of the Home Service Section, Miss Blanche Renard, chairman, increased greatly. Reports show that Home Service workers made 50,984 visits during the last year to 50,699 families, distributing $83,344 for the relief of the needy. More han $11,000 of this was in the form of loans. Applicants at the office of the Home Service section totaled 148,128. The section co-operated to a large extent with the Demobilization Bureau and the Placement Bureau, presided over by Mrs. Sidney Schwab, chairman, in finding jobs for soldiers.

Mrs. Stanley Stoner, chairman of the committee of nursing activities, recoutning the co-operation of the Red Cross with Government and municipal authorities during the influenza period last year when 103 nurses' aids were furnished for duty at civil and military hospitals about the city.

During the emergency a registry for all graduate and practical nurses, nurses' aids and lay women helpers was maintained, as a result of which 1552 members of a quickly assembled nursing personnel were sent out to civil and military hospitals, orphan asylums, municipal institutions and private homes.

Aid to Service Men.

The report of the operations of the department of military relief which handled the individual care of soldiers passing through the city was read by L. C. Murdock, executive secretary of the St. Louis Red Cross. It showed that 2313 meals were furnished to service men traveling through St. Louis; that 1090 shipments of men in one car lot attached to regular trains were met and their needs attended to, while needed medical attention was given to men in 683 troop trains. Loans aggregating $1788 were made to service men, 84 per cent of which, Murdock said, had been repaid. This service was exclusive of canteening, the Bureau of Information and hospital service generally.

Mrs. Horace S. Rumsey, chairman of the Red Cross Bureau of Information at Union Station, reported that during the year 36,179 soldiers, 8963 sailors and 2079 marines were aided in addition to 5280 discharged service men and 9590 vicilians, a total of 62,631 men.

Until recently the bureau checked parcels and mascots. "Of these last named," says the report, "we have had a wonderful assortment, including bulldogs, parrots, alligators, canaries, squirrels, monkeys and the other day there came in what a sailor assured us to be a genuine Algerian chipmunk."

"THE Mason & Hamlin Grand Pianos are, in my estimation, the most perfect product of the piano manufacturer ever given to the world.

"The tone is the most exquisite quality; the action the most responsive; the scale the most equal possible; the appearance the most attractive.

"All pianists must recognize their transcendent merit, no matter what makes they play. The public must acknowledge their manifest superiority in every respect."

STATE ACCEPTED BELL COMPANY'S ESTIMATE

Valuation of Property for Rate Making Purposes Was Based on Corporation's "Book Costs."

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 29.—In fixing a valuation of $20,400,000 upon the property of the Bell Telephone Co. in Missouri for rate making purposes, the Public Service Commission, in its opinion handed down last Wednesday, did not have the various properties valued by its expert engineers and accountants, as is usually done in rate cases, but accepted the "book cost" figures of the company as a basis, and made only slight deductions for non-useful property, excess working capital and depreciation, then added 10 per cent for "intangible values."

The "book cost" value of the property, according to the company, was [illegible]2,888,943.

From this amount, the commission deducted $500,000 of property as "not used or useful," deducted $17,-[illegible]13.52 as "excess working capital" and deducted $3,777,501 as a reserve for depreciation, leaving a balance of $18,596,928.48. The commission then added 10 per cent, or $1,859,-[illegible]92.85, for "intangibles," making a total "adjusted original cost" of $20,-[illegible]56,621.33.

The Commission today overruled a motion by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. for a rehearing of the telephone rate case, in which the commission Wednesday ruled that the charge of $3.50 for installation of telephones and $1 for changing names of subscribers be eliminated, and that the rate for direct business telephones in St. Louis be reduced from $9 to $8.50 a month.

The rates ordered discontinued were put into effect by Postmaster-General Burleson when the telephone company was under Government control.

The commission found that under the new rate the company would have an earning sufficient to pay 6 per cent on its investment after setting aside 6.81 per cent for depreciation.

U. S. PROHIBITION AGENT HERE TO OPEN OFFICE

District Official Says He Will Make Constitutional Amendment "Prohibit" in This Territory.

David A. Gates of Little Rock, Ark., supervising Federal prohibition agent, came to St. Louis yesterday to begin assembling the machinery with which he will undertake the enforcement of prohibition under the amendment to the Federal Constitution, which becomes effective Jan. 16. Gates, a former revenue agent here, said that he expected to employ about 20 agents from among present employes of the Department of Internal Revenue as his enforcement staff.

"We expect to depend largely upon local agencies for enforcement," he said. "The appropriation does not permit the employment of a large force by the Federal Government. U. S. PROHIBITION AGENT HERE TO OPEN OFFICE

District Official Says He Will Make Constitutional Amendment "Prohibit" in This Territory.

David A. Gates of Little Rock, Ark., supervising Federal prohibition agent, came to St. Louis yesterday to begin assembling the machinery with which he will undertake the enforcement of prohibition under the amendment to the Federal Constitution, which becomes effective Jan. 16. Gates, a former revenue agent here, said that he expected to employ about 20 agents from among present employes of the Department of Internal Revenue as his enforcement staff.

"We expect to depend largely upon local agencies for enforcement," he said. "The appropriation does not permit the employment of a large force by the Federal Government. However, the force will be large enough to enforce prohibition in any community where the Sheriff or police do not show themselves to be efficient. The old cry that 'prohibition does not prohibit' will be annulled. I expect to make prohibition in this district a fact."

The district over which Gates will have authority is composed of Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. He also is prohibition director for the State of Arkansas, and will establish his headquarters at Little Rock.

Gates explained that state prohibition directors will have jurisdiction over the permissive features of the bill such as the sale of alcohol and its manufacture, rather than the enforcement provisions. Shrader P. Howell, an assistant attorney-general of Missouri, Friday was appointed to be prohibition agent for Missouri.

RED CROSS SEALS WILL GO ON SALE HERE TOMORROW

Funds Realized Will Be Used in Campaign Against Tuberculosis in St. Louis and County.

ADVANCE SALES BY MAIL GRATIFYING

2000 Women Enrolled to Conduct Sales in Buildings, Hotels, Theaters, Schools and Industrial Plants.

The annual sale of Red Cross Christmas seals, to raise money for the campaign against tuberculosis in this community, will open tomorrow morning and continue until Christmas Eve.

St. Louis County, as a whole, and Kirkwood and Webster Groves individually, will co-operate with the St. Louis Tuberculosis Society under special chairmen of their own, and the entire sale will center in the office of the Tuberculosis Society in the Equitable Building.

There will be continuous sales for the entire period of the campaign in all the postoffices of the city and county, in the American Railway Express offices, and in many of the drug stores and cigar counters. A canvass of the factories and industrial plants of the city will be made by the saleswomen, and there will be special sales at the municipal buildings and public utilities, the hotels, theaters and moving picture houses, public, private and parochial schools, Merchants' Exchange, Washington University, St. Louis University, office buildings, Missouri Athletic Association and the City Club. Each will be in charge of a chairman and corps of matrons and girls, more than 2000 women having been enrolled for the selling campaign.

Stickers Sell for One Cent.

The little stickers will be sold for one cent each, and the Santa Claus buttons to go with them will be sold for a minimum of 10 cents each, except to school children who buy them in the schools. In the school day sales the buttons will be sold for 5 cents each.

Money raised from this sale will be used by the Tuberculosis Society in the relief and prevention of tuberculosis in this community. The work as now carried on by the society covers a wide scope, but the society hopes to enlarge materially the work done with the proceeds of the 1919 Red Cross Christmas seal sale. Some of the work of the Tuberculosis Society is as follows:

Maintains the Night and Day Camp for working girls who are susceptible to tuberculosis, 172 girls having been restored to health last year.

Furnished meals for about 71 per cent of the children attending the open air schools, which operate six days a week the year 'round.

Maintains a resident open air school where little girls are given preventive treatment. The Board of Education supplies a teacher, schoolroom equipment, and the services of a staff physician.

Delivers lectures and distributes educational literature, thus aiding industrial workers to avoid contracting tuberculosis, 65,762 individuals having been directly reached in this way last year.

Sends trained workers to families where there is tuberculosis, who prescribe proper care for the patient and precautions for the other members of the family.

Maintains chest clinics and study districts and has engaged a tuberculosis expert to co-operate with the city health service.

Administration Costs 13 Per cent

The cost of administration in the various departments is only 13 per cent of the total expense.

Although the sale will be opened formally tomorrow morning, the seals already are on sale here through the "mail order" campaign inaugurated Thanksgiving day. The society sent out on approval 200 seals to each person on its regular mailing list. Each recipient was asked to consider the purpose of the sale, and to make a thank-offering for health by sending the value of the seals to be used in helping some other person back to health. Gratifying results already have been obtained. Many of the return letters have been received and in practically every case they contained cash contributions to the value of the little stickers.

In the continuous sales opening tomorrow nearly 1000 women will be engaged. Mrs. O. K. Bovard will have charge of the county sales. Mrs. Charles M. Biggers will direct the Kirkwood campaign and Mrs. George W. Adams that of Webster Groves. Mrs. A. G. Wichman is chairman of the Postoffice Committee, Mrs. Theodore Benoist and the Catholic Women's League will conduct the sale at the Union Station, and Mrs. Adolph Moll and a corps of girls and matrons will canvass the industrial plants.

Dates for Sales.

Following is the program for the special sales:

Dec. 3 and 4.—Municipal buildings and public utilities, Mrs. Henry W. Kie[illegible] chairman.

Dec. 4.—Beginning sales at the downtown hotels, Mrs. Herman [illegible] chairman.

MRS. A. M. HUTTIG TO BE BURIED TOMORROW

Banker's Widow Dies at Her Home Here After Long Illness.

Mrs. Annie Musser Huttig, widow of Charles H. Huttig, who was president of the Third National Bank, died at her home, 37 Washington terrace at 3 a. m. yesterday, following an illness of long duration which reached a critical stage only recently.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow from the home to Bellefontaine Cemetery. Interment will be private. There will be services at the residence for the family and friends preceding the burial.

Mrs. Huttig was 57 years old and was born and reared in Muscatine, Io., where her husband also spent his early manhood. They were married in 1892. Her husband had come to St. Louis some years before the marriage and met with immediate success in his planing mill enterprises. He also took an interest in public affairs and twice declined nominations for public office. He took a particular interest in the public schools and was at one time president of the Board of Eudcation. At his death in July, 1913, he was president of the Third National Bank and was actively interested in other lines in addition to heading the Huttig Sash and Door Co.

He left an estate of $1,218,765, one half of which went to the widow and children, and the remainder to the liquidation of claims against the estate. Mrs. Huttig retained a large interest in the sash and door business which will now pass to her daughter, Jeanette, 22 years old, and her son, Charles, 18.

W. U. ALUMNI AID IN CAMPAIGN FOR ENDOWMENT FUND

Committee Announces Satisfactory Results Have Accompanied First Week of Efforts to Obtain $2,000,000.

GROWTH OF SCHOOLS TAXES FINANCES

Chancellor Stresses Need of Increased Salaries to Keep Instructors and Insure Them a Comfortable Living.

The first week of the campaign by Washington University for a salary endowment of $2,000,000, wherewith to make its teaching staff the equal of any in the country, is declared by the committee to have been satisfactory.

The main committee, of which Benjamin Gratz is chairman, has been reinforced by a committee from each of the four alumni associations, arts and sciences, law, medicine and dentistry, these bodies working directly within their respective branches, which have an aggregate membership of approximately 8000.

From its present endowment the University receives between $450,000 and $500,000 annually, while its expenditures are in excess of $800,000, the payroll including 271 professors and instructors, salaries of whom are declared to be wholly inadequate, and the number likewise small for the current year's record enrollment of about 3300 students.

It is not the policy of Washington University to shape its general course from the financial viewpoint, Chancellor Hall stated in a review of the situation, except insofar as money was absolutely the controlling factor.

Dental Course Lengthened.

This finds emphasis in the School of Dentistry, which at present is a financial weight upon the corporation and is likely to be so for the next few years. This is due to lengthening of the course to four years, effective last year. Despite this disadvantage when contrasted with private dental schools, the University authorities have prescribed a year of college work as a prerequisite for the enlarged course, commencing in the fall of 1921. In the fall of 1925, along with a certain group of universities, two years of prescribed work in college will be required, making the course six years, placing dentistry on a par with medicine. The two years of preparatory study will be virtually the same.

"The reason for thus linking the medicine and dental courses is found in the war's demonstration of the intimate relation between these sciences," Chancellor Hall said. "The development of oral and plastic surgery is convincing proof of that intimate relationship, further evidence of which is found in the study being given to diseases originating in the mouth. Dentistry has long since ceased to be mere filling of teeth."

Staff Salaries Increased.

In one branch of its staff, Washington University, along with universities generally, has been forced to recognize the shortage of supply and to increase salaries from 50 to 60 per cent as compared with five years ago. This is in the subordinate positions in the corps of instruction, which usually are supplied from the graduate school ranks. During the last four or five years, or since the war's outbreak, these ranks have been decidedly thin. Chancellor Hall states that last year, probably for the first time in the history of education in America, many fellowships and scholarships in graduate schools were not used, such students abandoning their studies in recognition of their duty to their country in time of war. The salaries of the higher positions in teaching have not advanced as have financial returns for other occupations, he said. "There is another side also of importance to human progress. There should be in every institution men interested in investigation, men desirous of extending the bounds of human knowledge, men competent to do research work of high grade. Such men need never hope for financial returns—the world can never reimburse them in money. The most that they can expect and all that they ask is that they can be provided with the material with which to prosecute their work with a sufficient income for a comfortable living. Washington University has, fortunately, several fellowships and scholarships available for men of both types, and also a number of very creditable fellowships available for women only. As yet, however, the number of such helps towards graduate study is quite inadequate to the development of a strong graduate school."

SHIP-BY-TRUCK FIRM TO BUILD LARGE DEPOT

Freight Receiving and Shipping Depot to Be Built on Circus Lot at Cost of $50,000.

The growth of the "ship-by-truck" movement in St. Louis is exemplified in the announcement made yesterday by James R. Brashear, president of the Brashear Truck Service Co., 421 South Theresa avenue, one of the pioneer concerns in the motor transportation business in St. Louis, that work would start this week on the erection of a $50,000 garage and freight depot on the circus lot at Vandeventer avenue and West Pine boulevard, to be used as a receiving and shipping station for freight to be distributed by motor trucks. A garage to house the 22 motor trucks now in the company's service and a machine shop will be included. The building will be of one-story brick construction covering a tract fronting 80 feet on West Pine boulevard and 223 feet deep. The site which has been purchased for some time starts about 300 feet west of Vandeventer avenue on the south side of West Pine boulevard.

Centrally Located.

The location of the new building was chosen because of its central location with respect to the various industrial districts of the city. It is the plan of the truck service company to make this their central freight depot. Freight collected during the day in less than truck load lots will be brought to this depot and sorted. It will then be distributed to various sections of a large loading platform where trucks will be loaded during the night for early morning deliveries in various directions within a radius of 25 miles of St. Louis.

The Brashear Truck Service Co. operates motor trucks on fixed schedules in inter-city hauling between St. Louis and St. Charles, Alton and Belleville. It is also their policy to do heavy hauling on a hundredweight and hourly basis.

A "ship-by-truck" line is being planned, Brashear said, between St. Louis and Washington, Mo. Trucks that will be used on this route are to be equipped with pneumatic tires. Two trucks will be put in operation on this route to give daily service both ways. The distance to Washington, Mo., via Union, is 60 miles from St. Louis. It is planned to have one truck make the trip one way each day and lay over at Washington at night. Arrangements are now being made with manufacturers and merchants at both points and at intermediate points for the handling of freight both ways.

Operate Rain or Shine.

Trucks now operate daily in any kind of weather between St. Louis and St. Charles, a distance of 20 miles, and Belleville, which is 18 miles by road.

Brashear estimated that at least 80 per cent of the freight received by Belleville from St. Louis is now delivered by motor truck.

Brashear said he finds that men in big business favor motor truck transportation for the reason that raw materials can be delivered from St. Louis to factories within 20 miles in two hours whereas it often takes three days by railroad. These men, Brashaer said, realize this saving in their investment in raw materials. The finished product is then brought to St. Louis the same day on the return load from these factories.

ALLIANCE TO SUPPORT WOMAN LABOR REFORM

Missouri Committee Announces Indorsement of Suffragist Program.

The Missouri Committee of the League of Women Voters for the Protection of women in industry yesterday announced its purpose to support effectively the program of woman labor reforms adopted by the National Woman Suffrage Association recently in St. Louis.

The committee proposes to establish in every county in the State in which women are employed in industries an alliance between the Consumers' League, the Women's Trade Union League and the Industrial Committee of the League of Women Voters, forming interlocking local committees to carry out the work.

The first aim will be to create an educated public opinion on the status of women in industry, and the second to bring the power of the woman vote to bear upon industrial questions.

The plan includes the sending out of a questionnaire which is expected to result in clearer information as to the exact conditions among women in industres.

One of the first movements of the Missouri organization will be a campaign to change the factory inspection laws to abolish the fee system to provide funds for conducting the inspection department.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

CHURCH, 50 YEARS OLD, TO CELEBRATE TODAY

St. James Evangelical Redecorated for Week's Program—Old Notes to Be Burned.

For two months St. James' Evangelical Church, College and Blair avenues, has been closed for remodeling. The improvements include fresco painting, the installation of art glass memorial windows, a new lighting system and new carpeting. The reopening of the church will occur at 10 a. m. today. The service will mark the beginning of a celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the church.

The church was organized originally as a branch of Friedens Evangelical Church. Property was acquired on De Soto and McKissock avenues and the first building dedicated Dec. 6, 1869.

The Rev. J. M. Kopf, the pastor of Friedens Church, was pastor in charge until 1886, when the Rev. C. G. Haas was called as the first pastor. A new building site was acquired on College and Blair avenues, and the present church edifice erected the following year.

Pastor for 17 Years.

The Rev. Haas continued as pastor for 17 years, accepting a call to Buffalo, N. Y., in 1903. He was succeeded by the Rev. L. G. Nollau of Louisville, Ky., who died in 1912. He was succeeded by the present pastor, the Rev. Thodore Braun, who came to this city from Auburn, N. Y.

The preparations for the anniversary included, among other things, the lifting of the indebtedness resting on the church property. One of the features of the service this morning will be the burning of the canceled notes.

The Rev. C. G. Haas of Buffalo, the only surviving former pastor, will be present, speaking both morning and evening, also on Tuesday evening. The list of speakers will include pastors of various Evangelical churches of the city. The president-general of the Evangelical Synod, the Rev. J. Baltzer, D. D., will speak this morning, and the Rev. O. Press, the presiding officer of the Missouri district this evening.

Celebration to Last Week.

The service this afternoon will be a fellowship service with Friedens Church, with the pastor, the Rev. Theodore Oberhellmann, occupying the pulpit, assisted by the Rev. William Hackmann. Tuesday evening the meeting will be under the auspices of the St. James Brotherhood, the Federation of Evangelical Brotherhoods of St. Louis participating. The Rev. M. L. Kramer will be one of the speakers.

A social function is planned by the women of the church for Thursday afternoon, with an address by the Rev. L. F. Haeberle, D. D. Thursday evening will be young people's night, with the Rev. F. H. Krafft and the Rev. O. Kienker as speakers. The service at 10 a. m. next Sunday will be in charge of St. James Sunday school, while the rendering of the cantata "The City of God" by St. James chorus choir on the evening of that day under the direction of Mr. Elmer H. F. Ruhe will mark the close of the week's celebration.

LADIES OF CHANCEL GUILD TO OPEN GIFT SALE TUESDAY

Will Be Conducted in Sunday School Room of Emmanuel Church, Webster Groves.

An interesting gift sale, conducted by the ladies of the Chancel Guild, will be held Tuesday afternoon and evening and Wednesday afternoon, in the Sunday school room of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Webster Groves.

There will be an unusual display of ribbon craft, hand-made handkerchiefs, practical and fancy aprons and gifts for all. A supper will be served Tuesday evening.

USE FOUND FOR FLANDERS MUD

Belgians Substitute It for Mortar in Rebuilding Homes.

By the Associated Press.

ROULERS, Belgium, Nov. 29.—Flanders mud, the bane of all armies operating in Belgium, is of some use after all. Lime is practically unobtainable in Belgium today and in many of the ruined villages the refugees are laying stones and bricks with mud for temporary shelter against the coming winter. Others fill the chinks in their chimneys and walls with it, and altogether it is becoming as much of a comfort to the refugees as it was a handicap to the soldiers who lived in it for months.

At Dixmude, the Mayor divides his time between public affairs, weighing out coal, distributing supplies and cleaning mortar off of bricks from the ruins of his house. He is laying these in mud, too, for his winter's shelter. His example is being widely followed in Dixmude and surrounding villages, and Flanders' mud is playing an important part in the making of temporary homes until new materials can be secured in the spring.

Queen to Establish Maternity Home.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Queen Mary has signified her intention of devoting the funds sent to her as a silver wedding gift to the establishment of an institution to be called Queen Mary's Maternity Home, which will be situated adjoining Hampstead Heath. There will be accommodations for from 16 to 20 mothers and the home is to be used for the benefit of the wives and children of men who are or have been serving with his majesty's forces. Lord Leverhulme, the soap magnate, has placed at the Queen's disposal the site for the home.

SAND AND GRAVEL OUTPUT OF STATE DECREASED DURING 1918

Value Totaled $772,000 Last Year Compared With $1,101,000 for Previous 12 Months.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 29.—The sand and gravel output of Missouri for 1918 totaled 1,745,616 tons and had a first wholesale value of $772,753, according to the 1919 Red Book of the Missouri Bureau of Labor Statistics.

A lighter demand for all varieties of sands, with the exception of molding and railroad sands, due to war conditions, made the industry of less importance for Missouri and all other sand and gravel producing States in 1918. The 1917 production of sand and gravel in Missouri totaled 2,274,072 tons, and the same was valued at $1,101,745.

The qualities of Missouri sand produced, by varieties and the value of such output in 1918 was as follows: Glass sand, 141,062 tons, aggregate value, $202,769; molding sand, 116 671 tons, value $65,111; building sand, 546,986 tons, value $213,321; engine sand, 32,793 tons, value $21,143; railroad ballast sand and gravel, 359,404 tons, value, $46,639; miscellaneous sands, 107,419 tons, value $35,208. The 1918 output of Missouri gravel totaled 439,281 tons, the same having a total value of $138,562.

The production of glass sand for 1917 totaled 153,970 tons, valued at $162,838; of molding sand, 90,811 tons valued at $58,608; building sand, 1,018,719 tons, valued at $449,546; engine sand, 21,170 tons, valued at $28,095; miscellaneous sand, 329,267 tons, valued at $209,459. The output of Missouri gravel for 1917 totaled 565,039 tons, worth approximately $183,860.

In both years sands used in Missouri were obtained chiefly from the Mississippi River near St. Louis, Cape Girardeau and Hannibal, and the Missouri River near Kansas City, St. Joseph, Boonville, St. Charles and Jefferson City. The sand used in the manufacture of glass came chiefly from Jefferson City, St. Louis, Franklin, St. Charles, Jackson and Buchanan counties for its needed supply of gravel.

GRAFTERS MAKE FORTUNES IN NEW BALTIC STATES

Nations Exploited Ruthlessly by Business Men Who Use Sharp Practices.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 29.—Business men incited to sharp practices by the rich resources of the Baltic States are exploiting the tiny new nations with the same ruthlessness that certain traders displayed in days when they fostered revolutions in South America for the sake of gaining concessions. An investigation by the Swedish Government into numerous shady deals across the Baltic has exposed widespread graft involving large fortunes. Two members of the Cabinet have been brought into the matter through having shares in a Swedish importing company which is accused of having played an extensive part in selling "gold bricks" to people in Esthonia, Lettland and Courland.

The operations began almost immediately after the small states declared their independence and let contracts for quantities of food, fuel and clothing. First came extensive deals in fish condemned by officials as unfit for human consumption. One representative of Esthonia came to Sweden and bought up several cargoes, believing them to be of good quality, taking the word of the importing company for it. Another agent purchased shoploads of food that did not exist. Others paid dearly for thousands of pairs of shoes that were practically useless.

It is estimated that the Letts issued 300,000,000 paper marks and they are now seeking to issue more paper with which to buy up all the land in the country and allot it to the proletariat. These things only give a hint of what will happen when normal conditions are restored. There is a host of men waiting to cross the Baltic as soon as something like peace is made between the warring elements for a general cleanup of concessions. In their impoverished condition the various governments are willing to part with valuable rights for immediate cash at a low rate.

Tobacco Thrives in Ripley.

DONIPHAN, Mo., Nov. 29.—A number of former Kentuckians living in the Purman neighborhood, eight miles southeast of this city, raised 50 acres of tobacco this season, and they say the "weed" grows as well here as in the Kentucky fields. The average yield per acre was about 1000 pounds. Next year the acreage will be largely increased.

AMERICAN ARMY GIVES UP ITS HEADQUARTERS IN PARIS

Only 130 Officers and 250 Men Left Besides Brest Contingent, Which Departs Dec. 15.

PARIS, Nov. 29—After today the American flag will float no longer from the famous old buildings in the Avenue Montaigne and the Rue Sainte Anne in the first of which Gen. Pershing and his staff had their headquarters for many months and in the other of which hundreds of soldiers found cells and got a start toward Leavenworth. The last of the American army is packing its uniforms which are now almost unknown in the Paris streets.

Of the military police there remains one company. Between now and Dec. 15 400 officers and 1900 men will sail in one large contingent on the America, which will carry the peace delegation on Dec. 6. This will leave for the final roundup 130 officers and 250 men, not counting the Brest contingent, which departs Dec. 15. By January 1 Brest will no longer be a port of embarkation for the homeward bound men. Antwerp will serve as the port of replenishment for the army of occupation and all other American purposes.

Now the musty old Hotel Sainte Anne no longer houses prisoners or military courts. The latter will continue awhile longer at Brest and later in America. Even on shipboard some cases will be tried by means of depositions. A few malefactors will be left to the mercies of the French authorities.

There is one remark among departing regulars, "The Mexican border for mine."

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY SOLDIERS LACK OVERCOATS

War Department Says Previous Expense Is Too Great to Add to Equipment.

The War Department has refused to furnish overcoats to members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and the Coast Artillery units at Washington University, following what is believed to have been its general policy in that matter. It bases refusal upon the volume of expense already entailed by training units in schools, colleges and universities.

Requisition for the overcoats, made out by Maj. Wallace M. Craigie, professor of military science and tactics at the university, was forwarded to Washington in advance of the cold weather, and met with refusal. This was as far as Maj. Craigie could go, but Dr. L. Kotany, treasurer of the university, felt entirely free from military restraint, and wrote to the department urging the need of overcoats for the students in their outdoor training when weather was cold or otherwise severe. The reply was polite but negative.

YOUNG ST. LOUIS POET CAUSES STIR IN EAST

Book of Verse Is Praised for Beauty of Diction and Deep Feeling.

To the number of her poets who have won wide appreciation among lovers of good verse St. Louis must add George O'Neil, the 21-year-old son of a well-known St. Louis family. Under the title, "The Cobbler in Willow Street and Other Poems," this young author has a collection of verse the imaginative beauty of which has won the highest praise from recognized authorities.

It is almost startling to find, as the product of a mind supposedly immature and inexperienced, either in action or emotion, the depth and poignancy of feeling expressed in some of these poems. How wistful, how suggestive of the soul yearning that others may share the beauty that it senses is the following:

LISTEN.... I TELL....

How strange!—that underneath this only sky
Time infinite all men have come and gone
To leave less memory than winds that die,
And never learned the secret of a dawn.

O think!—that all this world with all its ache,
With all its song and intricate allures,
Was mine, as real a thing as dreams can make,—
This world that now so naturally is yours.

Think of the praying that the stars have heard—
The stars men fancy peaceful entities,
That in high skies must hear God's whispered word!
Yet stars, too, cast their shadows into seas.

How vain!—though given dreams a thousand years,
If what I dreamt I might not know a half....
Or see a star left brighter for my tears....
Or know a wind left lighter for my laugh....

Here is a quatrain which ought to be evidence of the poet's feeling for those who suffer, as it certainly is of his power of expressing such feeling:

BOUQUET.

Into a little waif's frail reaching hands
I put a jonquil, just about to die,
That made her eyes turn misted violets
And changed her mouth into a butterfly.

And has our youthful poet known the sting of unrequited love? If not, why the sonnet entitled "Ended Story," in which he counsels the loved and lost one to remember their story without grief.

The poem that gives the title to the book is a quaint little picture of a singing cobbler, in an old-world street, who has a quiet song for "people who are not," or who no longer care about things. He seems to find themes for his melodious tunes in anything, being, it seems, an incurable optimist.

But the reviewer regrets that the most ambitious as well as the finest poem in the collection, "Pandora," is too long to quote, covering over 26 pages. It is a stream of verbal gems, especially charming for its nature images. Pandora is brought to Olympus by a messenger of the gods. Her beauty and the beauty that surrounds her afford the poet opportunity for his skill. She is depicted as at first dumb, apparently only half awake. When at length she speaks, we are told that

She seems to kiss each syllable she makes
Before her mouth will let their music go.

The introduction to the book, by Zoe Akins, is as enthusiastic as that very enthusiastic young artist can make it, and it is well earned. However, as a final word, this reviewer makes bold to differ with Miss Akins when she says of such poetry that it "has its own truth because the human soul must prevail, and in order to do so, must make for itself visions and illusions."

Visions, yes; but not illusions. As a writer of verse himself, the reviewer insists that the beauty and emotion and art expressed in true poetry are not concerned with illusions. These qualities are the very truth of life, not mere fleeting creations of the poet's fancy. The world is not a stage, in spite of Will Shakespeare's oft-quoted line.

Boni & Liveright publish "The Cobbler in Willow Street," several of the poems in which caused something of a stir among literary folks in the Eastern centers of culture when they appeared in leading magazines.

Sectional Panel Lace

A Lace that is sold by the yard. The pattern forms a series of panels which measure about nine inches wide and 2½ yards long. These panels are woven across the Lace so that if your window is 32 inches wide you have only to buy four panels, have them cut off the bolt, and you have a Lace Panel Curtain for your window. If another window in the room measures 60 inches in width, buy eight panels and you have a Panel Lace Curtain for your wide window. Easy, isn't it? The effect is fine, too, probably the best to be obtained.

We sell Sectional Panel Laces at, yard, $4.50 to $10.00.

Lacet Arabian Lace Curtains

The net is very strong and durable, the patterns are worked out in braids that will stand the laundry wear even better than the splendid net; the patterns are dignified and well drawn. Taken all together these are the most satisfactory of all Lace Curtains that are sold at approximate prices.

We sell them at, a pair, $11.00, $12.00, $13.50, $16.50, $20.00 and $27.50.

Fragrant Red Cedar Chests

CHINA CANCELS AUTONOMY OF THE OUTER MONGOLIANS

Compels Presentation of Petition in Spite of Protests of Chief.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

PEKIN, Nov. 29.—A presidential mandate issued Nov. 22 cancels the independence of the outer Mongolians, an act for which the Chinese assert the whole population of Mongolia petitioned. Through direct connections with Urga, capital of Mongolia, the correspondent learns that this statement is not true. The Mongols were forced through military pressure to send in to Pekin the petition for cancelation.

On Nov. 10 the Chinese resident in Urga called on the chief known as the "Living God" and suggested that he should send a petition to the Chinese Government to cancel the autonomy of the country. This the chief absolutely refused to do. On the 14th, after lining the roadway from Urga to the Living God's palace with a strong military force, the Chinese resident called on the President of the Council of Ministers and issued an ultimatum that unless a petition requesting the cancelation of autonomy was handed to him within 48 hours, the President of the Council and the Living God would be arrested and transported across the Gobi Desert to Kalgen.

On Nov. 15 the Living God handed the Chinese demands to the lower House of Parliament, which in stormy sessions rejected the Chinese proposition. The Speaker of the House suggested arming the population to resist Chinese aggression. The demands then were taken to the Upper House, which is composed of a number of Princes. These favored cancelation because they receive certain financial advantages from China. By a bare majority they agreed to the cancelation. They ordered the Council of Ministers to draw up a petition which was then signed by the ministers and vice ministers. The Living God refused to sign or approve.

SCANDINAVIA AIDS AUSTRIA

Supplies Rushed to Centers Where Suffering Is Acute.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 28.—Aroused by appalling reports of conditions in southern Germany and Austria, Sweden is preparing to send trainloads of supplies to those countries. Through private initiative immediate action followed the receipt of this news and Sweden a day or two ago shipped three tons of soap by way of Berlin. Red Cross officials are striving to ship as much fish oil, milk and other fat-containing foods as possible.

Charitable organizations work long hours to collect supplies for shipment. Bazaars, fetes and concerts are being held throughout Sweden and Denmark to raise funds for relief work. The head of the Swedish Red Cross declared that his organization was sending on an average one train a week bearing food and medical supplies to both Austria and Russia.

The Knabe AMPICO

Rachmaninoff

Will Play for You in Your Home

TO the many so keenly disappointed in not hearing Rachmaninoff at the Odeon, Saturday night, the Knabe Ampico would have furnished his actual playing just as realistically in their homes.

Nothing so emphasizes the importance of the Ampico to music-loving people as the fact that so distinguished an artist as Rachmaninoff records for it exclusively.

With an Ampico you have the actual playing by Rachmaninoff, every detail of technique, every shade of expression, exactly as if he were to sit at your own Knabe and play for you in that wonderful way that has enthralled the thousands who have attended his recitals and concerts.

The Knabe Ampico is the supreme instrument of music, and is recognized not only by Rachmaninoff as eminently worthy of his patronage, but it is also the personal preference of Ornstein and Godowsky, who, with Levitski, Kreisler and Victor Herbert, are under contract to record exclusively for the Ampico.

It is not alone for the playing of these special artists, however, that the Knabe Ampico should appeal to you. In itself the Knabe is the choice of the most noted pianists in concert tour, the pride of thousands and thousands of homes where music is the dominant exponent of art.

It is in the Knabe, therefore, that the Ampico reveals the soul of the artist, the finest interpretation of his emotions, the truest expression of his genius. The Knabe Ampico may be seen and heard in numerous St. Louis homes, and conveniently, when downtown, at Conroy's.

As a Christmas gift, a Knabe Ampico conveys in the highest degree appreciation of musical talent, musical interest and musical taste.

Ampico Pianos can be played by hand in the regular way.

MAN SUES FOR SHARE IN MRS. AYRES' ESTATE

Litigation over the will of Mrs. Matilda Malle Ayres, who died Dec. 29, 1916, was further complicated by the filing yesterday in the Probate Court of a suit by Robert W. Ayres, in which he claims a dower interest of one-half of her estate on the ground that he was her husband.

Mrs. Ayres, who was 67 years old, left the bulk of her property, including a 15-acre tract in St. Louis County, to the Martha Parsons Free Hospital for Children, and a will contest instituted by collateral heirs was recently decided against them in the Circuit Court. Then they filed suit at Clayton attacking the legal right of the beneficiary named in the will to acquire title to the property. This suit has not been heard.

Ayres was not mentioned in the will and he therefore claims it 's void as affecting him. He declares he was married to the testatrix April 1, 1888, and that thy lived together for several years. No mention is made of a divorce. H. A. Loevy, attorney for the estate, told a reporter that if it should develop there was a divorce decree such circumstance would defeat the plaintiff's right to a dower share. There were no children. Ayres asserts that he is entitled to one-half of the personal estate, amounting to $3552, now ready to be distributed by the executor, S. S. Bass, and one-half of the realty. He served notice that he expects to file suit at Clayton for his share of the realty.

Mrs. Ayres lived at 3900 Lindell boulevard, and for years conducted a floral store on Grand avenue between Olive street and Lindell boulevard. Her will bequeated $1000 to her friend, Miss Mary L. Tuemler, a teacher at the Divol School, the residue of the property going to the Martha Parsons institution, which recently consolidated with the St. Louis Children's Hospital.

Chrysanthemum Show Ends Today.

This is the last Sunday of the showing of 3000 chrysanthemum plants at Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden. The plants still are in show bloom, but must be removed this week to make room for the poinsetta show which will be the attraction during December. Last Sunday more than 12,000 persons entered the garden, thus contributing the feature needed to make the show the best in the history of the garden, in the opinion of Dr. George A. Moore, director.

CHEMICAL CONCERN TO HIRE ONLY AMERICANS IN FUTURE

Monsanto Company Will Assist Employes in Perfecting Their Citizenship.

The Monsanto Chemical Co. has posted red, white and blue placards in conspicuous places around its plant at Second street and Lafayette avenue, announcing that the company wishes to employ only American citizens.

The company, although it will not discharge any alien now in the service, will not hire other than American citizens in the future, according to John F. Queeny, president of the company. About 1500 persons are employed. The placards read:

"It is the desire of this company to have associated with it only American-born or naturalized American citizens. The Monsanto is an American institution, and is firm in its desire to be American in all its work and operation. The employes' department will assist any employe in perfecting his or her American citizenship."

LETTERS URGE ENFORCEMENT OF COMPENSATION MEASURE

Many letters have been received by the Associated Industries of Missouri from industrial concerns in all parts of the State expressing the opinion that to avoid confusion and injury to employers and employes the workmen's compensation law, enacted by the last Legislature, should be put into operation at once.

The writers state that they have written to Gov. Gardner urging him to appoint the commission provided by the law to administer it and thus make the law operative. Among the cities from which such letters have been received are Kansas City, St. Josph, Hannibal, Springfield, Joplin, Seladia, Bonne Terre, Ilmo, Lexington and St. Louis.

The Associated Industries recently sent out an opinion by John C. Hall, attorney for the special workmen's compensation committee, advising its members that the compensation law become effective Nov. 1, but did not become operative because the Governor has not appointed the commission. Gov. Gardner recently announced that he did not intend to appoint the commission until the validity of the petitions for a referendum on the law has been determined. This matter is now pending in the Cole County Circuit Court.

The Associated Industries is conducting an active campaign in behalf of the compensation law which was enacted after many unsuccessful attempts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 29.—An examination of the records of the now famous State Restaurant, with which members of the last Legislature sought to break up the high cost of living combination in Jefferson City, submitted to Gov. Gardner today, reveal that during the three months in which the restaurant operated its receipts amounted to $15,548.18 and its expenses to $23,366.62.

Auditor Hackman's examiners, who made the report, say that the bookkeeping was very poor and the condition of the finances are difficult to untangle. The only record kept straight through, they say, is the daily cash book.

They call attention to the fact that checks aggregating $803.82 were made payable simply to "cash" and that the salary of the manager was paid from the receipts and the bills for groceries, power, etc., were paid from the legislative contingent fund, both of which were contrary to the provisions of the resolution adopted by both houses putting the restaurant into operation.

114 TONS OF SUGAR RELEASED BY COURT

Judge Faris Holds It Was Only Normal Supply and Had Not Been Hoarded.

Upon decision that the Hipolite Co., 406 Market street, had purchased only a reasonable supply for its own use, Judge Faris of the United States District Court yesterday ordered the immediate release of 228,400 pounds of sugar belonging to the company which had been libelled by the Government. The sugar was seized Nov. 22 in the Booth Cold Storage Co., First and Ashley streets.

Judge Faris defined hoarding as consisting of holding necessities with the intention of "profiteering to the disadvantage, deprivation and hurt of other users and consumers of the necessity, in utter disregard of the rights of such other users and consumers."

He held that the Hipolite company, which manufactures fruit preserves, syrups and bakers' supplies, had purchased only a reasonable supply for its own use. The supply, it was shown, would last 105 days.

COURT ASKED TO SET ASIDE APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER

Stockholder's Petition Declares Auto Devices Co. Is Solvent, and Business Is Expanding.

A motion was filed yesterday to set aside the action of the Circuit Court in appointing a temporary receiver for the Auto Devices Co., 3310-14 Locust street, it being alleged that the company is solvent, and that there is no need for a receiver. The appointment was made by Judge Davis on petition of Joseph T. Davis, a stockholder and former president of the company, who averred that his interest was being jeopardized by the conduct of other officers, who were hostile to him. Charles W. Price is president.

Evidence disclosed that the company was incorporated six years ago by Davis, Price, Louis F. Abel and Robert W. McDonald, each owning an equal interest, with an original investment of $450 each. Subsequently the late Fred Abel was admitted as a member by the purchase of $5000 of stock. McDonald, who is secretary and treasurer, testified that the company has had an expanding business, and is in a prosperous condition. He estimated that the gross business this year should approximate $300,000, with a net profit of $30,000.

Davis complained that he has not received dividends, and that Price and McDonald each receive $5000 a year salary. Price has a contract by which he is to receive 3 per cent bonus on sales in addition to his salary, it was shown. According to McDonald, the bonus should amount to between $9000 and $12,000 a year. The contract was made, he explained, because of Price's value to the company.

The Court issued a temporary order restraining the defendants from increasing the capital stock to $50,000. Odon Guitar, a real estate broker, was appointed receiver on the furnishing of a $25,000 bond.

The National Catholic War Council is carrying on similar organization work with the co-operation of the Boy Scouts all over the country.

114 TONS OF SUGAR RELEASED BY COURT

Judge Faris Holds It Was Only Normal Supply and Had Not Been Hoarded.

Upon decision that the Hipolite Co., 406 Market street, had purchased only a reasonable supply for its own use, Judge Faris of the United States District Court yesterday ordered the immediate release of 228,400 pounds of sugar belonging to the company which had been libelled by the Government. The sugar was seized Nov. 22 in the Booth Cold Storage Co., First and Ashley streets.

Judge Faris defined hoarding as consisting of holding necessities with the intention of "profiteering to the disadvantage, deprivation and hurt of other users and consumers of the necessity, in utter disregard of the rights of such other users and consumers."

He held that the Hipolite company, which manufactures fruit preserves, syrups and bakers' supplies, had purchased only a reasonable supply for its own use. The supply, it was shown, would last 105 days.

COURT ASKED TO SET ASIDE APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER

Stockholder's Petition Declares Auto Devices Co. Is Solvent, and Business Is Expanding.

A motion was filed yesterday to set aside the action of the Circuit Court in appointing a temporary receiver for the Auto Devices Co., 3310-14 Locust street, it being alleged that the company is solvent, and that there is no need for a receiver. The appointment was made by Judge Davis on petition of Joseph T. Davis, a stockholder and former president of the company, who averred that his interest was being jeopardized by the conduct of other officers, who were hostile to him. Charles W. Price is president.

Evidence disclosed that the company was incorporated six years ago by Davis, Price, Louis F. Abel and Robert W. McDonald, each owning an equal interest, with an original investment of $450 each. Subsequently the late Fred Abel was admitted as a member by the purchase of $5000 of stock. McDonald, who is secretary and treasurer, testified that the company has had an expanding business, and is in a prosperous condition. He estimated that the gross business this year should approximate $300,000, with a net profit of $30,000.

Davis complained that he has not received dividends, and that Price and McDonald each receive $5000 a year salary. Price has a contract by which he is to receive 3 per cent bonus on sales in addition to his salary, it was shown. According to McDonald, the bonus should amount to between $9000 and $12,000 a year. The contract was made, he explained, because of Price's value to the company.

The Court issued a temporary order restraining the defendants from increasing the capital stock to $50,000. Odon Guitar, a real estate broker, was appointed receiver on the furnishing of a $25,000 bond.

FORMER ST. LOUIS SALOON MAN SENTENCED TO ILLINOIS PRISON

Joseph Pelinski Convicted of Getting $14,000 From Farmer on Fortune-Telling Swindle.

Joseph Pelinski of Wellston, a former St. Louis saloon keeper, was sentenced by Judge Yager in Alton yesterday to serve one to 10 years in the penitentiary on a charge of swindling Wirt Bauer, an Alton farmer, out of $14,000 on the pretense that Pelinski's wife, a fortune teller, could enlist the aid of spirits in finding a buried treasure on Bauer's farm. He was found guilty by a jury recently.

Pelinski's attorney announced he would apply to the State Supreme Court for a supersedeas, as preliminary to an appeal, and Pelinski was released on a $6000 bond pending this legal action.

TABLET AT MENARD HOME

D. A. R. to Put It Up in Ceremony at Kaskaskia.

A tablet will be erected at the home of Pierre Menard, first Lieutenant-Governor of Illinois, at Kaskaskia, 70 miles from St. Louis, by the Daughters of the American Revolution to commemorate the 101st anniversary of the establishment of the State of Illinois, Wednesday. The house, which is on the site of old Fort Gage, is the only one which was standing at that time and is still standing.

Members of the D. A. R. of Illinois and Missouri will be present, and after the ceremony they will visit Menard's grave, and will place a wreath on the grave of Shadrach Bond, first Governor, in Chester. Miss Genevieve Davidson will unveil the tablet.

FIRST OF CAROL REHEARSALS

Eighty Bands of Christmas Singers Are Organized.

The first rehearsal of the Christmas carol singers, who will sing in the western and central parts of the city Christmas Eve, was held yesterday afternoon at the Christ Church Cathedral assembly room.

The "Cantique De Noel," the carol which is sung in the French churches, was introduced by Mrs. Karl Kimmel, soloist of the Second Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Gustavus Tuckerman spoke on Christmas carol customs, and a "community sing" was led by E. L. Coburn. Eighty bands of carol singers have been organized and their routes arranged. The Noonday Festival Committee has arranged for the singing of Christmas ballads in hotels and restaurants at noon of Dec. 24 by well known quartets.

BIGAMIST MARRIED TWICE BY SAME JUSTICE

Frank McGuirk Arrested When Wife He Took in April Sees Notice of License.

Frank McGuirk, 23 years old, of 1031 South Thirteenth street, an employe of the American Railway Express Co. in Union Station, who was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging bigamy, went to Justice of the Peace McChesney for both marriage ceremonies, according to statements the two wives made to the Circuit Attorney. The first was April 21, last, and the second a week ago.

Mrs. Bernice McGuirk, the first wife, of 2130 South Broadway, read in a newspaper that a marriage license had been issued to Frank McGuirk and Miss Nora Richardson. Thinking the McGuirk might be her husband, whom she had not seen since four days after their marriage, she notified the police and McGuirk was arrested at the home of the second wife.

The first Mrs. McGuirk told the police she left her husband because he wanted her to live on $4 a week and because he "argued with her."

The second wife said McGuirk had imposed upon her, telling her he was divorced, but that she had no desire to prosecute him and send him to the penitentiary.

Dermatologist Gives Complexion Secret

"The great secret of keeping the face young is to keep off the dead cuticle," says Dr. J. Mortimer Mitchell. "It is well known that the surface skin is constantly dying, falling off in imperceptible particles, except in some diseased conditions, when the same appear like dandruff. But the particles do not all drop off immediately they die, being held for a while by the live skin.

"To have the dermatological surgeon peel off the entire outer skin at one time is a painful and expensive operation. The same result is obtained by applying ordinary mercolized wax, as you would cold cream, allowing this to remain on over night, then taking it off with warm water. One ounce usually suffices. The process is both painless and inexpensive. The wax, which is procurable at your drug store, hastens the natural shedding process. It gradually absorbs the dead and half-dead skin, revealing the new, healthy, youthful-looking skin underneath."

Get Rid of Your Fat

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs without dieting or exercising often at the rate of over a pound a day and without payment until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practising physician and personally select the treatment for each individual case, thus enabling me to choose remedies that will produce not only a loss of weight harmlessly, but which will also relieve you of all the troublesome symptoms of overstoutness such as shortness of breath, palpitation, indigestion, rheumatism, gout, asthma, kidney trouble and various other afflictions which often accompany overstoutness.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you renewed energy and vigor, a result of the loss of your superfluous fat.

You are not required to change in the slightest from your regular mode of living. There is no dieting or exercising. It is simple, easy and pleasant to take.

If you are overstout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my free trial treatment and my plan whereby I am to be paid only after reduction has taken place if you so desire.

STATEMENT OF EXPENDITURES OF PROVIDENT BODY

$71,376 or 48.9 Per Cent of Total of $145,699 Paid in Salaries in Fiscal Year Ending Oct. 31.

DRIVE FOR NEXT YEAR TO START TOMORROW

General Manager Says $150,000 Asked for Will Not Be Enough if Extraordinary Situations Arise.

The St. Louis Provident Association, which tomorrow will begin its campaign to raise $150,000 for its year's needs, yesterday made the public statement of its expenditures for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31. This was in response to a communication from Dr. Ira C. Young, 4496 Laclede avenue, asking for information regarding the salaries of the association and the percentage of income which actually reached the poor. The statement follows:

Dept.	Exp.	Salaries.	Pct. Sal.
Material relief	$51,173.13	$7,756.41	15.1
Social service	57,436.21	48,025.79	83.6
Urban league	1,124.25	1,004.72	8.9
Women's lodge	3,553.76	235.84	6.6
Lodge and nursery (col.)	2,210.82	523.68	23.7
Summer health camp	4,300.89	988.66	22.9
Wood yard	5,114.82	816.25	15.9
Work rooms	2,619.75	1,766.45	67.4
Administration	3,865.01	2,526.66	65.3
Raising revenue	14,301.00	7,731.58	54.0
Total	$145,699.14	$71,376.04	48.9

Material relief costs 35.1 per cent of total expenditures.

Administration costs 2.6 per cent of total expenditures.

Administration salaries cost 1.7 per cent of total expenditures.

Raising revenue costs 9.8 per cent of total expenditure.

Revenue salaries cost 5.3 per cent of total expenditures.

Administration and revenue together cost 12.5 per cent of total expenditures.

Administration and revenue salaries cost 7.0 per cent of total expenditures.

Social service department costs 39.4 per cent of total expenditures.

Social service salaries cost 32.9 per cent of total expenditures.

Work of Organization.

Charles M. Hubbard, secretary and general manager of the association, explained the work of the organization. "Many persons have an erroneous idea as to the object of the association,' he said. "Its primary object is not to give material relief but to do family social work, which is helping the poor to help themselves. Material aid is given when necessary, of course, but we try to give opportunities which will bring about material benefit.

"Last year the association reached 4424 families. Of these 2420 received extended care and the remainder were given minor services to tide them over an abnormal time.

"We are asking for $150,000 this year but this will not be enough if any extraordinary situations arise and with the coal strike unsettled and the subsequent threatening of other industries closing it looks as if we will be asked to take care of many more families this winter. We will be compelled to give material relief because under such conditions we cannot find employment for the applicants."

In analyzing the expenditures of the association he said:

"The largest single item is social service, which is the main work of the Provident as a family social work agency. The object of social service is to discover and remove the causes of distress and make such readjustments and give such directions as will tend to make families self-supporting and promote their standards and ideals.

"This family social work has nothing to do with the cost of administering relief in any of the departments of the Provident. It does, however, make such relief as may be given effective in accomplishing permanent improvement in the family's life and thus reduces the amount that must be expended for relief.

Salaries About $100 a Month.

"The percentage expended in salaries in this department is necessarily high because the workers are striving to prevent poverty. Most of the visitors are college graduates, having specialized in sociology and social welfare work. Their salaries average about $100 a month, and some receive as low as $65 month. This does not compare favorably with the salaries given trained workers in other professions."

One of Dr. Young's questions was the salary of Mrs. Hubbard. Hubbard, in reply, said that his wife was not on the pay roll of the association, as she was employed by the St. Louis School of Social Economy.

Continuing with the analysis of expenditures, Hubbard said:

"The salaries and wages in material relief cover the services of the middleman which are cut out under the system of wholesale purchasing which the Provident has adopted. These salaries and wages are therefore a part of the cost of the goods and are charged as Material Relief expenditures. But even with these salaries added, the goods cost less than they would at retail because the profit of the middleman is eliminated. These services include the delivery of the groceries and coal at the homes just as would be done by retail dealers.

"The Urban League is a Social Service Department for negroes, but is kept in a separate account.

"The two women's lodges, one for white and the other for colored, are for the emergency care of homeless women and children; the day nursery for colored children enables mothers to go out to work and earn a living; the summer health camp is to restore the health of subnormal women and children. Salaries and wages in these departments provide caretakers whish services are an indispensable part of the benefit that they confer. They are not an administrative cost, but are relief expenditures.

Operation of Woodyard.

"The woodyard is operated as a protection against the man who wants help, but has a doubtful work record. It tries him out and tests his capacity for work until a better job can be found for him. Some returns are received from the sale of kindling and firewood.

"The workroom serves the same purpose for women that the woodyard does for men. As the women are employed mostly at making over and repairing secondhand clothing so that it will be in condition for free distribution among the poor, there are practically no direct financial returns.

"Administration is construed to mean the services, supplies and equipment necessary for the proper supervision and direction of the work. It includes the services that are given directly for that object. No effort has been made to assemble and estimate the administrative cost of minor supervisory functions in the Provident.

"The general manager has various duties besides that of supervision or administration. The administrative cost includes such proportion of the time of the general manager and his assistants as is directly given to this phase of the work. The amount of supervisory attention that must be constantly given depends somewhat upon the system of organization and the care that is exercised in the selection of employes.

"It is possible that a portion of the time of one or two more subordinate employes might be charged against administration, thus increasing the proportion that its cost bears to the entire expenditure by 1 or 2 per cent. The present apportionment has been fixed in consultation with the chartered accountant who audits the books.

How Provident Operates.

"The administrative costs in the Provident should not be considered simply as a cost of administering relief unless relief is meant to include the benefits to the poor of all the eight departments. If the sole purpose of the Provident were to distribute material relief then that department could rightfully be singled out for comparison with all other expenses. But the Provident is not a relief society in that narrow acceptation of the term. As a family social work agency it rehabilitates and promotes the welfare of its families in which material relief may or may not play a part. It is used as often and as generously as is necessary. The machinery for its distribution is simple and inexpensive. It requires very little time for a social worker to write an order on the supply department or upon a neighboring grocery—no more in fact than it does for a physician to write a prescription for medicine. The wholesale purchasing of the Provident enables it to lay the groceries down in the homes at less than if it were purchased at retail groceries.

"The cost of raising money can never be entirely eliminated when it must be raised by appealing to the public either by letter or in an annual drive. The Provident has no paid solicitors, but has to incur expenses for publicity, printing and postage and for clerical service in preparing and checking up names of contributors and prospective contributors. No expense is incurred and no service is employed that is not absolutely necessary to maintain the revenues to meet the needs. An effort is made in the Provident to charge against the cost of raising money all expenses that properly belong to it. Too often such expenses are not segregated and are hidden under the cloak of other departments. If the work is to be continued on an efficient basis, the proportion of the cost of raising money to the total expenditure will depend largely upon the willingness of individuals to make generous contributions for its support."

Thomas H. West, president of the association, said the overhead expenses of the association were in no way excessive, as the association was as much a business proposition as a charity organization.

"The association prevents imposters from imposing on the public," West said. "It seemed to me when I first became interested in the work that the expenses might be cut down, but after I visited the central and district offices and saw the work they were doing to check up on the applicants and to prevent overlapping of the charity of the 18 organizations, which make confidential reports to the association, I realized that the office work was necessary.

"The association gives direct relief when it is needed, but it aims to give opportunities as well as material aid. The accounts are audited by certified public accountants and every cent is well spent."

FIRESTONE STEEL PRODUCT PLANT TO BE EXPANDED

C. M. White Jr., general sales manager of the Firestone Steel Products Co., of Akron, O., spent Thanksgiving day in St. Louis. Friday he left for Kansas City, accompanied by F. C. Rudisell, St. Louis branch manager, and Roy S. Rauschkolb, manager of the truck tire sales department, to attend a district managers' conference.

The Firestone Steel Products Co., White stated, will soon be housed in a new million-dollar plant, the ground for which has already been broken. This company, which is affiliated with the great tire concern bearing the same name, annually produces about 1,250,000 demountable rims for pneumatic automobile tires and 65 per cent of the steel bases used in the United States for solid truck tires.

Firestone rims, he said, are now used as standard equipment by more than 65 per cent of the automobile companies of the United States.

"During its first fiscal year," said Sales Manager White, "the Steel Products Co.'s sales totaled more than $5,600,000. Since the signing of the armistice, not only has the business of the company shown a very substantial increase but the volume of business with outside customers has more than doubled.

"As a matter of fact, our business has expanded so rapidly that our present quarters are entirely inadequate to permit us to do business on an economic and ever-increasing basis. The main manufacturing building of our new plant will be 840 feet long by approximately 250 feet wide and will be of steel, brick and concrete construction, architecturally conforming to the existing group of Firestone factories. We expect to be in our new quarters not later than the first of next year.

"This extensive building program is evidence of our belief in the inherent stability of our national business life and the great prosperity which must come to this country after the passing of the present period of industrial unrest."

Why So Many Americans Are Physical Wrecks at 50—

Physician Explains How Signs of Old Age Creep Into Your System When the Iron in Your Blood Runs Low—

Says Weak, Nervous, Run-Down People Should Take Nuxated Iron to Steady the Nerves, Restore Wasted Tissue and Aid in Giving Renewed Force and Power to the Body.

Are you slipping at 50?

Can you actually stand what you could twenty years ago when your strength and energy are put to the test?

Or do you merely think you are "just as good?"

Is your heart pumping pure red blood—rich in iron—through your veins.

Or is it merely a passage for thin, pale, watery blood without enough red corpuscles to keep your body strong and well?

These are the questions put by Dr. H. B. Vail, formerly Physician in the Baltimore Hospital and a Medical Examiner, who contends that a man's age can no longer be measured by the number of his years but by the condition of his blood. Dr. Vail believes that the greatest problem of modern life is to ward off the tragedy of middle age, which begins to show its signs the moment the iron in the blood runs low.

Continuing, Dr. Vail says: "There are thousands whose bodies are ageing and breaking down at a time when they should be enjoying that perfect bodily health which cries defiance to disease simply because they are not awake to the condition of their blood. By allowing it to remain thin, pale and watery they are not giving the natural life forces of the body a chance to do their work. Yet others go through life apparently possessing, year after year, the elasticity, the strength and the energy of earlier days, for through their bodies courses the energy and power that comes from plenty of red blood—filled with strengthening iron. Iron is red blood food and in my experience I have found no better means for building up the red corpuscles and helping to give increased power to the blood than organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which I have prescribed with surprising success for my patients who are approaching middle life. I took Nuxated Iron myself to build me up after a serious case of nervous exhaustion. The effects were apparent after a few days and within three weeks it had virtually revitalized my whole system and put me in a superb physical condition."

Dr. John J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of the City of New York, says: "Strength and vitality of body and mind are derived from the blood and the blood in turn derives it from the food we eat and the oxygen contained in the air we breathe. But unless the blood is rich in iron to increase its oxygen carrying power, it cannot develop living tissue, muscle and brain or keep active the vital forces. Strong healthy men and women with plenty of iron in their blood are the ones who go through life with a smile, self-reliant and fearless and their dynamic power and energy make them virtually masters of their own destinies. It is surprising how many people who do not get along in life are in reality suffering from iron deficiency and do not know it. To supply this lack of iron and help build stronger, healthier men and women, better able physically to meet the problems of everyday life, I believe that physicians should, at every opportunity, prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for in my experience it is one of the best tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

Does Middle Age Find You Standing on the Precipice of Uncertainty – Your Blood Starving for Want of Iron?

THE FUTURE
ARE YOU SINKING AT MIDDLE AGE?
MIDDLE AGE

Blinded by the belief that he is still "just as good as ever," many a man reaches that point of life between 40 and 50 where the future looks bright and assured only to find that the grim relentless force of middle age has undermined his health and energy. In the rush and tear of modern day life he has neglected to keep his blood filled with strength-giving iron, and as a result is on the verge of a physical and nervous breakdown, at a time when he should be enjoying his best years.

Physicians explain here why such men need the sustaining health-building power of organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to help make rich, red blood, restore wasted tissue and increase their physical strength and endurance.

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people, who were ailing all the while, have surprisingly increased their strength and endurance in 2 weeks' time in many instances.

Manufacturer's Note—Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by Enderle Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Weipert Drug Co., Pauley's Drug Stores and Merker's Stores, East St. Louis, and all other druggists.

PILES CURED WITHOUT THE KNIFE
By Dr. Henrich's Method
TO STAY CURED

No Cutting. No Pain. No Chloroform. No Hospital. No Danger. No Loss of Time. Consultation and Examination Free—Tell Your Friends.

Read What This Healthy and Happy Man Says:

Mascoutah, Ill., June 24, 1914.
W. P. Henrich, Ph. G., M. D.
Dear Doctor—The critical condition which I was in when you undertook my case of Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles is well known among Mascoutah physicians. My general health had been gradually declining after suffering 22 years, and I was very pale and weak from those terrible bleeding spells I used to get, so my family physician told me that life was a question of but a few months at the most if I did not take your wonderful treatment.

I know many people you permanently cured of the Piles years ago, and am very sorry that I did not take your never-failing treatment sooner, and thereby saved me lots of suffering.

Your slogan, "The Henrich Cure Is Safe and Sure" is the truth, and describes your treatment perfectly, as you use no knife, no chloroform, and do surely cure.

The fee I paid you is the best investment I ever made for my health, and I advise all Pile Sufferers to take your treatment at once, as it is no use experimenting and squandering money with salves, cones, ointments, etc., as they never cure Piles.

It is a pleasure to recommend you, and I do so at every opportunity. Thanking you most heartily, I am

Respectfully yours,
JOHN BERTHOLDT.

Why GRAY HAIR is no longer necessary

New, Clean, Easy, Harmless, Treatment.

First Bottle Gives Satisfaction.

After having been tried and proven successful by hundreds of their customers, leading stores throughout the country are recommending "Canute Water" for Gray Hair to those who wish the color of their hair restored. Enderle and Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Famous & Barr Co., Stix, Baer & Fuller, and Nugents Dept. Store sell it in St. Louis on a positive guarantee of absolute satisfaction or your money back. "Canute Water" restores color to your hair so naturally and evenly that no one can possibly tell you are using anything. All questions one naturally asks are here plainly answered.

IS IT ABSOLUTELY SAFE TO USE? By all means—yes. You may use "Canute Water" for Gray Hair without the slightest fear of injury to the hair, scalp or eyes, as it contains none of the injurious elements of the ordinary hair dye, being entirely FREE from acid, sugar of lead, sulphur or coal-tar products of any kind—making it as harmless to the hair and scalp as ordinary water. It is for external use only.

WILL IT SOIL THE HANDS OR SCALP? No, it will not. Our own patented process prevents it from staining the hands or scalp. "Canute Water" for Gray Hair is an especially clean, convenient treatment—not being sticky or greasy. It restores so naturally and evenly no one will be able to tell you are using anything.

IS IT A CRUDE DYE? Positively not. That is just the thing it isn't. "Canute Water" is a simple method of reviving the youthful color of hair that has turned gray from age, illness or other cause. Proof that "Canute Water" is not a crude dye is that it has no numbered shades—the same bottle is good for all shades of hair. While as the reader knows the crude dyes are put up in packages marked with the different colors of hair or numbered 1, 2 or 3.

HOW IS IT APPLIED? Very easily. Just wet your hair with it and allow to dry in good, fresh air. Nothing hard about that, is there? Apply on hair once daily and day by day observe the hair becoming darker and darker. And by the time you have finished the first bottle the youthful color of your hair will be restored. It will then remain that way and simply require a retouching at the roots once in a while as the new hair grows out.

CAN THE DARKENED COLOR WASH OR RUB OFF? The color will not wash off. Shampoo the hair all you like—you may even use a hot curling iron, as not even that will affect the color. On the contrary, the more you shampoo the hair the softer and fluffier the hair will become.

Believe us, after a week you'll thank yourself for having tried it. Sold at the above-mentioned stores, your own druggist or by mail direct upon receipt of price, $1.10 per bottle. Friedman Canute Co., 18 East 17th Street, New York City, New York.

NOTICE—Beware of sales-people who get commissions to sell worthless imitations. To be SAFE, accept no substitute for "CANUTE WATER".

MANY HOPE FOR THE ESCAPE OF CARLISLE

Spectacular Wyoming Is a Robin Hood Who Has Never Shot a Man.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—The West's most spectacular train robber, William Carlisle, is on the rampage again and every officer between Great Salt Lake and the Missouri, reinforced by 10,000 railroad men, re-searching for him. Within 48 hours after escaping from the Wyoming State Penitentiary, where he was sent for life for train robbing, he had held up an overland Union Pacific train, robbed the passengers and was away again with a troop of United States cavalry and hundreds of officers searching for him.

Carlisle is about 35 years old and so far as the authorities have been able to discover he had not committed an unlawful act in his life until he suddenly made his debut as a train robber, in the spring of 1916.

Jesse James held up trains, but he always had a band at his back. Bill Day and Ben Fitzpatrick and others held up trains and then ran for the Hole-in-the-Wall, but they never tried it unless there were at least half a dozen of them. Shacknasty Jim and Mexican Joe robbed a train once in a while as it went through the Red Desert, but there were never less than five in their party.

Always Plays Lone Hand.

Carlisle, however, always plays a lone hand. And instead of fleeing for tall timber after the job, Carlisle has always let it be known just where he would be.

"I am going to hold up the Pacific Limited next Friday night," he telegraphed the railroad authorities in April, 1916. And he did it.

"You guards had better watch me, I'm going to get out of this place," he told the guards in the Wyoming Penitentiary. They watched him. But he got out.

Carlisle is a Robin Hood to the people of Southern Wyoming and about three out of four of them want him to escape. It is believed that this feeling for him on the part of the cowboys and ranchmen is the reason he has been able to drop out of sight for a day or two following his robberies and then to turn up in some place where the railroad people least expected to find him.

"Never mind, lady, keep your money, I'm not robbing women," Carlisle has told women passengers when they handed out their purses.

Let Poor Man Keep $100.

"Say, Mister, I'm a poor man and I've worked mighty hard for this $100," a roughly dressed passenger told Carlisle, as the latter passed down the aisle of the car, taking valuables from the passengers.

"All right, old man, keep it; I'll get an extra hundred from this prosperous-looking fat man," Carlisle answered pleasantly. And he did.

"You soldiers don't have to pay toll; keep your money," he told a bunch of soldiers in one train he was holding up.

Carlisle's plan is simplicity itself. He climbs on a train at some regular stop. He waits until the porter comes into the last car on the train. Then he shoves a gun in the negro's back. Next, he stands up in the front of the car, fires a couple of shots into the ceiling, says "Hands up," and then forces the negro to pass down the aisle and fob the passengers.

"The first man who makes a false move dies," he tells them. But he never has shot a man in his life.

After robbing the car, he takes the porter into the next car and goes through the same operation. He locks the door of the car as he passes out so that he cannot be followed. When he gets through with the train he pulls the bell cord and as the train slows down he leaps off and disappears.

Robbed Three Trains in Two Weeks.

In April, 1916, he held up three trains in two weeks. After the first robbery he always sent the railroad notice of the next train he intended robbing. And he always kept his word. The railroad put guards on the trains, but Carlisle managed to elude them every time.

Some time after his three robberies in 1916 he was captured. A posse searching for him overtook him. He was on foot and immediately surrendered without attempting to fight. The posse, not believing he was the party they were looking for, was on the point of releasing him, but he insisted that he was Carlisle, all right. He was tried and sent to the State prison for life.

"Look out, I'm going to get out of here," he would tell the guards, every now and then. "Better watch me."

Two weeks ago three other convicts, working in the prison laundry, nailed Carlisle in a big box of laundry. The box was carted to the railroad station and dumped on the platform. It was dark. Carlisle had a hammer with him. He knocked off a board and crawled out. Three hours later his escape was discovered. Twelve hours later he had held up a train.

Guards Scour Desert.

"Carlisle has escaped," was the flash that went through Wyoming. And the railroads started after him.

A special train of railroad guards was rushed out to the Red Desert. The guards left the train for an hour while they scoured the vicinity. When they returned they found Carlisle had entered their special train and had helped himself to two automatic pistols, three repeating rifles and enough shells with which to fight a battle.

While the guards' special was sidetracked at Wamsutter, Wyo., Carlisle went through the town riding the bumpers on a through freight.

"A nice bunch of guards you've got," he telegraphed from a station farther down the line.

Then, with the aid of a rancher with an automobile, Carlisle went over to Casper, Wyo., boldly entered a newspaper office and asked for news of Carlisle. He walked into the telegraph office and sent a message to the railroad taunting them with their failure to capture him. He wrote out the telegram, laid it on the counter with a sum of money, and got out the door before the receiving girl realized the contents of the message. But the officers couldn't catch him.

Says Train Robbery Is Fun.

"I'm going down to Omaha on a stock train," he telegraphed from Chadron. When he arrived at Omaha he telegraphed the editor at Casper that he was coming back and "get" him for telling about his visit to the newspaper office.

Authorities are puzzled as to where Carlisle came from originally. The first thing they knew of him was when he held up a train. He has no criminal record and is unknown in criminal history.

"I just wanted to see if one fellow could hold up a train and rob it without killing anyone," he said after he was arrested. "Then I just kept at it because it was fun."

"Fun? Sure it's fun to rob a train all by yourself. Lots of fun to see how different people act when you say 'Hands up.' I certainly enjoy train robbing."

—More Than Mere Phonograph

Base your decision on the quality of the tone and you'll surely choose right. Your selection, like that of unnumbered thousands, will be The Brunswick. Not because we say so, but because a demonstration on this super instrument will convince you.

We are confident that we can help you to a conclusion in selecting the right phonograph.

Method of Reproduction

By the Brunswick Method of Reproduction a trueness, fineness and richness are given to tone that cannot be duplicated in other instruments.

This method consists of the Ultona and the Tone Amplifier.

The Ultona—a simple contrivance, makes it possible to play all records at their best. Thus you are no longer restricted to the artists of one producer. Diaphragm and needle are as one on the Ultona, yet the Ultona is not complex.

The Tone Amplifier—As the tone waves are carried by the needle to the diaphragm, they travel on to this vibrant tone chamber. It is oval shaped, made entirely of wood and free from metal. The resilient wood expands and contracts with the tone waves, building them up and projecting them stronger and clearer. By it a new beauty is brought to all records.

The Brunswick can be seen and heard at dependable dealers in St. Louis

During the holiday season St. Louis dealers will conduct individual concerts on The Brunswick.

Drop in at a convenient interval during the day. Listen to The Brunswick play your favorite records. Perhaps the idea will suggest itself that a Brunswick is to be your choicest gift.

MUD ISLAND PILING UP NEAR MEMPHIS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Steadily and surely the Mississippi River is building up a mud island directly in front of the levee of Memphis, soon to leave Memphis a city isolated from river commerce, and the Government is spending over a quarter of a million to prevent it.

Alarm has been sounded for three years, when the island first began to appear in serious proportions. The river, ever shifting with its currents, had shifted to the Arkansas side, and a deposit was piling up in front of the levee of Memphis. Steadily and surely it grew. Every year when high water went down, Mud Island was longer and extended farther south than it had before. Now it extends well beyond the levee and has piled up so high that bushes are growing on it. Where it looms up high, wide and firm, young trees wave in the wind as if the island had always been there.

So serious has the problem become that engineers were called to the rescue. A plea went in to Washington to do something to save Memphis from losing the river and becoming an inland city. Petitions were circulated and Congressmen were implored, and the Government finally consented to spend $225,000 in an effort to swing the current back to the Memphis side and wash the island away.

An old map of Memphis shows the juncture of Wolf River and the Mississippi at a point half a mile from where they now join. The current of the Mississippi then swung strong against the Memphis side. Old captains will tell of the time there were 40 feet of water near the landing, where now there is a scant five or six feet in low water. When Andrew Jackson made his famous trip South, he landed at a point a half mile above where steamers now land. The current had not then turned away from the Memphis shore.

To Wash Away Island.

Engineers finally agreed that the only way to save Memphis from losing the river was to bring the current back to the Memphis side and wash away the island.

As a result, they began the construction of a dyke north of Memphis on the Arkansas side, running out into the river, with the intention of forcing the water to the Memphis side. This dyke, built at different times during the last year, now extends well out into the river, and has cost the Government $350,000.

High water recently took part of the dyke with it. It is estimated that the damage amounted to $50,000. Until the water goes down and the real cost of constructing it again in water that is deep and swift, no very accurate estimate can be made. The flood which came down in early November was only a foretaste of what will come next April, May and June. If the river should rise then as it has in the past, many think that the entire dyke will be torn away.

Col. C. McD. Townsend, chairman of the Mississippi River Commission, was recently in Memphis to see what good had been accomplished. It was his opinion that the island could be washed away by continuing the method the Government is now using. He pointed out that the current had been swung away from the Arkansas side and was touching the eastern shore. At this rate, Memphis might be relieved as Vicksburg is being relieved, in two or three years.

Constant Dredging Necessary.

When low water comes, Memphis boats will thread up the narrow channel in five or six feet of water. The mouth of Wolf River has now become the channel up which the boats travel for a short distance to the levee. Wolf River is small and it is only by constant dredging that boats are able to come up. When the water drops very low, boats that are used to tow logs to furniture factories and sawmills cannot go up. In the narrow channel and at the lower half of the levee extreme care must be exercised or boats go aground. The dredgeboat Zeta went aground while working in the narrow channel of Wolf River as it flows along the levee with the mud island embankment forming its west bank. Boats were forced to move their landing places farther south. Two dredges, one a dipper dredge and one a pump dredge, have been working in the channel all summer. Mud piles up faster than they can remove it and the long barrier of the island slowly and surely moves southward.

Discussion after discussion has racked the Memphis Chamber of Commerce at the threatened loss of river trade. Memphis receives much of her cotton by boat, and cotton is one of the products Memphis deals in. Now that part of the Government dyke has washed away, the discussion is again opened; the mud is still piling up, and Memphis may find herself, unless the dyke should prove very successful when rebuilt, at the end of next June, either working three or four dredges, moving her levee or discontinuing river trade.

MUSKRAT SKINS USED AS MONEY

The Leading Medium of Exchange in Gold Camps of Manitoba.

By the Associated Press.

THE PAS, Manitoba, Nov. 29.—Muskrat skins are the leading medium of exchange at present in this gold-boom city, located at the frozen edge of the railroad.

North of The Pas, in the Copper Lake district, gold was discovered this summer. Since then, prospectors have flocked to that region and it has been claimed that for every reputable mining company that has been organized, a dozen wild-cat concerns have sprung into existence. A local newspaper has published a formal announcement that a muskrat skin will pay for a year's subscription. The same announcement declared that mining stock "is not in the same category."

NORTHERN ONTARIO MAY SECEDE

By the Associated Press.

COBALT, Ontario, Nov. 29.—In Northern Ontario the question of the secession of this part of the province from Southern Ontario is one of the chief topics of discussion. An organized effort to bring about the division is being vigorously made, and a convention is being planned for the first week in January.

The situation seems to have been born of the belief, long standing, that the mining and lumbering districts have not received due recognition by the provincial Government. The selection of H. Mills, a former locomotive engineer, by Premier E. C. Drury (the new provincial Prime Minister elected by the farmers), to administer the Department of Mines, has, it is claimed, added fuel to the fires of discontent.

The Council of North Bay and the Board of Trade of that place are now perfecting an organization, and they propose to get every municipality in the North behind the scheme of separation. Roughly the North has 470,000 square miles and the south, or Old Ontario, 112,500 square miles.

$30,000 ALIMONY IS 15 YEARS IN COMING

Woman Divorced by Physician Whom She Educated After They Were Married.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill.—Following litigation lasting 15 years, Mrs. Mattie W. Spalding, formerly of Bloomington, has been awarded a judgment of $30,000 alimony in the courts at Kenosha, Wis., against her husband, Dr. John B. Spalding, now a surgeon of California and reputed to be wealthy. This is the largest alimony award on record in this court and is the climax to a very sensational case.

The plaintiff is the daughter of the late W. R. White, known as the "gateman." He came to Bloomington 20 years ago in reduced circumstances, bringing with him as his sole possession of consequence, the patent rights for a farm gate which could be opened by persons approaching in a vehicle and closed without leaving the seat.

Enlisted Local Capital.

White was able to enlist local capital in his device and a factory was opened here. He found greater profit, however, in selling the rights to sell the gate, and a veritable craze developed for territory. White soon sold all of the State of Illinois and then broadened to adjacent States until finally, the entire nation was platted. In a few years, he amassed a fortune and gave each of his five children large sums. One of these children was his daughter Mattie. She attracted the attention of the defendant in the recent suit, and he proposed marriage. In his decision awarding the plaintiff a judgment, Judge Ellsworth Belden referred to this union as follows:

"The plaintiff, young, good looking, of good and wealthy family, came to the notice of the defendant and his father. Through their machinations and for mercenary motives, her marriage to the defendant was brought about. Financial importunities and mistreatment speedily followed. The plaintiff's life has been ruined by the defendant. He should not be allowed to escape his obligations to her. It appears to the satisfaction of the court that, during their married life, the plaintiff was treated by the defendant with extreme cruelty, by personal violence, by calling her vile names, by indignities, deceit and by general demeanor, calculated and intended to hurt and humiliate her and to render the marriage state intolerable affecting her health, and causing permanent suffering and disability.

"The defendant owes his professional education and start in life to the plaintiff. By defendant's insistence upon the plaintiff and through her solicitations, the latter's father furnished $10,000 which was expended for the defendant's professional education, equipment and support of himself and his wife, and this was charged against her share of her father's estate. The plaintiff has been subjected to large expense, great embarrassment, excessive anxiety, and burdens, in undertaking to compel the defendant to meet his obligations to her.

Previous Awards Evaded.

"The awards of alimony heretofore made and which have been contumaciously evaded by the defendant, and on account of which he is in contempt of court, remain unpaid, where the delinquency of the husband has been established and the wife is the injured party, driven by his cruelty from the comforts of domestic enjoyment, she should be liberally supported. The great trouble, anxiety and expense in undertaking to enforce the judgment in this case coupled with the uncertainty, must also be considered. If the plaintiff be given but two-thirds of the valuation of $30,000, adding thereto the $10,000 she invested in the joint enterprise that turned out so disastrously for her, together with counsel fees, the award of $30,000 made to her, seems to be amply justified.

"Possibly it may seem an unusual award. This is an unusual case. Hardly any judgment could be too favorable for the wrong party or too severe upon the wrongdoer. Even though the judgment entered herein is fully satisfied, atonement will not be made. The defendant has his health, is 47 years of age and has good earning ability. He possibly has other undiscovered resources. He is left better off than the plaintiff. The judgment will provide that the defendant convey his California real estate to the plaintiff in satisfaction of the judgment."

The divorce sought by Dr. Spalding was granted in 1904, and the case has been in the courts since. Dr. Spalding formerly was health commissioner of Kenosha, Wis. Later he removed to Los Angeles, Cal., and also resided for a time in Mexico. He owns a ranch in Southern California said to be worth $40,000 and this has been attached to satisfy the judgment. Spalding married for the second time. His present wife is a physician and graduate nurse.

The persistence of the wife in carrying on the litigation is believed to be without a parallel.

Food Is Scarce in Tahiti.

By the Associated Press.

PAPEETE, Tahiti, Nov. 20.—Owing to the prolonged dry season the taro plant on the Island of Moorea, 12 miles from Tahiti, has developed a blight, which has practically ruined the crop. In addition, the high winds have shaken down the maturing bread fruit, uprooted the banana trees and greatly injured the plantations in the mountains. Natives have suffered acutely from destruction of these staple foods. Many are reduced to seeking wild roots in the forests to obtain sustenance.

Indigestion—Gas—Bloat Heartburn—Caused By Acid-Stomach

What is the cause of indigestion, dyspepsia, bloat, heartburn, food-repeating, belching, gassy, sour stomach, and all the stomach miseries that bring so much distress? Just this—ACID-STOMACH. It robs millions of their full strength, vitality and the power to enjoy life—to be real men and women.

It is well known that an acid-mouth destroys the teeth. The acid can be detected only by a chemical analysis, and still it is so powerful that it eats right through the hard enamel and causes the teeth to decay. This certainly is fair warning of what Acid-Stomach will do to the entire system; as a matter of fact, Acid-Stomach not only produces at the start a great many painful and disagreeable symptoms that we generally name "stomach troubles," but it is the creator of a long train of very serious ailments. Acid-Stomach interferes with digestion and causes the food to ferment, the stomach gets sour and creates gas, and then this mass of sour, fermented food passes into the intestines, where it becomes the breeding place for all kinds of germs and toxic poisons, which in turn are absorbed into the blood stream, and in this way distributed throughout the entire body.

The sensible thing to do is to strike right at the very cause of all this trouble and get rid of the Acid-Stomach.

There is a quick, easy way to do this. A wonderful new remedy makes it possible to remove Acid-Stomach without the slightest discomfort. It is called EATONIC, made in the form of tablets—good to eat—just like candy.

EATONIC quickly banishes the immediate effects of Acid-Stomach—bloat, heartburn, belching, food-repeating, indigestion, etc. Also marked improvement of one's general health follows—appetite and digestion are better. You enjoy better sleep. Nervousness and irritability disappear.

More than 500,000 people in the United States have put EATONIC to the test and know from experience that it is all that is claimed for it. People who for years have been ailing and sickly and who have tried this, that, and the other remedy in the hope of getting well, have taken EATONIC and were actually astonished at the quick relief and permanent results obtained. Surely it will do as much for you. Try it and see.

EATONIC is for sale at practically all drug stores. Druggists everywhere are authorized to refund your money if it does not please you.

"A Drop Or Two.—Superfluous Hairs Are Gone!"

How to Remove Superfluous Hair by Dissolving Them Away—A New Toilet Luxury. Other Beauty Secrets.

By Valeska Suratt.

IN trying to remove superfluous hairs, you of course, can use pastes and powders and you can go through some agony and a lot of trouble, and in the end have your skin irritated or spotted by the use of many of these superfluous hair removers. There is no need, however, for all this. You can remove them as easily as you would use a lotion on your face. Just moisten the hairs with a little sulfo solution. This can be obtained from your druggist for about one dollar. In a few moments the hairs will be so crinkled up and dissolved that you can rub them off with your finger and leave the skin absolutely clear and clean from all hairy growth, without leaving a spot or mark. You will never use anything else, once you have tried this.

• • •

WORRIED—There is only one way to positively remove wrinkles. A formula made up of the contents of a two-ounce package of eptol, mixed with a tablespoonful of glycerine in a half pint of water makes a satiny cream that has a wonderful effect in making the skin plump and small-pored. The result is that wrinkles lose themselves in the greater plumpness and vigor of the skin tissue. You will be able to take years from the appearance of your face, if you will try it. The eptol will cost about fifty cents at the drug store.

• • •

MRS. F. F.—Follow these instructions and you will succeed in giving an increased length to your hair, in filling up bald spots and stop the hair from falling. Get a one-ounce package of betaquinol for about fifty cents, and mix the contents with a half pint of water and a half pint of bay rum. This should be applied to the hair every day. It is not oily and you will find it very delightful indeed. You may use a full pint of witchhazel instead of the bay rum and water. This hair forcer will not fail.

• • •

M. F. S.—Now, do you really want a surprise? Mix one ounce of sintone with two tablespoonfuls of glycerine in a pint of water. This makes the most remarkable complexion beautifier you ever thought it possible to obtain. All your blemishes and sallowness will vanish, and in their place will be a gloriously-tinted, spotless skin. All that muddiness will disappear quickly and you will have a complexion to be very proud of.

• • •

MRS. SPOTS—Trying to get rid of blackheads by trying to pinch them out or by steaming the face simply makes the pores large. Rub the face with a wet cloth upon which has been sprinkled some neroxin. The blackheads will all be gone in a few moments. At a cost of about fifty cents you can get the neroxin from your druggist.

• • •

MRS. C. H. N.—Soap cannot thoroughly remove scale and other fatty accumulations which form on the hair and scalp. You will be able to dissolve away these formations at once by using a teaspoonful of eggol in a half cup of water and used as a head-wash. It will let your hair breathe and grow, and it leaves the hair with a fine silky sheen. There is enough eggol in a twenty-five cent package for about twelve of these head-washes.

• • •

MISS ROWE—For face powder just try "Fresca Beauty Powder" and you will admit nothing can equal it for blending and "staying on" qualities. It is entirely free from chalkiness. You will now be able to obtain it at any drug store in any tint for fifty cents.

This powder, however, has not been on the market very long, and not all toilet counters have it in stock. So if you are unable to obtain it from your regular dealer, I will be glad to see to it that you are supplied by mail if you will write to my Secretary and enclose either ten cents for the trial size or fifty cents for the large box of Fresca Beauty Powder.

Simply address: Secretary to Miss Suratt, Thompson Bldg. Chicago, Ill., and she will faithfully attend to your wishes.

Whatever You Do Don't Neglect Your Eyes, Says Dr Lewis, Who

Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50 Per Cent in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. He says neglect causes more eye troubles and poor sight than any other one thing. Many whose eyes were failing say they had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time, and multitudes more will be able to strenthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two or four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist, and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." It is sold in this city by the Enderle, Johnson Bros., Pauley, Judge & Dolph and Wolff-Wilson Stores.

Mother! Teach the Children Their Daily Health Duty

You can't be too insistent!

FEW children find pleasure in the things most vital to their physical comfort and health, so it rests with the watchful mother to see that they are done. The child will be grateful in after years.

Chief among the functions necessary to the upbuilding of the little body, so that it will not be a dyspeptic, constipated body when it matures, is elimination regularly every morning. If the mother will be insistent and allow nothing to interfere with it, it will soon become a habit, a daily routine that will not be forgotten throughout life.

There are times, however, when nature will not operate unaided. Then give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, and the headaches, the biliousness, the torpor will quickly disappear. It acts gently and without griping, and as it contains no narcotics and is pleasant to the taste, it may be given to infants. Thousands of families have been regulated to healthy maturity with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

A bottle can be bought at any drug store for 50c and $1. Those who already know its virtues buy the dollar size and consider it economical. In a large family there is always someone who would feel better for a dose of a good medicine like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, there being over 6 million bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. If you have not, send your name and address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 511 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

INFLUENZA

Puts You in the Shadow of Death

Pepsinol Builds Up Strength and Fortifies You Against Disease

ARE you strong enough to fight off Influenza? Are you strong enough to combat this dread disease if it attacks you? This is the time to take stock of your general health, for medical authorities have issued a warning that another Influenza epidemic is coming. They say the thing to do is to build up your strength, to guard your health.

Are you going to live in the shadow of death? There is no plague so insidious, so treacherous, so menacing as Influenza. Are you going to get ready to fight it? If you are, let Pepsinol be your powerful aid. This reconstructive tonic builds up weakened constitutions. It renews strength. It fortifies you against disease.

Influenza quickly attacks and destroys the usefulness, if not the life, of those who are weak. The second epidemic may be worse than the first, in which the scourge took half a million lives, sparing neither cities nor country. Pepsinol quickly builds up strength. It purifies the blood and renews the tissues that are necessary for a constitution that would defy disease. Pepsinol helps every organ.

During the first epidemic of Influenza the death rate was particularly high in the cities as well as the rural districts of the South. In New Orleans, Influenza alone took 2,199 lives in the period from September 14, 1918, to March 1, 1919. In Washington, 2,294 died from Influenza. These are official figures from the records of the Census Bureau of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The horrors of Influenza are not confined to the death lists, large as these may be. A large percentage of those who recover are so weakened that they are susceptible to other diseases.

See that your health and the health of your family are guarded by Pepsinol, which is a general conditioner and restorative tonic, good for sick people, good for people who are well, a precaution.

When you get genuine Pepsinol, you get a medicine in strict accordance with the standards of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia, a medicine unhesitatingly recommended by physicians and specialists to restore strength, renew the appetite and refresh and invigorate the nerves.

RUPTURE CURED WITHOUT KNIFE

LABORER'S 'LUCK STONE' PROVES TO BE RUBY WORTH A FORTUNE

Child Had Cut Its Teeth on "Pretty Pebble," Found in Hungary 50 Years Ago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Gustof Gillman, a Chicago lapidary, was at work in his shop. John Mihok of Omaha entered. His appearance proclaimed the laborer. Reaching into his pocket he drew out a rough, red stone and handed it to Gillman.

"I want you to cut and polish this," he said.

Gillman's eyes almost popped out of his head.

"Where did you get this?" he gasped.

"My father picked it up in Hungary 50 years ago," replied Mihok. "He thought it was a pretty pebble. When I landed in this country in 1903, I found it in my valise. I guess my mother had chucked it in. It has been lying around my house ever since. The children played with it. My last baby cut his teeth on it. Once a rat dragged it into a hole, and I found it by accident. It was lost several other times, but it always bobbed up again. I came to look on it as my luck stone. One night I dreamed it was a diamond, and worth a lot of money. But it's not a diamond—it's red."

"No," said Gillman, "it's a pigeon's blood ruby."

"What might it be worth?" asked Mihok.

"I'd say anywhere from $100,000 to $250,000," answered Gillman, and Mihok leaned against the door.

The big rough stone cut to a flawless ruby of 23 9-10 carats. It is believed to be the largest ruby in this country and possibly the largest in the world.

John Mihok has been an laborer all his life. Michael Mohok, his father, was a laborer before him. For 50 years, father and son toiled to keep the wolf from the door, and all the while they have had in their careless possession a gem that an Emperor might have coveted.

PROTESTANT ORPHANS' HOME BENEFIT TOMORROW NIGHT

The St. Louis Protestant Orphans' Home will give a benefit at the opening of "Chu Chin Chow" tomorrow night at the Shubert-Jefferson Theater, to be followed by a supper and dance at Hotel Jefferson. Forty-three wounded soldiers from Jefferson Barracks will be the guests of members of the Merchants Exchange at a theater party.

The St. Louis Protestant Orphans' Home, which is located on a 48-acre farm, Webster Groves, is entering its eighty-sixth year of public service to St. Louis and the community. The home was organized in 1834 by a group of Protestant women in the Second Presbyterian Church, which was then at Chestnut and Church street, members of the Episcopal, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches being present.

The officers and the board of managers of the home expect to realize $4000 or more from the theater party and supper and dance. Over 600 reservations have been made for the supper, for which both of the dining rooms will be used.

The officers of the home are: Mrs. Clinton L. Whittemore, president, Mrs. A. R. Deacon, first vice president; Mrs. Cecil D. Gregg, second vice president; Mrs. James McCluny, third vice president; Mrs. Alden H. Little, fourth vice president; Mrs. Harry J. McCormick, treasurer; Mrs. Edward K. Love, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Albert T. Terry, corresponding secretary; Miss Helen Teasdale, recording secretary.

THREE CHECKS FOR $1000 EACH RECEIVED FOR BRYN MAWR FUND

Money Will Go Toward Establishment of Chair of Politics at Women's University.

Three checks for $1000 each have been received by Mrs. George Gellhorn, chairman of the Dr. Anna Howard Shaw Chair of Politics Fund, toward the establishment of a chair of politics at Bryn Mawr College in honor of the dead suffragist. Miss Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr, Miss Marion Riley, former dean of women at the college, and W. Grace of New York are the contributors.

Women from all parts of the country are sending in contributions to the $100,000 fund. Miss Francis Wills of Los Angeles, Cal., sent $30, the fee she received the first time she sat on a jury.

Miss Kate Gleason, vice president of the issue bank at East Rochester, N. Y., sent an autographed $20 bill, the first piece of money she signed after she had been made vice president of the bank.

The Tennessee Women's Suffrage Association sent $10 that had been telegraphed to New York for a floral offering at Dr. Shaw's funeral, but which was not used for that purpose because of its tardy arrival.

HOW TO JUDGE A WOMAN BY HER HAIR

There is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge of a woman's neatness or good taste. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good shampoo. You can enjoy the very best by getting some canthrox from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

Who Said Dyspepsia?

A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet After a Hearty Meal Makes You Feel at Ease—Avoid Gas, Belching, Sour Risings or Other Such Troubles From Indigestion.

Food prices are high, but if the stomach is weak with dyspepsia, the burden is doubled. The point is to enjoy the meal without distress—not pay for food only to suffer. The best plan is to eat what you like best and follow with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. Thus you satify your appetite, taste and stomach, you get nourishment from what you may have thought was indigestible, without sour risings, belching of wind or loggy, lazy feeling.

"Cleaned Up a Square Meal and It's a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet for All-round Stomach Comfort."

To thus be a free lance in eating palatable food, to make all the good things of the table your favorites is getting away from a sort of bondage that holds a host of men and women in the grasp of dyspeptic fear.

Get a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets from any druggist in the United States or Canada and have no fear of food, fried or otherwise.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY OPENS CHAIN OF DEPARTMENT STORES

Fur Trading Organization, 250 Years Old, Begins to Sell Its Land to Farmers.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 27.—The Hudson's Bay Co. has altered its policies with the rapid advance of civilization that has curtailed the production of furs in its territory and has become one of the great merchandizing corporations of Canada. With two centuries and a half of history behind it, the company just now is closing out to farm settlers the land that represents the last vestige of its former empire.

A chain of department stores extending across Western Canada has been established. The company now has stores in Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Macleod, Kamloops, Nelson, Vernon, Victoria, Qu'Appelle and Yorkton. Those in Calgary and Vancouver are comparable to the great department stores of the United States. The company is now planning to build in Winnipeg the largest department store in the dominion.

The company is still one of the world's greatest fur traders. It has 142 fur posts and still sends to England annually millions of dollars worth of raw furs. But with the wonderful growth of its business as a general merchant, it no longer has need of land.

Under its charter granted by King Charles II in 1670, the Hudson's Bay Co. became virtually sole owner and ruler of three-fourths of North America. Its territories extended from the Great Lakes to the Pacific and from the Arctic Ocean far south across the present American boundary line to the Spanish settlements in California.

When it surrendered its authority over this vast region to Canada it received as an indemnity $1,500,000 and retained one-twentieth of all the land in the fertile belt between Lake Winnipg, Lake of the Woods, the waters connecting them and the Rocky Mountains, and between the North Saskatchewan River and the international boundary.

The land amounted to 3,200,000 acres at the end of October and has been untouched by the plow in the midst of the richest sections of Western Canada. Farmers of districts that hem it in have long cast covetous eyes upon it. In a few years it is expected it will be dotted with the farms of settlers, and grain fields will wave over the last remnants of the Hudson's Bay Co.'s ancient empire.

YOUNGEST FRENCH DEPUTY HAS RECONSTRUCTION PLAN

Proposes to Give Attention to Industry and Finance Rather Than Politics.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—"France will show by her action that she is worthy of financial aid from the United States. We will show in the new Chamber that we know how to undertake the work of reconstruction."

The man who spoke these words was Capt. Heurtaux, 26 years old, and the youngest Deputy ever elected to the French Parliament. He is a splendid type of the young poilu who has determined to cut loose from the stereotyped school of old politicians.

"My program is one of economic and financial reform rather than of politics," he continued. "Certain direct taxes can be augmented, such as those on matches and the fortunes of the idle rich. Our transport system is thoroughly in need of reform and so are the customs duties which have hampered importations from America.

"Frenchmen must be taught the spirit of expansion. They must emigrate. France has a splendid colonial domain which will supply her with most of the materials she needs. This movement towards the colonies has already begun. Finally, we must cease to be a stationary people. Families will and shall increase.

"In the devastated regions everything is destroyed. It is like building a section out of the wilderness, as your pioneers used to do. Dispel the illusion that a wave of laziness has spread over France. Give France two or three years of labor and you will see what she can do."

Capt. Heurtaux has made a name for himself at the age of 26. Before the war he had already won a reposition in the business world. Throughout the hostilities he served in a French aviation squadron and at the end came out an ace of aces, second only to Capt. Rene Fonck. In 1917, after recovering from his third wound, the Captain was sent to America with the Tardieu mission. There he formed the acquaintance of several leading bankers and industrials, who, he says, will now come to the aid of France whenever asked to do so. He inspired such confidence in his chief, M. Tardieu, that the latter took him under his political wing and the two were elected to the Chamber of the same Republican ticket.

Capt. Heurtaux is very youthful in appearance. Short, slight, blond and smooth-faced, he does not look his age. No one would guess that he was the father of a family of three children.

MOSLEMS WEARING GOLF CAPS

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

ELBASA, Albania, Nov. 3.—Mohammedans of Elbasan are wearing American golf caps instead of the red fez, which from the time Mohammed laid down the religious tenets for his worshipers, has been the immemorial head covering of the Turk.

The Austrian occupation left scarcely a scrap of cloth in the country. Many of the Turks went bareheaded. Then an American Red Cross unit arrived, bringing thousands of outing caps.

The Mohammedans, abandoning their religious scruples, clamored eagerly for these headpieces.

Today most of the Turkish schoolboys of Elbasan wear the conventional caps of their Yankee brothers across the ocean and look the better for it.

ENGLISH GIRL TO WED U. S. MAJOR

Daughter of Lord St. Vincent Engaged to Evanston (Ill.) Man.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The engagement has just been announced of Miss Ivy Jervis, only daughter of Lord St. Vincent, to Maj. W. L. Whittemore, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Whittemore of Evanston, Ill., and Asatka, Ontario. Miss Ivy Jervis is also niece of Lady Harris, wife of the well-known cricketer.

The engagement has created much interest here. The St. Vincent title originated with Admiral Sir John Jervis, victor in 1797 at Cape St. Vincent. He was made an Earl, but he had no sons and the earldom became extinct, the viscountcy descending to a nephew named Ricketts, who assumed the name of Jervis.

Lord St. Vincent's seat is in Sutton Derwent. He also has a residence at Shanklin, Isle of Wight.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial

CHARLES NAGEL ASSAILS LEAGUE AS NOW FORMED

Former Cabinet Member Addresses Twelfth Ward Republican Women's Organization.

Charles Nagel of 44 Westmoreland place, who was secretary of Commerce and Labor in the Taft administration, attacked the League of Nations covenant and pleaded for a restoration of friendly commercial relations with the German people in an address before the Twelfth Ward Republican Women's Organization at the Carondelet Branch Library, Michigan avenue and Kraus street, last Wednesday night. He was escorted to the meeting by City Collector Koeln and was introduced by Mrs. Virginia Harris, chairman of the organization.

Nagel referred to his appearance as his "re-introduction into public life" and said his chance to speak in public had been limited recently, probably because of the thought that he was not in accord with those who might otherwise have invited him to speak.

He had disagreed with many others until the United States entered the war, he said, but when once this country made its decision he was faithful and loyal. Now, he said, he stood for industrial and social liberty and individual rights. The 100 women present applauded when he said women were to have a prominent part in establishing these rights.

No Faith in Present League.

Closely following his declaration of his faithfulness and loyalty Nagel said:

"In 1914 our President told us the foreign war did not concern us. I never heard a remark so senseless and of such little value. Of course that war was of intense interest to us. It could not help being so.

"The war is finished and we have finished it. Now we must settle the conditions we have met. I have no confidence in the league of nations as planned. It wasn't put together in the right way.

"The only conference which could properly form a league of nations would be a conference predicated on a state of peace, where any self-respecting country could be represented. Holland, Norway and Sweden, for instance, were not represented or consulted in forming this league. Yet Holland for years has been a leader in international law. The treaty itself, under this league of nations plan, will be impossible of enforcement because the only way to enforce it would be by militarism."

Criticises Secret Methods.

Asserting that the freedom of the seas had been forgotten about in the formulation of the league plan, Nagel said he believed a suitable league of nations covenant could be adopted, but that it must be "not a dictated league, but the basis for a gradual acceptance of principles which would grow without dictation."

He described the league of nations covenant as drawn by three or four men, practically in secret, and said the Shantung clause and the provision as to Persia showed that the principle of self-determination had been abandoned. "I don't object to a league," he said. "We are the victors and should insist that the victory be insured, but as to the covenant as incorporated in the treaty I object to the inherent iniquity of the whole scheme. If hate is to be preserved forever we should kill off all those that are down.

"Such a condition as exists in Germany and Austria has an effect on the whole world. I have been told by thoughtful men that if Germany and Austria are forced to go through this winter without aid, hunger and cold will cause another revolution. Unless those able to help Germany do so, the Reds will take control and the revolution may spread over the entire continent."

Mistake to Hate Germans.

Nagel said he knew it was unpopular to say that something should be done for Germany, but somebody must say it. He said the Society of Friends in England had sent 70,000 pounds of food to Germany, while Americans had sent only 30,000 pounds.

Asserting that Italy is closer to Germany than to France in its commercial relations at this time, Nagel said: "Business relations should be resumed. It is a mistake to hate and distrust those people."

Discussing conditions in this country Nagel said wages never again would be as low as they were before the war and that there is a new relationship between employes and employers. The workingman, he said, wants to be in the game and share the profits. Comparing railroad conditions here and in Germany he said: "Before the war Prussia had the best-managed railroads in the world. The men who ran them were appointed by the Government and they were experts.

"We inaugurated Government ownership of the railroads in this country, but we appointed politicians to run them."

Discusses Coal Strike.

Nagel said he had been criticised by union labor because he was a member of the Sheriff's posse comitatus in the street car strike of 1900. At that time, he said, he believed the strikers were right, but he objected to their methods.

Discussing the coal strike, Nagel said he spoke as a coal operator, as he is trustee of an estate that owns coal mines. "We have been told by those high in authority that the men have a right to unionize and to strike," he said. "We have been told that the basis of individual rest is collective bargaining. Why, then, was a practically extinct war law brought into force to enjoin the miners from striking? It was an accidental law. Such acts of force by the Government do not inspire respect or confidence.

"Suppose the operators wouldn't work their mines. Would the Government force them to do so? I think not. I admire the people of England. They have big men over there who are not afraid to say things, though their expressions may not be popular. The gravest industrial challenge England ever had was the recent railroad strike. They did not get out an injunction over there. Some of the biggest men in England ran locomotives and the people got out and helped break the strike. That's what we ought to do over here. The operators ought to get down and work in the mines. That's the American way to do things. The use of force is not American."

Motorman Not Losing Any Time

"I don't think anyone ever suffered more from stomach trouble and bloating than I have. I had to lay off my run more than half the time and could get no help from prescriptions or medicine. One of my friends advised using Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I found to be the greatest remedy ever put on the earth. I have not lost a day since taking it. It is worth its weight in gold." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. ASSYRIAN WOMAN GOES 8000 MILES TO GET AID FOR PEOPLE

Sister of Ruling Patriarch, in London Tells of Persecution of Race by Turks and Kurds.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—There is a woman in London around whose story the minstrels of old would have woven many a ballad, says the Daily News.

She is the Lady Surma di Bith Mar Shimun, sister of the ruling patriarch of the Assyrians, the present-day remnant of the once powerful nomadic tribes which inhabited Mesopotamia before the incursions of the Arabs. The country whence she comes has been identified by some with the Garden of Eden.

Traveling by steamer, by train and on horseback, she has come altogether some 8000 miles from a town 500 miles beyond Bagdad to plead, as the agent of her people, for the restoration of lands lost by them when they took arms in behalf of the allies against the Turks and Kurds.

Driven further and further into their mountain fastnesses by repeated invasions and massacres, the surviving 22,000 of her people have been gathered together at Bakuba, where they are living under the protection of the British civil and military authorities.

"I came to England much against my will," said the Lady Surma, who speaks English perfectly. "I have never been to Europe before. But there was no one else to come. My brother, the late ruling Patriarch, was killed by Kurd treachery; my younger brother, who succeeds him, is ill and another brother is serving. The people would trust nobody else.

"It may seem strange to you that a woman should be chosen for such a difficult task, but it has been the tradition of our nation that the sister of the heir should take the vow of celibacy and act as her brother's helper during his reign."

The territory for which she is pleading with the British Government is the oldest known to historians. It lies south of the Caucasus and north of the Euphrates and is the scene of many incidents in the Old Testament story. The life of the people who have been Christians since the days of the earliest teachers, has been one long story of persecution, culminating in their flight over the mountains in 1817-18.

"Our villages were razed behind us," said the Lady Surma. "All our flocks have been driven away, our money stolen and exhausted, our books and documents burned. We are a people without a country."

MISSOURI LED IN OCTOBER IN PER CAPITA SAVING PURCHASES

L. A. Wilson, Government director of the Savings Division for the Eighth Federal Reserve District, has received congratulations from all over the country on the record made in October, when Missouri led the country in the per capita purchases of Thrift Stamps, Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates. The United States Treasury's report showed also that Kentucky was the second State in the list, and that State is also in this district. The total amount of Missouri sales was $956,094, which was the third largest in volume in the country.

The December prices of Savings Certificates are $84.60 for the $100 certificates, and $846 for $1000 certificates. They mature in 1924 and the interest amounts to 4.27 per cent, with the nontaxable provision of the War Savings Stamps. Apart from the generous rate and provision of the new certificates is the appeal of absolute security for one's funds. The limit of $1000 for individuals and firms is set for the certificates, but this only means on the 1919 issue. Another thousand dollars can be invested in the 1920 certificates, which go on sale Jan. 1.

Use Famo Regularly on the Children's Hair

FAMO is actually a medicine. It kills this germ, and keeps the hair and scalp healthy and clean.

It also makes stubborn hair easier to train and gives the hair of both boys and girls a beautiful sheen, of which all mothers are proud.

The child who uses FAMO regularly will never suffer from itchy scalp; and the boy can look forward to manhood without fear of early baldness or gray hair.

FAMO is a wonderful treatment for the hair and scalp, that was developed in one of the old pharmaceutical houses of Detroit.

Not only does it destroy the deadly dandruff bacilli, but it makes the hair soft and luxuriant.

Every member of the family should use FAMO every day—as any good medicine is used.

FAMO is sold at all toilet goods counters, in two sizes—$1 and 35 cents.

If it does not give satisfaction, money will be refunded.

Seborrhea is the medical name for a morbidly increased flow from the sebaceous glands of the scalp. The seborrhean excretion forms in scales or flakes and is commonly known as dandruff.

COMMUNITY SERVICE CENTER TO TRAIN SINGING LEADERS

Course of Six Lessons by Former Opera Teacher Will Open Tomorrow Night.

A novelty training class will open tomorrow night at the Community Service Center, Grand and Vista avenues, when all musicians of the city interested are invited to take a free course of six weekly lessons, which will fit them as leaders and accompanists for community sings. The class will be conducted by Harry B. Murrison, who led thousands of soldiers in training camps during the war, and is a former opera singer and teacher. Men and women who wish to lead singing in churches, schools, Sunday schools, American Legion posts, fraternal organizations and in neighborhood groups are expected to take the course.

The only condition is that each person who graduates from the class pledge himself to lead 10 community sings after graduation. Musical students are eligible for the course and the class will be used for each member to practice his leadership on.

The Community Service center is to be a great peace-time demonstration of the many lessons of the war—the value of groups of people getting together in neighborly friendliness, service clubs for all kinds of civic helpfulness, wholesome recreations, which will raise the physical standard of both boys and girls, and educational classes which will aid in fitting them for better business opportunities, and for scientific home making. The center is nonsectarian and nonpartisan, and it is open to all who wish to take part in the activities. It is supported by funds of the War Camp Community Service, but will be turned over in the spring for local support and continuation.

SILVER BOOM IN COLORADO

Advance in Price Results in Working of Old Leads.

By the Associated Press.

ASPEN, Colo., Nov. 29.—High prices for silver have brought a mining boom to this famous silver camp. Virtually every project is being worked and the four tunnels under operation are being pushed with feverish activity in an effort to reach the ore bodies while the price remains high.

Most of the properties were closed during the early part of the present decade when silver dropped to 47 cents, but now even low grade propositions are being operated with profit. In one of the mines operators say sufficient ore has been blocked out to insure operations for many years. A flotation mill has been erected at the entrance of the tunnel of this property. One streak of pay ore was found to assay as high as 30,000 ounces in silver.

In Leadville mining activity is reported, prospectors searching actively for new leads. None of the large older properties have been reopened, it is reported.

BOOTLEGGER TRAPS HIMSELF

Offers to Sell Arizona Sheriff a Pint of Whisky.

By the Associated Press.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Nov. 29.—Sheriff Warren G. Davis of Yavapai County, and Grant Carter, one of his deputies, one evening recently were in Grand Junction, near here. Entering a small restaurant, they ordered supper. Half way through the dinner, according to the officers, the proprietor came around the counter, leaned over confidentially, and said:

"Want a little nip?"

"Well, don't know but what I do," the Sheriff replied. The Sheriff said the man disappeared, returning from the kitchen a moment later with a pint of whisky.

"Fine," beamed the Sheriff, "how much for the bottle? Only $8? Have you got any more?"

"You bet!" answered the cafe proprietor, according to the Sheriff's version. "Lots of it."

"You must be the man I'm looking for then," said the Sheriff, displaying the star of Yavapai County. "Come along. If we hurry, we can make the train for Prescott."

Illinois U. Gets Mummified Baby.

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 29.—The mummified body of a baby that cried several centuries ago has been put on exhibition at the Natural History Museum of the University of Illinois by Prof. F. C. Baker, curator of the museum. The child was a cliff dweller in the Cliff Palace, Meas Veide, San Juan County, Utah, and is in good condition. The man who found the mummy was prospecting for gold when he saw the cliffs. He made the climb, 60 feet to the top, and discovered the body of this child. The hot, dry air of the desert had mummified the body.

Paris Justices Demand Increase.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Dissatisfied with the salary they are receiving, which they claim is lower than that of the street sweepers in Paris, the Justices of the Peace have addressed a memorandum to the Minister of Justice asking for a substantial increase. Failure of the Government to comply will bring about a strike, the representatives of Law and Order say. The Minister of Justice is examining the claims of the Justices and will give his decision after he has disposed in consultation with the Minister of Labor of the various strikes now in progress.

Oil Plant Built on Island.

By the Associated Press.

PAPEETE, Tahiti, Nov. 29.—An American corporation has erected a large plant here for the making of cocoanut oil from copra. Heretofore the copra has been shipped from the islands in bulk. Tanks of 20,000 gallons, from which the oil will be transferred directly aboard ships, have been set up.

Teach Children to Employ It

Brushing is inadequate for saving teeth, and millions of mothers know it. The film will wreck them if you don't combat it.

This ten-day test will show you how to fight the film. It will point the way to whiter, safer teeth.

It will tell you how the children can avoid some troubles that you know.

See that they do it. There are few things more important.

6,000 People Daily

Start This New Teeth-Cleaning Method

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Millions of teeth are being cleaned in a new way. And 6,000 new people daily are writing for a ten-day test.

Everywhere the results are seen in teeth that glisten—teeth with envied luster. Ask the owners and they will tell you that Pepsodent has done it.

But this means more than white teeth. Those careful people are fighting film, and film is the great tooth wrecker. Most tooth troubles are nowadays traced to it.

Film—the Chief Enemy

Film is that viscous coat which you feel with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The tooth brush does not end it. The ordinary tooth paste does not dissolve it. So much remains to cloud the teeth and it may do a ceaseless damage.

Film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus well-brushed teeth, as millions know, discolor and decay. And serious tooth diseases are alarming in extent.

Science Now Combats It

These facts have long been known. Dental science long has sought a way to daily fight film. But the only way seemed periodic dental cleaning to remove the film and tartar.

Now science has discovered an efficient film combatant. Able authorities have proved it by convincing clinical and laboratory tests.

For home use, the method is now embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent—a modern, scientific tooth paste. And, to show its effects, a 10-Day Tube is being sent to anyone who asks.

Make This Simple Test

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to day by day combat it.

This method long seemed impossible. Pepsin must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. But a harmless activating method has been found. Years of tests have proved that. So now this active pepsin can be every day applied.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

See the results, and our book will tell you how they come about. Then decide for yourself between the old ways and the new.

The test will be a revelation, and you owe it to yourself. Mail the coupon to us today.

The New-Day Dentifrice

The scientific film combatant, which, after years of careful testing, is now advised by leading dentists everywhere. Druggists everywhere are supplied with large tubes.

Let Your Mirror Tell

You can see and feel what Pepsodent is doing.

Just use it twice daily and watch it.

Let your mirror decide its effects.

PAPER MILLS MAY BE BUILT IN PANHANDLE OF ALASKA

By the Associated Press.

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Nov. 3.—Alaska's panhandle stands on the threshold of its "paper era," according to statements made by Government officials and newspapers of this section.

Forests of this north country, it is predicted, will soon be supplying pulp to mills now being served by eastern forests, which are gradually disappearing. According to records here, Alaska's wood pulp timber supply is greater than the supply of any other section of the United States.

"Alaska has enough timber to furnish half the newsprint paper of the United States for all time and with proper care the industry can be made everlasting," F. H. Flory, supervisor of the forest service of Alaska, declared here recently.

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh two, three or four pounds a week, without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results, however, follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous prescription) can be obtained of any druggist or the makers, the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward Av., Detroit, Mich., for one dollar the large case, which is a decidedly economical price considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are harmless.

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS TO FLUSH THE KIDNEYS IF YOUR BACK HURTS

Advises Folks to Overcome Kidney and Bladder Trouble While It Is Only Trouble.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

A STUBBORN COUGH LOOSENS RIGHT UP

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molosses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

SCHUMANN-HEINK AND HOFMANN THIS WEEK

Leo Ornstein Wednesday Night at Odeon; Symphony "Pop" Concert Today.

The outstanding musical events of the week will be Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink's concert with the Symphony Orchestra tomorrow night at the Coliseum, and Josef Hofmann's piano recital Saturday night at the Odeon. In addition, the Symphony Orchestra will give its usual Sunday afternoon concert today at the Odeon, with Charlotte Peege, contralto, as soloist; and on Wednesday evening Leo Ornstein, pianist, will appear at the Odeon.

Mme. Schumann-Heink, who is idolized by the public to a remarkable degree, both as woman and as artist, comes with a bounteous offering of song. Her first group will consist of two operatic arias, "Lascia ch'io pianga," from Handel's "Rinaldo," and "Ah, mon fils," from Meyerbeer's "Le Prophete;" and Bach's "My Heart Ever Faithful." Her second group comprises five songs written for Mme. Schumann-Heink by the talented Frank La Forge, who attends her as accompanist. The titles are "Before the Crucifix," "Expectancy," "Retreat," "To a Messenger" and "Flanders Requiem." Finally she will give six American songs, some of them patriotic melodies such as she sang in the training camps during the war. The list is: "Dawn in the Desert," Ross; "Indian Love Song," Lieurance; "The Home Road," Carpenter; "Have You Seen Him in France?" Stephens; "Taps," Pasternack, and "When Pershing's Men Go Marching Into Picardy," Rogers.

The orchestra's principal contribution will be the second and third movements of Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony. Its other numbers will be the overture to Gluck's "Iphigenia in Aulis," and Chabrier's rhapsody, "Espagna." La Forge will play two groups of piano solos, including Liszt's Twelfth Rhapsody.

Josef Hofmann's Program.

After the retirement of Paderewski and prior to the advent of Rachmaninoff, Josef Hofmann stood without a rival among the pianists now sojourning in America. It has been a number of years since he gave a piano recital here, although he has been in the meantime a soloist with the Symphony Orchestra. His program will be as follows:

Sonata in A-flat major, Op. 110—Beethoven
Soire en Grenade ....Debussy
Perpetuum Mobile ....Weber
Impromptu in G-flat major...Chopin
Ballade in F major, Op. 38....Chopin
Etude in C-sharp minor, Op. 2. .... Scriabine
Etude in D-flat major, Op. 8, No. 10. ....Scriabine
Prelude in D minor, Op. 23, No. 3 ....Rachmaninoff
Prelude in A minor, Op. 32, No. 8. ....Rachmaninoff
"Hark, Hark, the Lark."—Schubert-Liszt
"The Erlking ....Schubert-Liszt

Ornstein has on his program for Wednesday night only one of his own compositions, and that an early one, the "Prelude." He will give Beethoven's "Sonata Appassionata," Schumann's "Arabesque," Debussy's "Reflets dans l'Eau," Zeckwer's "En Bateau," the "Irish Reel" and the Danse Negre" of Cyril Scott, three Chopin numbers and three Liszt selections, including the "Rigoletto" paraphrase. In connection with the program there will be demonstrations by a piano-playing device.

Kreisler Next Week.

Miss Peege, for her appearance this afternoon with the Symphony Orchestra, will offer two fine arias—"Che faro senza Euridice," from Gluck's "Orfeo ed Euridice," and "Adieu, forets," from Tschaikowsky's "Maid of Orleans." The orchestra will play the overture to Mendelssohn's "Ruy Blas," two intermezzi from Wolf-Ferrari's "The Jewels of the Madonna," the procession of the Knights of the Holy Grail from "Parsifal;" six numbers of ballet music from Massenet's "Le Cid," and a "first time" number, "Tarantella," by Agide Jacchia, who conducted during the Boston Opera Co.'s first visit here, in 1915.

There will be no Friday and Saturday symphony concerts this week, but at the pair next week Fritz Kreisler is to be the solist, playing Beethoven's violin concerto in D major.

TELLS A STORY ON CHURCHILL

Barden-Powell Recalls Oration That Couldn't Be Stopped.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Sir Robert Barden-Powell told a story the other night at the Rotary Club over which all England is laughing. Recalling a polo match in which he once played, he said they toasted everybody—winners, losers, best player and everyone else they could think of. "Then a man got up, and, despite our protests, delivered a long, splendidly eloquent oration on polo. We cheered him to the echo, then turning the sofa upside down, put him beneath and seated two hefty fellows on top lest he should speak again. But he wriggled out, and continued his speech. That man was Winston Churchill."

Winston has since wriggled from under many political sofas after his opponents thought they'd heard the last of him.

THE EASIEST WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Do you know what is being done in Washington to Safeguard the American Table

YOU might pass it dozens of times, without once suspecting that its occupants are hard at work serving humanity.

An ample building it is—on H Street, N. W., within walking distance of the Capitol, the White House, and that assemblage of structures which makes "Washington" a word to conjure with.

What is it, do you ask?

The headquarters of an association representing an industrial investment of more than $200,000,000 and of the most momentous importance to the American table today.

Let us step inside.

This gentleman who offers to show us the wonders of the place, is Dr. W. D. Bigelow,—a better friend to American housewives than most of them realize.

Dr. Bigelow is an expert chemist. Food is his forte—particularly that modern miracle food which finds its way to your table in cans.

Dr. Bigelow has had long experience in this form of specialized public service. Formerly he was engaged in research work in food for the Federal Bureau of Chemistry. He was closely associated with Dr. Harvey W. Wiley on the board of Drug and Food Inspection for the U. S. Government. Now he is doing this work for the National Canners Association—an association of canning companies—over eleven hundred of them—dotting the map from the Maine coast to the Golden Gate and the Great Lakes to the Gulf.

Dr. Bigelow supervises the work which is carried on in the Association's research laboratories.

Under his direction a group of scientists is constantly working on the scientific aspects of the preservation of fresh foods.

These research laboratories are operated for the benefit of American canners and hence for the benefit of the American people generally, to whom the products of the canners go.

The work conducted in the laboratories has been well designated as the "business of safeguarding the American table."

While the actual work of analysis and examination is carried on at the Washington headquarters, much work is also done in the factories themselves. The policy of the laboratories is to keep its workers in intimate touch with conditions in the industry, as they actually exist. Hence, the staff working with Dr. Bigelow is constantly on the move. They are continually traveling about from plant to plant—studying conditions at first hand and giving the canners practical co-operation, which means, better food for your table—and your neighbors' tables.

"All this is interesting," you may say, "but be more specific. What are some of the problems that these scientists puzzle their brains with?"

The work of the Association's research laboratories may be divided roughly into the two main heads: Chemical and Bacteriological. The chemical work has particularly to do with the study of the container and its perfection for use with all kinds of food.

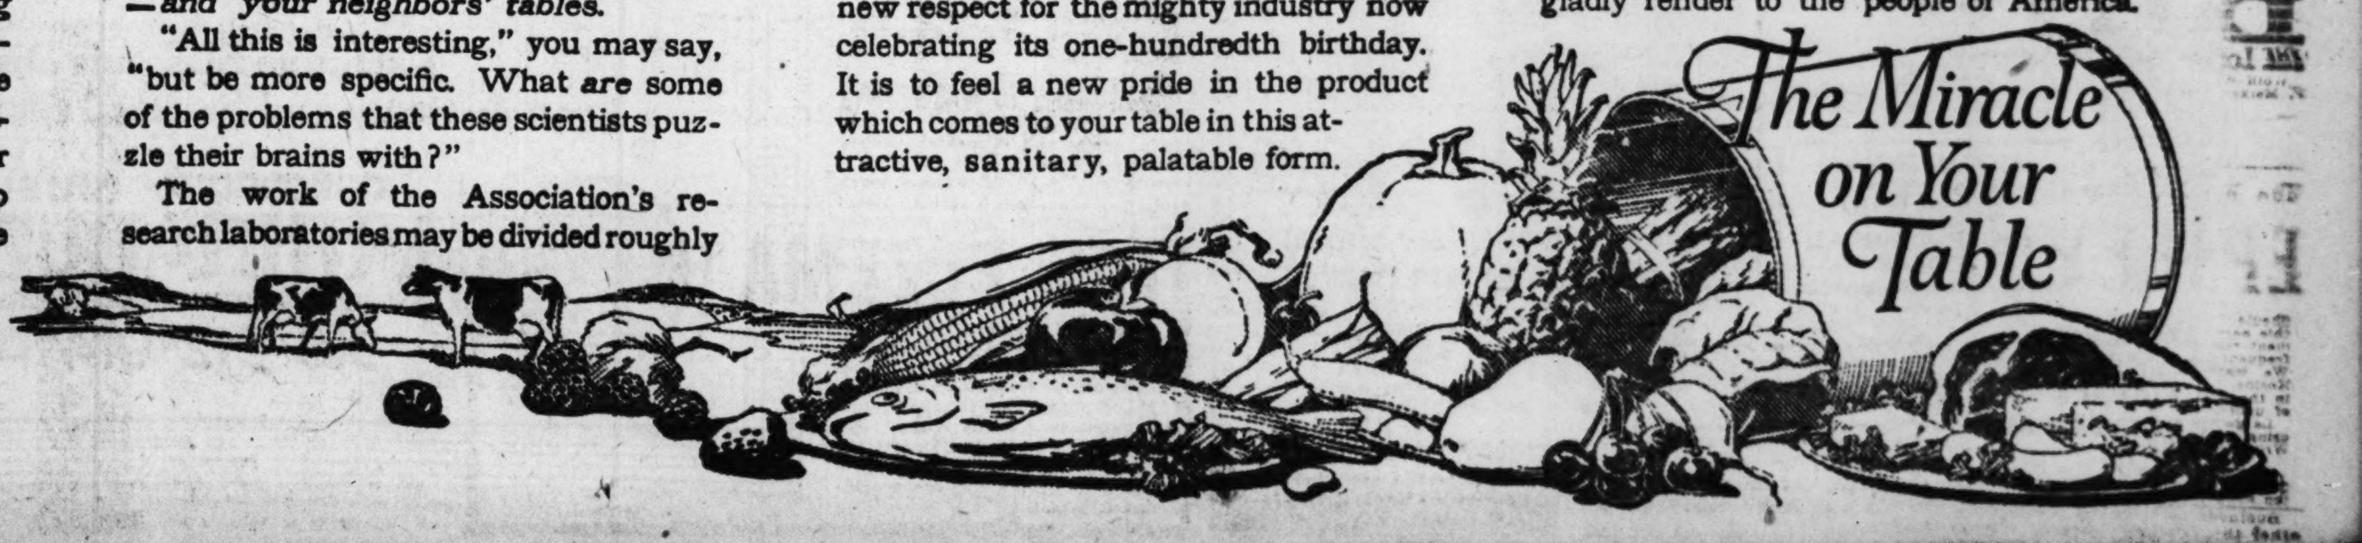
The bacteriological laboratory concerns itself with problems of food sterilization—the scientific basis of modern canning methods.

The findings are communicated to hundreds of canning plants throughout the country and become common property and it is interesting to note that many of the more progressive canning establishments maintain their own laboratories, which take a prominent part in the research work being done.

The work of the Association's research laboratories is like woman's work—it is never done. New problems crop up every day, and the answers to them are usually found right in this building which stands in the heart of the nation's capital.

To visit these laboratories is to have new respect for the mighty industry now celebrating its one-hundredth birthday. It is to feel a new pride in the product which comes to your table in this attractive, sanitary, palatable form.

Think of it! This very can of tomatoes which the grocer's boy just left at your kitchen door, literally represents a modern miracle! No other country in the world equals the United States in its wonderful accomplishments in the production of canned foods. And this applies to quality as well as quantity. Incidentally, no other country compares with our own in the consumption of canned foods. To guard closely, therefore, the conditions surrounding their manufacture, is a service which the canners of America gladly render to the people of America.



The Miracle on Your Table

National Canners Association

A nation-wide organization formed in 1907, consisting of producers of all varieties of hermetically sealed canned foods which have been sterilized by heat. It neither produces, buys nor sells. Its purpose is to assure, for the mutual benefit of the industry and the public, the best canned foods that scientific knowledge and human skill can produce.

BOLSHEVISM MUST GO, AMERICANS DECLARE

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Representative American opinion that bolshevism must go is voiced in a series of letters and comments filling 50 pages of the current issue of "Struggling Russia," publication of which was begun six months ago to present the cause of the Russian people in the fight against tyranny and to champion the establishment of Russia as a strong, united democratic state. The contributors to the present issue include Ambassador David R. Francis, Elihu Root, Nicholas Murray Butler, Samuel Gompers, Jacob H. Schiff and John Spargo.

"I retain all the confidence in the people of Russia that I have many times expressed in public," Elihu Root says. "I believe in them and I feel sure that they will work out successfully a true democracy, based upon the principles of liberty and justice. Plainly this can be done only by destroying the power of the wicked and cruel Bolsheviki, who dispersed the constituent assembly elected by the people of Russia, and in its place set up a tyranny just as bad as that of the Czar and just as effective to prevent the people of Russia from governing themselves."

Dr. Butler Is Optimistic.

Dr. Butler writes: "It is my personal belief that, despite the unfortunate failure of other Governments to understand the significance of what is happening in Russia and to act firmly and courageously in regard to it, the Russian people will come successfully through their terrible trial, perhaps sooner than many now expect."

"American labor views with heavy heart," Samuel Gompers says, "the terrible curse of Bolshevism, forced by gun and bayonet on the people of Russia, and sincerely hopes for the success of their valiant fight to eradicate it forever from their sore-ridden land. No more monstrous or degrading Government was ever set up anywhere in the world. Its entire existence has been one of terrorism, tyranny and brutal slaying of those who are seeking for a just Government; for the Bolsheviki have proved more tyrannous than ever were the Czar and his brutal officials. They have brutalized Russia and used every means to throttle freedom by joining Germany in its efforts to enslave the world.

Bolshevism Is Abhorred.

"The wage earners of America, through the American Federation of Labor, have declared their abhorrence of Bolshevism. The indorsed and earnestly hoped the people of Russia would establish a democratic Government through freely chosen members of a constituent assembly. They desire of all things that the people of Russia free themselves from this yoke of oppression."

"Since my return to America," Ambassador Francis writes, "I have omitted no opportunity to express my deep sympathy for the Russian people and to reiterate that a continuation of the disgraceful Bolshevik rule in Russia would eventually become a menace to all organized government everywhere."

"It is evident," Jacob H. Schiff writes, "that if we do not come to the aid of the elements in Russia who heroically battle to subdue the forces of disorder and anarchy that the present regime, which cannot possibly remain permanently, will surely be followed by reactionary rule as undesirable as was that of the Romanoffs."

"Bolshevism cannot long endure in Russia," says John Spargo. "I profoundly hope it will not be followed by a period of reaction, but that the great democratic elements in Russia, especially those represented by the co-operative and the peasant organizations, will be able to build up on the ruins of bolshevism a sound structure of democracy."

CHURCH VISITS TO WAR GRAVES

Army in England Provides Needy With Free Tickets to France.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Church Army has organized a series of personally conducted visiting parties to soldiers' graves in France. The sight of widows, fathers and mothers, some bent with age, burdened with floral tributes to "the glorious dead," starting out from Charing Cross or Victoria Station on their sad pilgrimage is hardly less depressing than were the scenes attending the arrival of the hospital trains in war times.

Through the Church Army, relatives of men who died in France but who may be unable to meet expenses incidental to such a trip are provided free tickets.

Supreme Value is behind every Piano or Player Piano bearing these two Names

If you contemplate the purchase of a piano one of the most important questions to consider is the reliability of the make. A poor piano is a "bad buy" at any price. To be sure that you are getting supreme value choose a piano that has stood the test of time and still remains a standard. Choose a Lyon & Healy or Packard, either of which are known for their superlative worth.

LYON & HEALY OR PACKARD PIANOS ARE PIANOS OF KNOWN VALUE

A well known automobile manufacturer advertises that his car is "built up to a standard, not down to a price," and so it is with these two well-known makes of pianos. Lyon & Healy instruments have been manufactured since 1864, while Packard instruments have been before the public since 1871.

No firm can continually remain in business over such a period of time if value has not been paramount in the structure of the product. This should be convincing evidence of the reliability of Lyon & Healy and Packard Pianos and Players.

MOTOR VEHICLE LIGHTS

THE law requires that the lights of all vehicles while upon the public highways be lighted a half hour after sunset. This applies to automobiles that are parked as well as in operation. It is required that at least two lights not exceeding 36-candlepower and showing white lights under normal atmospheric conditions be carried at the front and a single red light, plainly visible for a distance of 500 feet, be carried in the rear.

Headlights in addition are required to have etched or ground lenses, so that the light shall appear blurred or indistinctly defined. Plain lenses, because of the glaring effect of light given, are prohibited.

The hour of sunset is 4:39 p. m. each day of the coming week, beginning today. Motorists should, therefore, keep in mind that 5:09 p. m. is the time for lighting lights all this week. It might prevent your being notified by a policeman. The police throughout the city, in the remotest of residence districts and in the downtown district as well, have been given orders that all traffic regulations must be strictly enforced as a means of decreasing accidents.

The Fire Department has reported that automobiles in the past have been parked on streets in residential districts without lights of any kind illuminated, which adds to the hazards of their work.

PROPER BRAKES INSURE SAFETY

Good Brakes Are Best Life Insurance for Motor Car Drivers.

Good brakes are about the best form of life insurance the motor-car driver can have. In fact, they are about the most important part of the automobile. A pretty poor sort of a motor will run the car, but to stop it requires the best there is to be had; "pretty good" will not do in an emergency. You need a motor to get there, but without good brakes you may get too far.

There is nothing the matter with the brakes on most cars when they come from the factory. There will be little the matter with them at any time if they are given the proper care; if oil is put on where it is needed and kept off where it is not needed, and if worn parts are renewed in time to prevent an accident. The brakes will hold the car as long as they are in condition; they are sufficient for all needs so long as they are in order. It is the driver's business to see that they are in condition before going out, even if he cannot take time to look after the motor. It may be a matter of life and death before the garage is reached again.

Every car has two sets of brakes, operating independently of each other, and either one should be in shape to hold the car at a standstill, or, in chauffeur phrasing, "slide the heels." The average owner is careless about the brakes.

Use Both Brake Sets.

Drivers should learn to use first the foot brake and then the emergency brake on long hills. This alternation allows each in turn to cool off, for where there is so much friction heat cannot be avoided, and only by alternating the brakes is there safety from burned-out linings. Also, the driver should learn how to use the motor as a brake. By engaging a lower gear and cutting off the ignition the engine under compression will retard the speed sufficiently so that moderate use of the foot brake will be enough for safety. Likewise, safety calls for slow speed in descending a long hill, as less heat is developed, or, at least, it is developed more slowly.

As a matter of fact, the lining is essentially the heart and lungs of the brakes and few motorists appreciate just what qualities a brake lining should have to insure 100 per cent efficiency.

To be effective, brake lining must have three important qualities. It must grip—not grab—it must resist wear and tear and prevent the absorption of moisture.

A brake lining which does this and which was used with much satisfaction on all the army motor transports in France is commonly known as thermoid hydraulic compressed brake lining.

Lubrication Important.

Another serious cause of brake failure is oil. As a rule, this comes from the differential oil leaking through the axle housing to the hub and thence overflowing to the brake drums. This may be the result of enthusiasm in lubrication, which promps a too-liberal quantity in the differential. Then, when the car turns off the crown of the road the oil overflows the casing and the only outlet is the axle housing. And sometimes the play of parts acts like a pump and sends the oil out along the axle. The remedy lies in using less oil and if that does not remedy it put a felt washer in the axle housing.

This consists of a long, thin strip of hard felt wound around the shaft. Wind it, beginning at the wheel end, in a direction opposite to the forward motion of the shaft. It should be fastened to the shaft with shellac and bound with cord in several places. It need not cover more than six or eight inches of the shaft.

TRUCKS ON TOUR ESTABLISH RECORD?

One of Two Trucks Equipped With Pneumatic Tires Has Covered 190,000 Miles Since 1911.

What is perhaps the record for time in traveling by motor truck from Louisiana, Mo., to St. Louis, a distance of 98 miles, was established last Wednesday by two trucks of the United States Tire Co., which are now in St. Louis on the return leg of an educational tour to demonstrate the practicability of using pneumatic tires on trucks. The 98 miles was covered into St. Louis in five and one-half hours actual running time.

The two trucks in charge of B. J. Lemon, special representative from the New York offices, have traveled 4100 miles since the start of the tour at Detroit on Aug. 22. They have passed through more than 100 cities and approximately 1100 calls have been made on various dealers interested in motor trucks. The route of the tour has included the principal cities and towns of Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri. From St. Louis the trucks will go to Springfield, Ill.; Indianapolis, Columbus, Cincinnati, Louisville, then Detroit. It is planned to finish the tour by Dec. 24.

One of the trucks has been in use nine years and still going strong. Representative Lemon said it has traveled 190,000 miles since 1911 on pneumatic tires. It is a Reliance truck of 3½-ton capacity. The other is a new model White two-ton truck. Both trucks carry literature which is distributed along the route and used in the educational campaign.

During the war Lemon was a Captain in the Motor Transport Corps stationed at headquarters of the Southern Department at San Antonio, Tex. Clem Buckle, driver of "Old Reliance," is also an ex-service man, having got his training in hauling ammunition for Uncle Sam in France. The other members of the party are Andrew Reuter, driver of

THE FRANKLIN SEDAN

That enclosed cars offer most among automobiles, and the Franklin Sedan most among enclosed cars, is becoming apparent to more people every day.

Franklin Sedan performance is continually proving that a light, flexible enclosed car can travel unusually long distances in a day without exhausting rider or driver. And more motorists are seeing daily that this car can go where heavy, rigid ones can not. This explains the rapid increase in Franklin Sedan ownership.

Then, too, the general advertising tendency toward light weight and flexibility—Franklin principles for seventeen years—is teaching people what gives economy, comfort, usability and long life to a car. And the value of year-round usefulness, only possible with Direct Air Cooling (no water to boil or freeze) has become apparent through owner comparisons. No one disputes today the advantages of the proved economy resulting from

20 miles to the gallon of gasoline
12,500 miles to the set of tires
50% slower yearly depreciation

Wide Observation Windows giving unobstructed outlook, and two Wide Doors increasing vision and making access easy, combine with the Slanting V-shaped Windshield and the Sloping French-style Hood to distinguish the Franklin Sedan from commonplace designs. They also identify it as the car of unequaled performance.

Let us prove the Franklin Car to you. Whatever preconceptions you have of what a car should do, or whatever recollections you have of what your Cars have done, will be exceeded by Franklin performance, over roads of your choice.

OTHER FRANKLIN TYPES

TOURING CAR—Franklin performance embodied in a Full Size, Five-Passenger Open Car. It is the most economical car of its type.

FOUR-PASSENGER ROADSTER—A convenient, attractive car Compact, yet having ample room for four.

RUNABOUT—All the advantages of Franklin Light Weight Flexible Construction in a Two-Passenger Open Car.

BROUGHAM—A personal, enclosed Franklin Car, intimate when used by two, commodious when carrying four.

YANKEE CARS IN INDIA

There are more motor cars on the streets of Calcutta than any other kind of vehicle. The number of privately owned cars is said to be about 4000, and there are approximately 500 taxicabs. It is thought that American cars will soon predominate the streets of India. All the motor cars imported into Calcutta since the signing of the armistice and the removal of the import embargo have been of American manufacture.

GARY TRUCKS TO BE HANDLED IN ST. LOUIS

The Gary Motor Truck Co. of St. Louis has been organized and will begin business Dec. 1 at 1317-19 Chestnut street. The officers of the company are E. W. Gallaway, president; T. A. Casey, vice president; W. C. Ahlmeyer, secretary and treasurer. The company will handle a complete line of Gary trucks, eight models in all, one to five tons capacity, and will have a well-equipped service station.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED TO TRUCK BUREAU

At a meeting of the Commercial Car Bureau of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers' and Dealers' Association held last week at the City Club new officers for the ensuing year were elected.

L. H. Amrine of the Scudder Motor Truck Co. was elected chairman to succeed C. E. Lightfoot, distributor of G. M. C. trucks in the St Louis territory who has held sway since the formation of the Commercial Car Bureau little more than a year ago.

C. A. Bothell, manager of the motor truck department of the Packard Motor Car Co. of Missouri, was elected vice chairman.

Several matters of vital importance regarding the future of the truck bureau as well as matters of car dealer were discussed.

NEW WESTCOTT AGENCY HOLDS FORMAL OPENING

The formal opening of the United Motor Car Co., which will handle the distribution of Westcott cars in this territory from 3229 Locust street, the quarters formerly occupied by the St. Louis Motor Service Co., was held last week.

M. B. Pattiz is president and treasurer of the new company and Louis Weissman, vice president and secretary. The selling rights were purchased from C. P. Brandle, president of the Brandle Motor Car Co., who formerly was the representative of the Westcott car in the St. Louis territory.

Pattiz has had 14 years of experience in the automobile business, being located in San Francisco prior to the war. During the war he served as a Lieutenant in field artillery. Upon leaving the army he took control of the Cabany Motor Car Co., 526 De Baliviere avenue. He recently sold his interests in that company to go in business as the Westcott distributer.

Weissman has had 10 years' experience in the business in East St. Louis.

The territory of the United Motor Car Co. will include Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois.

Two of the latest Westcott models in a five-passenger sedan and a five-passenger touring car, on display in the showroom since the opening last Wednesday, have caused many motorists to stop in passing and inspect them.

The Westcott is made in two types, a larger six and a lighter six. The larger six is built in a seven or five passenger touring car and seven-passenger sedan, while the lighter six embodies the five-passenger touring car, five-passenger sedan, two-passenger roadster and three-passenger straight-seat cabriolet-coupe.

Pattiz said $10,000 worth of spare parts have been purchased as part of the stock of the service department, which will occupy the north half of the building.

MOBILE BILLBOARD TO ADVERTISE SOFT DRINK

A novel motor truck with a specially built body to be used for advertising purposes by the Whistle Bottling Co. has made its appearance on the streets of St. Louis during the last few days.

Miniature billboards, the length of the truck and about three feet high, are built on either side of the truck and in the rear. Each of the boards is electrically illuminated for display at night and artistically decorated. Pictures of various Whistle plants throughout the country are painted on each side.

C. L. Griggs, national advertising manager of the Whistle Bottling Co., said the truck would be sent to Chicago to attend the National Automobile and Truck Show in January and later would make an ocean-to-ocean journey, calling on many of the 530 plants of the concern throughout the country. Motion pictures during the summer will be shown on a curtain attached to the rear of the truck. The pictures will show how a soft drink is made.

The Whistle Bottling Co. was founded in St. Louis four years ago. There are now 13 syrup plants and 530 bottling plants in operation throughout the country.

the White truck, and Charles Teubert, mechanic.

C. A. Oldham, manager of the St. Louis branch of the United States Tire Co., met the tourists at St. Charles and piloted them to Hotel Statler where they will remain until tomorrow morning, at which time the journey to Springfield, Ill., will start.

In furthering the thought of the practicability of using pneumatic tires on trucks calls are made at each stop along the route upon chiefs of fire departments, large truck operators and truck distributors, as well as furniture dealers and dealers in produce, milk, glassware and other like commodities that are either perishable and require rapid delivery or where pneumatic tires can be used to good advantage to decrease breakage or shrinkage in transporting these products.

On the tour 47 truck factories have been visited, Lemon said, and of this number more than 40 per cent, he said, are now equipping their trucks up to and including those of two and half-ton capacities with pneumatic tires.

Lemon said he noticed that in the 4100 miles of touring Michigan roads were the best. Wisconsin, he said, was doing more road work than any other state. Roads in Minnesota were in very good condition generally. Iowa roads, when dry, were good. Nebraska roads were fair. Roads in Missouri, he said, were not as bad as he had been led to believe at the start of his tour. The worst stretch of road encountered in Missouri was between Columbia and Jefferson City, he said.

Permits changing tires more rapidly, thereby keeping the truck in operation and out of the repair shop.

Saves the driver.

Saves the load.

Saves the road.

Cost of upkeep is minimized because of the pneumatic tire absorbing shocks that are transmitted to the body with solid tires.

Will negotiate, because of better traction qualities, mud and snow covered roads that solid tires could not negotiate satisfactorily.

Will speed up deliveries 30 to 40 per cent over solid tires.

The Reliance truck is equipped with 40x8 pneumatic cord tires, while the White is equipped with 38x7 size. An inflated pneumatic tire of the 40x8 size with rim and all weighs 205 pounds. A solid tire of the same size weighs about 211 pounds. The air pressure required to be used in a 40x8 tire is 110 pounds. The weight of the air in such a tire when inflated its fullest is 1.5 pounds.

LAFAYETTE TO START WITH MODERN PLANT

With a large, modern plant as a basis of operations, one of the gravest problems usually confronting new manufacturers has been automatically removed from the Lafayette Motors Co. of Indianapolis.

The present plant, while it is amply large to take care of immediate production requirements, is only the first unit of a model industrial layout. It was used by the Government during the war for the production of hand granades and other ordnance, and 2500 men were employed in it. It is located on a tract of 25 acres, with 15 acres available for expansion.

The factory is now being equipped with machinery especially adapted to the advanced specifications of the Lafayette car designed by D. McCall White. The company plans to exhibit a car during the New York show and expects to be in production early next summer. "With our present facilities we are now in the automobile business instead of the construction business," says E. C. Howard, who is associated with C. W. Nash and Mr. White in the executive personnel. "We feel that in being able to step into a plant so well adapted to the manufacture of passenger cars we are nearly a year along the road."

That's Money Wasted

Every particle of compression that gets by your pistons is lost beyond recovery—absolutely wasted.

The worst of it is that you paid good money for the gasoline portion of that wasted mixture—big money, too, for gasoline was never so poor at the price.

In addition to money, you lose power—and the satisfaction that goes with it.

Streett's IDEAL MOTOR OIL

"Seals and Satisfies"

Its great viscosity at high temperature effectively seals the clearance between pistons and cylinder walls. The small quantity that works its way into the compression chamber is burned up clean—greatly lessening carbon trouble.

The JORDAN Silhouette Five

Ease of handling is comparative. The ocean liner is easy to handle in the open ocean with leagues of water in which to maneuver. But the Silhouette Five is like the swift white launch darting in and out among the harbor shipping.

It is instantly responsive to the gentlest pressure. The Jordan arrangement of the steering apparatus is a marvel of precise control. The perfect balance of the car, the careful distribution of weight, the length and strength of springs and the delicate suspension all contribute to unerring forward motion, with no side-sway. In its application of power, the Jordan Silhouette is supreme. Acceleration is not a leap but a swift, plane-like glide. There is no jerking or struggling—the road simply flows past.

Women appreciate the ease and restfulness of driving the Silhouette Five as they appreciate its fashionable lines, its harmonious coloring and its perfect appointments.

They welcome a distinctly fine light car—a five passenger car in which quality has been made the compelling ideal.

NEW MODELS

STUDEBAKER

The 1920 "Special Six" Studebaker, in a five-passenger touring car, has arrived in St. Louis and was on display last week in the showroom of the Weber Motor Car Co., distributers in the St. Louis territory.

Numerous changes have been made in both the motor construction and——

Some noticeable changes have been made in the motor of the new car. A split head (demountable) type motor is now used in place of the former, which had the cylinders cast "en bloc." This makes for accessibility in making repairs.

Other changes in dimensions of the cylinder bore have been made to cope with the low-grade fuel problem.

The complete Wagner electric system is now used for starting and lighting instead of the Remy of last year.

The Stromberg carburetor is now used, replacing the Ball & Ball make of former years. The same electric horn that is used on the "Big Six" is now part of the regular equipment.

Cowl lights appear on either side of the windshield. They are electrically lighted and bullet shaped, and add to the car's attractiveness.

A tonneau light which fits in the back of the front seat has a cord attached which permits it being carried to any part of the car if needed when driving at night.

MOON

The new 1920 Victory model Moon seven-passenger sedan is now being distributed to dealers throughout the United States.

Improvements in the new car over the model of last year have been principally in body design and construction, there being little change in the mechanical make-up of the car.

Chief among the body changes are four wide doors equipped with automatic window lifts. The new sedan is an all-season car. A heater in the tonneau is part of the regular equipment which makes for comfort in winter driving. In warm weather the windows may be lowered and the car converted into a touring car with permanent roof.

The front seat is straight and undivided. Two extra seats in the rear compartment fold into recesses in the back of the front seat. A wide rear seat accommodates three passengers.

Upholstery is of Chase cloth, the coloring harmonizing with the body finish. Interior trimmings are of oxidized metal to match the upholstery.

The top of the car has a slight curvature and the windshield not only is placed at an angle but tapers slightly from top to bottom.

The gasoline tank, which formerly was built in the cowl, is now in the rear. Wood artillery wheels are regular equipment, but where wire wheels are specified special tire carriers are furnished to suit the wheels used.

A cowl ventilator is an improvement which will add to the pleasure of driving in the summer months.

TEMPLAR

The formal opening will be tomorrow in the Mid-States Motors Co., which will distribute the Templar car in the St. Louis territory.

Three of the new Templar cars were put on display in the showroom at 2648 Locust street late Wednesday. Two of them are of the two-passenger speedster models, and the third is the sportette, a four-passenger car finished in wine color. The speedsters are in battleship gray and Tiffany bronze colors.

Innovations in equipment that make for motoring comfort and convenience are shown in the new Templar speedsters, which are equipped with a compartment containing a road compass and autograph camera. A road gauge which registers grades is also part of the regular equipment of the new cars as well as six wire wheels, six cord tires, Kelly motor tire pump, spotlight, Boyce motometer and windshield cleaner. A compartment in rear of the speedster seat accommodates two suitcases for touring purposes.

NATIONAL

The new National sextet in a seven-passenger touring car model made its first appearance in St. Louis last week. Its headquarters are being made at the Southern Motor Co., the local distributors, where it is being used for demonstration purposes.

The new National is the first example to reach St. Louis of the new policy of the National factory at Indianapolis to again build their own motors and various parts, as was done prior to 1912. Since 1912 the National has been an assembled car and the Continental motor has been used. The new National sextet is shown with a motor built in the National factory which is of the six-cylinder overhead valve type.

The designers of the new motor are said to be the same engineers who built the National "four" which won international renown on road and speedway as well as the first National "six" and the pioneer National "twelve."

The push rods of the new motor operate in tubes of oil to assure proper lubrication. The splash oiling system has been eliminated and an improved forced feed system has been adopted. The valves of the motor are located in a detachable cylinder head which makes for accessibility and the valve mechanism enclosed by removable covers. Carburetor, water pump, starting and lighting generator and all other accessories of a corresponding nature are grouped conveniently on the right side of the motor, leaving the left side bare.

An electric primer attached to the carburetor to be used in cold weather starting is part of the regular equipment. An electric coil in the primer heats a small volume of gasoline which makes it more volatile and therefore core readily exploded.

In the pocket of the left front door is carried a tool kit with a special compartment for each tool. Capacious pockets are provided in the right front and rear doors with sufficient bellows and depth to accommodate blue books, parcels, goggles and gloves.

Three handy compartments, lock-fitted, are built in the back of the front seat, which will accommodate a thermos bottle, camera, box of cigars and other essentials that add to the comfort and enjoyment of the week-end trip or vacation tour.

An innovation in body construction is introduced in this model in that the body rests on a bracket arrangement which overhangs the frame, giving a semi-underslung appearance without reducing the space inside the body. Doors are square and unusually wide. The lines are of the latest straight-line design. The color of the new car is Norway green. Other optional colors are blue and gray.

H. P. Federspiel, manager of the Southern Motor Co., said each of the new cars would be equipped at St. Louis with windshield wings, clock, front and rear bumpers and extra tire.

The Efficiency of the Chalmers

Quality First

So much favorable comment has been made on the engine of the Hot Spot Chalmers that we are inclined to feel that many overlooked the other great essentials of this magnificent car.

There's 117 inches of wheel-base in a Hot Spot Chalmers and every inch denotes high efficiency.

Radiator to rear axle, it indicates perfect design, superior material, rare skill in workmanship, and an attention to detail that lifts it far above competition in price.

Service department records prove this high efficiency in a Chalmers by figures; it averages in cost to owners less than one per cent per year of the list price of the car for repair parts.

As a matter of fact once an owner's license plate is bolted on the Hot Spot Chalmers the car seldom returns for service.

Give it gas, oil, grease, water, and fair treatment and it'll respond like the fine "creature of steel" it is.

FRANKLIN WILL MAKE ONE-TON MOTOR TRUCK

Still further expansion of the business of automobile manufacture in Syracuse is assured in announcement by H. H. Franklin, president of the H. H. Franklin Manufacturing Co., that the company will engage in the making of one-ton Franklin trucks in a plant separate and distinct from the present factories for the manufacture of passenger cars.

Plans, as developed thus far, call for production of the new output in about 12 months. It will be a pneumatic tired truck and will be designed and made to occupy the same important place, relatively, in the truck field, that the Franklin passenger car occupies in its sphere. The features of light weight, economical operating costs and general high class which have been emphasized in the passenger automobile, will be depended upon to create demand for the new car.

The company will specialize in the one-ton truck because its officers believe the widest field is offered for a vehicle of this kind. They have in mind development of the use of trucks by farmers and the Franklin, with its air-cooled motor and its adaptability to country highways and even farm lands, is expected to supply a demand that will be great.

A. G. Ross, president of the Franklin-Ross Automobile Co., Franklin distributors in the St. Louis territory said Franklin built a one-ton truck in 1910 and 1911, but later discontinued the truck department to devote all efforts to the passenger car business. The Franklin, Ross said, was the first truck to use pneumatic tires.

100,000 OAKLANDS IS SCHEDULE FOR 1920

Details of the projected expansion of the Oakland Motor Car Co. have been received by E. A. Hatfield, president of the Mississippi Valley Motor Car Co., representatives of the Oakland car in this territory, which will provide for a production of 100,000 cars in 1920. This is an increase of 33 1-3 per cent over the total of cars produced by that company from July 1, 1918, to July 1, 1919.

Three new buildings that will cost $2,000,000 are to be erected at Pontiac, Mich. One of the new buildings will be an addition to the engine plant which will bring production up to 500 engines daily, with day and night shifts working. The expansion of the assembly department will be taken care of by a three-story and basement building, which will bring production up to 40 cars per hour.

Five years ago the total Oakland production was but 40 cars for a 10-hour day. The third new building will be a large warehouse, with loading docks to accommodate 34 freight cars at one time, all under cover.

These additions do not include the new administration building already under way, which will release 50,000 more square feet of floor space for manufacturing activities.

EIGHT NEW MEMBERS JOIN DEALERS' ASSN.

In a drive for new members conducted by a committee composed of L. H. Amrine, Henry Rottersman and H. G. Hurd of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers' and Dealers' Association, eight new members have been added during the last 10 days.

The new members are: Garford Motor Truck Co.; Mid-States Motor Co., distributers of the Templar car; Illmo Auto Co., distributers of the Case car; Southern Motor Car Co., distributers of Grant and National cars; Gardner Motor Co., manufacturers of the Gardner car; James-Landwehr Co., distributers of Davis and Maibohm cars; American Auto and Supply Co., distributers of the Dixie Flyer automobile, and the Advance Motor Co.

500 CARS A DAY MADE IN OVERLAND FACTORY

With Toledo Street Car System Tied Up 12,500 Employes Use Motor Transportation or Walk.

Word comes from Toledo that the production of the Overland 4 has now reached 500 cars a day. The various factory departments are now engaged in a spirited rivalry to accomplish their part of the operations, so that production may reach 600 Overland 4's a day before the first sleighing.

Getting production up to 500 a day on this new type of motor car has attracted national attention as an instance of loyalty and intelligent co-operation on the part of a great working force of 12,500 employes.

This record is further interesting in view of the fact that there are now no street cars in Toledo. The citizens at last voted in favor of an ouster ordinance. The railway company took the city at its word and sent the street cars into the State of Michigan. Despite this condition, the Willys-Overland facory has had an attendance of 100 per cent from its 12,500 workers since Toledo became trolley-less.

To get them back and forth from their homes each day, the Willys-Overland company has organized a complete transportation system of trucks, autos, jitney busses, and other conveyances. But at that, it means long walks and very early breakfasts for thousands of the Overland workers. But they get to work every day.

Transportation experts at Washington are responsible for the statement that, with the present progress of road building, it would be possible within five years to cut 33 1-3 per cent from the cost of freight transportation in the United States through the use of automobile trucks. Engine, tire and body builders now come forward with the statement that this will be done.

Important among trade announcements is the appointment of Capt. Percival Dodge, sales manager of the Denby Motor Truck Co. of Detroit, a position for which Garvin Denby, president, has groomed him for five years.

Don A. Livingston, sales manager of the Federal Truck Co. of St. Louis, returned last week from a visit to the Federal and Commerce factories at Detroit.

You can relieve the pain of tonsilitis
Quickly and Easily

THE pain of Tonsilitis is in the great congestion of the tonsils. This congestion, in fact, is so great that it frequently overflows into the whole pharynx, or throat. This congestion — an excess of blood dammed up in the tonsil region — must be broken up before relief can come.

For the congestion of tonsilitis, a strong counter-irritant brings quick relief. For the counter-irritant draws away the excess of blood from the congested tonsil. And by this process the natural flow of the blood-stream is re-established.

MAC LAREN'S Mustard Cerate is the counter-irritant to quickly break up the congestion of tonsilitis. It is far stronger than the old-fashioned mustard-plaster. Yet it is so perfectly combined with a base of healing oils that it cannot blister. Mustard Cerate is the modern counter-irritant — certain as science.

Rub it in well, on throat and chest. It will relieve the pain of your tonsilitis—quickly.

Mustard Cerate quickly relieves coughs, colds, croup, neuralgia, headache, congestion of lungs, sore throat, tonsilitis, strains, pains, sore joints, lame muscles, rheumatism, bronchitis, pleurisy.

It comes in 25 cent and 50c Jars. Keep one on hand.

MRS. TOM THUMB WAS MISCHEVIOUS AS CHILD

Famous Dwarf Became a Teacher When 16—Was Married to Gen. Thumb in 1863.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—It is told of Mrs. Tom Thumb or Countess Magri, as she became after the death of her world famous lilliputian husband, Gen. Tom Thumb, who died at her home in Middleboro, Mass., on Tuesday at the age of 78, that she was so bright when she went to school as Lavinia Warren (her maiden name) that she easily forged ahead of the bigger boys and girls. It was a country school she went to, and she was so small then that she could run around under the benches without much fear of being discovered by the teacher. It is related of her that when doing this she would pinch the legs of other pupils, and that would "start things." The teacher would begin a hunt for the tiny mischief-maker, and often Lavinia would hide for a little while, finally climbing back into her seat, and begin to study seriously.

"What shall I do with you?" the teacher would say. "Shall I shut you up in my overshoe? What does your mother do to punish you—does she set you on top of the sugar bowl and make you wipe the dishes?"

Teacher at 16.

At the age of 16 years they made her a teacher instead of the pupil. She taught little children of from 4 to 9.

A cousin of the Warrens had a floating museum on the Mississippi River, and at his urgent request the little lady went West, and became an attraction in the museum. Here she met great men and women. Gen. Grant came to see her and shake her tiny hand and introduced his family to her. In Montgomery, Ala., she met Stephen A. Douglas, "The Little Giant." Lavinia was so tiny—just like a little girl—that Mr. Douglas wanted to kiss her. Lavinia blushed and pulled away.

P. T. Barnum, the great showman, saw her and made her an offer to join his circus. In the Barnum show was another midget, Charles Stratton, who later became world-famous as Gen. Tom Thumb. The two midgets made an instant hit. Gen Thumb and Lavinia fell in love. And they were married and had a big wedding in New York. Lavinia's maid of honor was little Minnie Warren, her tiny sister, smaller than herself. Gen. Thumb's best man was another tiny chap, George Washington Morrison Nutt, known as Commodore Nutt. The wedding took place in Grace Church in 1863.

Used Doll Furniture.

The tiny General established a home in Bridgeport, Conn., the headquarters of the Barnum show. His house was filled with doll furniture and doll dishes were used on the Thumb family table. There the two famous midgets lived until Gen. Thumb died.

Then Mrs. Thumb married another dwarf, Count Magri. He was a real Count. And Mrs. Thumb, little Lavinia Warren, became Countess Magri. The Count had a brother, Baron Magri. He and the Count used to give boxing exhibitions and plays for the children. At the circus there was a long platform reaching into the audience, and Mrs. Thumb and Count Magri came out and shook hands with hundreds of little children, who screamed and laughed with delight. Mrs. Thumb was only 32 inches high.

Once Count Magri and Mrs. Thumb came to Boston to help a hospital benefit. Count Magri auctioned off a beautiful doll and a little girl won it. But she didn't want an ordinary doll; she wanted a real live man-doll, like Count Magri, and cried because they wouldn't give Count Magri to her.

Countess Magri's childhood, except for the pranks mentioned above, was much like that of any other child until she entered the circus field. Of this phase she has written:

"It has been asserted that Gen Tom Thumb had kissed more women than any living man. I can with equal assurance assert that I have shaken hands with more human beings in all stations of life, royal and plebian, rich and poor, great and small, old and young, native and foreign, than any other woman in existence."

Had Brilliant Intellect.

She had often been called the world's most famous morsel of humanity. Though dwarfed in stature she was fully developed in intellect, a witty speaker and a brilliant entertainer. Barnum is said to have remarked that she was the greatest drawing card he ever had. And although her marriage to Gen. Thumb in New York was in the nature of "free advertising" such as he had never known and there was a temptation to commercialize it, he permitted the couple to seek their own happiness and left it a strictly social affair.

Mrs. Thumb's sister, a smaller dwarf, died 40 years ago, and Gen. Tom Thumb died in 1883. She married Count Magri in 1885, in New York. He later became a naturalized American citizen. For 56 years she was before the public, making her farewell tour in 1912, and retiring with a large fortune accumulated.

At the age of 70 her hair was still jet black, and fine black eyes sparkled from a full, round, dimpled face. Her voice was always soft and sweet.

She was presented to the Prince and Princess of Wales, Napoleon III, the late Queen Victoria, ex-President Taft and other celebrities. She traveled for four years under Barnum, was with a circus a short time, and then traveled in an independent company. She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, Daughters of the American Revolution and Nemasket Grange.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS WATCHING EFFORTS OF MINE OWNERS TO PRODUCE COAL

Garfield and Palmer to Spare Neither Operators Nor Miners Who Interfere and Delay the Supplying of Fuel to Public; Government Ready to Act.

14 PER CENT ADVANCE AND FEDERAL GUARD

Notices of Increase Posted at Mines; Violators of Injunction Terms Will Be Cited for Contempt, Says U. S. Attorney.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Developments in the Government's efforts to insure an adequate fuel supply for the country awaited tonight the outcome of attempts of soft coal operators to induce miners to return to work for a wage advance of 14 per cent and assurances of Federal protection.

Notices of this wage advance, suggested by Federal Administrator Garfield, were posted at the mines immediately following the Thanksgiving holiday. The degree of resumption of work it might produce is not expected to show until next week, at the beginning of the second month of the strike, which technically was called off Nov. 11.

Standing firm on their announced intention to spare neither operators nor miners who interfered, delaying the restoration of production to normal, Dr. Garfield and Attorney-General Palmer await developments i the mining centers. It was indicated no further steps by nationa authorities were contemplated whil State and local officials handled th situation satisfactorily.

Production Nearing 50 Per Cent.

Official statistics show productio to be approaching 50 per cent o normal at the end of the fir month of the strike, as compare with 29 per cent during the fir week and 33 per cent the secon week. The weekly report of th United States Geological Survey today showed that 44.8 per cent o normal was produced during th third week.

Dr. Garfield issued today a de tailed analysis of the figures o which he based his conclusion fo a 14 per cent wage advance. Ex plaining wherein he differed wit Secretary Wilson, he called atten tion to "the fact that the principl involved is of far greater importanc than the figures arrived at."

"The principle applied in arrivin at 14 per cent is different in kin and character from that applied arriving at 31.61 per cent and hen any attempt to average the two or compromise the results is impo sible," Dr. Garfield said.

A wage advance of 31.61 per ce as suggested by Secretary Wils would give a total advance sin 1913 of 107.4 per cent as compar with a maximum advance of 79 p cent in living costs he added.

"Miners are paid by the ton," said. "Other mine workers are pa by the day. The day laborers ge erally have received advances wages since 1913 equal to and, some instances, in excess of the i crease in the cost of living.

General Increase Proposal.

"The proposition that a gener increase of 31.61 per cent be given simply a proposition to give all mi labor the percentage of increase quired to bring the class of lab that has received the lowest per c up to the present level of living co even though that advances the ot groups far above the amount nec sary."

Dr. Garfield pointed out that s tistics of the national industrial co ference board showed only a 73 cent increase in the cost of livi and that on this basis the min would be entitled to only 9.8 per c wage advance.

On an annual output of 500,00 000 tons, Dr. Garfield said, the ad tional wage bill would approxim $238,000,000 with a 31.61 per c advance, $107,000,000 with a 14.1 cent increase, and $74,000,000 with 9.8 per cent advance.

The average earnings of all m workers in 1918 was $1,550.56, $6.18 per day worked, Dr. Garfi said. This conclusion was based

GARFIELD OPPOSES ANY EFFORTS TO DESTROY UNIONS

Fuel Administrator Issues Statement Following Report Coal Crisis Will Be So Used.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Any effort on the part of employers to take advantage of the present situation to destroy trade unions "will be resented by the public and opposed by me," Fuel Administrator Garfield declared in a statement tonight.

"A report has come to me that the present crisis in the coal industry will be used to break down the labor unions," Dr. Garfield said. "I wish to say that I am as much opposed to an attempt to destroy the principle of collective bargaining and the union of working men as I am to the effort of labor leaders to keep labor satisfied by a constant boosting of wages, regardless of the public interest, or to the effort of leaders in the industrial world to boost profits unduly to the hurt of the public.

"Any attempt to complicate the issue at this time by seeking to destroy the union of the mine workers or the principle of collective bargaining will be resented by the public and opposed by me."

1800 TROOPS ARE ORDERED INTO KANSAS COAL FIELDS

More Than 5000 Volunteer Miners Are Ready to Go to Work Tomorrow Under Military Protection.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 29.—Eighteen hundred State and Federal troops have been ordered into the Kansas coal fields in connection with the proposed plan to reopen the mines next week under State receivership, it became known tonight. Six hundred of the troops will be regulars and 1200 of them guardsmen, it was said. Gov. Allen late today issued the necessary proclamation calling out the State troops.

The Federal troops, 300 from Fort Riley and 300 from Fort Leavenworth, are expected to arrive in Pittsburg, center of the coal district, late tonight. The State troops will begin entraining tomorrow. They will be conveyed in four special trains, it was said, which also will carry volunteers who will work in the coal fields.

Upwards of 5000 volunteer coal miners are ready to go to work in the strip mines.

STEAMSHIP BADLY DAMAGED IN A COLLISION FAR AT SEA

Large Hole Torn in Side According to Wireless Reaching New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—An unidentified steamship was in collision late tonight with the schooner Elizabeth, 100 miles at sea, according to a wireless message received here. A large hole was torn in the steamship's side.

The wireless message was indistinct owing to static interference, but the few words picked up indicated that the damaged vessel was trying to make Newport News.

"AMERICANS WILL MAKE GOOD"

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—"Will America fail us?" is the title of an article by Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary for War, in the Illustrated Sunday Herald.

"There is no nation in the world less likely to put a grudging construction upon its honorable obligations," says the Secretary. "There is no people in the world who would feel more deeply any sense of reproach in regard to a matter of duty. They do not expect foreigners to tell them their duty. In that case they might argue about it. But, left to themselves in their own way, and in their own time, American democracy will make good to the extreme jot and title every honorable claim which may be made upon them."

$19,617 COLLECTED FOR HOSPITALS IN ANNUAL TAG SALE

COLLECTIONS IN CHURCHES TODAY

Reports on Employes and Trade Donations 2 Weeks Hence Expected to Make Up Shortage.

The Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association collected $19,617.11 from 72,982 purchasers of tags yesterday in the business district. This is $1428.58 less than was contributed last year, when 79,982 contributors gave $21,045.69.

A. L. Shapleigh, acting president of the association last year, who was in active charge of the campaign yesterday because of the illness of Ambassador Francis, president, said last night that the inclement weather was probably the cause for the decrease in the number of contributors.

"We regret this," he said, "and yet when we consider the condition and universal joy that prevailed a year ago so shortly after the signing of the armistice and the conditions obtaining today of industrial unrest, the coal shortage and the fear of cessation of commercial industries, we are rejoiced to know that the collection is so nearly equal to that in the boxes one year ago. The association feels that this shortage will be made up by the large increase of membership acquired during the year, as the association now numbers 1524 members as compared with 672 a year ago.

Ambassador Francis Ill.

"We were unfortunate in that we did not have the active assistance of Ambassador Francis, who, by order of his physician was forbidden to take part in the canvass.

"From reports already received we are greatly in hope that the contributions through the committee on Trades and on Employes will equal if not exceed the contributions of last year."

Contributions will be received in churches and Sunday schools today. Last year $4,942.43 was collected in this way. The committee reports on employes and on trades will not be in for two or three weeks, it was said last night.

Biggest Collections.

The largest number of contributors yesterday was at the Union Station and Eads Bridge, where 13,483 persons gave $1827.15. Last year at the same places 16,557 gave $2290.67.

The highest per capita contributions were made at the Merchants' Exchange. These average more than $2.32 as 539 persons gave $1253.19. The average was higher last year but there were 201 fewer contributors.

The Jefferson Hotel led in the per capita contributions for the hotels. There 1358 persons gave $1034.55. Last year at the same place 945 persons gave $950.19.

Money for Beds in Hospitals.

The money raised will be spent for the maintaining of beds in hospitals for persons who are unable to pay for their own care. The money is parceled out to the 13 hospitals which are members of the association in direct proportion to the number of such patients treated. Last year $52,327.65 was distributed in this way.

The other means of raising money are from contributions by firms and employes, churches and Sunday schools, membership dues and interest on endowment.

Those persons who were not able to subscribe yesterday are asked by acting president Shapleigh to make their contributions through the churches or trade associations.

A demonstration in support of the hospital collection, and in honor of Ambassador Francis, was given at the Merchants' Exchange. He was absent at the time of the last three collections, the present one being the first since his return from Russia.

Demonstration for Francis.

Members of the exchange and their families were present at the demonstration, and many visitors were admitted. Eleven former presidents of the exchange acted as an escort to Ambassador and Mrs. Francis, and an orchestra played a number of patriotic airs.

Vice President C. L. Niemeier presided and introduced the guest, who spoke at some length on the growth of St. Louis since he began his career on the Merchants Exchange as a young man. He urged continued effort toward proper development and use of the Mississippi then touched briefly on his mission to Russia. He strongly condemned the Bolshevists and told how these revolutionists threatened

RECEIVER WELLS FAVORS CHARGE FOR TRANSFER SO AS TO IMPROVE SERVICE

Says Municipal Ownership Is Only Alternative if Question Is to Be Solved—Would Stop Unnecessary Travel.

After eight months as receiver of the United Railways, Rolla Wells has concluded that the ills of the company can best be remedied by a prompt solution of its transportation problems, particularly as they relate to the universal free transfer. He expressed the opinion yesterday in a statement to the Post-Dispatch that there must be a separate charge for transfers before the service can be improved to meet the full needs of the people, or else municipal ownership, with the cost of operation apportioned by direct taxation.

Wells said it would be imprudent to hazard a guess at what this charge should be until the Public Service Commission determined the valuation of the properties from reports of the experts now employed at that work. He has become convinced, he added, that whatever the commission's valuation may be, the problem of the free transfer, creating a "dead weight without return" would still remain the chief obstacle to a rejuvenated and adequate service without loss.

In seeking the right to charge for transfers, Wells said, the company will not do so with a view to raising the fare, but rather to eliminate the unnecessary transfer travel. If this were accomplished, he explained, the cost of operation would be reduced to the ultimate saving of the general public.

Believes Financiers Blundered.

Financiers of the past, Wells thinks, who used the nickel fare and the universal transfer as a bait in aldermanic waters to land franchises and special privileges, made the monumental blunder of establishing the 5-cent standard fare without regard to eventualities.

They were no doubt men of vision, he believes, but were too deeply concerned with the desire for achievement and the immediate needs of their time to visualize the high cost of transportation of today. So, he continued, they bound the present generation with an entanglement of financial intricacies and erroneous ideas of transportation costs by establishing an unsound precedent, so that the United Railways of today confronts the people in a wretched condition.

Wells compared past methods in traction affairs with those employed by steam railroad operators, and expressed the hope that the public would weigh the question of what condition steam railroads would be in today had their founders fixed a minimum fare per ride, instead of the mileage rate to take care of costs over hauls that grew in length with the growth of the country.

"It would, indeed, be a bold man who would have the temerity at this time to say that the universal free transfer was unfair and must give way to the spirit of fair play," said Wells. "But it is the plain truth, and we must face it as the truth should be met, without prejudice and with minds open to conviction.

"The public demands adequate service at all times, and the people are entitled to it. It is the earnest intention of the receiver to provide adequate service at a minimum cost to the people. Therefore, the public and the receiver should come to a common understanding, based on the facts in the case, for the common object of the best service possible for the lowest fare possible. That is as fair a proposal as I am capable of making.

Thinks Public Will Be Fair.

"The public demands, and with reason, that it shall have no less than an honest return, measured in service, on its money. The legitimate security holder is entitled to a fair return on his investment. The receiver approves both phases of the question, and I believe the public is fair enough to sustain him. The only points at issue in this receivership are adequate service and a fair return on honest investment. It would be misleading to say there were any others.

"In the horse car days there was a straight ride for a five-cent fare of only a short distance, as compared with the long hauls of today. There was no free transfer. At that period a car cost about $1000, and wages were about 20 cents an hour, to say nothing of the very low cost of material.

"Today you have modern transportation for approximately seven cents over long distances in cars that cost $12,000 to $14,000 each, operated by men who have a wage scale of 50, 55 and 60 cents an hour, while the cost of power is far above that of maintaining the old-time horse.

Heavy Cost in Transfers.

"You have the free transfer to supplement this ride, providing a choice of several lines to reach your destination, and therein lies an extravagant cost to the company. Transfers were not intended for use except where the car on which the fare is paid does not go near the destination of the passenger. Yet people use them, in most instances indiscriminately, and often intrude on lines that are intended to serve other territory.

"By eliminating the free transfer we could eliminate 36 to 50 per cent of travel that is nothing more than nonproductive weight, and by providing more cars and rearranging routes and schedule, we could serve the whole public quite as well without the burdensome transfer."

Wells pointed out that more cars and rerouting would entail additional operating expense, but would be sound business and prevent future financial trouble, as well as prevent the congestion of some lines by persons who could reach their destinations by direct rides.

MISCHIEVOUS WIND ATTAINS 64-MILES-AN-HOUR VELOCITY

Sou'wester Blows Signboards Over, Wrecks Plate Glass Windows and Carries Hats Away.

That sou'wester that assailed St. Louis yesterday, blowing old signboards over, blowing out plate glass windows that had not the resilience to withstand the furious gusts, blowing men's hats up one street and down another, blowing the skirts of dismayed women around them in hopeless entanglement, attained a peak velocity of 64 miles an hour for five minutes at 12:25 p. m., and continued its attacks in 50-miles-an-hour gusts most of the afternoon. After expending its force upon St. Louis, the angry sou'wester veered off with a growl to the Northwest last evening.

The vanguard of the blow reached the city at 7 a. m., and attained a terrific force before noon. At the Weather Bureau it was said the blow presaged a cold spell, and a forecast of 26 degrees was predicted for the night.

The damage reported consisted of broken plate glass windows and the destruction of a signboard here and there. Some of the Keokuk Dam power lines in St. Louis County were blown down, cutting off electric power in parts of the city for a few minutes.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—In anticipation of the advent of Lady Astor in the House of Commons, Monday, an oak-paneled Jacobean room overlooking the Thames has been selected as hers. The room has been christened the "boudoir." It is situated near the lobby, so that the House's woman member will not be inconvenienced when a division is called. A dressing table and other appointments never before seen in the House have been installed. The room was built just before the war and was intended to be used as an extra tearoom.

PRESIDENT CONTINUES TO MAKE PROGRESS, PHYSICIANS REPORT

Despite Inclement Weather He Spends Hour on White House Portico.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Despite inclement weather today, President Wilson spent an hour on the south portico of the White House, and, after the regular weekly visit of Dr. Francis X. Dercum of Philadelphia, his physicians reported continued progress in his condition.

The President has been working on his message to Congress for the last two weeks, and the fatigue, entailed is thought to have prevented him from seeing Senator Hitchock, Democratic leader in the treaty fight, today, on his return to the city. It was not known tonight when a conference will be arranged.

THANKS MAN WHO ARRESTED HIM

Member of Vigilance Committee Was Driving at 35 Miles an Hour.

G. W. Stern, 5696 Kingsbury boulevard, a salesman, who said he is a member of the Vigilance Committee of the Automobile Club, sworn to careful driving and to reporting violations of traffic rules by other automobilists, thanked Deputy Sheriff Al Stuckman of Clayton Friday when he was arrested while driving 35 miles an hour on the St. Charles rock road at Ferguson avenue, and thanked Justice Henry Stecker yesterday when the Justice stayed the fine upon payment of costs, $7.60.

Stern admitted he was speeding and said that he did not realize how fast he was going. He was in a hurry to reach two houses he is building, and on which workmen were having trouble, he said. The Justice failed to assess a fine, he said, because of Stern's bearing in court and because he admitted he was violating the law.

"SPOOK" IN MUSLIN GOWN IS ARRESTED DURING A SEANCE

"Spirit's" Robes Smeared With Phosphorus When Policewoman and Two Detectives Interfere.

WOMAN AND 2 MEN TAKEN IN CUSTODY

Mrs. Frank Abbott of 3914 Page Boulevard Posed as Returned Spirit of Policewoman's Brother.

While out spirit hunting last evening Policewoman Elizabeth Hoch and two detectives seized a "spook" in a seance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Abbott, 3914 Page boulevard, and found it to be Mrs. Abbott, clad in a muslin gown smeared with phosphorus. They arrested Mrs. Abbott and her husband, and Fred W. Kershaw, 63 years old, an engineer, who also lives at that address. At Central Police Station the trio was charged with fortune telling.

Policewoman Hoch has been shadowing the Abbott "ghost" for some time, and as she has had a deal of experience with mediums in and about St. Louis in the line of her duties, she understands the psychology of seance specters, and so awaited the psychological moment, which came about 9 o'clock.

Had Cosmic Information.

The policewoman had some cosmic information that spirit materialization seances were held at the Abbott home the last Saturday evening of each month. Disbelieving that the dead return to this world and stalk about in circles where admissions are charged at so much per stalk, the policewoman invited Detectives Lawler and Joyce to assist her in the investigation.

The officers reached the Abbott home at 8 o'clock, Policewoman Hoch representing herself as Mrs. Mike LaRue, and introducing Detective Lawler as her husband and Joyce as her brother, Jack. A score of men and women sat in a circle in the parlor and the three officers gravely took their places.

Across the room was a cabinet, and when the lights were turned out, a figure emerged from the cabinet and announced that it was "Shooting Star," the spirit of an Indian maid long dead to this world, but delighted to return as the "control" of Mrs. Abbott. "Shooting Star" gave a few messages in baby talk, and called attention to her "pretty little beads" and a pendant crescent, which she called a star.

Shooting Star Facetious.

"Shooting Star" grew facetious with Policewoman Hoch and the detectives by remarking that the policewoman had a "nice big chief" for a husband.

The policewoman informed "Shooting Star" that she would like to converse with the shade of her departed brother, Bill, and "Shooting Star" retired to the cabinet. Presently another figure emerged and announced in sepulchral tones, "Well, folks, here's Bill; what's the row?"

There was no row, but there was soon to be one. "Don't you recognize me?" Said Bill, addressing the policewoman, "I'm Bill."

"Oh-h-h-h, Bill, is that you!" exclaimed Policewoman Hoch, registering deep emotion."

"You bet your life it's me," the figure replied. "How's everything down home? How's Jack, and every little thing?"

That settled "Bill," for Detectives Lawler and Joyce seized "him," while Policewoman Hoch suddenly produced a flashlight and found the button to switch on the lights.

It was Mrs. Abbott who was masquerading as brother Bill. She offered no resistance, but her husband, who sat near the electric switch button, tried to start the row that "brother Bill" spoke of, but changed his mind when he found himself peeping into the barrel of Lawler's revolver.

Others in the circle hastened to leave the house, not pausing for a return of the 50 cents admission they had been charged.

The officers took to police headquarters the cabinet, trumpets, the gown, woolen soled shoes worn by "spooks" and other articles of spiritualistic phenomena.

Textile Strikes Threatened.

ADRIATIC COLLIDES WITH SHIP OFF THE STATUE OF LIBERTY

Damaged St. Michael Not Believed in Danger; Vessel With 75 on Board Aground Off Atlantic City.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The steamship Adriatic, which sailed late today for Cherbourg and Southampton, with a long list of distinguished passengers, collided with the British freight steamship St. Michael, off the Statue of Liberty, while moving down the harbor. The St. Michael's stern was badly damaged under the water line and the ship was leaking, but apparently in no serious danger. The Adriatic was put at anchor off Liberty Island.

Capt. F. C. B. Harris, superintendent of the Booth Line, which chartered the St. Michael, said tonight he had received a wireless message from the vessel stating that she was "not seriously damaged." Shortly after midnight the Adriatic hauled up her anchor and again started on her way to Liverpool.

The St. Michael cleared today with a general cargo for Macelo and Pernambuco. Her displacement is 3796 gross tons.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 29.—The Panama Railroad Company's steamship Alliance, bound from Panama to New York, went aground off the inlet here today. The vessel has 75 passengers on board and is loaded with a general cargo. Coast guards say the ship is not in danger and probably will be floated at high tide at midnight.

CALIFORNIA GOVERNOR OPPOSES FURTHER CLEMENCY TO MOONEY

Makes Public Letter in Which Belief in Guilt of Man Convicted of Murder Is Declared.

By the Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 29.—No further clemency in behalf of Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of murder in connection with the San Francisco preparedness day bomb explosion, is warranted by anything within the knowledge of Gov. Stephens, the Governor states in a letter made public late today at the executive here.

"Of Mooney's guilt there is, in my mind, no question," the letter states.

The letter was to Paul Scharrenberg, secretary of the California State Federation of Labor, and was in reply to a communication from Scharrenberg informing the Governor of the appointment of a committee of the American Federation of Labor to appeal on behalf of organized labor for the release of Mooney and Warren K. Billings, also convicted of murder in connection with the bomb explosion. Gov. Stephens commuted the sentence of Mooney to be hanged to life imprisonment. If new evidence exists the committee can submit it in writing, the Governor's letter said.

"If you have nothing new to offer, but are merely joining in the 'cry' on behalf of Mooney and taking part in the remarkable but unwarranted propaganda in his behalf, then I beg respectfully but definitely to inform your committee that so far as I am concerned the case is closed."

EMMA GOLDMAN IS ORDERED DEPORTED; MAY GO TO RUSSIA

If Anarchist Is Sent to Native Country She Will Have to Wait for Opening of Transportation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Emma Goldman, anarchist, was today ordered deported on appeal of her hearing at Ellis Island by the Department of Labor.

Commissioner General of Immigration Caminetti said he would recommend that she be sent to Russia, the country in which she was born.

Emma Goldman is now on $15,000 bail. Transportation is at present closed to Russia and unless some specific provision is made in her case she will be at liberty until the facilities of deportation are extended to nations now closed.

NEWBERRY AND 133 OTHERS INDICTED FOR CORRUPTION

U. S. Senator From Michigan Accused in Connection With Election in Which He Defeated Henry Ford, Democrat; Brother Among Those Indicted.

SCANDAL DECLARED TO BE STATEWIDE

Judge Indicates Evidence Before Grand Jury Disclosed Fraudulent Expenditure of Between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 29.—Truman H. Newberry, United States Senator from Michigan, was indicted by a United States grand jury today for corruption and conspiracy in connection with the election by which he obtained his seat in the Senate, defeating Henry Ford, his Democratic opponent.

With Newberry, 133 other persons were indicted by the grand jury on the same charge. The names of all but 12 most prominent were withheld from publication by Judge Clarence W. Sessions, presiding, until warrants could be served.

Among those named were H. A. Hopkins of St. Claire, Mich., principal legislature clerk of the United States Senate; John S. Newberry, brother of the Senator, Detroit, and Paul H. King of Detroit. King was manager of the Newberry Campaign Committee.

The others named were Allan A. Templeton of Detroit, president of the Newberry Committee; Frederick Smith, Detroit, manager of the Newberry estate; Charles A. Floyd, Detroit; Mart P. McKee, Detroit; Judd Yelland, Escanaba, Mich.; Milton Oakman, Detroit, formerly county clerk of Wayne County, and Harry O. Turner, Detroit; Frank Makay, Grand Rapids; James B. Bradley, Easton Rapids, Mich., and Gladston Beattie, Pawpaw, Mich.

Judge Sessions indicated that the evidence before the grand jury disclosed the fraudulent expenditure of between $500,000 and $1,000,000 in connection with the election.

Two Blanket Indictments.

Two blanket indictments were returned dealing with the primary and election campaign of 1918, in which Henry Ford was Senator Newberry's chief opponent.

The first indictment charged that both Federal and State laws were violated, in that sums far in excess of legitimate expenses were used in the campaigns. The second indictment cited the affidavits which Senator Newberry made while serving at the Brooklyn Navy Yard as to campaign money. This affidavit, the indictment charged, was a part of a general conspiracy to aid the Senator to obtain office illegally, and to aid him also in concealing violations of election statutes.

There were six counts in the first indictment. The first four were devoted to charges of excess campaign expenditures.

The fifth alleged conspiracy to violate the Federal corrupt practices act of October, 1918, which penalizes payment of money to voters. The sixth count, to which Frank C. Dailey, special assistant to the Attorney-General attached especial significance, alleged that the mails were used "to defraud all the people of the State of Michigan."

"All Voters Defrauded."

This sixth count charged that not only were all voters of the State defrauded, but that honest campaign contributors were also victims, in that they were misled into believing that the legal limits of expenditures had not been exceeded. It also charged that more than $100,000 of the contributed funds were converted to the use of some of the campaign managers.

This sixth count also contained a clause charging that James Helm, former State Dairy and Food Commissioner and opponent of Henry Ford in the Democratic primary, received from the Newberry organization funds "for his compensation and expenses in seeking nomination to said office of Senator" at the primary, the alleged purpose being to aid the Newberry cause by preventing Democratic voters from lining up with Ford in the Republican primary.

In a list of 38 "overt acts" attached to the indictments was an accusation that Helm's "compensation" for his candidacy was $50 a week.

These 38 alleged overt acts were charged against 14 men and carried accusations of having given rewards ranging from promises of "a good job" to payments of sums varying from $5 to $2750 as returns for support or activity in the Newberry campaign. One country editor is alleged to have received a ton of print paper.

The extreme penalty which may be imposed under the indictments is a fine of $10,000 and two years' imprisonment.

Newberry's Brother.

John S. Newberry, the Senator's brother, was active in the primary and election campaigns and, according to a statement filed after the election by the Newberry managers, contributed $99,900 to the expenses.

Paul H. King was one of the general managers of the campaign and in the list of "overt acts" accompanying the indictments he was named seven times. King was manager of Senator Townsend's campaign and later was made receiver for the Pere Marquette Railroad.

Allan Templeton is president of the Detroit Chamber of Commerce, and was chairman of the Newberry campaign. He, with Frank Blair and Thomas J. Phillips, refused to testify before a grand jury in New York until ordered to do so by the Supreme Court of the United States. Meanwhile, however, the New York grand jury had been discharged. Blair, who is president of the Union Trust Co. of Detroit, and a former receiver for the Pere Marquette Railroad, was treasurer of the Newberry campaign.

Harry O. Turner is a Detroit broker, and was an assistant secretary of the Newberry campaign.

Mark T. McKee is a law partner of Paul King. He was prominent in the Red Cross organization in Michigan and in fraternal circles of the State.

Campaign Publicity Manager.

Harry Hopkins was publicity manager of the 1918 campaign. He is publisher of a magazine for postmasters and rural carriers.

Charles A. Floyd had charge of the county organizations which were built up throughout the State. Formerly, he was head of the Michigan State Fair and before that was general manager of the Grand Rapids-Holland Interurban System.

Milton Oakman is a former Sheriff, and for 10 years was "boss" of Detroit Republican politics.

Judd Yelland is a Probate Judge at Escanaba. In the list of "overt acts" he is charged with having given Henry Dotsch of Gladstone $50.

Frank McKay is assignment clerk in the local courts, and was county secretary of the Newberry campaign.

James B. Bradley is a physician at Eaton Rapids. He once ran in the Republican primary for Governor, but was defeated.

Besides the men whose indictments were announced several other individuals are mentioned as having committed "overt acts."

There was nothing in the official announcements, however, to indicate whether they had been indicted.

Scandal Without Parallel.

Government officials asserted that the testimony presented to the grand jury had revealed a political scandal that in many respects was without parallel in American annals. They said it extended from the most populous wards of Detroit to the Indian reservations on the shores of Lake Superior, where Aborigines were voted according to the behest of the Newberry campaign organization.

It was alleged that voters were bribed, election boards corrupted, editors subsidized and moving picture theaters bought up in the endeavor to defeat Henry Ford first in the primaries of both parties and later when he had won the Democratic nomination in the election itself.

Officials were a bit secretive as to how the alleged conspiracy was uncovered, but general outline of their methods was made available. It was revealed that an attempt was made to repeat the suspected tactics of the Newberry campaign. Under this plan a corps of investigators were sent into the State under the direction of Earl J. Houck, who, with Frank C. Dailey, special assistant to the Attorney-General, was a central figure in the election fraud cases of Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Evansville and Frankfort, Ind. These cases beginning in 1915 resulted in some 200 convictions.

Start on Bank Records.

Dailey and Houck came to Michigan last August. Bank records were inspected and the visitors' lists of safety deposit vaults gone over. With the tale of these as a starter, the investigators were sent out. They visited "small fry" politicians first, offering them vague hints of what might come from a mythical campaign of a certain Michigan politician. Objections to small returns were followed by "confidential" comparisons with the Newberry campaign.

Generally, it was said, the lesser political leaders fell into the traps, telling what they had received and explaining who "ought to handle the money" in given wards of towns. The next grade of political leader was then approached and by this method, it was stated, a clear trail was blazed to the "higher-ups." When brought into the grand jury room and confronted with accurate accounts of their conversations with the agents, the men generally, it was said, repeated their stories.

The Government's legal experts, headed by Daily H. Dale Souter of Grand Rapids, a former Assistant District Attorney, and Oliver Pagan, indictment expert for the Department of Justice, took both state and Federal laws as the basis for the indictments. The Federal corrupt practices act of 1910 limits the expenditures of senatorial candidates to $10,000, and requires that four statements be filed with the Secretary of the Senate, one preceding and following, first the primary and then the election.

Bribery of Voters a Crime.

The second Federal corrupt practise act, which the indictment alleges was violated, was passed in October, 1918. It made bribery of voters a crime after several Federal courts held that such an act was not an offense against the laws of the United States. This law came into being after the Michigan primary, but just ahead of the election

The State laws were brought in because the act of 1910 provides that if a state limit campaign expenditures to less than the $10,000 named in that act, then the state law shall appply to campaigns within that commonwealth. As it happens the Michigan statutes limit campaign expenditures to one-fourth of the yearly salary of the position sought for each proimary or election campaign. An aspirant for United States Senator in this State, may, therefore, it was argued, spend only $1875 on the primary, and an equal amount on the election campaign.

The law forbidding use of the mails to defraud was first used in election cases by Dr. Dailey in the Terre Haute indictments. It was applied to the Newberry case as probably covering various letters sent to campaign contributors which letters, it was charged, were worded so as to deceive the recipients as to the amounts already collected by the Newberry treasurer.

To meet a probable defense that Senator Newberry was ignorant of the amount of money and its sources used in his campaign, the Government intends to use a statement issued by the candidate's managers after the first rumors of corruption began to be heard. This statement showed receipts of $178,856 and expenditures of $176,568. Of the contributions John S. Newberry, the Senator's brother, was credited with $99,900; A Victor Barnes of New York, president of the American Book Co., and a brother of Mrs. Truman Newberry, with $25,000; Henry E. Joy of Detroit, another brother-in-law of the Senator, with $25,000, and Mrs. Henry B. Joy, the Senator's sister, with $10,000.

Will Allege Conference.

The Government will attempt to show that these persons conferred with Truman H. Newberry while he was a candidate, thus indicating his knowledge of the campaign. It also has a number of letters which he wrote to politicians while the campaign was on. Frederick Cody, formerly a Detroit school teacher, but now of New York, and connected with the American Book Co. was named as one wtih whom the candidate conferred.

These circumstances also were used as a basis of the allegation of the second indictment, that there was a general conspiracy to aid the new Senator to obtain office illegally. There are two counts to this indictment, one relating to the primary affidavits and the other to the election statements.

The second indictment starts with a count which charges expenditures in excess of the legal limit in the primary and election combined; the second count alleges the same charge with relation to the primary alone and the third repeats it as to the election alone. The fourth count charges violation of the State election law in that more than $6750 was spent in the two campaigns.

In this connection, it was pointed out that while the Federal law does not forbid advertising in newspapers, the Michigan statute specifically limits the amounts to be spent by candidates or their party in pre-election campaigns. The statement of expenditures listed by the Newberry campaign managers includes items which total about $148,000 for newspaper advertising.

The count details that with the excess campaign funds, district and county agents and managers and numerous secret propagandists and detectives were hired and their expenses paid; moving picture films were bought and much literature distributed, all of which acts are alleged to be in violation of the Michigan law. The Government agents said they had proof that one moving film alone cost $8000.

Newberry was Secretary of the Navy in President Roosevelt's Cabinet, and, as an officer in the naval reserve, was stationed in New York during the war as assistant to Rear Admiral Usher, commandant of the Third Naval District. Newberry was declared elected over Ford in the last senatorial election by a majority of 7567 votes after the election. The vote was: Newberry, 220,054, and Ford, 212,487. Ford filed a petition contesting Newberry's seat.

Senate Likely to Wait on Michigan Proceedings in Newberry Case.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Senator Newberry had not returned to Washington tonight, but it was believed by other Senators that the action of the Michigan grand jury in his case would not change the status of the petition that he be unseated, filed by Henry Ford and pending before the Senate Committee of Privileges and Elections. The outcome of the proceedings in Michigan would be awaited, it was said, as the Senator hardly would be called on by the committee to defend his title to his seat in both places at the same time.

CONGRESS IN REGULAR SESSION TOMORROW

President's Message Expected to Discuss Treaty and Industrial Situation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Preparations for convening the Sixty-sixth Congress in its first regular session, next Monday, virtually are complete tonight, with most leaders of both parties already here. Senate and House plan to adjourn almost immediately Monday after notifying President Wilson formally of their reassemblages and receiving the usual flood of appropriation departmental estimates and reports.

Mr. Wilson's message, in which interest is centered on expected discussion of the German peace treaty and the industrial situation is scheduled to be read to each body on Tuesday. Because of the President's illness, the usual joint session to hear from him in person will not be held. The President has been working on the message two weeks, dictating to a stenographer in his sick room.

The Senate is expected to begin work on the Cummins railroad bill and the House on miscellaneous business when the session gets fully started. House committees will start work on the 16 annual appropriation measures to be enacted before July 1.

Railroad Legislation.

While the railroad legislation is before the Senate negotiations toward disposal of the German peace treaty are expected to reach a head, but with leaders on both sides doubtful of final action before the holidays.

The program of legislation before the Christmas vacation, expected from about Dec. 20 to Jan. 5, calls tentatively for passage by the Senate of the railroad bill or a temporary emergency resolution, and final action on the oil, coal, gas and phosphate land leasing bill, the Edge foreign financing corporation bill—both of which are in conference—and a few minor measures. Many leaders expect the regular session to run until next October.

The new session is the last before the next presidential campaign. Although adjournment sine die next June is the goal of some leaders, in preparation for the campaign, few expect that the legislative program could be completed by that time.

"Economy" the Watchword.

Republican leader Mondell, in a statement tonight, gave "economy" as the watchword of the majority. Other pressing domestic matters to be dealt with include formulation of permanent policies for the army, the navy, the merchant marine, and revision of taxes and tariffs.

In addition to the German peace treaty, the Senate has pending the French protective treaty, the Polish treaty and that with Colombia growing out of the Panama canal's acquisition. Transmission to the Senate of the Austrian peace treaty is expected soon.

Operators to Meet Gov. Sproul to Plan Protection for Workers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Operators in Western Pennsylvania, which is a part of the central competitive field, will meet Gov. Sproul of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Monday to discuss plans for protecting miners wishing to return to work, according to information received here today by the operators' committee.

Those in close touch with the situation regarded this as the first indication of an attempt to break the strike in the highly organized central field. It was expected that general plans for all four states included in this field would be discussed when the operators' wage scale committee reconvened here Wednesday.

The call for the meeting said the purpose was to harmonize details of the proposed 14 per cent wage advance, but methods of bringing the strike to an end were expected to be the most important subject considered.

There are 5000 trees on the property, Appel says, from six inches to three feet in diameter and from 10 feet to 50 feet in height.

CORONER'S JURY FINDS THAT MISSING DANSEY BOY IS DEAD

Verdict Is That He Died Between Oct. 8 and Nov. 21, "How, When or Where Unknown."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Nov. 29.—After hearing a score of witnesses, D. J. C. Bitler, foreman of the Coroner's jury which inquired into the death of George William Dansey, 3 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hercules Dansey, late of Pittsburg, Pa., but who for three months have been living here, brought in a verdict to the effect that Billy Dansey came to his death between Oct. 8 and Nov. 21, how, when or where unknown to the jury.

Coroner Cunningham said the evidence showed the child could not have taken its clothes off and that it was highly improbable it could have unrobed where found two miles from home.

There was a sharp conflict of testimony between Mrs. Irving Coons, opposite whose home the body was found, and Joseph Sacco, an Italian butcher. Sacco was seen driving a wagon in the vicinity of the spot where the body was found. Mrs. Coons swore he was accompanied by an Italian with sore eyes. Sacco swore he was accompanied by Louis Grillo, who on the day the Dansey boy disappeared was exercising a dog near the Dansey home. The "sore-eyed" Italian is said to have left the country. Prosecutor Gaskill was present.

Mrs. Estella Dansey, mother of the missing lad, denied reports of family troubles either before or since the disappearance of her son. It was brought out that the hunter, Grillo, had been in the vicinity where he found the body on several occasions since Oct. 8. It developed that a few days before Billy Dansey disappeared his fox terrier was shot by parties unknown.

BOY, 12, SWINDLES GIRL, 6, OF $9

"Let's hunt rabbits," he said, pointing to a vacant lot. Before the hunt began he suggested that a tin-can bank would be the safest depository for Edna May's purse. Edna May agreed. The hunt began but there were no rabbits. The youth returned the purse.

When Edna May reached home her mother found the purse was empty. The 'confidence boy" is described as 12 years old.

STEEL COMPANY SEEKS TO ENJOIN MAYOR OF CLEVELAND

Order Against Police Chief Also Asked for; Alleged They Prevent Bringing in of Workers.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.—An injunction restraining Mayor Harry L. Davis and Chief of Police Smith from interfering with workers brought to Cleveland to enter the steel mills, closed for two months by a strike, was sought today in a petition filed in Federal Court by the American Steel and Wire Co.

Coupled with the injunction proceedings was a suit against the Mayor and the Chief for $3000 or more damages, the company alleging that Mayor Davis order to police preventing the bringing of workers into the city was in the nature of a conspiracy with the striking steel workers.

The Court issued an order that Mayor Davis and Chief Smith appear in court next Tuesday to show cause why they should not be enjoined from further enforcing the Mayor's order.

In a habeas corpus proceeding in Federal Court yesterday in the case of Ralph E. Ferguson, one of 60 men who came here last Saturday to work in a steel mill and who were held by police for several hours charged with being suspicious persons, Federal Judge Westenhaven called the Mayor's order "lawless and a high handed disregard for the rights of American citizens."

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 29.—Disorders which have marked the steel strike in Benwood, near here, resulted in an announcement today by Sheriff W. E. Clayton that he would make every effort to have Mayor Sprouls and Chief of Police Landers impeached. According to the Sheriff, several steel plant employes, enroute to work, have been assaulted, with no arrests.

GERMANY ATTRIBUTES SINKING OF FLEET TO ALLIES

Supplemental Memorandum on Scapa Flow Incident Sent to Peace Conference at Paris.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—The Government has sent to the peace conference at Paris a supplemental memorandum with regard to the sinking by their crews of the German warships interned in Scapa Flow and the conference demands for indemnification for the loss of the vessels.

The memorandum asserts that the internment of the fleet in Scapa Flow did not constitute the final disposition of the warships, the sinking of which must not be charged to Germany, but to the Allies, who interned the fleet in a British port and not a neutral port, which was contrary to the stipulations of the armistice.

Admiral von Reuter, the memorandum declares, was deprived of means of communicating with Germany and believed that the armistice ended at noon June 21; therefore, in accordance with maritime custom, he began sinking the fleet. The memorandum raises the additional point that, as von Reuter was a prisoner, he had lost his command, and, therefore, Germany's responsibility for his acts ceased to exist. In conclusion, the memorandum proposes to submit the question to The Hague tribunal for arbitration.

France is to get 10 German submarines, the Supreme Council decided today. During the war France was unable to build to the extent of others of the allies. The present understanding is that the remainder of the submarines will be broken up.

ILLINOIS LAW KEEPS VOLUNTEERS OUT OF COAL MINES

Requirement of Miner's Certificate May Hamper Efforts to Effect Resumption of Production.

OPERATORS OFFER GOVERNMENT SCALE

Notices of Wage Increase Posted at Shafts With Invitation to Men to Go Back to Work Tomorrow.

Illinois mining statutes, which forbid anyone not holding a miner's certificate to work in a coal mine, may obstruct efforts of State and Federal officials to restore production in the region on which St. Louis depends for its coal supply. This was announced yesterday by Thomas T. Brewster, chairman of the Operators' Scale Committee of the central competitive district, who has just returned from the coal conference in Washington.

Gov. Lowden of Illinois is expected to attend the conference of Governors in Chicago today, which was called by Gov. Gardner of Missouri, to consider means of preventing an acute coal famine in the central states. The governors of Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio and Indiana have also been invited.

Kansas is organizing a volunteer force of coal miners, and similar action has been suggested in Illinois. The use of convict labor under military protection has also been suggested. But according to Brewster, the State statutes stand in the way of such measures.

Brewster's Statement.

"I do not know of any holders of Illinois miners' certificates who are not members of the union," Brewster said. "Under the law, there is only one way that the mines of Illinois can resume production. That is, for the miners to realize that they have obtained all that it is possible for them to obtain.

"Arguments have ceased, and a definite wage increase has been laid down by the Government. The operators have agreed to it, and I believe that, within a few days, the miners will begin to think for themselves. When this happens, I have no doubt that they will return to work, either with or without the consent of their leaders."

Brewster said the operators would immediately announce the new wage scale, embodying the 14 per cent increase, and would give the miners an opportunity to return to work.

Carrying out this policy, operators in the Belleville district yesterday posted notices at the shafts, t the effect that the mines will b ready to resume work tomorrow and that the new wage scale will b in force. Officials of the miners union said the miners would not return to work.

The committee met yesterday, but made no further announcement.

A protest was sent to the committee, by the Coal Service Bureau of St. Louis, against the advance of $1 a ton in the price of coke, announced by the local producers of coke.

"We feel it our duty," the Coal Service Bureau said, "to protect those who look to us for their supply of fuel, and to assist the authorities at Washington in their efforts to supply the needs of the consumers as economically as possible.

"The further fact that virtually all of the Illinois mines are shut down and the only available supply of fuel in St. Louis is coke; and, as the authorities at Washington are making every effort to keep down the high cost of living, the members of this bureau feel, that, inasmuch as the price was advanced 75 cents per ton on Nov. 1, this is a very inopportune time to impose a further burden upon the consumers by an arbitrary advance in the price of the present stock of coke which is now being held at their yards.

"We suggest if the Regional Coal Committee has the power, that it prevent the advance from being made effective, and if necessary, that the Regional Coal Committee appeal to the authorities at Washington for permission to confiscate the stock of coke now on hand and distribute it."

The notice of the increase in the price of coke was sent to fuel dealers by the M. W. Warren Coke Co., representative of the Consolidated Coal Co. of Baltimore, which controls the output of by-product and gas coke.

Under the new schedule the retail price of byproduct coke will be $12.25 a ton and the retail price of gas coke will be $10.50 a ton. Both these grades were advanced 75 cents a ton Nov. 1.

The use of fuel oil, instead of coal, is being considered by the managements of a number of St. Louis industries. The Brown Shoe Co., which is using coke as fuel, is also beginning to use oil, it was stated yesterday. The Scullin Steel Co. is using oil, largely to the exclusion of coal and coke. The Mississippi Glass Co. has plans for the use of oil. Concerns which supply oil burners, for adjustment to boilers, are negotiating with several large concerns, including the Certain-teed Products Co. and the Fulton Iron Works.

Mines Fight Fire in Shaft.

In the Edwardsville-Staunton mine district, it was said yesterday that none of the miners expected to go to work tomorrow. The miners' local at Staunton detailed men to fight a fire in Mine No. 7 there, which has been in progress several days.

The War Department has ordered that coal shall be supplied to the powerhouse of the Southern Illinois Light and Power Co., at Collinsville, from which Scott Field is supplied with current. The company's plant at Hillsboro was running yesterday, but the question of equipping the boilers with oil burners was being considered.

The Western Cartridge Co. at Alton, which closed Monday for lack of coal, will open tomorrow, with oil burners.

Walter Nesbit of Belleville, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois mine workers, returned from Washington yesterday. He declared that the proposal of Secretary of Labor Wilson for a 31 per cent increase, if it had been carried out, would have caused the miners to return to work. Nesbit held that the empowering of Garfield with his wartime authority as Fuel Administrator was a mistake. Nesbit will attend a conference with State officials tomorrow, in Chicago.

Supt. Weber of the Belleville schools has reported to the School Board that, unless the coal shortage is relieved, the schools may have to close within two weeks. Industrial plants there are complaining of the rapid diminution of their supply.

$20,000 Verdict Granted Wife in Alienation Suit

Mrs. Florence Winzenburg Sued Parents of Husband, a Former Officer, Who Testified From Cot for Them.

Mrs. Florence Bischoff Winzenburg, 6026A Westminster place, was awarded $10,000 actual and $10,000 punitive damages by a jury at Clayton yesterday afternoon in her $20,000 alienation suit against the parents of Roy Winzenburg, former First Lieutenant in the 138th (St. Louis) Infantry.

The jury was out more than two hours. After it had been out for about an hour a dictionary was sent for. When this was denied a request was made for a definition of the word punitive. Judge Wurdeman wrote out a definition, and more than an hour later the jury made the award, including the $10,000 punitive damages.

The case went to the jury at 2:30 p. m., after Mrs. Winzenburg had testified in the cross-examination that her wedding ring was "at the bottom of the Mississippi River." She explained that she had dropped it over the side of the boat last summer when it seemed that all of her attempts at reconciliation had failed.

Winzenburg, who was accidentally shot by a sentry at Camp Doniphan in November, 1917, is still disabled. He was carried to the courtroom where he testified from a cot in his parents' behalf.

Members of the jury said last night that the letters from the parents, Robert and Sophie Winzenburg, 25 Highland terrace, Richmond Heights, and the fact that his insurance was made out to them had much to do with the verdict. Maj. Frank Carmack, also formerly of the 138th Infantry, testified that Lieut. Winzenburg's wife had tried to have him induce her husband, then supposed to be dying, to sign a paper turning over his insurance to her, when the 138th was stationed at Camp Doniphan.

that he would be held personally responsible if the United States Government did not release Alexander Berkman, Emma Goldman and Tom Mooney. He also said that while he loved his old city and would be content to remain here, he would, if ordered by the Government, return to Russia if his services were needed there.

Following the reception P. P. Connor, one of the oldest Exchange members, auctioned flowers and raised a substantial sum for the hospitals.

A small boy who sells papers in front of the Frisco Building, Ninth and Olive streets, approached a woman selling Hospital Saturday and Sunday tags in the lobby of the building yesterday morning and said that he would like to buy a tag, but as it was early, he didn't have any money.

"Couldn't you gimme credit?", he asked. The woman pinned a tag on him, and he left the building smiling.

A half hour later he returned and deposited a dime in the collection box. The boy said his name was Sammy Polsky, and that he was 7 years old.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—Coal orders eliminating electric signs and display advertising, limiting industries, except public utilities and plants engaged in continuous operations, to 48 hours a week, restricting the hours of stores and office buildings from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., and theaters, movies and all other public amusement places from 1 to 10:30 p. m., were announced tonight by the Regional Coal Committee, effective throughout the Southern region at noon Monday.

LABOR SECRETARY BLAMED FOR COAL STRIKE SITUATION

H. H. Merrick, in Commercial Club Speech, Says Wilson Told Miners "to Get Their Pound of Flesh."

CALLED MISTAKE OF ADMINISTRATION

Chicago Association of Commerce President Finds Audience Mildly Responsive to Plain Talk.

A charge that Secretary of Labor Wilson, by urging upon the coal miners that now was the time "to get their pound of flesh," prevented a peaceful settlement of the coal strike within the last week, was made last night by Harry H. Merrick of Chicago, the guest speaker of the Commercial Club of St. Louis at one of its occasional banquets at the St. Louis Club.

"Every administration has its mistakes," he said, "and we know that one of the greatest mistakes is Secretary Wilson, an appointee of the American Federation of Labor. Lewis, for the miners, was ready to accept the wage proposal of the mine owners when Wilson told him to hold out for the last ounce of blood. If I were talking just a few months ago I might be sent to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., where there is a corral, but that time is passed and we may now again speak as we think."

Merrick is president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, president of the Great Lakes Trust Co. and president of the Mississippi Valley Association. However, he was introduced by R. H. Stockton with greater emphasis on the fact that for 20 years he was "the right hand man" of J. Ogden Armour. He has come to public notice within the last few months, during which he has been going the length of the Mississippi valley preaching for the independence of the valley from the financial and commercial domination of New York in dynamic and epigrammatic fashion.

Bold and Emphatic Speech.

His references to the unrest of public affairs have been bald and emphtatic, particularly in his condemnation of the business man for his apathy to dangers which he has laid to the practices of business in in the past. "It's not the President's job, or Congress' job or the other fellow's job, it's our job," has been one of his common assertions.

He did not deviate from his methods of speaking last night and his audience was less frequent in its applause than upon occasions when less plain-spoken orators have been honored by the club. As is known, the Commercial Club is composed largely of business leaders and bankers, including virtually all of those who are in the older generation. With Merrick at the speaker's table were W. K. Bixby, B. F. Bush, Archbishop Glennon, Mayor Kiel, Edward Mallinckrodt, Benjamin Gratz, John F. Lee, James E. Smith, McKittrick Jones and Jackson Johnson.

Merrick cited the procedure of "my friend, Leonard Wood," in his handling of the riots of Omaha and Gary as an example for emulation. "Wood said," Merrick repeated, "'go back and tell the boys that this thing has got to stop or there will be some dead men around here and they will be among them.'

Not Sure Labor Is to Blame.

"I am not sure that labor is to blame. The Adamson law swelled them with egotism. The Clayton act is another of the things that has led up to the present situation. As you know, it prohibits certain things, but exempts the labor unions. The Webb-Pomerene act says that business men can do in foreign trade those things which they are prevented from doing in domestic trade by the Sherman anti-trust law. But it says that these things can be done in exporting and says nothing of importing, so becomes a joke.

"The time has come for us to say, 'thus far shalt thou go and no further.' There can be no separate law for the man who calls himself a laboring man in distinction from the farmer or the merchant.

"What is the remedy? I don't believe it lies in the passage of another law. We enacted 12,000 laws last year and you and I break a few hundreds every day. It cannot be government by legislation. The remedy is that each of us get into the game, that we impress upon our Congressmen our own opinions. You all employ men. Correct conditions needing correction among your own employes. Don't laugh when you pick up your newspaper and read where, of 200 men ordered for deportation at Ellis Island, 150 have been released on bail and none have been deported. Don't laugh and say it is a sample of rotten politics. Get into the game and see that the evil is corrected."

200 Mexicans Reported Killew.

By the Associated Press.

NOGALES, Ariz., Nov. 29.—Two hundred soldiers and several high officers of the Mexican Federal army have been killed in recent ambushed by Yaqui Indians at Onovas, south of Tonichi, on the Yaqui River, near the eastern border of Sonora, according to advices received tonight by Francis J. Dyer, American Consul at Nogales, Sonora, opposite here.

WHISKY SWINDLE BY MEANS OF TUBE "FOOLER" FOILED

Six Men and Woman Held at End of Two-Day Trail of Stolen Liquor by Detectives.

Detectives working for two days and nights on a trail which they were led to believe would lead them to the recovery of 10 barrels of whisky stolen by highwaymen from the bonded warehouse, Duncan and Boyle avenues, a month ago, yesterday arrested six men and a woman, "recovered" two empty barrels and unearthed what they term an attempted whisky swindle.

One of the barrels recovered was fitted with a copper tube two inches wide extending from the lid to the bottom. It was to have been filled with whisky, and the rest of the barrel was to have contained water and the whole sold for $250, they say.

The intended victim in the case, the detectives say, was Henry P. Sommers, 9423 South Broadway, grocer and butcher. A woman named in the case, and who was not caught, approached Sommers three weeks ago, and talked "cheap vinegar" to him for several days. She later changed the "vinegar" to whisky, the detectives say, and finally made arrangements for the sale.

James McKenzie, 4632 Cottage avenue, arrested, admitted that he and another man had constructed the barrel with the copper spouting, and had used it and a second barrel to deceive Sommers. Frank Hoffman, 280 Lemay Ferry road, and Joseph Brockhaus, his chauffeur, 8416 Minnesota avenue, after their arrest, admitted they hauled the barrels from a boiler works on Cass avenue, where the copper "fooler" was constructed, to Sommers' place on South Broadway. They also hauled them back again, they said. McKenzie explained this by saying Sommers "backed out" at the last minute, and refused to buy the "whisky."

McKenzie was released. Hoffman, Sommers, Brockhaus and Mrs. Mary Freeze, 9221 South Broadway, an aunt of the woman "go-between," who admitted taking and sending a number of telephone messages in the case, were held for the Federal authorities.

The empty barrel with the copper "fooler" was taken to police headquarters.

HUNGER STRIKE OF RADICALS AT ELLIS ISLAND IS BROKEN

All Except Five of Prisoners Eagerly Answer Breakfast Call After Fast of Five Days.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The hunger strike of the "Ellis Island Soviet" was broken today. All except five of the 68 radicals who had refused to eat since last Monday evening eagerly answered the call to the dining room for breakfast.

After a fast of five days they were ravenous and were first in the immigrants' dining hall. They devoured prunes, mush, bread, substitute butter and coffee and asked for more. Second helpings were refused, however, not only because one was considered adequate, but the radicals might have made themselves ill by eating too much.

The silence strike of the 68 also has collapsed. Word that the Department of Justice was providing the island with eight husky guards to force them to attend deportation hearings before immigration inspectors was brought to the radicals by their counsel. The guards had not arrived today, but the inspectors found no difficulty in getting radicals to go to the hearings room.

POSSE HUNTS MAN IN OZARKS

Former Convict Said to Have Killed Marshal of Winona, Mo.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WINONA, Mo., Nov. 29.—A posse under Sheriff John T. Bay of Shannon County, using bloodhounds, has failed to find Howard Bogartus, alias Howard Bolin, who shot and killed R. W. Sitton, City Marshal, Thursday afternoon when being arrested for the alleged robbery of a store the previous night near here.

Sitton fired, hitting Bogartus, but the bullet lodged in a flour sack wrapped around a bar of soap in a shirt pocket. Bogartus was released recently from the State prison after completing a three-year sentence. When convicted he is declared to have sworn vengeance on Sitton's father for arresting him, and the younger Sitton for guarding him.

Sitton was 38 years old, and left a wife and five children. Borgartus is 35 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, has light complexion, high cheek bones, a small scar on the right cheek, two gold-crowned front teeth, and wore a blue serge cap, khaki pants and number nine black shoes when last seen here. A reward of $100 has been offered for his capture.

A., Fourteenth and Locust streets. The Rev. Charles Tadlock, pastor of the Centenary Methodist Church, performed the ceremony. The staff of the Y. W. C. A. and a large number of friends were present.

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS MEN BACK UP MAYOR

Declaration on His Dismissal of Policemen's Union Officials Going to Council Tomorrow Night.

A "declaration of independence" that indorses the stand of Mayor Johnson in discharging officials of the Belleville Policemen's Union, following refusal by the union to surrender its A. F. of L. charter, is being circulated for signatures and will be presented at the City Council meeting tomorrow night. The "declaration" was adopted at a mass meeting of 150 business men Friday, at which the "Municipal Welfare League" was formed to combat the union.

Both sides, the policemen being supported by the Belleville Trades and Labor Assembly, were yesterday claiming majorities in the Council. A two-thirds vote is necessary to override the Mayor. The men discharged are Frank Wolff, president, and Warren Sexton, secretary of the union. They were discharged when the union voted against the Mayor's demand that the charter be surrendered.

The "declaration of independence" follows:

"1. Policemen are officers of the law, under oath to preserve its dignity without fear or discrimination. They have no moral or legal right to affiliate with any outside organization which may exert influence.

"2. A union of policemen, operated under charter, makes its members a part of a certain class. They may be called upon to interfere with the inforcement of city, State and Federal laws. They cannot serve two masters; they can serve only one, the Mayor of the city.

"3. Any proposal to deny to citizens protection of the law is un-American.

"4. We believe that a union of policemen would stand as a bar against further industrial development of the city. Strangers will not invest where they are not guaranteed absolute protection.

"5. A policemen's union will handicap the industrial growth of the city and force plants now operating here to other fields.

"6. The plan for unionization was forced on the policemen by men who are more concerned with personal advantage than with better working conditions.

"7. The present issue is not one of Americanism or unionism, but of Americanism vs. radicalism."

PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION SEEKS $150,000 FOR RELIEF WORK

The official annual appeal of the Provident Association for funds with which to conduct the work of the institution in 1920 was issued last evening over the signatures of President Thomas H. West and the Executive Committee. The campaign begins today and $150,000 is needed to finance the work in the approaching year. Regular donors are asked to increase their subscriptions, as increased demands of the poor are anticipated. A full statement of the institution's work and how the money is expended is given in another section of this paper.

To the People of St. Louis:

"The Provident Association of long standing, is organized, as you know, to help those in trouble, to minister to sick and suffering humanity in our city, and to help them to better things. Unfed and scantily clothed children and over-worked women are facing a cold winter; many sick bread winners with large families must be helped until they can resume work; and many who will not make known their wants are found in a destitute condition.

"The demands will fall heavily on the association this winter, as coal and food are high. To help people without pauperizing them requires close investigation, and the association has experienced workers in the field and a card system to protect it from impostors. It also conducts a Charities Registration Bureau or Confidential Exchange for 18 societies, thus preventing overlapping. The object of the association is to help those in need; but the main object is to help them to help themselves and not make dependents, and to promote such standards of health and education in the families as will make them community assets, rather than liabilities.

"Such work as this should appeal to every business firm and corporation, man and woman who is able to help. They should set aside a certain amount every year as a necessary expense, and regard it as a secred obligation. We may make promiscuous gifts in the streets and think we are going good, but in most cases we are encouraging pauperism. Concentration in giving and not indiscriminate giving should be encouraged. You who are prosperous, with all the comforts, stop and think of others not so fortunate. The strong must help the weak.

"The work is pursued in a systematic manner, but thoroughly, systematically, intelligently and economically. It is conducted in a businesslike way and the accounts are audited annually by certified public accountants.

"We shall need, as a minimum, $150,000. The campaign begins today. We hope many will double their subscriptions of last year. As the necessities will be heavier than ever before, we trust you will respond liberally when our solicitor calls for your subscription."

STREET CARS WILL RESUME SKIP STOP SYSTEM TOMORROW

Stops Abandoned During War Will Be Eliminated for Period of Coal Shortage.

St. Louis street cars will tomorrow resume the skip-stop system, the stops eliminated being the same as when that system prevailed in wartime. This measure is taken at the order of the Public Service Commission, which acted on the request of the Regional Coal Committee. The order is in force during the period of the coal emergency.

Chairman Greenlaw of the committee has estimated that the United Railways Co. can save two carloads of coal a day, through the reduction in power made possible by the skip-stop system.

Forty painters were engaged to work today, in painting over the yellow bands on poles at corners where, beginning tomorrow, stops will not be made. They may not be able to complete their work today, and if they do not stops will be made tomorrow as indicated by the poles.

The skip-stop system, in the wartime period, did not win public favor, although it tended to reduce running time. Apparently, the public preferred the privilege of getting on or off at any and every corner to the advantages of rapid transit, and when the company sought to have the system made permanent, there were so many protests that the Public Service Commission denied the request.

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE OF LABOR DELEGATES ADJOURNS

Governing Body Created at Washington Meeting to Hold First Session in London Jan. 16.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The first international labor conference held under the provisions of the treaty of Versailles was concluded here today, and adjourned, subject to the call of the governing body. It was understood generally that the next meeting would be late in 1920, at the seat of the league.

Delegates from 41 countries, representing labor and employer groups, as well as the governments, have attended the sessions which continued exactly one month. In that time the members of the conference have perfected their organization, created a governing body, appointed a director-general of the labor office, and agreed on a great volume of identic legislation to be recommended to their respective governments.

The first meeting of the governing body will be held on Jan. 26, probably in London, the temporary headquarters of the league of nations.

Practically the last act of the conference was the adding of the proposed convention providing for the indemnification of wage-earning mothers at the time of childbirth. It provides for the granting of a six weeks' leave of absence prior to the birth of the child and an equal period immediately afterwards, and the payment for the time lost either by the state or by some form of insurance.

Before the conference adjourned, Secretary Wilson, the chairman expressed to the delegates the regret President Wilson felt that he had been unable to meet with them.

MAN GIVES HIS BLOOD TO SAVE LIFE OF WOMAN WHOM HE SHOT

Washington Matron Wounded While in Embrace of Lover, Who Wants Her to Know of Sacrifice.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Florence Robinson, comely young matron lying near death in a hospital, and Grover Gordon, little more than a youth, who because, he said, he loved her, yesterday shot the woman through the body, and for the same announced reason, 12 hours later, kept her alive by giving his blood for transfusion to her veins today are the principals in one of the most remarkable crime incidents in Washington police history.

Following a jealous quarrel recently, Gordon yesterday went to the home of the young woman, who some time ago had separated from her husband, to bid her final goodby, as he expected to go that day to his old home in Wheeling, W. Va. As she stood in his embrace Gordon fired a revolver shot through her body.

After his arrest last night, Gordon was told that Mrs. Robinson would die unless someone volunteered to submit to blood transfusion. He eagerly offered himself and requested only that if the patient still were conscious that she be told of his action.

Physicians today said it was too early to say whether the operation would save Mrs. Robinson's life.

PAPERS IN OLD DIVORCE SUIT MISSING FROM CIRCUIT COURT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARYVILLE, Mo., Nov. 29.—G. H. Westfall, Circuit Clerk of Nodaway County, after a thorough search in his office today announced that all the papers filed in the divorce suit of Mrs. Ella B. McJimsey against E. E. E. McJimsey, formerly of Maryville, but now of Springfield, Mo., had disappeared from the clerk's office.

Mrs. Ella B. McJimsey was granted a divorce from E. E. E. McJimsey by the Circuit Court of Nodaway County, March 3, 1900. The decree recites that the Court found that the plaintiff had offered such indignities to the plaintiff as to render her condition intolerable. She was granted the custody of their three children. A few years after the decree of divorce was granted McJimsey again married. The first Mrs. McJimsey died about three years ago.

SCHOOLGIRL WINS $50 PRIZE WITH PAINTING

Mrs. Katheryn Cherry's "Salting the Catch" Takes $500 Art League Prize at Artists' Guild.

Miss Gisella Loeffler, 16 years old, a pupil at Yeatman High School, last evening was awarded a $50 prize for "Doll's House," one of eight paintings she had on exhibit at the seventh annual competitive exhibition of the St. Louis Artists' Guild. On exhibition also was a portrait of Miss Loeffler, painted by her art teacher at Yeatman, Miss A. McColl, which was also awarded a $50 prize.

The awards were made at a dinner given in the rathskeller of the guild. The other prize winners are:

Frank Nuderscher, "Romance of Industry," a St. Louis levee scene. Chamber of Commerce prize of $350, conditional on the painting becoming the property of the Chamber.

ATTEMPTED ASSAULT CHARGED AFTER GIRL, 9, IDENTIFIES MAN

Accused Also Ordered Held for Federal Authorities Because of Incompleted Naturalization.

Harry Fidler, 35 years old, of 562 Skinker road, a tailor, captured Friday by Dr. Harry R. Faherty, 1697 South Grand avenue, after Mrs. Faherty had seen Fidler escort a 9-year-old girl into a wash room in the building at the Grand avenue address, was ordered held for the immigration authorities yesterday when Assistant Chief of Detectives Rundle learned Fidler had been in this country 20 years and had taken out only his first naturalization papers.

A warrant charging Fidler with attempted assault was issued in the State case. He was identified by Mary Irwin, 9 years old, an inmate of the Episcopal Orphans' Home, Grand avenue and De Tonty street, and also by Augusta Durst, 8 years old, of the same home. He was transferred from the city jail yesterday back to police headquarters and a dozen other girls who have been similarly treated in different parts of the city notified the call and look at the prisoner.

Fidler yesterday denied having molested the girls. He said he had never "bothered" about taking out his second papers.

He served a year in the workhouse in 1910 for larceny of two unset diamonds from the stock of C. F. Gauen, a jeweler in the La Salle building.

COLOMBIAN SUPREME COURT ADVERSE TO OIL DECREE

Decision Believed in Washington to Remove Ostacle to Favorable Action on Treaty.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—An official cablegram from Bogato today states that the Colombian Supreme Court has handed down a decision relative to the oil decree of June 20 last, declaring Articles 3, 4, and 5 of the decree to be unconstitutional.

The court held that the Government did not have the authority to concede to third parties the right to explore petroleum mines belonging to private individuals, t oenter into contractual relations with third parties relative to such mines, or to limit in any way the right of the privatee ownere to develop the mines situated on his lands.

It was the promulgation of the oil decree by the Colombian Government that was assigned as reasons for the refusal of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to act favorably on the treaty pending with Colombia. The action of the Colombian supreme court, it is believed, removes the last obstacle to the favorable action of the Senate on the treaty.

MORE AMERICAN STAGE TALENT DEMANDED FOR LONDON PLAYS

Winning Features Sought for Entertainment; Some Objections Are Heard.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Despite objections heard in certain theatrical circles that American talent is being exploited at the expense of native, the cry is "Still they come!"

Manager Decourville engaged Emma Trentini and Dion Barclay for the new revue, "Whirligig," he is preparing in conjunction with Alfred Butt for the Palace Theater, where Wanda Lyon, who has made good here, is also appearing.

C. B. Cochran, realizing his rivals are getting most of their success through American talent, sails for New York, Dec. 14, to hunt up winning features. He has three running here just now, "Afgar," "Maggie" and "Eclipse," and has bought Sacho-Guitry's "Deburau," in which Seymour Hicks is to play Pierrot, Granville Parker doing the translation.

Alive After Two Weeks in Mine.

WALLACE, Ida., Nov. 29.—After being in the Gold Hunter mine at Muellan since Saturday morning, Nov. 15, when they were entombed by a slide of earth, P. P. Grant and Emil Sayko, miners were taken out alive at 3:15 p. m. today.

JEWELER, 70, SHOT TO DEATH IN HIS STORE BY 3 MEN

Paul Flucks, Austrian Alien, Had Been in Business at 616 South Fourth Street for 38 Years.

KILLING MAY HAVE BEEN ASSASSINATION

One Assailant Loses Brown Hat as Party Flees in Auto—Similar Attack Last February Was Ineffective.

Paul Flucks, 70 years old, was shot to death at 11:30 a. m. yesterday in the little jewelry store at 616 South Fourth street where he had been in business for 38 years. There was no evidence of an attempt at robbery and the police think there is a possibility that his killing was an assassination. He was an Austrian alien and during the war period he was under Government surveillance. Last February three men entered his store and attempted to choke him to death.

Patrolman Bierstadt of the Magnolia avenue district was riding past the store on a street car yesterday when he heard shots. He jumped from the car and was met by Paul Schweinehage, 14 years old, of 4701 Beacon avenue, who said he saw three men enter the store, then heard shots and saw the men run out.

Man Waited in Auto.

The boy said a fourth man was waiting in a yellow-wheeled automobile near the store and the three men jumped into this and drove west on Cerre street. The brown fedora hat of one of the men blew off as he fled. It is being held by the police as a possible clue.

Bierstadt entered the store and found Flucks lying behind a counter. He was moaning, but unable to speak. He was shot in the right ear, the abdomen and the back. He died in an ambulance on the way to the city dispensary.

On a workbench behind the counter lay a revolver with three empty and two loaded shells. Back of the counter was found an empty revolver hostler nailed to the inner side of the show case where it would be within handy reach of the jeweler. This holster was empty. It has not been determined if the revolver on the bench was the jeweler's or if it was left there by one of his assailants.

Bullet marks on the showcase and walls of the store indicated that more than three shots were fired. One of the marks was directly over a large target pistol which hung on the wall. The position of this mark indicated to the police that the shot was fired at Flucks as he was reaching for this weapon.

When Flucks was found lying behind the counter a cavalry sword lay near his right hand. It is believed he used it in defending himself.

Father Was Headsman.

Flucks formerly was a sharpshooter and was known as a firearms expert, according to his close friend, Michael Westrich, a shoe dealer at 516 South Fourth street. Westrich said Flucks told him his father was a public executioner, or headsman, in Austria and his brother was coachman for the late Emperor Franz Josef.

After the shooting an inventory of the stock was made by Miss Anna Rieger, of 913 Carroll street, a housekeeper for Flucks. She said nothing had been taken and apparently no attempt had been made to take anything.

The cause for the attack on Flucks last February has never been learned. Three men drove up in an automobile and entered while a fourth waited in the machine. The three men attempted to choke Flucks to death, but they were frightened away by Miss Rieger who entered from a living room in the rear with a butcher knife in her hand.

Westrich said that for several days Flucks had been busy cleaning and repairing a collection of firearms which had been taken from him by the Government for the period of the war, but which recently had been returned to him.

COMMISSIONERS GRILL POLICE SERGEANTS FOR THEIR LAXITY

Say They Are Tired of Failure to Suppress Gambling—Wholesale Reductions Threatened.

Police sergeants, termed the "backbone of the department," are severely grilled in a message sent through the department yesterday at the instance of the Police Board.

The Board threatens to reduce sergeants and replace them with men from the 235 patrolmen who competed for promotional honors in an examination last week.

The lecture primarily was caused by the recent raids on North St. Louis "hangouts" of police characters by Chief O'Brien and Hannegan, which led to the recovery of the revolver with which Chief O'Brien was shot a month ago and to the arrest of a number of known thieves and gunmen.

The Board says it should not have been necessary for the Chiefs to do this work; that the sergeants and the men under them should be cognizant of conditions in their precincts and should have taken action long before the raids by the Chiefs.

Better Service Demanded.

"There is going to be a big shake-up among the sergeants if they don't watch out," the message read. "This is no idle threat. The Commissioners are determined to obtain better service from the sergeants even if it is necessary to go to the extreme of culling out a number. The 235 patrolmen who took the examination this week and the 54 eligibles on the list already will make enough material for the Board to promote men who will do the work.

"It is a recognized fact that the sergeants are the backbone of the department. If they are strong the department will be strong and vice versa.

"The Commissioners are exceedingly tired of the manner in which certain phases of the department's work is being carried on, such as the regulation of traffic, failure to suppress gambling and slot machines, except through special men assigned to this service, and inattention paid to ridding the city of criminals, tramps and bums; also the seeming necessity of the Chief to issue orders over and over again.

Chiefs' Raids Recounted.

"Only last week a condition arose in which the Chief of Police, although wounded, and the Chief of Detectives found it necessary to personally conduct raids on two saloons frequented by gunmen and in one of which they recovered the revolver with which Chief O'Brien was shot. Evidence was obtained that criminals openly passed their revolvers over these bars to be held for them until called for.

"The right kind of police duty by Sergeants and patrolmen walking these beats would have checked this kind of notorious criminal activity. Every one of the crooks taken in these raids should have been arrested and sent to the workhouse by the Sergeants and men on the beats.

"The truth of the matter, as stated in a nutshell by a high official of the department, is that many of the Sergeants and patrolmen make themselves good fellows to everybody they do not catch actually violating the law, and detectives are denounced by the easy-going class when compelled to do the duty the Sergeants and patrolman shirk.

"Winter is coming on and cold weather usually leads to an epidemic of criminal activity. The Commissioners are determined there shall be nothing like this in St. Louis this winter if there is any way under the sun to prevent it. This word of warning is given for the good of the men. It is up to you, Sergeant and patrolman, to protect your job by protecting the community."

Hearing on Widening Olive Street.

Property owners and others interested in the City Plan Commission's proposal to widen Olive street 40 feet from Twelfth street to Channing avenue, are invited by Director of Streets and Sewers Talbert to attend a public hearing before the Board of Public Service, Room 208 city hall, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, to discuss the proposal.

YARD AND TRAINMEN AT KANSAS CITY STRIKE

1500 Said to Be Out—Walkout Unauthorized—Coal Situation Made More Critical.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 29.—Fifteen hundred yardmen and trainmen of the Kansas City Terminal and railroads entering the city are on strike, early reports tonight indicated. Day crews left their work at 4 o'clock, and night crews coming on at that hour did not go to work. Eight roads are affected so far.

All switchmen employed by the Kansas City Southern, the Chicago & Alton, the Wabash, the Missouri Pacific and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, and some of the Santa Fe crews are reported on strike. Thus far, employes of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific have not gone on strike.

Strike Unauthorized.

The strike was not authorized by national officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, according to a telegram from W. G. Lee, national president, to W. M. Corbett, Government representative here.

No formal demands have been presented to the railroads here. The strike vote was taken at a meeting held last night. H. A. Carroll, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen for the Kansas City Southern, today said he had been trying without success to prevent the strike of the trainmen.

Heads of railroads centering in Kansas City tonight addressed telegrams to the Governors of Missouri and of Kansas asking them to appeal to the Federal Government to supply troops to insure operation of trains during the strike of railway switchmen here.

The full effect of the strike will not be known until 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the day crews are scheduled to go to work, Corbett said.

No Warning of Strike.

"Absolutely no warning of an impending strike was given the railroads and no demands have been presented," said Corbett.

"Several hundred carloads of coal are available at the outlying railroad yards, but cannot be brought to the city, where the demands of the schools, hospitals and homes is greatest, if the strike is effective."

A mass meeting of citizens to consider steps to be taken because of the coal shortage, made more critical by the railroad switchmen's strike, was called for tomorrow morning by a conference this afternoon of the Mayors of Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kan., together with representative business and industrial men of the city.

Stores May Be Closed.

Walter S. McLucas, president of the Chamber of Commerce, suggested the complete closing of all industrial plants, stores and office buildings Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, as a means for saving coal, and this proposition will be presented to the mass meeting.

It developed at the conference that only 10 carloads of coal have been placed on the unloading tracks, and the switchmen's strike makes it doubtful if the several hundred carloads in reserve here can be shifted so as to be available.

William Volker, speaking for the Kansas City, Mo., School Board, offered to the Fuel Administration the 650 tons of coal in the school reserves, and it will be sold by dealers operating under the Fuel Administration.

Colder weather was predicted for tonight in this section, and it is believed much suffering will follow.

An indication that the conservative element among the switchmen is considering the consequences of an "illegal" strike was the conference of Union Pacific employes late today to consider what action to take. About 2000 switchmen are employed here.

W. G. Lee Wires Kansas City Trainmen They Will Get No Aid.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 29.—W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, today wired W. M. Corbett, Government railroad representative at Kansas City, that the proposed strike of trainmen there was illegal and that no protection or benefits of the brotherhood would be given to men engaging in illegal strikes at Kansas City or other points. Lee fully upheld the warning issued to trainmen at Kansas City by H. A. Carroll, general chairman of the trainmen.

Lee, in his telegram, said: "Our membership must understand the penalty that fill follow violation of contract and surely cannot be persuaded to engage in illegal strike with knowledge that the Government, now operating the roads, with the assistance of bonafide labor organizations, will make such strike not only illegal, but a failure, and no doubt result in loss of positions of those engageing therein. I have no sympathy with members of organized labor who are unwilling to permit authorized committees of their organizations to handle wage and other questions of controversy according to their organization law and civilized methods.

"Everything has been done by authorized committee of brotherhood to handle negotiations now pending with administration and the four transportation brotherhoods are dated with the Director-General Tuesday, Dec. 2, in further conference regarding pending questions."

SCOTCH SOCIETY HOLDS BANQUET

St. Andrew's Anniversary Observed Here.

The Caledonian (Scotch) Society held its annual banquet last evening at Hotel Jefferson, commemorating St. Andrew's anniversary. Former Congressman W. D. Vandiver, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, in charge of the local subtreasury, and William M. Porteous, president of the society, spoke. There were Scottish songs, dances and bagpipe music.

After narrating some of the characteristics of the Scotch people and incidents of their history, throwing in some quotations from Burns and Scott, Vandiver paid tribute to the Scots for their moderation and self-restraint, and for attaining progress through unity, stability and reformation, without the excesses of radical methods or revolution.

U. S. CONSUL INVESTIGATING "RAGGING" OF "PUSSYFOOT"

Dry Leader, Who Had Eye Removed, May Have to Take Rest as Result of Experience.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—United States Consul-General Skinner is making an investigation in connection with the student's "rag," which led to the partial blinding of William E. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, American dry propagandist, the Post-Dispatch correspondent learned today.

Since the removal of his injured eye, Johnson has hal the first natural sleep since he was hurt by a missile thrown by some unknown person. The intense pain he suffered day and night until the operation was performed, has resulted in leaving him in a condition which will necessitate a protracted period of complete rest.

His injured eye had to be removed to save the other. Johnson is the object of widespread sympathy, none deploring his serious injury more than the students who staged the "rag." In official quarters it is greatly deplored that the "rag" occurred and especially is deplored the serious result to Johnson.

Outside of the subscription started with $500 by the Evening News, one of Lord Northcliffe's papers, for Johnson's benefit, the correspondent learns that numerous offers have been made to defray all costs incurred since his injury.

It is not known whether Johnson will return to America in the near future, but it is understood he will be advised by some of his friends to go home to fully recuperate. He still good naturedly accepts the whole situation. Some of his associates, however, have approached American officials here to know if they can be assured of police protection in the future, being on a lawful mission and the guests of British subjects.

Missing Wife Found in Hospital.

After the police had searched all day for Mrs. Kate Schaffer, 27 years old, wife of Anton Schaffer, a grocer at 212 Carroll street, she was discovered yesterday afternoon at the city hospital, where she had applied for treatment at 5:30 a. m. without informing her husband, who reported her as missing. She is suffering from an infectious disease. She has two children.

STRIKERS ELIGIBLE AS CITIZENS

Statement Naturalization Agent Objected to Miners Was Erroneous.

A dispatch from Benton, Ill., printed in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, stating that a naturalization agent from the St. Louis office objected to the application of 40 men for final papers on the ground that they were striking coal miners was said last night by Naturalization Commissioner Bevington to be erroneous. He said the Government did not object to the applications of any miners.

Recently, however, an agent from that office did make such an objection at Hillsboro, Ill., and prevailed on the Judge there to dismiss the applications on the ground that "the applicants placed their allegiance to the union above their allegiance to the country."

Congressman McKinley Banquet Guest.

A banquet was tendered Congressman William B. McKinley of Champaign, Ill., at the St. Louis Club, Friday night, by 50 Southern Illinois residents. Mayors of east side cities and heads of numerous large industrial plants were among the guests. The prospective candidacy of the Congressman for United States Senator to succeed L. Y. Sherman was discussed.

RED CROSS MOVES OFFICES

Local Chapter and Southwestern Division in Equitable Building.

Offices of the St. Louis Chapter of the Red Cross in the Frisco building, Ninth and Olive streets, were moved yesterday to portions of the eight and tenth floors of the Equitable building, Sixth and Locust streets.

Quarters there also will be occupied shortly by the Southwestern Division of the Red Cross, covering Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma, whose headquarters are also at present in the Frisco building. The division will occupy the entire ninth floor of the Equitable building. The move is being made to allow Frisco railroad offices now in the Railway Exchange building to return to their own building.

"Y" to Remodel New Building.

Vincent L. Price, chairman of the board of directors of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. has named the following committee to remodel the Jewish Educational Alliance building at Ninth and Carr streets for use of the industrial department of the local association: Frank C. Rand, H. L. Tomes, G. A. Bass, L. W. Childress and Joseph W. Lewis. This will be the third building to be occupied by the "Y" in St. Louis this year.

HITCHCOCK'S VIEW IS PRESIDENT WILL TAKE COMPROMISE

Bases Judgment on Previous Conversations With Mr. Wilson on 'Give and Take' on the Treaty.

OTHERWISE HE WILL HAVE TO 'STAND PAT'

Leader of Administration Forces Plans to See President on the Situation Today, if Possible.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—"We are willing to enter into a give-and-take compromise, with the President's approval," said Senator Hitchcock, in charge of the administration's peace treaty forces, tonight. "Unless this can be arranged on such a basis we will have to stand pat."

Emphasis was made by Hitchcock on the declaration that any agreement arranged between Democratic and Republican friends of the treaty must be acceptable to the President. He made it plain that if the President's endorsement is withheld those who support him in the Senate will carry out his wishes to the end, if that means the final rejection of the convention.

It was the expectation of Hitchcock that today he would take up with the President the Lodge reservations, as adopted by the Senate majority, and discuss them in detail, outlining just what acceptable changes or modifications can be made. He was in telephone communication with the White House, but it was found impossible to make the engagement sought.

"I have nothing to indicate that the President's condition is worse," said Hitchcock. "I know nothing of the published report that he is suffering from paralysis. The last time I was at the White House the President shook hands with me as usual. His mind appeared to be keen and alert. He did not walk while I was there, but nothing suggested paralysis of the lower limbs."

Wants to See Wilson.

Senator Hitchcock regards it as probable that he may have an opportunity of seeing the President tomorrow. Otherwise he will seek an appointment early next week.

"In any event," said Hitchcock, "nothing will be done next week on the treaty. I have no hint from the President regarding his future course, but believe he will withdraw the treaty and resubmit it. I think then it will be handled in the Foreign Relations Committee until some basis of compromise is reached. There is no disposition on either side to bring it before the Senate for another protracted discussion. I believe the treaty will be ratified during December.

"It is my judgment, based on previous conversations with the President, that he will consent to a give-and-take compromise. I believe the view is entertained by Democrats and middle-ground Senators that an agreement should not be onesided.

"According to my view, and that of most Democrats and many middle-ground Republicans, a compromise will be framed on the basis of eliminating the preamble, which requires the assent of three proicipal signatories to the treaty, and changing the reservations relating to Article 10. This is the chief stumbling block. I have no direct word from Senator Lodge recently. I do not know whether he wants to ratify the treaty or reject it. I know nothing concerning his future program."

During his trip to Nebraska, from which he returned today, Senator Hitchcock says he found a feeling of great disappointment among all classes of people because a compromise had not been reached before the Senate adjourned. The opinion seemed to be unanimous, he said, that a final disposition of the treaty in some manner should be made. "Many prominent Republicans with whom I talked," said Hitchcock, "strongly disapprove the statement made by Mr. Lodge that the treaty should be left for an issue in the next national campaign. As a general proposition the suggestion was not endorsed. I have no means of knowing whether this idea originated with Mr. Lodge or was inspired by other Republican leaders. I do know that it does not represent public sentiment."

Japanese on Reservation.

Cable advices received here from Tokio state that the press of Japan is devoting its attention to discussing the action of the Senate on the peace treaty and especially the reservation of Shantung.

This reservation "does more harm than good" is the opinion expressed by the Asahi, one of the foremost Japanese newspapers. That the Senate "acted unwisely" is the view taken by this journal.

The "Ilamato," a less conservative organ, expresses the view that it is annoying to Japan to be dragged into the reservations and that America should modify its language unless it is in a position of preparedness for "extreme steps."

The "Chugwai Shogyo," which some months ago advocated an understanding between Japan and the United States to carry an amendment of the League of Nations Covenant providing for the declaration of a "Monroe Doctrine for the East" to which the covenant stipulations should not apply, sounds a note of warning that Japan might be forced by China to occupy Shantung permanently. It maintains that the Chinese Government, by its persistence in refusing to enter into negotiations with Japan with reference to Shantung, may have to prepare against permanent Japanese occupation because of China's refusal to negotiate for the return of the province to China.

Some of the Japanese newspapers declare that the reservations were adopted by the Senate in order to strike at President Wilson's prestige and criticise the "injunction of partisanship into the discussions of the Shantung question."

Viscount Ishii, formerly Japanese Ambassador to the United States, the cable advices state, in an interview with the "Ashai" stated that "the Shantung reservation will have an unfortunate bearing on the relations between the two countries, as the Chinese, feeling that they have the backing of American sympathy, may delay the negotiations between Japan and China regarding Shantung."

"While Chinese agitation in favor of refusing to negotiate with Japan and of having the whole Shantung question put to the League of Nations is being carried on," Viscount Ishii continued, "China, in fact, cannot carry out any such program without first negotiating with Japan, for the reason that the League has no jurisdiction over treaties already in effect."

Woman Known in London as 'Daughter of Prince Rudolph' Born in America

Even Acquaintances in New York Are Surprised to Learn That Mrs. Steane Was No Relation to Austrian Royal Heir.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The suicide in London, Victory Ball night, of Mrs. Alma Vetsera Steane brought to an end an unusual career of mystery, intensified even more by death. The young woman—she was 31—was known for years as the daughter of Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria and Marie Vetsera, who committed suicide together in 1889, and it will come as a distinct surprise to her several hundreds of friends and close acquaintances in New York to learn that she was born "somewhere" in this country of an English father and American mother.

Just who they were promises to remain as great a mystery as most of the life of the woman whose suicide has proved to be one of the biggest sensations London society has known in many years.

These are the questions New York is asking:

Who, after all, is Alma Vetsera Steane?

Where was she born?

Where did her fortune come from?

How did she get into London society?

Her Life in New York.

An echo simply answers, "Who? Where?" For in New York she was best known to night life, in a certain set of the theatrical world and in the artists' colony, for she, herself, was a miniature painter with promising talent.

She first came into the limelight when George Osborne Hayne, a New York broker, sued her for divorce eight years ago. While the action was pending she went to New Jersey and there instituted an action against her husband, charging desertion. He did not defend the suit and she obtained her decree.

A short time later Mrs. Hayne—for she had retained her married name—opened a studio in West 59th street. At about the same time she began to be seen frequently in the theatre district, and in the "Village." Her exquisite dress and charm attracted attention wherever she was seen, and she became the subject of a great deal of gossip in the circles in which she travelled, for even those closest to her had often asked where did she get her wealth. She had always spent with a prodigal hand, and even in her little apartment back of her studio kept a retinue of from four to six servants.

Some light supposedly was thrown upon her past indentity when in a magazine interview she told that she was the lawful daughter of Prince Rudolph and Vetsera, and that her son was heir to the American throne. The Empress' confessor, alone, she declared, knew the secret of her birth, and he brought her to America where she was put in a convent for education, the late Emperor Franz Joseph having placed a fortune at her command.

Her Story Never Doubted.

Her age tallied with the dates of Rudolph's association with Marie Vetsera and, being a woman of rare charm and cleverness, her story never was doubted when she told it until several years later she figured in a court action in Manhattan, in which the divorce record was produced. In the transcript of the testimony there appeared the question:

"What was your maiden name?"

"Alma Irene Zetkous," she answered.

The name so appeared upon her wedding certificate, but upon the boy's birth certificate there was the name of Alma Vetsera, mother. To the former she had sworn: oath for the latter was not necessary.

For a time the young woman dropped from the limelight only to come to the fore again in 1915, when she eloped from Cleveland with Donald Shields Andrews, a young Yale student to whom she was introduced by his fiancee, to whom he was to have been married in the same week that he took the former Mrs. Hayne as his wife. The romance was shortlived, for in a few weeks the young man's parents left him to his own resources and he returned to Cleveland.

She said later she had never loved Andrews and that she had only married him because he had threatened to commit suicide if she refused.

"What was I to do?" was her only comment.

When she brought proceedings against him for divorce she declared she had spent her last money and that although she got along on four servants, he compelled her to employ six.

"Through With Men."

Despite her declaration that she was "broke," she continued to be one of the most smartly dressed women in New York. When she received her decree from Andrews she announced that she was through with men forever and that she intended to go on the stage. The vehicle she selected was a play called "Suicide."

The piece was never produced and six years the twice married young woman picked up her belongings and sailed suddenly for England with her son.

It was only a short time later that those in New York who knew her were astounded to read that she was a shining light in London society and that she was a favorite at functions attended by royalty. New York society could not recall her, but friends were not astonished, because they had marveled that her cleverness and beauty had not long before taken her into the highest channels here.

It was a mystery, however, even to London, how she had made her way to the higher ranks until a correspondent only a few days ago unraveled the circumstances. When she went to the English capital she took a studio on Cheyne Walk, Chelsea. She first mixed in with the artistic set and formed the acquaintance of the late Earl Wilton and his wife, now Dowager Countess. She began to entertain lavishly at the most expensive hotels and finally was taken up by the Princess Monaco, formerly the Duchess de Richeleiu, nee Heine, who was born in New Orleans.

The Princess introduced her to all of her friends as Mrs. Hayne. She was not backward in saying that she had divorced her husband, but that she had decided to retain his name. The story of her birth—or supposed birth—became well known to London society—as well known as the young woman herself had become in the short period of a few months.

As she had given herself out as of Austrian birth and as the Princess Monaco's friends included many members of the United States diplomatic circle, she was anonymously reported to Scotland Yard during the war as a spy.

Trailed as German Spy.

She was traced by a score of men for several months, but their investigations revealed nothing. She finally was questioned at length by the authorities, to whom she admitted she was not of Austrian birth, but that her father was an Englishman, her mother an American and that she was born in the United States. She brought forth documents in proof of her story, but the revelations of her duplicity did not become public until recently. The facts seemed to have little bearing on her social position, for she was as popular as ever.

Young Steane was a member of a Manchester regiment and fought with dictinction during the war. Mrs. Hayne met him in August, and a few days later they were married and went to live at her fashionable flat in the West End.

Steane was not known in society, and his wife did not take the trouble to introduce him. In fact, when she married again her attraction for her former associates seemed to have left her and she was seen less in society than ever before.

She was one of the jolliest of those at the Victory Ball and one of the last to leave. She reached her home shortly before 1 o'clock in the morning, spoke to her husband a few minutes and then started for her bed chamber ostensibly to retire. As she passed a dressing table she fell. Steane picked her up and she died in his arms without having uttered a word. The autopsy revealed that she had died by prussic acid.

Mrs. Steane exercised extraordinary fascination over men and even women. She was small, very slim, but had a perfectly proportioned figure, somewhat irregular features with slightly retrousse nose, but her beauty marked her out for attention in every company. She had a mass of blond hair and exquisite chin, whereas the Crown Prince and Vetsera were dark, the latter quite Italian.

Her death has thrown no light on the source of her fortune; she left nothing to show how much she owed, what she owed or where it was, and the friends and acquaintances who knew her so long, and those who knew her so intimately during her last years in America and England, will continue to ask:

"Who was she?"

3 Persons Killed and Scores Hurt by Storm in Indiana.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 29.—Two men dead in Indianapolis, one woman killed at Muncie and thousands of dollars' damage to property, was the toll of a windstorm that swept the State of Indiana this afternoon. Scores of men, women and children in Indianapolis were more or less seriously injured on the streets when the wind reached its greatest velocity.

Those killed in Indianapolis were Everett Morris, 34 years old, who was electrocuted by a fallen wire, and George Mock, 42 years old, who was blown from a ladder on which he was working. Mrs. Eva Conner, 45 years old, was killed when the cornice was blown from a business building in Muncie and struck her in its fall.

Reports from Fort Wayne, Anderson, South Bend and several other cities in the northern part of the State, told of buildings being unroofed, trees uprooted, plate glass windows smashed and of general demoralization of street car, telegraph and telephone service.

In Indianapolis one church steeple was blown down, many large signs were torn from their fastenings and several large show windows were broken. Several women and children were cut by the falling glass, and many of them were knocked down or buffeted against the walls of buildings by the wind. The wind reached a velocity of 56 miles an hour here.

Sleet Storm Cuts Off Wire Communication of Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 29.—All day efforts of repair gangs for the telegraph and telephone companies failed to restore fully wire communication cut off by a sleet storm that seemed to center about Kansas City this morning. Rain at freezing temperature continued all forenoon. Trains from the West were delayed, one as much as 16 hours, by reason of snows and low temperatures in Western Kansas.

Several days will be required to repair telephone toll lines in Missouri damaged by the storm, P. H. Hopkins, president of the Kansas City Telephone Co., said.

Winter weather prevailed generally over Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas today, the fuel shortage adding materially to the discomfort in most localities.

78-Mile Wind Does $100,000 Damage in Northwestern Ohio.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 29.—A terrific wind and rain storm, during which the wind velocity was said by Weather Bureau officials to have reached 78 miles an hour, swept Northwestern Ohio late today, leveling telephone and telegraph wires and creating property damage estimated at $100,000. The storm area extends as far east as Cleveland, and virtually to Chicago, according to railroad telephone information.

Terrific Gale Does Damage at Benton, Ill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Ill., Nov. 29.—A terrific wind storm, followed by hail, swept over Franklin County today, doing damage estimated at several thousand dollars. The second story of the new school at West City was blown away. The boiler room at the Belton mill and 15 stalls at the Fair Grounds were wrecked. Hundreds of window lights were broken out and trees were uprooted.

Storm Swept From Northwest Arkansas to Lakes.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The wind storm in which at least eight persons were killed today and scores injured originated in Northwest Arkansas and swept across the central valleys and southern lake region.

Communication was nearly paralyzed in North Arkansas and some parts of Missouri and Kansas, as a result of sleet and wind, while the gale that reached a velocity of 80 miles an hour at Detroit tore down wires, uprooted trees, swept away outbuildings and unroofed houses in most of the central states.

Five persons were killed in southern Michigan and three in Indianapolis.

Property damage probably ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars and reports from many localities, especially the rural communities of Missouri, Indiana and Michigan, were missing.

PERJURY ONLY JENKINS CHARGE, SAYS CABRERA

Puebla Governor Reported Saying He Will Not Be Tried for Alleged Plot.

By the Associated Press.

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 29.—The State of Puebla, Mexico, has no intention of trying William O. Jenkins, American Consular Agent, on a charge of conniving with bandits in connection with his recent abduction, Gov. Alfonso Cabrera of Puebla told press representatives, according to the Mexico City newspaper Excelsior, under date of Thursday, a copy of which was received here late today.

The only charge against the Consul, the Governor is quoted as having said, is that of perjury in judicial declarations, which is solely within the jurisdiction of the Court where the offense is committed.

Wallace of Gulf Refining Company Reported Safe.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—William Wallace, vice-president of the Gulf Refining Company, who was believed to have been murdered in Tampico, Mex., is safe in that city, according to a message received by the company late today. Information is lacking as to the identity of the Wallace who was killed by soldiers.

Government Continues to Get Information on Mexican Situation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The Mexican situation marked time today while the Government continued to gather further information on the Jenkins case and the murder of William T. Wallace, at Tampico, Wednesday. The identity of the murdered man had not been established tonight. The Jenkins case and the Wallace case are being treated separately.

A note to Carranza, which some officials think will be about the last, was being drafted in the State Department today and so far as could be learned it had not been started on the way to Mexico City tonight.

Senators and Representatives gathering for the reconvening of Congress show active interest in the situation and there are some indications that it may be discussed in both chambers Monday.

Up until tonight the Government had received no official word or indication of an offer of mediation by Argentina, Brazil and Chile and some officials thought it doubtful that it would be offered. If such an offer came, the opinion of most officials who considered it seemed to be that it would be acceptable only under conditions which they thought Mexico would be unwilling to accept.

Cabled advices from Mexico City today probably explained the report yesterday of a revolutionary outbreak. They told of a street fight between the two political factions such as have occurred frequently, it was said. Political excitement was increased yesterday by the unexpected arrival of Gen. Alvaro Obregon and the message said a street parade of his supporters resulted in rioting in which firearms were used with no casualty.

There was no outward indication of whether President Wilson would touch on the subject in his message to Congress next week.

Shortly after 1 o'clock Patrolman Ulrich saw two men and two women running at Seventh and Market streets. When he stopped them they said they were running for a Manchester street car. They said they had had a fight with a man who had insulted one of the women. They were allowed to catch the car.

Ulrich went over to Sixth street where he was told about Lorenzini whom he found unconscious. One of the passerbys said that a fight had taken place and that two men and two women who had participated had got away on a street car. Ulrich took charge of a passing automobile and overtook the street car on Chouteau. He boarded the car and arrested the four persons.

COAL STRIKE OUTLOOK LIFTS CORN MARKET

Prices Are 4c to 8c Higher for the Week; Oats Also Score Gains.

One advance after another ensued every single day last week here in the corn market. Among the chief reasons given was likelihood that railway transportation of the crop would be seriously interfered with by coal shortage. Compared with a week ago, corn prices at the close yesterday, were 4½c to 8c higher. Oats were up 1⅛c.

Although at first owing to fresh moves by the Government to reduce the cost of living, the bear side of the corn market seemed to have an advantages, the fact soon become apparent that coal strike developments resulted almost continuously as a stimulus to demand for corn. Even export business in the cereal acquired a little momentum. Adverse weather conditions were also decidedly influential in lifting corn values.

Persistent reports of car scarcity and the readiness with which offerings were absorbed strengthened the market still further, notwithstanding that while corn was highest stocks and foreign exchange were tending sharply down grade. The market hit the high point of the week yesterday, then fell about 4c.

Oats ascended with corn. Export sales took place at the highest premium yet this season. Receipts also were small. Yesterday's market was irregular.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Cash corn here yesterday was steady to 4c lower than Friday's close; mainly 1c to 2c off; demand fair.

Cash oats were ½c lower and in fair demand.

BULLS ARE ROUTED IN CHICAGO CORN MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Liquidation on the part of unlicensed holders of December contracts routed the bulls in the corn market today. The close was weak, ¾c to 2c net lower, with December 1.35¼ to 1.36¼ and May 1.30¾ to 1.31. Oats finished ⅜@¼c to 1¼c down and provisions varying from 90c decline to an advance of 50c.

Corn prices turned a complete somersault in the last hour. Previously the market had been jumping upward from the outset as a result largely of rain and snow that threatened serious delay to the crop movement. Besides higher quotations on hogs, together with uneasiness over the coal strike and in regard to the Mexican situation tended also to put the bears at a disadvantage.

Purchasing, however, was apparently much overdue, for when holders who had no Government license began to unload as the day approached an end the market underwent a sudden reversal of form. In consequence, values tumbled headlong and thereafter showed but little power to rally.

In oats, as in corn, only licensed dealers could have December trades open after today. The effect, therefore, was decided weakness in oats, too, at last.

Provisions were depressed from the beginning on account of slackness in demand for lard.

EARLY DECLINES FOLLOWED BY RALLIES IN COTTON MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Early declines were followed by rallies in the cotton market this morning. Sentiment was still nervous and unsettled, but spot advices were bullish, while the weather map was unfavorable, and a firmer late tone in the stock market led to considerable covering, particularly by near month shorts. Of present crop months, December was relatively firm, selling up to 38.10c, or 45 points net higher, and closed at 38c, with the general list closing firm at a net advance of 12 to 50 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 to 15 points on December and January, but generally 4 to 13 points lower under a renewal of yesterday's selling. Active months soon showed net losses of 15 to 18 points, with January selling at 35.82c and March at 33.70c, but offerings were less active after the break of approximately a cent a pound from recent high levels and the market steadied on covering.

Bullish spot advices seemed to increase the nervousness of the remaining December short interest and there was some trade buying on the advance, which extended to 36.25c for January and 34.15c for March in the late trading, when the general list showed net gains of 24 to 45 points.

Fall River advices that mill operatives had voted to strike on Monday for an increase of 25 per cent in wages probably contributed to the early nervousness, but local cotton traders are not inclined to expect any prolonged labor troubles in New England under prevailing conditions.

The weakness of foreign exchange was a factor at the start, but had little influence on the later market, although sterling made a new low record.

Cotton futures closed steady; December, 38.00c; January, 36.15c; March, 34.10c; May, 32.12c; July, 30.92c.

CATTLE MARKET FIRM ON THE WEEK'S TRADE

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Last Week.	Previous Week.	Last Year.
Cattle	29,810	46,771	33,474
Hogs	66,901	96,597	63,307
Sheep	6,595	18,734	10,311
H's and mules	5,658	6,784	3,846

Last week opened with liberal advances all along the line in cattle selling and a good active market was experienced until the late close Wednesday. But the Friday showing, a two-day supply of around 7500 cattle, proved entirely too heavy for packers, and they sliced prices 25c and more in spots, bringing the early advance of $1 down to around 50c to 75c generally.

A few choice to prime steers were little affected by the advance early or decline late. The top for the week was $19, scored with a string of yearling steers, shipped by Albert Harrison of Audrain County, Mo. Aside from these the next best price was $16 on some heavies, and the bulk of the week's best steers sold from $13 to $15.50, while the big end of receipts going to plain, warmed-up and grassers, sold in a spread of $11 to $12.50 mostly.

It was a good market on cows and heifers the forepart of the week, but after Wednesday prices commenced to sag somewhat and the trade in butcher cattle closed around 50c to 75c higher for the week. Good heifers and yearlings were brisk sellers throughout the week, going mostly in a spread of $8 to $11, with a few odd head up to $15. Cows sold from $6.50 to $9, mostly with a top of $12, while canners at the high point moved around $5.50 to $5.85. Bulls were 25c higher, with a better packer movement than usual.

There was a good active trade in stocker and feeder cattle all week, and a strong call came for the best weight feeders, which sold up to $11.50. A range of $10 to $11 covered the bulk of sales.

Vealers at the high time sold up to $16, but around the close were $2 lower, going at $14. Yearlings were 25c higher.

Prices paid on the closing day at the hog house indicated a practically steady deal with the final session a week ago, top standing at $14.10, as against $14.15 last Saturday. Bulk of the hogs sold from $13.85@14 on the final day last week. Wide price fluctuations and liberal receipts were features of the week's trade. Top on one day was down to $13.60, and at another time up to $14.50. Receipts were approximately 75,000 with only five market days. Pigs close about steady, with bulk of the best pigs ranging from $13@13.50. Roughs are also little changed for the week, bulk of the good sows clearing around $12.50, with a few strictly choice ones up to $12.75.

A sharp reduction in sheep and lamb receipts the past week stimulated the trade and the market advanced 50@75c on choice lambs and 25c to 50c on sheep. No change in medium and common lambs, although they moved with better action owing to the small supply. Receipts were 8000, as against 18,700 last week. Best ewe and wether lambs sold up to $15.25, comparing with a top of $14.50 a week ago. Yearling wethers sold up to $12.50, the season's high mark. Most of the fat sheep went from $7.50@7.75, but a few sold up to $8.25, the highest mark since last September. A week ago all fat sheep were bringing $7.50. Canners remain unchanged at $3 and choppers and bucks from $5@5.50.

Quotations on horses are somewhat lower all along, as a result of large receipts the past week and a curtailed demand due to the fact that it was Thanksgiving week. The early trade was the best, as there were several buyers on hand at that time, who later went home for Thanksgiving. Receipts were approximately 2600 head, as against 2100 the previous week.

Receipts the past week were almost as heavy as the previous week in the mule division, totaling 3500, as against 3700. Half fat and thin-haired mules predominated again and seriously hampered the sale of the desirable kinds, resulting in a slow, weak market.

Facts About Oil

Consumption Increases Faster Than Production

Crude oil production has increased substantially, but consumption has increased even faster. During the first eight months of 1919, 244,127,000 barrels were produced, an increase of 11,000,000 barrels over the same period last year.

In August, domestic and foreign demands consumed 4,000,000 barrels more than was produced in the United States.

The U. S. Geological Survey's recent estimate of oil in the ground stated that Mexican oil fields would not continue producing oil for many years to come. Consequently we cannot rely on Mexico to make up the deficiency.

AMERICAN CANDY COMPANY

7% Cumulative Preferred Stock With Right to Buy Common Stock

Par Value: Preferred, $100; Common, No Par Value
Preferred Stock Has Preference as to Both Assets and Dividends
Preferred Dividends Payable Quarterly September 1, December 1, March and June 1
People's Trust & Savings Bank, Chicago, Registrar and Transfer Agent

The following has been summarized from information given us by Mr. Louis Kuhn, President of the American Candy Company, from reports of the Rau Appraisal Co. of Milwaukee and other reliable sources:

History: The business of this Company, which was organized in 1888, in Milwaukee, Wis., with a capital of $6000, has enjoyed a phenomenal growth, and is now one of the largest, oldest and best-known candy manufacturing concerns in the United States.

Business: The Company manufactures complete lines of candy, including the nationally-advertised "Rex" brand and "Milady" Chocolates.

The immense business with smaller manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, due to the exceptional facilities of the American Candy Company, assures the business of great stability.

Capitalization: Seven per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, $100 par value, authorized and outstanding.....$1,200,000.00
Common Stock of no par value, authorized and outstanding......120,000 shares

The Company Has No Funded Debt

Properties: One of the most complete candy-manufacturing units in the world is contained in the modern fireproof seven-story building occupying a plot of 120 feet square in the heart of Milwaukee. This property is owned free and clear, there being no mortgage or other encumbrance.

Earnings: The average annual earnings for the past twenty-six years were at the rate of 28% on capitalization outstanding.

The sales showed an increase of over 1200% during this period. The sales to July 19, this year, were 46% greater than for the corresponding period last year.

The net profits for 1919, prior to taxes, are conservatively estimated at $500,000, SUFFICIENT TO PAY PREFERRED DIVIDEND REQUIREMENTS NEARLY SIX TIMES.

After liberal provisions for taxes, the net earnings applicable to the common stock should be at the RATE OF 25% ON THE OFFERING PRICE.

Management: Mr. Louis Kuhn, one of the original founders, will continue to serve as president, which he has done since the inception of the Company. In 1916-1917 he was president of the National Confectioner's Association. Mr. W. F. Stark, Secretary and Treasurer, will continue in his present office.

Safeguards: No mortgage indebtedness may be created without the consent of 95% of the holders of the Preferred Stock. Beginning January 1, 1920, the Company will set aside not less than $50,000 each year for the retirement of the Preferred Stock, which shall be purchased in the open market or redeemed.

The opportunity to buy the Common Stock, on which earnings in excess of 25% are expected, makes this, in our estimation, an exceptional opportunity to participate in the large profits of a time-tested and successful business.

PRICE: Preferred Stock, $100 Per Share

Each Share of Preferred Stock Carries the Right to Buy 5 Shares of Common Stock at $7.50 Per Share.
Application will be made to list both stocks on the St. Louis and Chicago Stock Exchanges.

All legal matters pertaining to this issue have been passed upon by Messrs. Barthell, Fitts & Rundall of Chicago, for the bankers, and Lawrence A. Olwell, Esq., Milwaukee, for the Company. The books of the Company have been audited by Messrs. Jonathan B. WIDE DECLINES SCORED IN THE STOCK MARKET

Week's Trading a Sharp Contrast to Recent Bullish Speculation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly financial review says:

"During the two months or more in which the industrial stocks were rising to unheard-of heights; when sober citizens were asking whether this was not a difficult market, one in which perpetual advances were more surely guaranteed, than any which Wall Street had ever seen before; when the people who were most apt to be right on the next day's market were barbers, shoe blacks, publishers of 'dope sheets,' clerks at buffet lunch counters and bores on the suburban trains—during that period one phenomenon was invariable. No unfavorable interpretation would be placed by the Stock Exchange on anything in the news.

"A steel strike was declared—Wall Street was glad to hear of it, for it would settle important questions once for all. Legislation imperatively needed on the railroad question, was postponed by Congress. Wall Street was satisfied that this meant the swift enactment of a highly perfected bill when Congress should be ready. There were unpleasant developments in Europe and Mexico. The Stock Exchange was sorry, but it did not see what bearing they had on our own affairs, which were visibly at the pinnacle of prosperity. The treaty of peace was deadlocked, with demoralizing effect on foreign exchange rates. Never mind, the rising stock market had plenty of use for the capital which otherwise might be diverted into 'financing our trade with Europe.'

"Now Wall Street's view of each and every one of these matters may have been correct. Yet even at the time, many old-fashioned watchers of the market had begun to ask whether the Stock Exchange may not have taken this view of whatever happened while prices of stocks were going up, and whether the same view would be taken of these occurrences if prices were going down.

The Answer to the Market.

"We have had the answer this week. Ever since the aggressive selling of speculators for the decline supplanted the forced liquidation of the unlucky speculators for the rise, Wall Street has been interpreting each incident of the day's news in the most gloomy way conceivable.

"The things which have been happening this week, at hearing of which the Stock Exchange has rocked with apprehension, have, as a matter of fact, been exactly the same kind of things, happening in exactly the same way, as those which occurred in September and October. But the market itself had changed.

"This might be imagined to mean that the stock market has now proved itself permanently untrustworthy for the interpretation or the foreshadowing of events, that would however, be a faulty inference. At the moment, in its reaction from the recent reckless perversion of the machinery of credit, the atmosphere of the financial market is as much obscured as it was a month ago. But we shall presently have a normal market again—something with which Wall Street has not been favored since last summer.

"In the meantime, it is possible that the stock market's attitude toward current events will begin at once to reflect the real financial judgment. To an extent it did so, even in the autumn speculation, which was based, primarily, at any rate, on a really extraordinary situation as regards both the profits of industrial enterprises and our trade with the outside world. It seemed then to be passing no judgment whatever on the course of events at Washington; but it will not be easy to continue that attitude.

"The progress of the railway bill in Congress, after the regular session begins, can hardly fail to be intelligibly reflected in the market. The Senate's procedure in the matter of the treaty will also have to be reckoned with; especially when even speculative Wall Street is now beginning to understand what immense issues and interests, even in the matter of maintaining our own home production and foreign trade, are dependent on the just settlement of that question."

London Review.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—"The negotiations now in progress concerning the postponement of interest payments on our indebtedness to you, with possible funding arrangements, are regarded as part of a plan affecting the external indebtedness of all the belligerent countries. In this connection it should be remembered that the debts of the allies to Britain almost precisely equal the debts of the Allies to America.

"The idea advanced by some economists that we cancel all foreign debts owing to us, and then approach American funding arrangements applying to our debt to you, is regarding quixotic and impracticable. Our first duty is to recognize our financial responsibilities, and we cannot afford to be generous until we have thoroughly faced our own liabilities.

"Attention of financial circles is increasingly centered on the exchanges. Expectation of the recent rejection of the peace treaty at Washington, undoubtedly stimulated speculative operations for the fall in the American exchange, and German and French currency were affected compromise at Washington, together with the approaching turn of year, have prompted the closing out of these speculative positions.

"Nevertheless, your credits of France, Germany and other continental countries would have to be very extensive to produce a material effect on exchange rates. What is most required is a revival of political and social confidence, because

New York Curb Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The most striking feature of the trading on the Broad street curb during the past week was the pronounced strength in Simms Petroleum, which moved up from 45 to 53, but reacted yesterday, when all the security trading markets were unsettled.

This movement was generally believed to be due to knowledge of the results of the investigation made by a committee representing the important interests in the property, who returned on Wednesday, but who have not so far made a public announcement of their findings.

It was generally assumed that it will soon report on the developments in the Homer Field, where the company has large holdings. Generally the market was irregular, with many stocks in supply in the last half of the week, when severe losses were sustained.

General Asphalt had the widest range in the petroleum group, dropping from 128 to 102, and the preferred, in which there was moderate trading, ranged from 189 to 165.

The heaviest dealings during the week were in the new General Motors stock, when issued, which, after selling at 40, or equal to 400, for the old shares, declined to 34½ yesterday, after the details of the plan for readjusting capitalization were announced. Todd Shipbuilding moved up from 194 to 210, but later reacted to 200.

United States Steamship was disappointing to those who had accumulated the stock recently, and yielded from 5¼ to 4¼. Submarine Boat, after advancing to 17¼, declined to 15¾.

There was heavy trading at times in American Tobacco securities, but that stock, which sold early at 66, was in supply in the last half of the week and declined yesterday to 60½.

Tobacco Products Exports ranged from 28½ to 27. United Retail Candy moved with the other two stocks, selling at 17½ to 15. There was a fair amount of business in American Safety Razor, which ranged from 18⅝ to 17¾.

There was a small amount of business in Goldwyn Film at 35. Grapeola sold at 1¼ to 1½. Loew, Inc., ranged from 32½ to 29½. Vanadium Steel was heavy, falling from 62½ to 53. Loft, Inc., dropped from 26 to 22½.

The feature of the mining stocks was the pronounced strength in Nipissing, which advanced from 11½ to 13, with the buying based wholly on the record-breaking advance in silver metal. There were heavy dealings in many other mining issues, but without material change in prices.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The week-end session of the Stock Exchange opened with further heavy offerings of the shares which contributed mainly to the reversals of the last few days. Low-priced rails averaged 1 point recessions, but high grade transportations offered some resistance to pressure.

Why Not Sell Your Non-Producing Securities and Buy Union Electric Preferred, the SAFEST 7 Per Cent Dividend Payer in St. Louis?

The new $1,000,000 issue of Union Electric 7% Preferred stock is selling steadily at the rate of $18,000 to $20,000 a day.

ONLY UNION ELECTRIC CUSTOMERS CAN BUY IT. For many of our customers it means the difference between getting 3%, the savings bank rate, and 7%, a fair business rate, on their savings. Nearly 3000 of them are banking this business, and getting the banker's rate of interest.

Here is a suggestion: A good many of our customers probably own stocks of other companies which are not paying dividends. Savings invested that way LOSE 7% a year for the investors.

Why not sell those non-paying securities and put the money into Union Electric preferred, where it will earn a safe and sure 7% yearly dividend rate—$1.75 every three months on each $100 share? Your Union Electric dividends will gradually pay you back what you may have lost in your other investments.

Anyhow, don't let your dollars stay idle. Make them work where they will earn top wages with sure pay.

Sales Office: Room 201 Union Electric Building, 12th and Locust Streets. Open from 8 a. m. to 5:15 p. m. every business day. TELEPHONE MAIN 3220 or CENTRAL 3530 and ASK FOR SECURITIES DEPARTMENT. Mail orders filled on receipt of bank draft, certified check, express order or post-office money order.

Terms: $100 a share for cash; $102 a share on a ten-payment plan. Under this plan you pay $10.20 down and $10.20 a month for nine months, with your electric bill, on each share bought. You draw 5 per cent interest from Union Electric, payable quarterly, on your installment payments. You can withdraw all payments, with interest, any time before final payment is made. You get stock certificate when final payment is made. The Company reserves the right, at its option, to redeem this stock at $105 a share.

West Point's Defeat Indicates the Army Mule Has Considerably Less Than a 2.75 Kick

NAVY FIELD GOALS DEFEAT ARMY, 6--0; CADETS OUTPLAYED

King's Two Place Kicks Represent Only Scoring, Although Middies Make 16 First Downs to Foes' None—45,000 Witness Struggle.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—In a drizzle freshly imported from the broad reaches of the Atlantic to make a fitting atmosphere for seadogs and old salts, the football eleven of the Naval Academy carried the Blue and Gold to victory after a battle with the warriors of the Military Academy at the Polo Grounds this afternoon.

It was a struggle between army mud and navy moisture and naturally the Annapolis boys proved to be expert sailors. The score was 6 to 0. A distinguished crowd of 45,000, which included the Secretaries of War and Navy, Gov. Smith and Gen. Pershing, witnessed the struggle.

Two field goals measured the triumph of Annapolis and brought forward Clyde King to take his place in the hall of fame with Jack Dalton and John Brown. It was Brown's two hoists that gave the Navy its last victory in 1912 and in the two previous years Dalton's toe decided the issue.

King, a husky tackle, stepped into the breach after rushes by the navy had been stopped on the 15-yard line, and twice sent placement kicks spinning between the posts from near the 25-yard mark, once in the second period and again in the fourth.

It was a game of straight line-crashing football with the Navy doing most of the crashing. Few forward passes were tried and none was completed. The sailors had possession of the ball most of the time and unbuckled a powerful running attack in midfield, Howard Clark brilliantly carrying the burden of offense.

Navy Outrushed the Army.

The Navy made seven distinct marches, varying 25 to 40 yards in length, and four times penetrated within 20 yards of the Army goal. Here the defense of the Cadets stiffened and held. Twice the Navy capped its rushes with field goals. Otherwise it was unable to score.

The Army seemed to have nothing at all in the way of an attack and never so much as threatened the Navy except for McQuarrie's attempt at a field goal from the 36-yard line early in the game.

Statistics of the game show that the Navy gained about six times as much ground by rushing as did the Army, the figures totaling 284 yards in 82 rushes for the Midshipmen against only 49 yards and 24 rushes for the Cadets. The West Pointers did not make a single first down, while Dobie's eleven had 10 in the first half and six in the second.

Forward passes did not figure in the result of the game, as only four were attempted—three by the Navy and one by the Army—and not one was successful. Despite the slippery field, there was only one fumble, that by the Navy in the first half and then a Middie recovered the ball.

Only One Penalty Inflicted.

In the first half the Army punted six times for an average of 50 yards, against five kicks for an average of 37 for the Navy. In the second half, the West Pointers punted six times and the Annapolis team seven times. The average was 39 yards. There was only one penalty, the Army being set back five yards in the final half.

Notables Appear on Gridiron.

It wasn't until the first half was over that the spectators had an opportunity to view a few distinguished figures. Gen. Pershing took occasion in the interval between halves to descend from his box and advance on the gridiron. Accompanied only by Gen. Peyton C. March and two aides, the General atacked and routed three nests of cameras and returned to his lines without the loss of a single member of the raiding party.

The General received valiant support from Secretary of War Baker, who held himself ready to rush in at any moment. As the course of battle progressed to the center of the field, Secretary of the Navy Daniels summoned volunteers from the Navy, among them being Assistant Secretary Franklin D. Roosevelt, and rushed to the rescue. The two parties met in the center of the gridiron and had at the camera men hot and heavy. After the issue was decided, Gen Pershing and party walked over to the Navy cheering section and saluted the midshipmen. He was riotously welcomed. He then recrossed the field and paid his respects to the cadet corps, which was equally enthusiastic of receiving the compliment.

Army Unable to Gain.

The Navy showed its superiority from the start. The West Pointers failed to gain, after getting the ball on the kickoff, and punted, the ball going only to the 43-yard mark.

An exchange of kicks round the ball on the Navy's 35-yard line and, after the West Pointers had advanced it a few yards, Fullback McQuarrie tried a field goal, which went wide of the posts.

Opening the second period the Navy, using its hard-working backs, got the ball to midfield and being unable to make the necessary 10 yards in the next four tries, Clark punted.

The soldiers still found the Navy line like a stone wall and kicked to the Navy's 45-yard line. Both left and right ends of the Army were tried for good gains and, the pigskin was soon on the Army's 17-yard mark. Here the Cadets made a stand. Finding further progress blocked, the Midshipmen decided on a goal from placement. King dropped back and with Capt. Ewen holding the ball, kicked a pretty goal from the 25-yard line.

The rain by this time had made the field very slippery and footing was uncertain. There was no scoring in the third period, both sides resorting to considerable kicking.

Army Tries Forward Pass.

In this period, the Army tried its one attempt at forward passing and the ball was intercepted by Koehler, the Navy quarterback. Navy worked the ball to Army's 18-yard line, in this period, but lost it on a forward pass.

Opening the final quarter with the ball in its possession on the Army's 38-yard line, the Midshipmen by hard plugging worked it to the 15-yard mark. The Army again held, but King for the second time was called on for a placement goal. He responded with a perfect boot from the 23-yard line, Capt. Ewen again holding the ball.

King stood out easily as the hero of the battle, because of his two goals, but Fullback Clark, Halfbacks Cruise and Benoist, Quarterback Koehler and Capt. Ewen played a great game, all of them making splendid gains when called upon to carry the ball. Green, Blaike and Wilhide did good work for the Army.

Veterans Victors Over Present Day Soccer Stars, 6-3

Reed, With Three Goals, Shines for Old-Timers in Benefit Tilt at Cards' Park.

Veteran soccer players tried to act young at Cardinal Field yesterday afternoon in a benefit contest for Joe Flynn, former St. Leo star, who has been ill for some time, and to the suprise of some 500 fans who turned out, came through with a victory, 6 to 3. In the preliminary game the St. Leos defeated the Ben Millers, 3—0. The latter two are Municipal League aggregations.

The old-timers were captained by Dick Jarrett, who was a star here many years ago and who has not played for the last 10 years. Jarrett played outside left forward and did fairly well. However, the real star of the veterans was Connie Reed, who tallied three goals. Mason, Ammons and Willie Foley were the others to get points for the vets.

Pete Ratican, manager of the Ben Millers, played with the present-day stars, as a fullback, and scored one of the goals. Andy Hack and "Doggie" Schimmel counted the others.

Billy Klosterman after acting as a lineman during the first half did not like Harry McCarthy's work in goal so discharged the latter and took up the job himself. Paddy Lynch, who played fullback for the vets in the first half, was so large that no trousers could be found to fit him, so played in his street clothes. Another of the real "vets" who was in harness was "King" Finnegan.

The lineups:

Old-Timers.	Positions.	Youngsters.
McCarthy-Klosterman	Goal	Brady
Lynch-McNamara	Left full	Sucher
O'Brien	Right full	Ratican
Tighe	Left half	Schimmel
Finnegan	Center half	Miller
Donald	Right half	King
Mason	Inside left	Vaughn
Ammons	Center forward	Hack
Reed	Inside right	Schweppe
Foley	Outside right	Smith

Goals—Reed 3, Mason, Ammons, Foley, Schimmel, Hack, Ratican. Referee—Lou Sexton.

Soccer Games Postponed.

Champion Herman Due Tomorrow for Third Regan Bout

Titleholder Takes Engagement Much More Seriously Than Previous Meeting.

$200 FORFEITS EXACTED

St. Louis Boy Wins Argument and Will Weigh in at 120 Pounds, 3 P. M.

By John E. Wray.

Bantamweight Champion Pietro Gulotta (Pete Herman) is taking an altogether different view of the Kid Regan proposition, which will reach its third consideration at the Coliseum next Thursday night. Advices from the midget title holder received by the Future City Athletic Club officials yesterday stated that the New Orleans boxer would arrive in St. Louis tomorrow afternoon, three days in advance of his fight.

This is a departure from Herman's usual policy, which consists in slipping into the city the morning of a show and slipping out with his guarantee, immediately after his contest.

In two previous visits here, with Regan as his opponent, Herman followed his customary tactics. His failure to appear earlier and accustom himself to local conditions and finish training here indicated a little contempt for his opponent.

After two sessions Herman seemingly has decided that it is better to be on the ground and take the Kid Regan matter seriously.

On both previous visits here Herman was surprised and pained. He had a rough journey, his first time out, and when he returned for the second go, it was with a promise to wipe out Regan. Instead of accomplishing this he was treated to a worse storm than greeted his first effort. Herman was a beaten fighter. For a champion to be buffeted around the ring like a leaf in a gale was not the customary treatment.

Everybody's Doing It.

Herman, therefore, will enter the ring Thursday with a full knowledge of what awaits him. He will have to display more than on any of his previous visits if he expects to gain a verdict.

Beating Herman in no-decision bouts has been a popular pastime among the country's bantamweights ever since Referee Billy Rocap at New Orleans in 1916 handed the present incumbent his crown and a throne. Pietro did not win cleanly then. Many of his home-town supporters averred that Kid Williams deserved not worse than a draw.

Since that time many boxers have equaled or surpassed the champion in limited round events; but the title is still intact. Herman has declined to get into the ring for a long fight with anyone except on such absurd demands as to make prospects of a contest remote.

Regan has not shown a kick powerful enough to flatten a scrapper of Herman's ruggedness. If he had, he would have been champion twice, for he surely landed on the dark-skinned boy often enough.

Other Bouts Scheduled.

Two other bouts have been arranged for Thursday night as follows:

Freddie Durham of Oklahoma City vs. Happy Howard, St. Louis, 8 rounds; weights, Durham 116 Howard 122.

Barney Nashert, Tulsa, vs. Joe O'Brien, St. Louis weight 150 pounds, 8 rounds.

Durham and Nashert have been in the city for a few days and have worked out for inspection. Durham is another Jimmy Curtis very rugged and dangerous. He wanted a bout with Regan or Asher, but was advised that he would have to show in a preliminary first, to prove his merit.

Nashert, according to Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan, is another Battling Levinsky in cleverness and is besides the owner of a nifty punch.

Herman Loses Weight Demands.

Herman and Regan are both under forfeit of $200 to make weight, next Thursday. The figure is 120 pounds at 3 p. m. Herman wanted the weigh-in at 6 p. m., which would have prevented Regan from eating a hearty meal before entering the ring. He gave way when Regan absolutely refused to get on the scales after 3 o'clock. Regan will probably have a slight weight advantage.

He'll Take the Option.

Herman is earning money rapidly since the war. Next Thursday he will receive $1200, transportation for three with the option of 35 per cent of the receipts. His previous visits netted him about $1500 each.

JIM BARNES TO REMAIN AT SUNSET HILL CLUB

Jim Barnes, the ranking golfer of the United States, is expected to sign a new contract with the Sunset Hill Country Club, according to which he will continue at the Gravois road links for another season. Barnes' present contract expires Dec. 1.

A member of the Golf Committee informed the Post-Dispatch that Barnes had indicated he was satisfied with the new terms offered and particularly desired to remain with the St. Louis County organization.

Barnes will soon leave for New Orleans and later will spend the winter in Florida.

Conzelman, Potthoff and Marquard Win Places on All-Valley Conference Team

Three Washington University Stars Figure in Composite Opinion of Six Competent Football Authorities.

All Missouri Valley Football Selection.

FIRST TEAM.	POSITION.	SECOND TEAM.
Laslett, Kansas	Left End	Lang, Drake
Travis, Missouri	Left tackle	Nettles, Kansas
Roda, Kansas Aggies	Left Guard	Andrews, Missouri
Marquard Washington, or Sprong, Drake	Center	Marquard, Washington, or Sprong, Drake
Barker, Ames	Right Guard	Ruble, Kansas
Denfield, Ames	Right Tackle	Lippert, Washington
Lonborg, Kansas	Right End	Randels, Kansas Aggies
Conzelman, Washington	Quarterback	Stankowski, Missouri
Lewis, Missouri	Left Halfback	Shawver, Drake
Mandeville Washington	Right Halfback	Forester, Missouri
Potthoff, Washington	Fullback	Viner, Missouri

FIVE Missouri Valley football players stood out from their fellows, during the recently completed Missouri Valley Conference football season; but in the selection of an All-Valley team for the year 1919, the remaining six positions afford complications sufficient to annoy the most confident expert.

The Post-Dispatch presents herewith a composite of the opinions of six men who have been closely identified with the valley gridiron activities and therefore are in a position to select the men who showed the greatest merit. The authorities relied upon include the directors of athletics at four conference schools, one assistant coach whose scouting activities permitted him to see all of the valley teams with the exception of one, and an official who helped conduct a conference game every Saturday of the 1919 season.

All of the coaches whose elevens are represented in the selection were invited to pick teams. One failed to respond to the invitation and another stated that he had not seen all of the players in action.

Kansas Has Best Representation.

The composite gives Kansas University three positions, University of Missouri, 2; Washington University, 2; and the Kansas Agricultural College, 1. The eleventh position on the mythical squad is a deadlock between Marquard of Washington and Sprong of Drake. If Marquard were granted the pivotal honors, the Pikeway would tie Kansas for the distinction of having the highest number of all-star players.

Four of the players have been unanimously accepted as members of the all-star team. These are Conzelman, Washington, quarterback; Laslett, Kansas, left end; Barker, Ames, right guard, and Travis, Missouri, left tackle. Potthoff of Washington, fullback, received five votes in the six selections and hence may be considered as a popular pick.

The ends, held down by Capt. Laslett and Lonberg, the Kansas wing men, proved to be an ideal combination. The accounts of Jayhawk battles throughout the season abounded in comment on the sparkling work of these men. It was Lonborg who pounced in and blocked a drop kick effort from the toe of Lewis and took the ball down into Missouri territory, making possible the only touchdown his team scored against Missouri.

Lewis Preferred in Backfield.

Lewis of Missouri also received favorable mention for one end; but Lewis was also recommended for a halfback position and as he played the more important contests in the backfield he is removed from end consideration. John Miller, the Tiger coach, considers this man a greater asset in the backfield than he does on one of the line terminals.

"Brick" Travis, the powerful Missouri tackle is, according to all those who saw him in action without a peer at his position. Denfield of Ames was the next best popular pick. He received three votes and each of these came from some critic who saw him play.

Another unanimous selection was Barker of Ames, a 200-pound guard who pounded through every line which he opposed. One official who worked in a local game several weeks ago stated that Barker could hold his own before any two linemen against whom he was pitted. Barker and Denfield were the Iowans who proved to be the tartars against the Nebraska offensive and were mainly responsible for the Cornhuskers being held scoreless. The other guard is Roda of the Kansas Aggies. Roda was an all-star selection in 1917 and continued to play well this year. However, he was performing with a team which was constantly beaten and thus had less opportunity to distinguish himself.

Marquard Deserves Honors.

Now to the deadlock for center honors. Capt. Sprong of Drake and Marquard of Washington each received three votes. However, it might be pertinent to mention that two of Sprong's votes came from critics who did not see him perform, this season, while the third one very naturally came from his own coach. Marquard's three votes came from critics who saw him play. One of these, however, was from his tutor. The fact that Sprong was all-star pivot man in 1917 may have led some of the authorities to pick him on his past merits.

Since the Drake-Washington game, the question of superiority between these men has been a much argued question. Bulldog followers swear by their captain, while St. Louisans who saw the game announce in no questionable terms that the greater number of Piker gains went through center. Leo McCarthy, a Washington captain of five years ago and an all-star center at the time, stated to the writer after the game that he was impressed with the local player's advantage over Sprong. McCarthy now resides at Camp Dodge, Io., and saw Sprong in all of his home games.

Conzelman Unanimous Choice.

Conzelman, of course, received the quarterback nomination without argument. His play was the outstanding feature of every game in which he participated, except, perhaps, the Missouri defeat, in which the Tigers succeeded in stopping his usually brilliant individual efforts.

In the selection of the halfbacks, the real difficulty is met. The six critics named eight men for the position, and none of the octet received more than two votes. Mandeville of Kansas, however, received two votes for halfback, and also one for fullback. The fact that he is named by three for all-star honors seems to justify placing him at one of the places. The other should go to "Chuck" Lewis of Missouri. Lewis was a victim of circumstances insomuch as he was forced to fill in at end, quarterback and halfback. In each of these he acquitted himself well. He is also a good punter and point kicker. He was named by five of the authorities for all-star honors at some place on the team; and hence his right to a halfback honor could hardly be doubted.

Potthoff Gets Five Votes.

Potthoff, as was mentioned before, received five votes for fullback, Mandeville receiving the other. Potthoff played at right halfback for the Pikers; but is essentially a line plunger. Not one line which he faced failed to stop his terrific plunges.

Other players who received mention, although failing to take a place on either first or second team, are as follows: Hornaday, Drake, right tackle; Sylvester, Collins and Edwards, Missouri; Davis, Ames, and Berger, Washington, halfbacks.

Millers to Play Screw Co. Today

Innisfails and Scullins Battle for Second Place in Soccer League Contest.

The Ben Millers, present leaders in the St. Louis Soccer League race, are scheduled to oppose the St. Louis Screw Co. eleven in the opening and what should prove the feature contest of today's double header at Cardinal Field. The Innisfails and Scullins battle for second place in the closing encounter. Play at 2:15 o'clock with Phil Kavanaugh as referee.

The ruling of the Emergency Committee of the U. S. F. A. during the week in reprimanding Al McHenry of the Ben Millers and Halfback Peterson of the Innisfails, will allow this pair to get into today's battles. It is not expected that any of the elevens will make changes in their lineups.

MISSOURI WESLEYAN WINS INTERCOLLEGIATE CONFERENCE HONORS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 29.—Three officers were re-elected at the annual meeting of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association last night at the Coates House. H. L. McWilliams, coach of the Kirksville Normal, will be president for the ensuing year, E. A. Davis of Missouri Wesleyan, vice president, and R. E. Bowles of William Jewell, secretary and treasurer.

The football championship for the season just finished was awarded to Missouri Wesleyan which ended the schedule with a clean record. William Jewell was second with a percentage of .750. All tie games were thrown out so Drury and the Cape Girardeau, with several tie games each, were thrown out of the standings.

Two charges were made against players, Kistler of Central College, and Silvis of Missouri Wesleyan. It was asserted that the former player had played professional ball and that Silvis had played with Drury in the S. A. T. C. last year. Both were declared eligible.

The baseball championship for 1919 was given to William Jewell.

WENTWORTH WINS TITLE IN STATE CONFERENCE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 29.—The football championship of the Missouri State Conference for the season of 1919 has been placed in the title shelf of the Wentworth Military Academy. The members of the "Little Four" awarded the gridiron honors to the Lexington team at the opening of their annual meeting here yesterday after a heated argument that lasted several hours.

Kemper Military Academy of Boonville and Wentworth fought a scoreless battle Thanksgiving day on the former's field, and as a result the two teams finished the season in the undefeated class. Each team played three conference games, the number required before a team is considered a title contender. Wentworth, however, won two of its battles and tied one while Kemper won one and tied two.

MISSOURI-ILLINOIS OFFICIALS TO MEET

A meeting of all those interested in the formation of the Missouri-Illinois Trolley League will be held at the Planters Hotel next Wednesday night. Charley Barrett, Cardinal scout, will be present at the gathering of the semi-professional baseball moguls. The cities that will be represented will be Belleville, East St. Louis, Alton, Mount Olive, Gillespie, Litchfield and St. Louis.

GOLF MAGAZINE TROPHY IS WON BY J. P. PERO JR.

J. P. Pero Jr., aided by a big handicap, was the winner of the annual contest for the Golf Magazine trophy at Sunset Hill Country Club, last week. The event is usually conducted as a handicap affair, but owing to the large entry and the lack of official handicaps, it was converted into a blind bogey contest. Mr. Pero's net score was 81.

BAN JOHNSON DEFIES BOARD OF DIRECTORS

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—President Ban Johnson of the American League tonight issued formal call for the annual meeting of the league to be held in Chicago, Dec. 10. He selected Chicago as the meeting place, although Harry Frazee of the Boston club, Charles A. Comiskey of Chicago and Jacob Ruppert of the New York club, members of the board of directors, called a meeting of their own in New York on the same date.

"While the constitution of the league specified the date on which the league meeting shall be held, it does not name the place, but as president of the league, I think I have a privilege of selecting the city," President Johnson said.

"I have no comment to make on the action of the three directors who are seeking to summons the club owners to New York."

Local Owners to Be Asked to Cut Down Bleachers

However, Legislation to Entirely Eliminate 30-Cent Seats Will Be Opposed.

RICKEY WILL GO EAST

Cardinal Manager to Attend N. L. Meeting—Has Not Selected Training Camp.

Representatives of the Browns and Cardinals, at the annual meetings of the American and National leagues in December, will be asked to vote on a proposition to eliminate all or part of the 30 cent seats at the St. Louis parks. From the East comes the report that every effort will be made by the major league magnates to cut down the cheaper seats in the two circuits.

The two St. Louis parks have long been a "sore spot" in the minds of out-of-town club owners because there are more cheap seats at Sportsman's Park and Cardinal field than in any other park in either circuit. Vast crowds have been known to attend games at the Grand avenue and Vandeventer avenue plants, but when the money is checked up it is found that there is not much of a "cut" for the visiting club.

While Business Manager Bobby Quinn of the Browns and President Branch Rickey of the Cardinals have not expressed their views about the total elimination of the two-bit seats, it is pretty well known that both would favor a reduction of the cheaper seats.

Only Few Bleachers in East.

While there are accommodations for several thousand 25c fans at both St. Louis parks, only a few hundred are permitted to view the big league games at this rate in the East.

In New York, for instance, there are put on sale each day only [illegible] 30-cent seats. As soon as these tickets are sold, the box office at which these pasteboards are on sale is closed. And the strange part of the arrangement at the Polo Grounds where both the Giants and the Yankees play, is the fact that the person paying 55 cents for admission, occupies the same stand as the fan who chipped in only 30 cents. The 30-cent and 55-cent patrons all sit in uncovered stands.

At Washington, the 30-cent stand is called the "Jury Box," because of its lack of size. The capacity of this stand is about 250. Brooklyn sells no 30-cent tickets to adult fans. In Boston, the bleacher stands are so far removed from home plate that only on "big" days do more than a few hundred fans enter these stands.

Club Owners' Argument.

The club owners who believe that the cheap seats should be altogether or at least partly eliminated intend to use the argument that virtually everything, save the cost to witness major league baseball games, has gone up. This includes the cost of operating the clubs, but despite that fact the admission to baseball games last season was no greater than during the pre-war days.

One argument of a National League club owner is that it costs him twice as much to equip his players. Baseballs and bats cost more than several years ago. Railroad fares have gone sky high while the magnates now house their players on the road at a rate from $5 to $6 a day per man whereas in former years there were few hotels charging more than $3.50 or $4 a day per man.

It is believed that there would be only a slight protest from St. Louis fans in the event the club owners decide to eliminate or partly eliminate the cheap seats. This prediction is based on the fact that only on Saturdays and Sundays the bleacher seats were packed or nearly packed. However, local magnates will oppose legislation that will do away with the bleachers entirely.

Training Camp Not Selected.

President-manager Branch Rickey of the Cardinals, upon his return from Texas, where he has been bear hunting and duck hunting with Doak Roberts and Otto Sens of the Houston club, announced that he had not definitely closed for the Knot Hole to train at Brownsville, Tex., next spring. He said, however, that this city was finally decided upon that 17 games would be played in the South with the Athletics. A Saturday and Sunday game with Houston also have been completed.

According to Rickey he will remain in St. Louis until time to depart for the annual meeting of the National League, which will be held in New York, Dec. 9. Although acting as president of the club, Rickey is ineligible to represent the Cardinals, as he also is manager of the club.

Although the Cardinals showed great improvement near the close of the 1919 season, Rickey will be on the alert for an outfielder, pitcher and a third-string catcher at the New York gathering.

Rickey, during his stay in Texas added 12 pounds in weight.

ALL-HIGH SCHOOL TEAM AS COACHES VIEW IT

The following selection is a composite of the views of the various high school coaches and other authorities.

1st Team.	Position.	2d Team.
Kling (S)	L. E.	Anzalone (C)
Gazzolo (S)	L. T.	Zimmerman (C)
Kallenbach (M)	L. G.	Beaumont (M)
Harlow (S)	C.	George (C)
Beckett (S)	R. G.	Block (S)
Long (S)	R. T.	Greer (C)
J. Mathews (C)	R. E.	Mueller (C) Roettger (C)
Bilheimer (S)	Q.	Gladson (C)
Schaeffering (M)	L. H.	Thursby (Y)
Wood (C)	R. H.	Pauls (C)
Claypool (S)	F. B.	Horton (M)

S., Soldan. M., McKinley. C, Central. Cl., Cleveland. Y, Yeatman.

The all-interscholastic eleven for 1919, as it appears below, was chosen after conferences with the five high school coaches and two officials who refereed games during the season. In a few cases the choice was unanimous. Where opinions differed the choice of the majority was given preference. The shift of a man from one position to another was done only at the suggestion of the authorities consulted.

Soldan High School's remarkable 1919 football team so dominated its rivals in personnel during the past season that, according to a consensus of critical opinion, no less than seven of its players deserve places on an all-high school team selection. Of the seven named, five are linemen and two backfield players.

Central and McKinley share the other team honors with two positions each. Cleveland and Yeatman are not represented on the first team, although Cleveland has three and Yeatman two players named on the second.

Claypool of Soldan is named as captain of the all-star eleven. Gazzolo probably is the most experienced of all the players, but convention gives the mythical captaincy to a backfield man; and Claypool was indicated above the others.

The backfield is composed of Bilheimer, Soldan quarterback; Schaeffering, McKinley, and Wood, Central, halfbacks; and Claypool, Soldan, fullback. Bilheimer was regarded by the majority as the best field general in the league, in addition to his value as an open field man and gainer through the line. His forward passing and receiving also received mention.

The Case of Schaeffering.

Schaeffering was mentioned for quarterback, but he was favored more as a halfback. His open field work and general ability at offensive play made him a logical choice for halfback in a field almost bare of exceptional material. His generalship was generally regarded as inferior to that of Bilheimer.

Wood for Central was named as the other halfback because of his kicking, passing and general ability. Though he played through the season at fullback, his style was that of a halfback. He was called upon more often for open work than for gains through the line. Claypool of Soldan was given the fullback place. His gains through guard and off tackle, with or without interference, and his forward passing, clearly ranked him above any other fullback in the league.

Coaches Agree as to Ends.

The ends named were Mathews of Central and Kling of Soldan. All coaches agreed upon these two. Sans Souci was named by three of those consulted as the best end in the league, but because Sans Souci played in only two games, they thought he should not be considered. Mathews played an exceptional defensive game throughout the season and caught many passes for gains. Kling's unusual play consisted in his ability to catch passes. He counted several touchdowns for Soldan in this manner, and was a factor besides in the Soldan defense.

Gazzolo and Long were unanimous choices for tackles. Gazzolo was named as the more valuable of the two, on offense and defense. Long's ability lay in advancing the ball on the tackle-around play. Gazzolo's charging, blocking, receiving forward passes, and his consistent blocking of punts distinguished him above any other tackle in the league.

Beckett of Soldan and Kallenbach of McKinley were named as guards, over Block of Soldan. Some of the coaches regarded them as of equal ability. Beckett, however, was looked upon as more difficult to handle by his teammates, and Kallenbach's showing in the Soldan game entitled him to a first place on the imaginary eleven. Block was named as second team guard along with Beaumont of McKinley.

Harlow Outplayed George.

Harlow was chosen over George of Central for center. The consensus opinion regarded Harlow's play against Central on Thanksgiving as clear title to the first team berth. Except for George's occasional bad passing in league games, the two men were regarded as of equal ability before they were matched together on Turkey day. Harlow's speed, too, was given as a reason for ranking him above George.

CHARLES A. COMISKEY

"Commy"

BEING AN AUTHENTIC STORY OF HOW St. Louis Won a World's Championship,

Thirty-three years ago, when the Browns were captained by

CHARLES A. COMISKEY.

The narrative, besides recounting the early career of the "Old Roman," includes many sidelights on baseball as played in the days when ball players were supermen.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters.

CHARLES A. COMISKEY, a sand-lot pitcher of Chicago, after playing amateur baseball for several seasons, was given a chance with a professional team known as the Dubuque "Rabbits," managed by Ted Sullivan. His arm failing, he was given a trial at first base and made very good.

After a remarkable exhibition at first in an exhibition game at St. Louis against the Browns, he pleased Von der Ahe, then "Der Boss President," so much that the next season he was signed by St. Louis.

That was in 1882. Comiskey persuaded Von der Ahe to bring his old Dubuque manager, Ted Sullivan, to St. Louis to take charge of the Browns.

Von der Ahe, an impulsive character who placed great dependence in Comiskey from the first, signed Sullivan, who at once began building up the team of supermen that later on, under Comiskey, won the championship.

Ted Sullivan was released by Von der Ahe after a short term as manager, and Comiskey thereafter had sole charge of the work of developing a title winner. By 1885 he had accomplished his purpose. This team won the Association flag and tied Chicago for the world's championship.

The four-time pennant winners of the next few years were thus largely due to "Commy," although he himself gave credit to Sullivan and Von der Ahe.

By George W. Axelson.

4. THE SUPERMEN ARRIVE.

THE era in which the Browns figured was a period equally divided between romance and cold-blooded deals. Men cheerfully went broke for an ideal while others did everything but commit murder for the sake of a dollar. It was the luck of the game that the ideal predominated and thus the sportsmanlike development of baseball overshadowed the financial. After the Civil War decade the game, like the country as a whole, was largely in the making for a few years. Shift followed shift, rules were changed overnight, and the sport generally took on a new complexion.

Then, as it happened—and who shall explain it?—a race of supermen came to the front in baseball. Brawn and muscle were combined with gray matter to an extent unknown in these latter days. Genius and the slugger worked hand in hand, in perfecting the pastime so that little was left to the highly mechanical artists of today.

The type of men engaged made it a red-blooded sport and less time was spent in sizing up the "house" and figuring on next year's contract than is the case these days. It was a knockdown and dragout on the field with few holds barred. No one asked for quarter and the game was never lost until the last man was out. A split finger, a lacerated leg or even a broken bone was not considered a passport to the hospital. Nothing short of crutches kept a man out of his position and marriage or death alone were considered of sufficient importance to warrant absence from the field.

Comiskey on "The Browns."

It is not the intention to single out the Browns and their leader to represent all that was great baseball in those days, as there were other giants abroad, but the St. Louis combination will, at least, serve as the main text. In the hall of fame which contained the old Chicago White Stockings, the famed Detroits, the Providence Grays, the herculean New Yorks and others of little less renown, the Browns size up pretty well. Comiskey, who has managed many a team since the days of the four-time winners, finds an actual comparison with modern teams more or less an impossibility, mainly due to the difference in rules. He dictated the following:

I would not be on the level did I not confess that I always have believed that the old Browns were a great team, one of the greatest ever organized. In brains and punch they would measure up to the standard of any team today, both individually and as a combination, but there is no possible way to judge their effectiveness on a diamond today under modern rules.

Before the Browns went out of existence the rules were perfected as they are found today, but during the greater part of their existence the game was conducted under a code that radically differed from the modern style of play. The principal changes centered around the pitcher and there is no way of proving how Radbourne, Sweeney, Foutz, Caruthers, Spalding and others would have behaved at the present distance and under the restrictions which govern the pitcher of today. Nor is it possible to judge how the Cicottes, Johnsons, Alexanders and Ruths would have fared had they been compelled to pitch instead of throwing or had they been permitted to employ the hop, step and jump, for instance.

When Pitcher's Distance Was 50 Feet.

It is true that many of the star pitchers, under the old rules, overlapped into the next era, but it is not on record that any of the oldtimers shone to any great extent. Many have argued that this proved conclusively that the twirlers of the eighties were not as effective as those of the nineties. Not at all. The effectiveness was lost, partly because they had seen their best days and partly because it is hard for an old dog to learn new tricks.

I had some great pitchers while in St. Louis. At first they only "pitched" the ball 50 feet. They had an allowance of six bases on balls, which was neutralized to some extent by four strikes. Later on the "throw" became a free-for-all, overhand or any style the pitcher chose. With the change in the throw also came the added freedom in the box and a hop, step and jump was in order in 1886 with the pitcher's box seven feet long and four feet wide.

Originally the pitcher was handicapped by the privilege of the batsman in calling for a "high" or a "low" ball and no one today has any idea what that meant. In 1887 the pitcher was chained down practically to what he is today except as to distance, which was not lengthened until 1893. The four-strike rule was changed back to three in 1888. Giving the batter a hit when he was sent to first on bases on balls was also done away with.

Taking into consideration the different conditions which prevailed then, it would not be fair actually to compare players of 30 and 40 years ago with those of today. The human element alone should figure and taking this into consideration, I do not have to apologize for the old Browns. They were composed of the greatest bunch of fighters which were ever brought together, and as for gameness, they were surpassed by none.

Browns Carried Eleven Men.

It might be mentioned that our real lineup during the most successful seasons was boiled down to 10 or 11 men. Minor hurts were never taken into consideration and it would have to be broken bones to keep anyone out. As everybody wanted to be in the game every day, I had to use some diplomacy in getting the extra man or two to stick to the bench now and then. The pitcher who hurled an extra-inning game one day would feel aggrieved if he did not get a chance to repeat or to play in the outfield the following day.

Such was the spirit of the men and in that lay the secret of the four championships. I would not seem to underrate the technical skill of such men as Gleason, Welch, Foutz, Caruthers, Bushong, Nichol, Hudson, Latham, O'Neil, Robinson and others of those who were with me. They were wonderful players and trained under modern conditions would shine on any field. There was not a slow thinker in the lot; in fact, it took some speed to keep up with the bunch in this department.

The team from 1884 to the close of 1887 had everything needed. It had speed on the bases and in the field; it had enough sluggers to balance artistic fielding and before it was broken up its team work was second to none in the United States. It was not overburdened with signals, as every member was expected to know just what to do in an emergency. The team at the start of the association played a different style of game from most others. I have been given a certain amount of credit for this, but regardless of that the team never was tied down by precedent. It constantly blasted its way along new roads and thus we got the credit for being original.

Browns Used the "Open" Game.

One of our strong points might be called the "open" game. The players were pulled "in" or "out" as occasion demanded and again we were praised for making the game spectacular. No one today would notice such departure as it would be considered part of the game. The pastime, however, was in the making and that is why the Browns cut such a large swath. They were always trying, not only to keep abreast of the times, but to keep a step or two ahead, and this conferred on us progressiveness. No player on the team was ever taken in by the same trick a second time and he would be considered dull were he not to improve upon it, to the disadvantage of him who originally played it on him. Every player simply had to keep his wits about him, for if he did not the guying to which he would be subjected would tend to wise him up.

There were "boners" pulled by players in my younger days, but I hardly think that they were as glaring as today. The disgrace was felt more keenly then than seems to be the case at present. We didn't seem to be able to stand the kidding which followed a mistake as well as they do now. Perhaps we were more thin-skinned and thus saw to it that we didn't repeat.

Looking back over the statistics I believe, though, that the record in fielding was pretty good after our machine got to going. Robinson at second was as shifty as anyone in those days, Gleason at short was a wonder and Latham, although not the greatest third baseman in the world, was no slouch at playing the position, and he was valuable in many other ways, especially base running. The fans seemed to think that I did well enough at first.

O'Neil Still Holds Batting Record.

In the outfield I had one of the greatest of all fly chasers and base runners in Curt Welch, and one of the greatest sluggers in the history of the game in Tip O'Niell. In 1887, I believe it was, he hit for an average of .492, the biggest percentage ever rung up in the major leagues, but it must be taken into consideration that in that year bases on balls counted as hits. Still when walks were not profitable Tip was there with the bat.

Hugh Nicol, Foutz and Caruthers took turns in the outfield and were all handy men, but one of the most valuable on the team was Bushong, behind the bat. There was one of the gamest catchers I ever saw, one who never knew when he was beaten, or hurt either, for that matter. Taking into account our base running, Welch's especially, and Bushong's throwing we always could worry the opposition both offensively and defensively.

I have been asked many times to compare the Browns and Anson's White Stockings of '85 and '86, the teams which twice battled for the world title. Comparisons being odious I hesitate to go into details. Anson had a great team, one of the best I have ever seen. He had men of brains and originality in that outfit, men who could field and hit the ball with the best in the land. In Clarkson and Kelly he had one of the greatest batteries of all times, and Anson himself had demonstrated his right to lead the team.

I also commanded a good team, I would even call it great, but perhaps, with not quite as many outstanding stars as in the Chicago aggregation. We met in '85 and it was a draw—a good many of the St. Louis fans regarded it as a victory for us. Again we clashed in 1886 and the Browns won decisively. Anson in his own book has passed judgment on his own team. I shall let the series of 4 to 2 speak for mine.

Title Rivals Compared by Anson.

Many critics have insisted that, player for player, the old Browns did not measure up to Anson's heroic legion of 1885 and '86.

In order to refresh the memory of the reader it might be well to recall that on this great team Larry Corcoran, John Clarkson, James McCormick and John Flynn were the pitchers; Mike Kelly and Frank Flint catchers; A. C. Anson, Fred Pfeffer, Ed Williamson and Tom Burns made up the infield, while Abner Dalrymple, George Gore, Jimmy Ryan and Billy Sunday and others cavorted in the outfield.

Physically, perhaps, Anson's legion may have outclassed the Browns. If they did, what about the 1882 White Stockings, which Mike Kelly dubbed the greatest team of all time? They were great, in Kelly's opinion, mainly on accout of the size of the players, whose heroic proportions were enough to inspire fear in their opponents the minute they marched across the field. Yet, regardless of a difference of opinion, Anson's Eigty-sixers could be put down as "some team."

It was recognized that in Clarkson and Kelly Anson had one of the best batteries that ever swapped signals. He himself was a fine first sacker and a mighty slugger. Then size up the rest and permit them to mill around Ed Williamson, in Anson's estimation the greatest player that ever lived. Quite a bunch that, and yet they were beaten when it came to a test.

In batting strength the White Stockings surpassed the Browns. In fielding there was not much to choose, although, if there were an edge, Chicago had it. In pitchers there were Caruthers, Foutz and Hudson against the redoubtable Clarkson and McCormick, while as a receiver Bushong had to practically hold his own against the veterans Kelly and Flint.

Thus, after digesting the testimony of both sides, there appears to have been little to choose between these rivals when, after having played their famous tied series in 1885, they won pennants in their respective organizations the following seasons and became eligible for their second struggle for supremacy in 1886—a struggle which saw the Browns victors in a winner-take-all series.

(Next Sunday's installment will describe the playing of the world's series of 1886, with sidelights on the event as told in the news reports of the day.)

On Missouri River Sand Bars

Sportsman Describes Thrills of Bagging Ducks and Geese as They Follow Course of Stream in Migratory Flights —Dog Sandy Shows Rare Cunning and Courage.

By Perry C. Darby

The purpling twilight's melting blue
Is fading with its transient hue
The red cloud that erewhide did float
The heavenly vault like a painted boat.
—McLellan.

My old friend Vic Engleman and I were shooting from the same blind on the Missouri River in Southwestern Iowa one day last fall, when the wind shifted to the northwest and the temperature began to lower rapidly. Soon large flocks of ducks and geese came pouring down the Missouri River. They were going south by the thousands. A flight was on from the far north.

Our blind was on a point of a sand bar and the current was strong against the bar. All our ducks dropped in the river where the current was swift, and Sandy, my Chesapeake Bay dog, did some fine work, retrieving 32 ducks and five geese from the ice-cold water. He would never falter for one moment. A pair of redheads came into the decoys. I killed the drake and only crippled the hen. She started to swim away from us, with Sandy in pursuit. It was some fine race. The wind was blowing a gale and the waves ran high. At times they would both disappear in the tossing yellow waters, but all the time Sandy was drawing closer. Then we saw him catch her and let himself go with the current, which is very swift on the Missouri.

Dog Shows Cunning.

Vic said, "He can't make it back" (almost 500 yards); "he sure will be drowned!" But the wise dog that he is, he let himself go with the current and landed nearly three-quarters of a mile below us with the duck. He was nearly exhausted but would not give up. Then he came up along the bank to us carrying the duck. Vic has some good dogs himself, but he said, "I will have to hand it to Sandy as the best dog I have ever seen."

My love for this dog is almost a passion. He is never too cold or worn out to make one more try for me. Without him we would get very few ducks on the old Missouri on this part of its course.

One fine morning last November Vic and I were on one of the many sand bars for which the fabled old Missouri is noted, examining it for signs of geese and we surely found plenty. We saw where they had been feeding on the new growth of young willows, of which they are very fond. We put out decoys and dug us a pit and prepared to await their return.

Steady Hand Needed.

As the day was warm, the wind being in the south, after we had dug out a pit for a blind and set out our decoys, we lay in the sand and recounted the many trips we had made together in pursuit of these royal birds, the gamiest of them all. How many we had killed and how they sometimes got away from us. How we had taken our friends with us on these hunts and how excited they would be when the birds were coming in and they could not wait for them to get close enough for a sure shot. It certainly tries the nerves even of the veterans when the big fellows are coming directly towards you. You have to have a steady hand and a good eye, as they are not as easy a mark as they seem for so large a bird.

Vic produced his old goose caller, one of his own invention, and he can talk the goose language to perfection. He has talked many an old gander into leading his flock right up to our blind, and we took plenty of toll from them.

"It don't seem like goose weather to me, it is so warm," I remarked, as I removed my hunting coat.

"Well, they have been here and will return," he remarked.

"Here They Come."

I was leaning against a root, looking to the northwest, when I discovered a long line of geese coming down the river. "Get down!" I exclaimed, "here they come!"

We were both down in an instant. The geese were now about a half mile west of us, when Vic got his caller to working. They now headed directly for us, about 25 yards high. There were more than a hundred of them, the flock being spread out probably 30 yards, in crescent shape, and flying slow they came within about 200 yards, when they discovered the decoys. Then they began to spread, bear off to the south, circling all the time, passing us by over 100 yards, too far for a good shot. Around they came again, but were suspicious of those birds on their feeding grounds. Once more they came around a little closer, when Vic said, "This is their last round; give it to them." We fired into them, killing only two. We were disappointed to think they would not come any closer.

Flock From Southwest.

"Let's go home. We won't get any more shots today," said Vic.

"I don't believe these geese have been using this place," I said. "They were far too suspicious. They were travelers coming from the North. I believe we had better stay a while and see."

We waited a while longer, guying each other because we didn't get more geese, when we were startled by that thrilling, trumpet-like call of the war-worn Wawa, the wizard of the wastes of sand and yellow waters, "A-honk! a-honk! honk!"

"Look! Vic! Here comes the geese from the southwest. Here is where we kill some."

They came out over the bar in a straight line, not over 20 yards high, Vic pleading with them. They discovered they had company and made a big circle to make sure all was well. Four now broke away from the flock and sailed right over our heads, so close we could feel the wind from their wings, but they never discovered us at all and alighted just over beyond the decoys. The others made one swing, coming within about 30 yards of us. There was a mighty trumpeting as they drew near. We raised up, and our automatics made good. When it was over, seven fine birds lay on the sand.

"Look!" Vic exclaimed, as he cast his eye toward the vanishing flock, "there goes one down stone dead," and we saw him disappear behind the willows. "We can get him in the morning," which we did.

"Not so bad for boys," remarked Vic, as he took me by the hand in a good-natured way, his face wreathed in smiles.

Thus ended for us a day of deepest joy, and as the sun was setting behind the clouds there came a last golden reflection of its rays over the saffron waters.

HUDSON SUPER SIX

Rebuilt Super-Sixes Have Noted Hudson Qualities

Hudson Endurance Makes These Rebuilt Cars a Genuine Value. Before Accepting a Second Choice Car, See Them, Note Their Finish, Test Their Performance

Used car selling can be as risky as horse trading.

Or it can be as reliable and safe for the buyer as the new car market.

In offering rebuilt Hudson Super-Sixes for sale we have a double interest in seeing that you are satisfied and pleased with your purchase.

We want to secure you as a Hudson user for all time. And we want every Hudson car to uphold the prestige of the house. In these rebuilt Super-Sixes you get all of the famous Hudson qualities. The Super-Six motor, which increases power 72% without added weight or size, is the same as in the new Hudson. Its principle, which is responsible for Hudson winning all the endurance records, is also the reason we are able to rebuild and restore Super-Sixes to approximate the qualities of the new Hudson.

Same Service Guarantee as on New Hudsons

Each of our rebuilt Hudsons we are confident will make a Hudson enthusiast of the buyer. That means a future customer for a new Hudson.

In fact we know that many who are buying rebuilt Hudsons now are doing so because they are unable to get immediate delivery of a new Hudson.

It is therefore our interest that every one of these cars reflect the highest credit on Hudson quality, endurance and performance.

Rebuilt and refinished in our own shops, these Hudsons have the notable power, speed and acceleration for which the Super-Six is world-famous through its records. And we extend the same service guarantee as on the new Hudsons.

Like New Hudsons in Essential Qualities

All now know the Hudson endurance records. They reveal a durability that no other car has ever proved.

That is why in the rebuilt Hudsons we can offer a real, dependable value, with assured qualities of performance, for years of additional service. They look like new cars. They perform like new cars.

You cannot get immediate delivery of a new Hudson, because of the big demand in excess of supply. But you can get the Hudson qualities of performance and smartness of appearance in one of our rebuilt Super-Sixes.

Surely that is far better than buying some second choice car in no respect comparable with Hudson qualities.

PEOPLE'S LEAGUE OPENS HEADQUARTERS HERE

National Organization Expected to Name Gov. Frazier for President at St. Louis Meeting.

Headquarters for the National People's League, a political organization for securing progressive legislation, were opened at Hotel Statler yesterday, preparatory to the national conference of the committee of 48 here Dec. 9 to 12.

M. I. Thompson of Glencoe, Minn., assistant manager of the league, told a Post-Dispatch reporter last night that the body had a membership of 8000, of whom between 2000 and 3000 are women. He said that 300 delegates, mostly from the Upper Mississippi Valley, would attend the conference.

Thompson said the program of the league included the candidacy of Lynn J. Frazier, Non-Partisan League Governor of North Dakota for President in 1920, advocacy of the amalgamation of progressive organizations under one banner for political purposes, government control of markets and the Plumb plan of railway ownership.

The league was born July 19 last, Thompson explained, when a National Frazier Club was formed in Renville County, Minn. He said that Frazier had made such a record in North Dakota that the organizers felt that he was the man to secure progressive national legislation. Six weeks ago the Frazier club became the National People's League because the leaders believed that the organization should widen its scope.

New Party Main Object.

The principal object of the league now is the formation of a new party, Thompson said. "We have sent out 2000 questionnaires to the members, asking what five planks they would write into the platform of a new party. Some of these questionnaires have been returned but have not been reviewed. We will hold conferences with the Committee of 48 in addition to having meetings of our own. We will not force the candidacy of Frazier before the conference because we are not sure of support.

"We will probably consolidate with the Committee of 48, as our organizations have the same aims. I have talked with Secretary Budenz of the Civic League on the matter."

When asked who was eligible for membership he said both men and women could become members. He said that between 125 and 150 women school teachers in Chicago had joined the organization. He explained that the organization did not offer school teachers any more advantages than it offered other workers.

The plan of organization is by city, county and State. As yet there has been no such organization in St. Louis. He did not know how many members there were in Missouri. Organization work will be done by local leaders who will receive a commission. Annual dues are $2.

Two Leagues Not United.

He said the league had no connection with the Non-Partisan League of North Dakota, although many members of the Non-Partisan body belonged to the league. Only farmers are eligible to the Dakota organization. He added that the membership included many laboring men, both union and nonunion. He said the league was in favor of the unionization of labor.

Asked how many persons he thought would join the league, Thompson said the leaders expected to enroll 500,000 by the time of the Presidential election next year. He said that the league would be the means of electing six of nine Congressmen from Minnesota next year and that the Labor Party, which has similar aims to the league, would elect several from Illinois. In his opinion the platform of the Labor Party is too long and will "have to be culled" before it can meet with success. He declined to say what parts should be eliminated.

SUES ON INSURANCE POLICIES

Broker Enjoins Commonwealth Company From Canceling Them.

F. M. Deuchler, an insurance broker, filed suit yesterday against E. V. Thompson and Earl C. Thompson, in business as the Commonwealth Insurance Co., to enjoin them from canceling insurance policies held by his clients.

He says that when he secured the business he turned it over to the defendants and that the premiums amount to $60,000. Last September Deuchler engaged in business for himself and a dispute arose between him and the defendants as to whether they owe him $3000 as a result of which they have threatened to cancel the business he obtained for them. Judge Hall issued a temporary restraining order.

WARRANT CHARGES IRONWORKER WITH OPERATING LIQUOR STILL Apparatus for Making Whisky Discovered in Raid at Home on the Gravois Road.

A warrant charging Albert Seifried of Lakewood, St. Louis County, an ironworker, with setting up an unregistered liquor still was issued yesterday.

Revenue agents and policemen raided Seifried's home, which is on the Gravois road, on Friday, finding a still, four barrels of corn and raisin mash and two quart bottles of home-made whisky.

Seifried denied that he had sold any whisky or had intended to sell any. The charge involves an immediate penalty of $500 and, on conviction, the further penalty would be a fine of $500 to $1000, one month to two years in prison or both fine and imprisonment.

AMERICAN TRUST CO. IS BOUGHT BY SYNDICATE

William R. Compton Tomorrow Will Become President of Institution to Be Called Compton Trust Co.

TO USE BUILDING AT SEVENTH AND LOCUST

Stock Purchased Said to Be 9000 of 10,000 Share Total—Employes to Be Retained.

Most of the stock of the American Trust Co., 718 Locust street, was purchased yesterday by a syndicate headed by William R. Compton, who tomorrow becomes president of the company, succeeding J. C. Van Riper.

The corporate name will later be changed to the Compton Trust Co., and the eventual location will be the Compton Building, at the southwest corner of Seventh and Locust streets. This is the former Mercantile Club Building, now being remodeled.

The seller of the stock was the Title Guaranty Trust Co., which has held all the stock of the American, except the shares which were held by officers of the latter company, to qualify them. The sale price was $118 a share, this being the price at which the Title Guaranty Co. publicly offered the stock of the American for sale 10 days ago. The exact number of shares purchased was not announced, but it was stated that it was the Title Guaranty's entire holding. Compton, when asked as to the number, gave 9000 as a round figure approximation. The entire issue of stock is 10,000 shares, the capitalization being $1,000,000.

At $118 a share, the purchase of 9000 shares would involve $1,062,000.

Members of Syndicate.

Henry H. Hopkins, vice president of the American, is one of Compton's associates in the purchasing syndicate, and will contiue as vice president and director. The other principals in the syndicate are Thomas N. Dysart and William C. Bitting Jr. of St. Louis, and Clarkson Potter and R. P. Compton of New York. Dysart and Potter are to be vice presidents of the trust company, and W. R. Compton, Dysart, Bitting and Potter will be on the board of directors.

The present officers of the American Trust Co., with the exception of the retiring president, will remain, it was announced, and the present employes will be retained.

Van Riper, who was president of both the American and Title Guaranty, will continue as president of the latter trust company.

The Compton Building is expected to be ready for occupancy in January, and the trust company will occupy the ground floor. The investment business of the William R. Compton Co. will be housed in the same building. The Title Guaranty Trust Co., which has occupied an upper part of the American Trust building, is expected to find another location, leaving the American Trust building vacant. Its future use has not been determined, Compton said. The American Trust building is new, having been occupied less than two years.

The plan of Compton and his associates to organize a trust company was announced some time ago, and it was planned that Hopikns, vice president of the American Trust Co., should be one of the officials of the new company. The decision to acquire the American Trust, as the basis of the new institution, was more recent.

Plan of Operation.

Compton said he had considered entering the banking business for several years past, as it is a natural adjunct of the investment brokerage business. The trust company and the investment company will be kept distinct, he said, and he and Dysart will give much of their time to the trust company's affairs, while Hopkins will have general charge of operation of the company.

Compton's investment firm has offices in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati and New Orleans, besides the St. Louis headquarters. He was formerly cashier of the Bank of Macon, Mo., and his father, James R. Compton, was, for 50 years, cashier of a bank in Lockport, N. Y. Compton served as Federal director of War Loans in the Eighth (St. Louis) Federal Reserve District, and supervised the raising of approximately $800,000,000 in the five Liberty Loans in the district, the district going over its quota, in the last three loans, ahead of all others.

The American Trust Co. was organized in 1910, and in 1914 it took over the Guardian Trust Co., which had previously taken over the assets

WOMAN, 66, MAN, 77, END HEART BALM SUIT

South Dakota Civil War Veteran and Oregon Widow Reaches Cash Settlement.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—After trial of the case had progressed for nearly two days, a $10,000 breach of promise suit instituted by Mrs. Octavia Lovelock of Portland, Ore., against George Summers, a prominent South Dakota veteran of the civil war, was settled and the action dismissed in the Circuit Court of Davison County.

The defendant is 77 years of age, while the plaintiff is 66.

Mrs. Lovelock and Summers became acquainted during the G. A. R. encampment at Portland, Ore., in the summer of 1918, although it developed during the trial that they had corresponded with each other for some time before meeting.

Evidence in the case indicated that through an arrangement made between them, Mrs. Lovelock came to South Dakota from Portland, the money for the trip having been furnished by Summers. They disagreed before the marriage took place, and Summers is alleged to have taken possession of household effects which she brought with her, informing her he would not surrender them until she had reimbursed him for the cost of the transportation.

In the settlement Mrs. Lovelock received a certain sum in cash, and Summers turned over the household effects.

The demand for locations in St. Louis for factories is fast absorbing sites in the new industrial subdivision on the north side of Natural Bridge road, extending from King's highway to Goodfellow avenue, with Union boulevard bisecting the subdivision, which was laid out by the Hydraulic Pressed Brick Co.

Construction of not less than 10 plants is under way in this subdivision, while plans for numerous others are in process of development. The most notable of these are being erected for the General Motors Co., the United Drug Co., the Bridge & Beach Manufacturing Co. and the St. Louis Metalware Co. The large plant of the Pullman Co., which occupies a site in the northwestern corner of this tract, is virtually completed.

Other plants under construction are those of the Liberty Systems Co., Garrett & Co., Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co. and Donk Bros. In this connection the Bulletin, a publication of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, recently said:

Expansion of City Shown.

"St. Louis' growth as an industrial center is seen through the expansion of the new industrial district in the northwest section of the city, extending between King's highway and Clara avenue, and between Natural Bridge road and Bircher avenue.

"This district, which until recently was unheard of as far as industrial activity was concerned, is now to be the home of 37 new concerns. The combined investment for buildings and equipment represents $20,000,000, and when completed will give employment to 14,000 people.

Figures Are Conservative.

These figures are too conservative according to Charles DeLargy, real estate officer of the Broadway Savings Trust Company, who estimates the cost of the plants now under construction there and those in contemplation at from $30,000,000 to $35,000,000, and the number of persons that will be required to operate them at from 25,000 to 30,000. The General Motors Co. alone will employ 11,000, he believes.

The accompanying drawing shows where each of these plants will be and how they will look when completed. The drawing is copyrighted by Edward E. Christopher of the Olive Street Terrace Realty Co., which is opening a subdivision in that section for workmen's homes.

YOUTH OPERATED ON 11 TIMES IN 16 YEARS

Hubert Frederick of Arkansas Virtually Has Been "Made Over" by Surgeons.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Tenn—In 16 years surgeons have just about made Hubert Frederick of Bigelow, Ark., over. He has had 11 operations and various splints and patches and now is recovering in a Little Rock hospital from an accident that fractured his skull four ways. He has had a lifelong series of accidents.

The last and most serious happening to the youth occurred a week ago at the plant of the Fourche River Lumber Co. at Bigelow. An engine blew up, part of it striking a pile of lumber, scattering it with great force. One timber struck C. A. Porter, a negro, killing him. Young Frederick was standing two feet away and was hit on the head by a flying timber. At the Little Rock hospital it was found a fracture extended from the front to the back of his head with four smaller fractures radiating from the point where he was struck. The skull was depressed and a piece two inches long by seven-eighths of an inch in width was removed and the skull raised to relieve pressure on the brain.

The operation was the eleventh the lad has undergone. When he was two years old he fell into a pan of boiling water and his arms were badly burned. He started to school at four and was the "pet" of older boys. One day they were tossing him from one to the other and he fell, breaking his collar bone.

Thrown From Horse.

Seven years ago he and another boy were racing horses. A woman with a baby carriage stepped from the side of the road and Frederick's horse stopped suddenly, throwing him off. The horse stepped on his right ankle, crushing it.

Soon afterward the youth was stricken with appendicitis. It required two operations to restore him to health.

Not long after that a boy chum bet him he could "beat him up a tree." Frederick got up first and then they started a race to get down. The Frederick boy took the plan of dropping from one limb to another. One of the limbs broke and he fell, breaking his collar bone again.

The most unusual accident befell him while he was helping a party of friends charivari a newly married couple. The bride threw a china tea cup into the crowd. Frederick chanced to be in its way and was struck on the head. It required 16 stitches to close the wound.

Other Accidents.

Not long ago while employed at the mill a wire cable broke and started "curling" toward him. Frederick tried to jump but one foot caught and both bones in his ankle were fractured. At the same instant he jerked free and involuntarily put the injured member down. His weight drove the larger bone between ends of the two broken bones and several slivers of bone had to be removed.

Less than a year ago young Frederick was gathering wild pecans when he fell from a tree and broke an arm. It was badly set and he had to undergo an operation necessitating re-breaking and re-setting of the injured member.

T. J. Frederick, father of the youth, believes if he recovers from his recent injury that the boy bears a charmed life.

"When they told me to meet the train, I wondered if Hubert was hurt again," said the elder Frederick "Sure enough, when the train arrived I saw them bringing him to an ambulance. If he can just get over this accident I will always believe he bears a charmed life."

7-STORY PLANT ON WASHINGTON FOR ELECTRIC COMPANY

Emerson Concern Buys Tract on Washington Near Twenty-First Street for Building.

WIDENING CREATES DEMAND FOR SITES

Olive Street Site Bought for Apartment to Cost $350,000 and Yield $75,000 Annual Revenue.

By Berry Moore.

As a site for a large commercial structure, the Emerson Electric Co. has purchased 150x150 feet of ground on the south side of Washington avenue, adjoining on the east the company's present quarters at the southeast corner of Twenty-first street. The transaction was effected by Cornet & Zeibig for the L. M. Rumsey estate, the owner of the ground, and the price paid it is understood was approximately $500 a front foot.

The projected building, plans for which are being made by Albert B. Groves, will be seven stories high and designed to conform with the requirements of the electric company. A high type structure is contemplated with all the latest appurtenances and appliances. It will be occupied in connection with the corner building, a five-story structure, owned by the Southern Realty and Financial Co., of which the late Louis A. Cella was president, and which is tenanted by the Emerson Electric Co. under a 20-year lease.

The new building, with the present quarters, will give the Emerson company an aggregate frontage on Washington avenue of 258 feet by a depth on Twenty-first street of 150 feet, extending through to St. Charles street, the dimensions of the corner building being 128x150 feet.

The widening of Washington avenue from Jefferson to Grand avenue has created a broad demand for sites on this thoroughfare for business structures, the indications being that it will be available alike for wholesale, factory and retail purposes.

Site for $35,000 Building.

With plans for a six-story, fireproof apartment building, Dr. Wade H. Nash has purchased, through the Benj. F. Altheimer Real Estate Co., 100x152 feet of ground on the north side of Olive street, 300 feet west of Newstead avenue. The cost of the building is estimated at $350,000, while the rentals will be on a scale aggregating $75,000. The apartments will be offered for lease either furnished or unfurnished.

The seller of the ground was the Jones estate, which was represented by J. H. Farish & Co. and the Mercantile Trust Co.

Locust Street Stores Sold.

Edmond A. O'Donnell has purchased a row of stores, 3126-34 Locust street, occupying a site 81x115 feet. The sale was made by Eugene J. Altheimer for the Halwe Investment Co.

The demand for lots in the various subdivisions is a notable feature of the activity in both the city and the suburbs. Purchases of this character are being made for speculation as well as for home sites.

Approximately 200 lots have been sold at Homesites, at the northwest corner of Natural Bridge road and Goodfellow avenue, recently acquired by the Olive Terrace Realty Co. from Sam Hamburg Jr. This subdivision has been divided into 600 lots. It overlooks the new industrial subdivision of which the General Motors plant at Natural Bridge road and Union boulevard will be the pivot.

REALTY MAN BUYS RECENTLY BUILT UNIVERSITY CITY HOME

The residence of Spencer A. Magowan at the southeast corner of Yale and Radcliff avenues, University City, has been bought by Chauncey P. Heath, of the Chauncey P. Heath Real Estate Co. Epstein the three-story building at the northwest corner of Ninth and Carr streets, owned by the United Jewish Charity and Educational Association. CITY REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

Money-Makers

Attention

Nearly two hundred of St. Louis' shrewdest business men—"natural born money-makers"—bought lots in HOMESITES last week. Why? Because—Twenty million dollars are being spent in the erection and equipment of 37 factories in St. Louis' new industrial district. They will employ 14,000 highly paid, skilled workmen. These workmen with their families and dependents will constitute a city of 50,000 people added to St. Louis. Most of the land in this section is taken up for industrial purposes. Desirable building lots in walking distance of these factories are scarce. Shrewd investors who realize this situation are going to make money out of it.

Homesites

HOMESITES is located on Goodfellow avenue and Natural Bridge road, right in the heart of this section. It is the only piece of property in this section which the new zone law of St. Louis classifies as first residence district. Nothing but single family brick residences will be permitted. The best paid and highest class of these 14,000 workmen, who want to save carfare, will find HOMESITES the ideal location for homes in walking distance of their work. Lots can be bought now at low prices on convenient terms, but prices will rapidly advance. What is now happening in St. Louis' new industrial district is exactly what happened in Detroit several years ago. Shrewd investors made thousands of dollars by buying conveniently located building lots before the big boom came. Go out today and look over this new industrial section. It is the most remarkable and most interesting development St. Louis has ever known. Take Union avenue car to Natural Bridge road. See our representative, at Natural Bridge and Goodfellow. Salesmen on the ground all day Sunday.

SUBURBAN PROPERTY FOR SALE

WEBSTER GROVES

HOUSE—For sale; the average buyer starts out looking for a house in perfect condition, no repairs necessary, no painting necessary, decorating, etc., and passes up many a bargain because at first sight the property is not attractive. There is a 6-room house at 119 West Cedar av., Webster, that offers such an opportunity. This location is splendid. School is just around the corner; churches and stores, picture show and transportation are all within 2 blocks. The lot is 50x150 and is worth $1500. The house is frame, 2-story, has a sleeping porch on the south. Plumbing and heating plants are in good condition; minor repairs only necessary. What this property needs more than anything else is personal attention, paint and decorating. The owner is a nonresident and appreciates the fact that he cannot properly care for the property. He has therefore reduced his price to $3250 cash. We can arrange a first deed of trust for $1800. It will take $1450 cash to swing the deal. Study this proposition. Come out and look the house over. Picture this house painted white with green trim, front porch glazed and the yard shaped up; trees trimmed and artistic shrub planting. There is an opportunity here for the man who is willing to take hold of a house and shape it up for the spring market; and you can live in the house while you are shaping it up. Chances are, however, that you will not want to sell, as it can be made over very cheaply into an attractive and cosy little home.

The Clock Is Striking in MARYLAND TERRACE
The Greatest Money-Making Opportunity Seen in St. Louis in Years

$2500.00 to $3750.00 profits will be made on every lot immediately so great is the demand and so alarmingly scarce is this type of high-grade residential property in St. Louis.

Terms—One-Fourth Cash—One-Fourth in One, Two and Three Years

Take Advantage of These Reasonable Terms and Make These Profits

Maryland Terrace is today the most highly developed high-grade residence property in the city. It adjoins Washington University Campus—it has wonderful homes, each entirely different—beautiful stucco and brick residences—thousands of shade trees—wide streets—deep lots—splendid restrictions.

If the improvements in Maryland Terrace were put in today, they would cost $400,000.00. The ground was purchased years ago—the improvements were made under the old cost, therefore the prices of these lots are today just half of what they will be within 12 to 24 months.

Make $2500 to $3750—Do It Quickly

Buy one or more Maryland Terrace lots—put your money in West End real estate where the best homes in St. Louis are being built, where values are increasing most rapidly.

Buy in Maryland Terrace, the neck of the bottle through which St. Louis is passing. No such opportunity has been seen in St. Louis in years.

Every good sized factory calls for another executive who can afford to live in Maryland Terrace. Where will St. Louis' better-to-do executives live? Very little of this kind of property can be had in the Washington University district—yet hundreds of executives are coming to the city. Where will they build?

Remember—high-grade West End residence property is money-making property. The man whose home should be in Maryland Terrace will not build elsewhere. It is like a man who wants a Pierce-Arrow or Packard car—HE WILL NOT HAVE A CHEAPER CAR.

Buy One or More Maryland Terrace Lots

The beautiful homes already built there—the 25 additional beautiful homes which will be built in the Spring—the increasing demand for this type of property—will make the profit for you.

Drive to Pennsylvania Av., the West boundary of the campus. Maryland Terrace extends West on both Maryland and Westmoreland Drives.

Interesting, instructive circular will be mailed you upon request.

85 New Homes
From This Year's Additions to AMES PLACE
WHY?

1. Value Ames Place has a strong appeal to the judge of St. Louis real estate values. It is the last of the exclusive due-west residence offerings. Washington University on its south border, and completed residence neighborhoods all around it, are an assurance to the home builder that his property will hold its value.

2. Beauty Any way you look from an Ames Place home you see things to attract you, near at hand and in the distance as well. The street improvements, ornamental electric lamps and shade trees are distinctive and handsome. The best architects of St. Louis have constructed the surrounding homes. Washington University, Forest Park and the best churches, schools and boulevards of St. Louis are all near at hand.

3. Convenience Along with its open air and park-like features, Ames Place has great convenience of access. Three car lines serve it, and it is closely connected with the main motor thoroughfares.

4. Price Ground in Ames Place is not cheap, but, value considered, a lot here is the best real estate buy in the market today. Ames Place was laid out and improved before the era of high prices began, and if duplicated today it would be impossible to sell it at the present prices. More than that, it cannot be duplicated at any price, but a lot in Ames Place is still to be had at

$60 a Foot

See our representative at Pershing and Pennsylvania (University car) today. He will give you prices and show you the lots for sale—every one of them a self-evident bargain.

Flats, houses, cottages and bungalows—big ones, little ones, tall ones, low ones, old ones and new ones. Close in and far out; some of the very best and prettiest and some of the most modern. We sell them for cash or on terms. They are suitable for homes or an investment. Each one a bargain. Call on the agent of your own race where you are welcomed, wanted and can feel at home. If you can't explain just what you want so clearly we will know anyhow, as we have been in the business 20 years and know your needs, so cut this out and come on down. ABERNATHY REALTY CO.,

SIR THOMAS LIPTON AND OTHER NOTED BRITONS SAIL FOR HOME

Persistent America's Cup Challenger Says He'll Lift It Next Year With Shamrock IV.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Sir Thomas Lipton sailed for home today on the steamship Adriatic for Cherbourg and Southampton, still smilingly predicting that his Shamrock IV would lift the America's cup next year. He will return here in April with his 23-meter Shamrock, which has lifted more cups than any other yacht abroad, as the challenging yacht's "trial horse," he said.

A distinguished party sailed on the Adriatic, heading for England in time for the Christmas holidays. The saloon list included Sir John Harrington of the British Foreign Office and Lady Harrington, Major-General Sir David Henderson, director-general of the League of Red Cross Societies; Sir Alfred Smithers, chairman of the board of directors of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada; Lord and Lady Swaythling, Princess de Lucinge, Sir Alexander and Lady Maguire, Sir John Ferguson, British Minister of Munitions during the war; Lady Cheylesmore, Charles W. Bowerman, M. P.; Privy Councillor and delegate to the International Labor Congress, and Alfred Onions, M. P. The Adriatic carried 2290 passengers, including 400 saloon and 490 cabin.

The Mauretania, with 1400 passengers, for Cherbourg, Southampton and Plymouth, also sailed. Eugene Schneider, "ironmaster of France," was escorted aboard by the French high commissioners and Baron du Morals, vice president of France's mission to the International Trade Conference.

"Pal" Moore, Memphis' bantamweight boxer, sailed on the Mauretania to meet Charles Ladoux, the French champion, in London on Boxing Day, Dec. 26.

CHRISTMAS KETTLES LOCATED

The Christmas kettles of the Salvation Army are scheduled to make their appearance in St. Louis next Saturday morning, according to a statement from the Provincial headquarters of the organization last night.

Arrangements have been made with the street department for the location of the kettles. Twenty of them will be used and the money obtained will be used for winter relief work of the organization.

The kettles will be of the usual type, suspended from a tripod and with a bell ringing attendant at each. The workers will be on duty from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m. in one-hour relays. Meals are to be furnished at downtown restaurants.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

X. X. X.—We are unable to find a recipe for clover wine.

A. B. C.—The beer will probably taste better after it ages.

READER.—Harold Bell Wright is now in Tucson, Ariz. He is writing a play.

T. A. WILSON.—As near as we can ascertain the building on First st. was built in 1848.

EX-SERVICE MAN.—Go to Room 35, in the Municipal Courts Bldg., at 14th and Market, for examination.

HONEY.—A number of bee keepers volunteer the information that pure honey will sugar and that its doing so is not indicative of adulteration.

BUTCHER.—You will have to have a license to sell in the city. Ask the U. S. Meat Inspection Service at the Customs House, 9th and Olive., regarding inspection.

MRS. F. E. K.—If the oil is in wash goods rub some lard on the spot and then launder in the usual manner. Silk is a different proposition. Perhaps chloroform or ether will take it out.

CHARLIE.—A person may marry immediately after a divorce is granted, but it is safer to wait until the next term of court after the divorce is granted as the court might give a new trial.

W. W.—We know of no preparation that will remove linoleum from the floor. If it is stuck try to get one corner loose by using an old knife. Then continue to pull and work the linoleum loose.

A READER.—The last report of Engene Sandow that we have is that he is conducting a school for physical education in London. We have no records of the weights he lifts . The rest of your question will be answered later.

E. S. A.—If your deed is a general warranty deed the restriction forbidding you to open or operate a coal mine, should have been mentioned, but not if it was a quit claim deed. Your deed is not invalid, but if it is a general warranty and contains no exceptions you may sue the grantor for breach of warranty.

UNHAPPILY MARRIED. — It would indeed be wrong to desert your good husband to rejoin your divorced husband, who has a second wife. Happiness does not come through commission of such mistakes. You should do something to establish a mental equilibrium with a moral foundation and make the most of the good prospect for contentment you now have.

T. W. T.—Some of the conscientious objectors to the war, who refused active participation in the army, were confined in prison and after the armistice was signed were released and given the army pay for the period of their confinement. This was done on a special order of the War Department. Some objectors, whose conscientious scruples were questioned, are still in prison.

MRS. W.—Pin worms are intestinal parasites inhabiting as a rule the lower bowels. No diet affects them and there is no danger in having them a year. Take one grain each of santonin and calomel each night. Local measures are important. Each night inject 4 ounces of lime water and retain it with the hips raised on a pillow. In addition wash around anus with mercurial germicidal soap frequently and at night after using injection let this lather dry on.

JOE PAUL.—Detectives in police departments should have thorough knowledge of police work. Private detectives are trained by agencies. A certain prominent agency requires several months training in one of its offices and study under an experienced man on cases. Detectives should be keen observers, have analytical minds and above all should be first-class investigators in all things. To become such, one must have an aptitude for the work and serve an apprenticeship under competent men.

JUNIATA.—George Stephenson is credited with the first practical railroad train, although others had experimented with locomotives before. Stephenson built his first engine in 1814 and put it in operation. It hauled a load of 35 tons at a rate of 4 miles per hour. Stephenson continued to build locomotives, each of them an improvement over its predecessor and had them working regularly, although they did not supersede the work of horses. Stephenson was a Scotchman. "In jail for life" is merely a figure of speech as no one is ever put in jail for a long period of time. If they are sentenced to a life term, they are sent to the penitentiary. The rest of your question will be answered later.

CONSTANT READER.—The following is a recipe for fruit cake that contains no brandy: English Fruit Cake: 1 pound of butter, 1 pound of light brown sugar, 9 eggs, 1 pound of flour, 2 teaspoonfuls of mace, 2 teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, 1 teaspoonful of soda, 2 tablespoonful of milk, 3 pounds of currants, 2 pounds of raisins, seeded and finely chopped, ½ pound of almonds blanched and shredded, 1 pound of citron, thinly sliced and cut in strips. Cream the butter and add sugar gradually, and beat thoroughly. Separate the yolks from the whites of the eggs; beat yolks until thick and lemon colored, whites until stiff and dry, and add to first mixture. Then add milk, fruit, nuts and flour mixed and sifted with mace, cinnamon and soda. Put in buttered deep pans, cover with buttered paper, steam 3 hours and bake 1½ hours in a slow oven, or bake 4 hours in a slow oven. Rich fruit cake is always more satisfactory when done if the cooking is accomplished by steaming. Your boy is at an age when blackheads and pimples are common. Boys are generally thin during the growing age and as long as he has a healthy appetite you do not need to worry.

Just one year ago you left us;
How we miss you, no one knows,

Silently they bring before us
The dear face we see no more.

As the shadows onward fall,
And my lonely heart is weeping,
No more his presence we can call;

Oh, there's such a vacant place,
Oft I think I hear his footsteps,
Or see his smiling face.
Not gone from memory, not gone from love,
But gone to his home above.

One year has passed;
Sad and heart-broken was the call;
I little thought that on that day
That may dear wife should pass away.
I could not realize what it
Meant when the hour came
That she passed away.
Day by day I sadly miss her;
Friends may think the wound is healed.

Anniversary mass at Sacred Heart Church for Mrs. Laura Engel, who died Dec. 5, 1918.
In remembrance of my dear daughter, Laura:

My heart in deep sorrow returns to the day
As memory recalls how death bore you away
And left me in tears, in grief and in woe;
When I stood by your bed one year ago.
One year with all its changes since death strangely bade us part;
But, my child, all these changes cannot take you from my heart.
Gone in the best of your day, blighted in womanhood bloom;
Gone from a heart that loved you to sleep in the silent tomb.
Sadly missed by parents, brothers, husband and children.
MRS. EDWARD DONNELLY.

LOOK yourself "over." Maybe you are one of those "come-late-and-quit-early birds," and go around looking "down and out." No wonder you don't succeed. We are making it easy for you to buy clothes here. Hundreds of overcoats on sale now at Bargain Prices $7.50 to $15. "Bargain Days" is not one-day event. It is 365 days in a year "proposition." Come here "often." The "oftener" you come the "oftener" you save. It's "suit and overcoat time" now. "Sometimes you have to go outside to get inside information." Come "inside;" we will give you all the "outside information" in regard to the "High Cost" of Clothes. Buy our uncalled-for clothes; suits that will "dress you up." There is no time in life that you get so "down and out" that you can't get into the "Land of Beginning Again;" "Start anew;" we "Are Calling You" with our 8 large stores, 120 feet filled with "bargains galore." If we don't get your money for clothes here, you don't spend your "dough" right. What you "save when you spend your dough is your profit." "Install the Abrams System" of clothes buying and save. Dress up, look prosperous. Don't go around looking "down and out." For 10 years we have saved thousands of dollars for the clothes-buying public. Be "awake" to the "fact" your personal appearance "must count." We have "placed on sale" hundreds of suits, pants, coats and vests, which means a big saving to you. We have in "store" for you high-class suits; you can afford to wear two or three suits a season for the price of the customary one by purchasing our uncalled-for garments from our cleaning department; garments are tailor made and from the best manufacturers. Can you wear 34, 36, 38, 43, 40, 46 to 50 sizes? Also English and plain models. $7.50 to $15. Vests, 25c, pants $2 to $3.95; coats, $3 to $6.50; uncalled-for Stetson hats, 95c. TWO ways of clothes buying: First, going to the high-priced rent, high-overhead, expensive system of operation, which means nothing to the clothes. Second, come here, out of the high-rent district, no expensive habits, no "heavy overhead expenses," but solid values. "More than your money's worth on high-class suits and overcoats. "Adopt our close-to-the-shore front system. We can save you 20 to 40 per cent on your clothing bills. Suits, overcoats and mackinaws. If your money is going to count" with you spend it here. "Take it from you" and give you a long run for your money. "Where your dollars will bring the limit for clothes." If there ever was a "time" when a man should make every "dollar" bring the "limit," time is now. "What the Drummers' Sample Clothes Shop means to you:" These fine garments are made by the manufacturers for display or modeling purposes for traveling salesmen; they are made much better than the regular goods; after they show them off we buy them at a big discount; we give you the benefit of our immense buying capacity; this policy enables us to save you $5.00 to $7.50. We're "lowering" the "high game cost of "living;" we're in a "class" by ourselves; we claim with our "5 big stores" eliminating all unnecessary expense. Never in the "history" of these "United States" will you "see prices" as "high" as this fall. Don't "tread the old beaten path," where you have spent your money for "friendship" and not for "clothes." We'll sell you clothes "at the price, not friendship." Play the "new game." All we ask of you, "go shopping around" first and come here last, and we will certainly get your "dough." We are the only store in St. Louis showing "real" plain and silk-lined $30 and $35 blue, green, brown flannel waistline suits at these prices: $24.98 and $27.98. Don't spend "a dollar for clothes" unless you see our "fall line. "Pay less; buy more." To the "Drummers' Sample Clothes Shop." Five big stores in one. Vandeventer, Market, Sarah, Manchester, Chouteau and all other lines transfer to our door. A "price concession to our returning soldiers;" "Sample suits," $19.45, $21.89, $24.98, $29.98. Sample pants, $2.48, $2.58, $3.46, $4.98; tailormade suits cost up to $35; our price: $22.50, $26.75. Mackinaw coats, $7.98, $9.98 and $12.48. We again announce our "Trade-in-Sale" Department. We will make you a liberal allowance on your old clothes for new ones. "The place to buy clothes." 926 S. Vandeventer av., near Chouteau. Liberty Bonds accepted. (c)

North Louisiana oil leases; the boom is on in North Louisiana. The rush of operators to the new Golconda continues unabated. No oil excitement anywhere equals that of North Louisiana; values of acreage are climbing higher and higher with every big well, and wells of from 10,000 to 30,000 barrels daily flow are coming in every week. Texas fields are babies beside this great gusher territory. Ground floor prices can still be had by quick action. We can deliver acreage from $100 for 20 acres to $25,000 for 1 acre. Write us quick for lists, prices and propositions. You lost out in Texas; don't do it in North Louisiana. Address RELIABLE LEASING SYNDICATE, Ruston, La.

DIVIDENDS ARE GROWING

Our stockholders and our new investors will receive 3 per cent on preferred and 3 per cent on common for their next regular quarterly dividend this coming Jan. 1, if they are registered stockholders on the books of the company before Dec. 10 next, as against 2 per cent paid them on preferred only as their last quarterly dividend in October.

There is but 10 days left to investigate us. We are rated by both Dunn and Bradstreet and bank reference is yours for the asking.

We have offered you this opportunity for about two months through these columns. Thousands and thousands of dollars have been invested by keen St. Louis business men. About five-sixths of our stock has been sold. By or before Dec. 10 the remainder will be gone.

Our several hundred stockholders in this city will receive an individual letter this week, explaining the company's profitable condition and the announcement of an extra 1 per cent dividend on their preferred and the first quarterly dividend of 3 per cent on their common.

This will further prove to them their well-selected investment, and cause many to double and triple their holdings. We don't expect to advertise this issue again. Our list of stockholders is open to you, many of whom you know or know of.

Write plainly your name, phone number, address, and state in letter where and what part of the day or evening is most convenient to you for our representative to call. Don't waste time. We will prove above statements beyond any doubt on your part. You need not feel obligated to buy if we don't. Three hundred dollars the minimum investment and upward. Box M-122, Post-Dispatch.

THANKSGIVING TIP

Who has not heard of the wonderful oil pool at Desdemona, Tex., and the enormous wealth it is producing. The purpose of this insert is to divide among a few that have "guessed wrong" through improper investigation, to get in right and use good judgment this time. I was very fortunate securing a large block of stock in a small company having the choicest land in this field. Now drilling well. No. 1 location for well No. 2, surrounded by 5 wells, with an average production of 2400 barrels each of oil daily. This stock will look cheap at $50 sure within 60 days. Following wire at hand: "Nov. 25th—Lewis well, No. 2, which extends field half-mile west, is in, making 2000 barrels." Oil has advanced 25 cents. I will dispose of part of my holdings to a few good fellows acting promptly. I only deal in truth. Applications for only a limited amount at $5 per share (100 share lots) will be accepted. Interview only. Am leaving for the field Thursday p. m., and will return Tuesday next. Address Box E-273, Post-Dispatch.

U. S. Must Act as Moral and Economic Receiver to Save Europe From Fresh Disasters

American Member of Inter-Allied Rhineland Commission Points Out Dangers of Drifting Situation.

By PIERREPONT B. NOYES.

PIERREPONT B. NOYES, a New York State business man, and an associate of Dr. Garfield in the latter's Fuel Administration, was appointed American member of the Interallied Rhineland Commission. Although he cannot act officially until the Senate ratifies the peace treaty, Noyes has been at work in the Coblenz area for several months.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The peace settlement which was to have been the end of war is on the rocks, in great danger of "breaking up." If America still hopes that from the great war shall come conditions making for permanent peace she hasn't a moment to lose.

Certain it is that, in 1917, a majority of the American people plunged with passionate enthusiasm into the struggle only because they believed it a "war to end war," and always in the discussions of those days it was said that, when the war should have been won, the character of the settlement would be of supreme importance. Every one agreed it must and should be a "settlement meant to end war."

To any American who has seen the plight of Europe near at hand and watched the shadows of future trouble deepening through recent months, the delay in the attitude of America has been disconcerting. It can result only from ignorance, not the negative ignorance of European affairs which existed before the war, but an aggravated positive ignorance encouraged by those who would trade on American traditions for their own purposes.

This settlement, the most difficult and most dangerous in all history, is only begun and certain of our national leaders seem to have throws it "into the discard." There appears a willingness to leave the outcome to chance—or, worse than chance, to the passions of pride and cupidity and to the helplessness of Europe.

Living Near Nightmare.

I have lived for the past six months very close to the European nightmare, and I send this appeal from a great fear that the American people, not realizing the desperate situation here, may find when too late that they have played a very sorry part in the world tragedy We have helped to break up the map of Europe and turn many of the national boundaries into open sores; we have joined in decreeing drastic punishment for Germany. By our aid the despair of a score of peoples was turned into the joy of victory, which has carried many of these peoples past their first simple feelings of relief, past their first new hopes—has carried them on to such towering ambitions mixed with lust for revenge as to threaten to make the settlement a Pandora's Box of future wars.

And beneath it all the terrible economic and financial exhaustion in every European country has become a fertile soil in which the forces of anarchy are preparing bloody crops for all the world. In such a crisis the cool complacency of America towards the settlement is disappointing, since only the leadership of America, bringing with it the necessary economic assistance, can rescue that "peace to end war' of which all dreamed.

If the gospel of American indifference to the European settlement shall prevail, our summons to the youth of the nation to fight a "war to end war" was worse than hypocrisy, our participation therein was a tragic crime, and more than 100,000 American lads will have been done to death through a pitiful swindle.

Economically Bankrupt.

Europe is at this moment economically and morally bankrupt. Most of the countries are what we should call "good properties" only to be brought back into productive activity by a benevolent "receivership." America is the only country in the world capable of acting as such a "receiver."

If she refuses the task or accepts it half heartedly, if she doesn't put her credit and raw materials behind European industries on an enormous scale, millions of forlorn, hopeless people must descend into a winter of greater hopelessness, from which terrors for America as well as for Europe may arise.

And, further, if America, backed by her dominating financial position, doesn't maintain throughout the period of political reconstruction such a moral leadership as shall prevent the peace settlement from degenerating into a series of opportunist bargains, there will be sown in Europe, not seeds of peace, but serpents' teeth for many years.

The best men in every nation are struggling to stem the rising tide of sordid national and personal ambitions which threatens to submerge every chance of real peace, but the forces of materialism are proving too powerful for them. Certain it is that the hope of the world at this moment lies in the willingness of America to act as a moral as well as an economic receiver.

We cannot take refuge behind the plea of domestic troubles; our stake in the European settlement makes these trivial by comparison. Nor can we claim that the task is too great for our resources. Out of our credit needed to set in motion European industry can be furnished with ultimate profit to ourselves and from our fresh vigor and western ideals can come a leadership which will bring a righteous settlement.

We cannot, howewver, save the situation through half measures. The enterprise and credit of individuals must be backed by the credit of the United States Government in a gigantic plan for economic relief. Nothing else will suffice.

What Europe Needs.

To keep the wheels of industry turning, Europe will need to import during 1919-20 at least $4,000,000,000 worth of raw and semi-manufactured materials and machinery, and for full production she should have $1,500,000,000 worth of American coal. She needs also $2,000,000,000 worth of foodstuffs. Most of these supplies must come from the United States, and we can well spare them. The simplest arithmetic will convince anyone that, with the little surplus production available for export and interest to pay us on the $15,000,000,000 debt, the workmen of Europe will have little to work with this winter if the United States insists on cash. Credit transactions must, of course, be arranged on business-like principles, but the spirit must be the spirit of Belgian relief.

Let no one be deceived into a false sense of security by the fact that nearly a year has passed without a catastrophe. Europe has not yet tackled her post-war liquidation. The artificial props of war-time finance are still under most of the national fiscal structures; these props must come out soon. It is not alone the politicians who shrink from imposing the necessary taxation; the wisest statesmen fear the result of attempting such huge levies until industrial production can be started and populations given employment.

Last year our Herculean effort brought aid to the discouraged allies, but it brought also what was more important—hope. Hope won the war. Again America must come to the rescue with the same enthusiasm she brought to the feeding of Belgium, with the same vigor she put into the war. She owes to Europe, to herself, prompt and hearty participation in the peace councils and in the league of nations until all political readjustments shall be completed, and she must furnish supplies on credit to whatever extent may proveto be necessary for the establishment of European industry. Only thus can she bring hope to the hopeless millions and save Europe from disasters in which she will inevitably share.

LEAK IN FERRY BOAT DID NOT WORRY MISSOURI RIVER PILOT

Skipper Opined That Danger to Passengers Was No Greater Than His Own.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHAMOIS, Mo.—Rev. Father McCardle of Warrensburg, who recently spent part of his vacation in this section, traveled through sections of country that seemed to be the "forest primeval" and he also got a very practical, but rather exciting application of the well known axiom that "worry killed the cat."

Father McCardle was crossing the Osage River on a rather primitive ferry boat when he noticed that the craft was dipping slightly. He sought the skipper and called his attention to the leak, which he nodded his head in assent.

"But," said Father McCardle, "is there no great danger at that?"

"Well," he replied, "it's been doing it for several days."

Father McCardle said with some misgivings: "It must be 18 feet deep here at least, isn't it?"

"Reckon it's about 21," nonchalantly parried the "skipper."

"But, man," persisted the prelate, "have you no consideration for your passengers?"

"Well," drawled the ferryman, "if you go down won't I go, too?"

By that time the boat reached the shore and the priest lost no time in getting on terra firma with a light heart.

Better Than a Hundred Hands

The Auto Knitter

A turn of the handle and from 60 to 200 smooth, even, perfect stitches are knitted. Thousands of such stitches can be made in a few minutes by the operator of average experience. Many of our workers report that, with the Auto Knitter, a sock can be made in less than 10 minutes. When the Auto Knitter goes into action it is just like having many families of skilled knitters working for you; that is why our trade-mark is "Better Than a Hundred Hands." It makes the sock—top-body-heel-and-toe—without removal from the machine. It weighs about 20 pounds, can be clamped to any ordinary table or stand and can be used anywhere. It is easily learned. Experience in knitting and familiarity with machines are totally unnecessary. Complete instructions about how to use The Auto Knitter are sent to every worker. The Auto Knitter is to hand knitting what the sewing machine is to hand sewing.

Profit and Pleasure

This is to certify that I have used the Auto Knitter in my home with entire satsifaction, and that the Auto Knitter Company have not said too much in stating that the work wears as well as hand-knitted. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." I have the socks and I know.

I consider the company to be honorable in their business dealings, and, like their machine, is to be relied upon.

The Auto Knitter does the finest work of any machine I have seen, and I am perfectly satisfied with it as a means of profit in every way. Mifflinburg, Pa.

More Than Two Dozen Pairs a Day

The Auto Knitter has proven very satisfactory. The work done on the machine cannot be surpassed. I consider this machine stands in a class by itself. Absolutely perfect work can be made. The only requirement is to learn the work, and then work. The Auto Knitter is very speedy, and any person of good judgment can knit from one to two dozen pairs of socks a day, and if they want to push the work they can turn out more. The treatment by the Auto Knitter Company is the best, and I have found them to be absolutely reliable.

We Supply Yarn Free and Pay You for the Socks

The whole world needs socks. In every country, in every city, in every town and in every village—in every corner of the world, in fact—there is an acute shortage of hosiery.

This great demand is your personal opportunity. It is your chance to add substantially to your income. It is the weapon with which you can meet the constantly increasing high cost of living.

You can make this extra money pleasantly, and easily in the privacy, freedom and comfort of your own home.

This is an unusual advertisement due to an unusual world-condition. We are a firmly established American Corporation engaged in the manufacture of high-grade seamless socks. Our business connections are world-wide. We have been in business many years.

We have always preferred home manufacture to factory production. We believe in the independent employe. We know that the best work is that which is done by well-paid, contented people in happy homes.

Our socks can be made equally well by men and women. Knitting experience is unnecessary, for The Auto Knitter, a marvelous machine made by us, does the work. Anyone can quickly learn to operate this machine.

Workers Wanted Everywhere

For the reasons stated above—the unprecedented demand for hosiery—we need more workers—thousands of them. We need you.

We need all the socks you and your family can make on The Auto Knitter. We need this labor badly. We will make a contract to pay you a fixed wage, on a piece-work basis. In this contract you take no risk. You can work for us as much as you want or as little as you want—spare time or full time—right in your own home.

And for every dozen pair of socks you send us we will pay a liberal wage.

With every Auto Knitter we send a supply of wool yarn FREE. We also supply, FREE, the yarn needed to replace that which is used in making the socks you send us.

The yarn we supply is the well-known Qu-No Quality Brand, made especially for The Auto Knitter. It is the Softest, the Warmest, the Strongest. Uniformity in quality, weight and shade is always obtainable. We issue a Free Shade that contains samples of Qu-No Quality Yarns.

You are of course at liberty to dispose of the output of The Auto Knitter as you see fit; you can also use The Auto Knitter to make, at a remarkably low cost, all the hosiery your family needs—wool on cotton.

But please remember this: There are absolutely no strings tied to our Wage Agreement; it is a straight out-and-out Employment Offer of a Fixed Wage on a piece-work basis—a good pay for your services alone.

Positively Not a "Canvassing Scheme"

The Auto Knitter gives you the opportunity to make money during your spare time. It also gives you the chance to devote your entire time to the business, and thus to be independent of bosses, rules, time clocks, working hours, etc. Our Wage Contract is in no sense a disguised "canvassing scheme," "agency" or "open a store" proposition. Here is the proof—read the evidence from some of our worker.

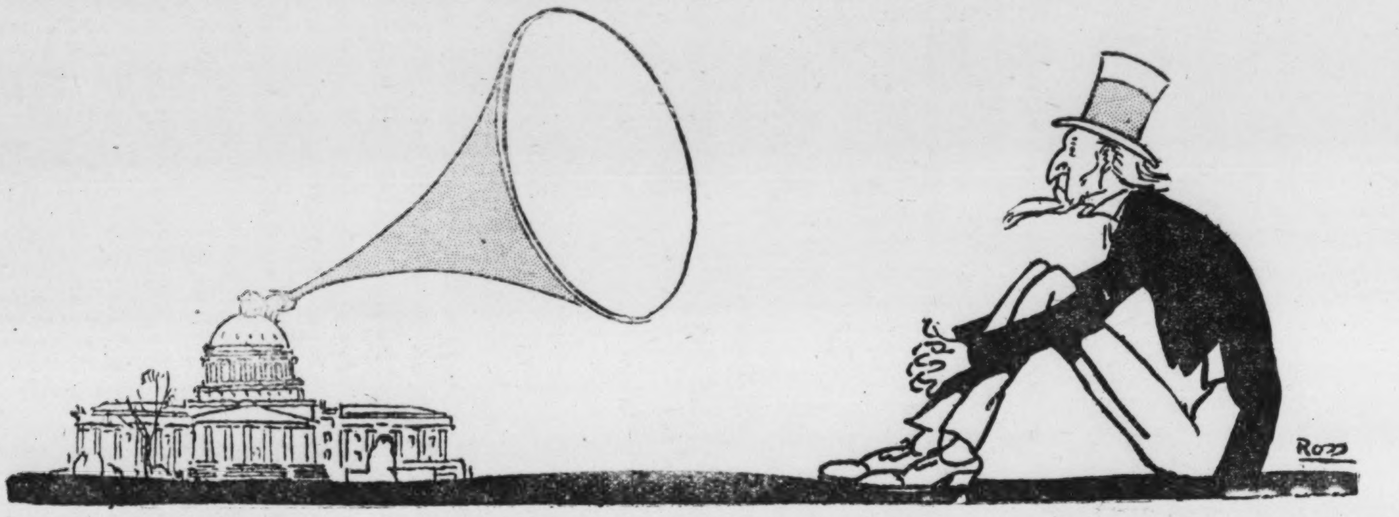
Adding to the Noise of Nations

Political leaders are mobilizing an army of 2,000,000 phonographs to assail the defenseless voting population with oratorical bombs and hot air—The national presidential campaign will be conducted on motion picture lines, by the monthly release of canned talks by party spellbinders and favorite sons



By BEN H. ATWELL.

THE presidential campaign, now getting fairly well under way, will be responsible for turning loose upon a long-suffering public a new scientific horror, beside which many of the evils of politics hitherto complained of may appear harmless diversions.

The talking machines of the country have been ordered mobilized by party leaders as the big feature of the campaign. From their sonorous depths the doubtful voter is to be bombarded with argument and oratory. The specially designed long-distance records upon which the party spellbinders are intoning their master thoughts in anticipation of the onslaught are described as not only unusually loud and clear, but unusual in another direction—their thunderbolts and lute-like context may be coaxed from the disk by any standard talking machine.

What this means in adding to the noise of nations may be judged from the fact that two manufacturers, alone, have sold more than 2,000,000 machines in American homes. The tremendous levies of reinforcements available from the output of the numerous smaller concerns afford additional cause for alarm.

This will mark the first attempt on a large scale to employ the enormous potentialities of talking machine for propaganda purposes. Both the Democratic and Republican National Committees have seized upon the plan and are marshalling their vocal forces, with the result that the neighboring machines that have kept you awake with the strains of "Poor Butterfly" will soon perform the same office with forensic outbursts beginning "Fellow Democrats," or "Proud members of the Grand Old Party," according to the partisan leanings of the owners thereof.

The primary purpose of the adoption of the phonograph campaign is to enable the wheel horses of the respective parties to make simultaneous appeal in their own voices to the voters from coast to coast, covering ground that would be utterly out of the question under any other plan. The records will be available at all times to supplement the efforts of local spellbinders for small meetings, lending the attractiveness of "star" names to affairs otherwise commonplace. Still another feature dwelt upon by the National Committees in their instructions to local workers is the possibility of getting their doctrine before commercial and rotary clubs and similar bodies holding frequent gatherings, and which are not prone to welcome the local politicians on their programs.

To make this possible, a system has been evolved that is not unlike that employed by the motion picture interests. Monthly releases will be made throughout the campaign available approximately the first of each month, conditional upon the dependability of the mails. Each release will consist of a five-minute talk by a celebrity on some big issue of the contest.

United States Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer has been selected to make the initial phonograph address for the Democratic party, and Major-General Leonard Wood for the Republican.

Necessarily each party is working on the plan without regard to what its rival is doing in the same direction, yet their canvass is parallel in that mechanical restrictions confine them to five-minute talks. Expediency compels them to employ only notables as speakers, and the dominating issues as topics. In consequence a similarity is inevitable, that may lead to phonograph debates figuring largely in small-town social life in the near future.

The sensational innovation in campaigning that has been seized upon by both parties with such zeal is a heritage from the war.

When it became apparent that this country would enter into the struggle Guy Golterman, a St. Louis attorney identified with the grand opera seasons there and musical development generally, and an enthusiast on the importance of the human voice, proposed a plan to employ the phonograph record to perpetuate not only the thought but the voice of American leaders in the struggle. He made visits to Washington to urge the establishment of a crypt in connection with the national archives where such records might be preserved for future generations "as eternal as the mystic smile of the Sphinx on Egypt's desert sands."

An organization known as the Nation's Forum was the fruit of the idea, and it conducted a long and costly series of experiments before developing a record that would carry a five-minute address with true tonal preservation of the speaker's voice and which should be capable of reproducing the message with volume appropriate for use in schools and assemblies.

Among the notables thus recorded was Gen. Pershing, a portable recording equipment being sent to his headquarters in France with a crew for the purpose.

The scheme had scarcely weathered the experimental stage and got well under way when the end of the war came, and the underlying principle was turned over to the President-makers in the persons of the National Committees of the dominant political parties.

Both seized upon it with avidity, and are seeking to outdo each other in reaping the advantages that the innovation in campaigning opens up for development.

As a means of testing its practicability, Chairman Will Hays of the Republican National Committee made a record epitomizing his well-known speech on "Citizenship" within the limitations of a five-minute talk, and permitted its distribution in a limited issue to clubs, factories, schools and county central committeemen in widely separated and socially different parts of the country. The reception accorded the record left no doubt as to either practicability or value. A committeeman representing the leading agricultural county of Colorado, reporting on the subject, requested additional records, stating that nearly all the farmers of the district had some kind of a talking machine and that the record was being circulated from one to another like a book, and was working on Sundays—at the Sunday schools.

Fortified by this experience, and with a realization of the unusual interest centering in the issues to be disposed in the pending campaign, Chairman Hays in a recent letter of instruction to Republican workers touching on the possibilities of "canned" oratory, as some facetious souls have termed it, declared it "the most promising development in politics since the daily newspaper achieved its present power and importance."

Chairman Cummings of the Democratic National Committee was familiar with the possibilities of the record through having heard the messages of Cabinet officers and other leaders in war activities reproduced, and lost no time in experimentation, but immediately set out to make the fullest possible use of it as an auxiliary.

The preliminary steps have not been without their humorous aspects, in some instances quite as amusing as the prospects when every talking machine owner will bombard his neighbors with florid forensic flourishes calculated to influence their votes. Speakers who have campaigned from Maine to California, painting the lily as they passed, and whose eloquence is familiar to most Americans, heard their own voices for the first time in connection with this campaign. In almost every instance they were surprised at their own tones, and in some cases questioned the authenticity of the recording until assured by members of their families or by intimate friends that the reproduction was correct. Then they have hovered about like children with a new toy, trying the record again and again.

It is a standing joke among those who have been familiar with the development of the phonographic political campaign that one of the most prominent men in official life, and an orator of wide note, celebrated for the silvery quality of his speech, was so delighted with his own voice when he heard it for the first time that he hurried to his distant home to reproduce it for his little daughter, only to be bitterly disappointed by her childish declaration:

"I don't see anything funny about that, papa; it's the way you always talk when there's a crowd of folks around to hear you."

sold it to him. She represented herself as a stewardess on the Hoyos yacht and I'm having the original one looked up, but she seems to have dropped completely out of sight."

"I saw Mr. Norwood on Saturday night," volunteered McCarty. "He don't seem much interested in the proceedings since Capt. Marchal is gone. I don't suppose, sir, that there've been any new developments in that case? It's settled the poor lad killed himself?"

"Of course he did; there has never been a doubt of that from the first," declared the Inspector. "One shot might have been fired from the pistol long ago, or it may not have been fully loaded."

"Then you didn't find where the other bullet went?" McCarty queried.

"No, and it was a waste of time looking. Before you appeared on the scene I had picked up the ejected shell where it lay right at the feet of the body, but no other shell was found; that in itself would prove that only one shot was fired there. He killed himself, all right, and Terhune's a happy man that he solved the murder to suit himself, but I won't accept his solution until every other possibility fails."

"You're thinking, then, there's a chance he may be right?"

"Damn it, man, I don't know what to think!" the Inspector cried. "It is more than two weeks since the woman was done to death and I'm no nearer the truth than when I started. You know what the department is, Mac. There are plenty waiting for my head to fall, and I'm not getting any younger! I can't afford to lay down on this. The papers are putting up a howl as it is over the delay in nailing someone for the crime; they're not particular who, but they need the copy. Besides that, the Jarvises are too prominent and the case itself had too many sensational details for the public to lose interest in it and let other things crowd it out of mind until some explanation is made. The Commissioner gave me a pretty broad hint the other day that it was time to show results, and you know what that means. If I don't make good on this I'm a dead one!"

"You'll make good on it, sir!" McCarty burst out, the last trace of his resentment gone before the look of despair on his former superior's face. "I was going to spring it on you to get even with you for giving me the laugh the other day, but after all, it's up to the department to pull it off."

"Mac!" The Inspector jumped to his feet, his worn face brightening with an almost incredulous hope. "What do you mean? You haven't found the man!"

"I'm thinking he'll call at my rooms this night," McCarty replied, his face sobering. "I dropped in to ask you, would you come, sir, and bring Martin and Yost with you. Unless I ball the whole thing up there'll be work for them to do later on, but I'd like them there ahead of any of the others."

"What others?" demanded the Inspector. "Mac, for God's sake, if you've got actual proof of the murderer's identity and know where he is, tell me now and don't take fool chances!"

"Excuse me, sir!" McCarty's jaw set in a manner the other recognized. "I'm not on the force, if you mind, but only a private party that's butted into the case and I'll tell what I've done in my own way or not at all. I've been in the gallery at more than one of Terhune's little shows, and now I'm going to give a seance of my own. Besides you and him I'll have Norwood and young Jarvis; Mr. Vivaseur can come, too, if he likes, since he's taken an interest in the case, and 'twill do no harm if Denny sits in a corner. There'll be a lady present, too, to keep Martin and Yost company in the back room until they're wanted. 'Tis too bad that Capt. Marchal can't come back for the one evening, but he's done the next best thing; he's left us a signed statement of the truth."

"A signed statement!" the Inspector repeated. "Where did you get it?"

"You let me have it yourself, sir," McCarty grinned. "But I'll tell you no more now."

"Look here!" exclaimed the Inspector. "Except for the woman, whoever she is, and Martin and Yost, you've only named the people who were present at Terhune's experiment two weeks ago. You can't mean that one of them murdered Mrs. Jarvis?"

"Is it likely?" McCarty snorted. "I want them all there, though, when the blackguard that did it shows himself. You'll come, sir?"

"Mac, I don't know whether to believe you or not, but you've got me where you want me," the Inspector laughed somewhat uncertainly. "If you won't speak now you won't and I'll have to trust you. I'll be there with Martin and Yost."

"At 8, then, sir, and see that they're heeled." McCarty picked up his hat. "I don't expect any rough stuff, but you never can tell. Good-by, sir."

Leaving headquarters he telephoned to Wade Terhune tendering an invitation to his seance that evening, and thoroughly enjoyed the amused and skeptical tone of the great man's acceptance and promise to bring his client. Next he journeyed across town to the private detective agency of James B. Shane, whom he familiarly addressed as "Jim" and with whom he was in close consultation for more than an hour. One o'clock found him consuming pie and coffee at a nearby lunch counter, after which repast he presented himself at the Norwood house.

"Uncle Cal has gone with Oliver out to Mrs. Jarvis' grave," Joan explained as she greeted McCarty in the drawing room. "We were both so sorry not to have seen you on Saturday night; weren't we, Eric?"

She appealed to the Englishman, who exclaimed as he shook hands:

"Rather! We couldn't imagine what had become of you last week, but we hoped you were working on the investigation. I say, were you?"

"A part of the time," McCarty responded. "I've not given up hope yet, but I can't see my way to going on with it much further alone. I thought that maybe if we all got together and talked it over—Terhune and Mr. Jarvis and Mr. Norwood and the Inspector—and pieced out what each of us knew or thought we knew, we might get something fresh to start on. The rest have agreed to come to my rooms tonight at 8:30 and I called to see if Mr. Norwood would mind being there, too."

"Of course, Uncle Cal will come." Joan's face had fallen. "But haven't you any news for me, Mr. McCarty? Oh, I did so hope that you would be able to discover the truth!"

McCarty flushed deeply.

"I tried, miss," he said simply.

"I say, mayn't I come, too?" Vivaseur asked impulsively. "I know I'm a rank outsider, but I've been doing a lot of thinking on the subject and I've an idea or two which may be worth something. If I'm not intruding"——

"Sure! Come if you like," McCarty said cordially. "You and Miss Norwood gave me some good tips before and I'm thinking the Inspector is open now to suggestions from any quarter."

"I suppose I mustn't invite myself?" Joan pouted. "I think you might have held your conference here, Mr. McCarty, and permitted me to be present!"

"I'm afraid that the Inspector"—— McCarty began somewhat doubtfully and Vivaseur came to the rescue.

"Not at a council of war, Joan, dear; it isn't done," he said lightly. "I'll come back with your uncle tonight, if it is not too late, and tell you all about it. That will be best."

"Then that's settled." McCarty rose. "At 8:30, Mr. Vivaseur."

Yet another call remained to be paid before he could return to his rooms and prepare for what the evening would bring forth. He betook himself to the firehouse where Dennis had returned to his duty and the mask which he had worn all day slipped from him.

"It's done, Denny!" he cried gleefully. "It's all over but the shouting!"

"Is it the murderer you mean?" Dennis spoke in an awestruck whisper. "You've got him, Mac?"

"You mind Jim Shane, that was roundsman in my precinct when I was on my first beat?" McCarty ignored the question. "Well, he's running a private detective bureau now and on the Thursday before we started for New Orleans I put him to work on a little job for me that has turned the trick!"

"Before we went to New Orleans!" exclaimed Dennis. "You know then who the fellow was that murdered Mrs. Jarvis?"

"I knew the truth of it when I stood beside that poor, blind Frenchman's body, God rest him, but I couldn't have proved it, and if I had spoken I'd have been put away for a lunatic," McCarty responded gravely. "Instead of being like most cases, where you hold a million loose threads and don't know where they lead to, I had the answer but not the way to connect it up. Are you on day or night duty now?"

"Day," Dennis responded eagerly. "My nights are my own, and if there's anything doing this evening I'll be on the job. But who is he, Mac? You've held out on me long enough"——

"You'll know tonight." McCarty regarded him quizzically. "Are you wishful to take part in another little scientific experiment?"

Dennis quailed, then squared his shoulders doggedly.

"I'm not, and well you know it, but if it's going to be the finish, you can count me in. What is it you are going to do now, Mac? Hand Terhune all the credit, like you did in that other case last year?"

"Not this time," McCarty smiled. "I'm holding this seance myself in my own rooms at 8:30, and there'll be no dinky little machines to take records of every breath you draw."

"'Seance!'" Dennis shivered. "Isn't that what they call it when some medium throws a fit and brings back the spirits of the dead?"

"It is, and that's what I'm going to do." McCarty paused, and then added: "Not throw a fit, I don't mean, but it's a spirit I'm going to bring back from the dead all right."

Dennis crossed himself reverently.

"I always said you'd get whoever you were after, if you had to go to the next world to find him, but I never thought to see you do it, Mac," he said. "Spooks or no, I'll be there, Mac, with bells on!"

STACKED CARDS

got along far enough, I gave her a nice little deck of cards that'd been treated with acetic acid. Because, you know, if she had been sending invisible messages, some of that fluid was sure to get on her fingers from the pen, and the acetic acid would bring it out. And, sure enough, about the third day, there was a brown spot on nearly every card. After that it was easy."

"And you got her?" The probationary operative leaned forward with interest. Jimmie Barstow grinned.

"Her? Say, listen, we let 30 transports go under Brooklyn bridge. Then we trailed every bird that hurried away. And while those transports were dropping anchor just this side o' Coney, we picked up 142 water-front spies, 14 wireless outfits and two heliographs. To say nothing about the peacock herself and her private drug store signal station. Sometimes," said Jimmie Barstow contentedly, "things go pretty good in the secret service."

Sleeping Fits Caused by Indigestion

EVEN after a meal of moderate size taken by a normal subject there is a slight tendency to drowsiness which becomes much more pronounced after a heavy meal, or in dyspeptics. When sleep under such conditions is irresistible we have narcolepsy. The patient may fall asleep so abruptly that he may endanger himself or others. It is characteristic, however, of narcolepsy of whatever kind that the attack is of brief duration. The victim never collapses, for he always has time to assume a posture suitable for sleep. He may even announce that he must doze for a few minutes, after which he will awake refreshed. He may be kept awake or readily awakened. Hence there should be no likelihood of mistaking narcoleptics for epileptics of any kind. The digestive troubles are of no particular type—cases have been seen of alcoholic gastritis, hyperchlorhydria, atony, etc. In these patients indigestion is only a determining cause, but relief of the stomach mischief seems to lead to complete recovery. Possibly akin to these gastric cases are others in which a subject falls into an imperative sleep after indulgence in alcohol, but who wakes in a few moments completely sober, instead of passing into a stupor.

La-May Face Powder
Is Harmless to the Most Delicate Skin

A specialist has at last perfected a pure face powder that positively will not cause enlarged pores, blackheads and irritations. In fact, while it is considered the best face powder, it is also a remedy for complexion troubles. It is guaranteed pure and harmless to the most delicate baby skin. It beautifies wonderfully because it helps to clear and lighten the skin and protect the complexion from blemishes. This new kind of face powder is made largely of an ingredient that skin specialists use in the treatment of the complexion. And it really stays on better than any other face powder. Of course, saying this, every one knows we mean the famous La-may Powder (French, Poudre L'Ame). This is the powder that does not contain starchy rice powder or dangerous white lead to make it adhere. White lead is a deadly poison and rice powder turns into a gluey paste that makes enlarged pores, blackheads and rice powder irritations. Because La-may is so pure and because it stays on so well it is now used by over a million American women. All dealers carry the large box, and many dealers also carry the small trial size. Be sure to try La-may. Then you will really know a perfect face powder. You will be sorry if you take a substitute. When you use this harmless powder and see how beautifully it improves your complexion, you will understand why La-may so quickly became the most popular beauty powder sold in America. Save this notice.

KENTUCKY'S DADDY OF 26 CHILDREN -- 22 OF 'EM VOTERS --

Uncle Bob Bates of Letcher County, down in the "feud and moonshine" country, walked 12 miles to "vote-er-straight" for the Democrats and his flock of sons did likewise — Though he is past 98 years old, this rugged mountaineer's youngest child is but 4 years old, while his eldest is 80 — Married three times and had 22 boys before a girl was added to the home circle

Uncle Bob is passionately fond of his little girls who are much younger than some of the great-great grandchildren of his first marriage.

KENTCKY, which a few months ago came forward through the medium of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine with the clearly authenticated story of Uncle John Shell of Leslie County who had just celebrated his 130th birthday, now announces a return engagement with even a greater wonder, and chooses the same channel of communicating its discovery to the balance of the world. And no one who knows Kentucky will doubt its pride in exploiting the truly marvelous history of Uncle Bob Bates of Rockhouse Creek, in the mountain fastnesses of Letcher County, down in the southeastern part of the State, close to the Virginia boundary, where "moonshine" and pure water abound. And once the facts are made known, none will doubt that Uncle Bob Bates is entitled to a conspicuous niche in the Hall of Fame.

Letcher County is in the feud center of the bluegrass commonwealth, but it was not in sanguinary conflict that Bob Bates won his honors; no, not by any manner of means, but rather through the peaceful pursuits of husbandry did he achieve the greatness that his State is getting ready to have commemorated in a manner befitting his accomplishments.

Besides being the tiller of the biggest farm in his mountain home, he tells the census enumerator without ever batting an eyelash that he is 98 years of age and that the fruits of his three marriages consist of 26 children, ranging in ages from 4 to 80 years, all of whom are living and in possession of the same vigorous health as the father. Unlike the old woman of legendary fame who lived in the shoe, he finds no difficulty providing for his children. Each of his 22 sons by his first and second marriages, all of whom are voters, has his own farm and even though the original holding, has been slashed repeatedly to make this distribution, the Bob Bates "passel" is still the biggest cultivated stretch of land in Letcher's wilds.

Not only does this modern wonder follow his plow every day when such soil attentions are necessary, but he raises stock of famous pedigree and finds much time to spend in the bosom of his family. His youngest children are girls of 4 and 6 years respectively and these little tots are his particular pets and with some reason therefor, since the first 22 of his offspring were lusty youngsters of the other gender. It was not, in fact, until his third marriage, that the stork paid the slightest heed to his petition for a little diversity. Then, as they say in a game of chance very popular in Kentucky, nothwithstanding the activities of the uplifters, "one calls two." The second girl and youngest of the imposing array of children came to the farm just four years ago.

The Bates family had lived in the mountain regions close to the Virginia line, even before Kentucky was admitted to the union and as there is no historical society in Letcher County, or in fact, in any of the other hill counties, to preserve such records, no one is in a position to do even better than offer a guess, as to who were the original progenitors of this amazing stock. The opinion has been expressed at Whitesburg the little county seat, that the first Bates came along in advance of the War of the Revolution. Uncle Bob married his first wife when he was going on 17, and his first son was born before the father saw his 18th anniversary. Then the boys came in a hurry, and when the first wife died after the birth of her twelfth son, the bereaved husband after a season of mourning, contracted a second marriage, as he felt rather lonely in his mountain cabin, even though he did have an even dozen boys.

His second wife showed the same partiality to the boys and presented her husband with 10 before she was called to join the first. Then it seems Uncle Bob waited a long time before he repaired to the County Court for another set of "marriage licenses" and another call for the circuit rider, who in the mountains is willing to ride a long way to officiate on such occasions. Uncle Bob's third crop of children has aroused the admiration of the whole mountainside, and every "cris'nin" means a jubilee on Rockhouse Creek.

Some of the community leaders have tried to get Uncle Bob and his 22 sons to pose for a group picture and have even promised to send some distance for a photographer, but it is not an easy matter to assemble the subjects, since their homes are widely scattered and the roads are not always negotiable. Still they have not despaired and plans are now under way to photograph the entire collections, including those of the third distribution. This program will be carried out before the venerable head of the flock celebrates his 99th birthday next fall.

Uncle Bob Bates celebrated his 98th birthday a few days since in his old home which proved quite a homecoming affair, all his children being on hand, their children, and their children's children—the hundreds of descendents, friends and acquaintances of this real patriarch. It was a gala affair. The old home, a primitive log structure into which he moved over 90 years ago, is still intact, having stood the tests of many rigid wintery blasts. It is a real landmark, of which the old man is proud. A few weeks ago, Uncle Bob showed his strength for the Democratic candidate, James D. Black, for Governor by furnishing him with 23 votes, his 22 boys and himself. In the words of old man Bates—"Yes, we're all Democrats—of the Wilsonian and Jeffersonian type, and are sure to get to the polls in some way." On this occasion Uncle Bob to show his zeal and devotion to the party set out afoot over 12 miles of mountain roads to go to the polls. By noon he had covered the distance, voted, and was at home ready to put in a good half day's work on his farm.

But sad to relate, this splendid exhibition of cumulative ballotry was all for naught, as the wet Democrats over Louisville way took it out on the ticket, because the candidate was the opponent of strong drink. It was several days before the news reached the inaccessible villages in the mountains and Uncle Bob was very much depressed at the tidings. But walking 12 miles or so, to discharge the obligations of good citizenship is a mere trifle to this virile mountaineer, as long hikes have been his favorite diversion since his young manhood.

In fact it is no uncommon thing to see Uncle Bob set out and walk 25 and 30 miles in a day, as he insists that walking furnishes an abundance of exercise and is healthy.

"I have often walked 75 and 80 miles in a single day," says this vigorous person, "but, of course, I could not walk quite so far now, although I enjoy it still."

As an extensive stock raiser Uncle Bob has the Eastern Kentucky record, for he is adept at the business, and sells more fine bred animals on the markets of the bluegrass section than perhaps any other dealer. Stock men down in that State look forward to the coming of Uncle Bob. He makes these trips of 200 miles himself on horseback often dismounting and walking a considerable part of the distance. He is as regular as clock work on these trips to market, which are made about four or five times each year.

He has thousands of acres of mountain lands which are peculiarly adapted for stock raising. These are set in clover and grasses making ideal grazing land. He has some of the purest strains in the Kentucky registers and whether it is cattle, hogs or horses, the buyers know that only the most select are offered. Thousands of these acres are rich in timber and are underlaid with valuable deposits of coal which will make the numerous children wealthy when the country is fully developed by the railroads. His large areas are still some miles remote from the rails, but quite recently announcement was made that a branch line would shortly be headed in his direction and this, of course, will add enormously to the value of his estates. One of the claims made by prospectors in the coal regions of Kentucky is that a buyer can pay $500 per acre for his ground and take it all back in fuel in a very short while. Had he chosen in his early days to get the great tracts which were then easily obtained, he would now be far advanced in the multimillionaire class, even though he had to provide for a family of huge dimensions. When he was a boy in the same mountains, it was only necessary for a person desiring land to hunt a surveyor, locate certain sections and then go to the State for a patent, for the "vacant land" designation was then applied almost to entire counties.

Uncle Bob waxes indignant when anyone throws out a hint that he is getting along in years, or that he needs any assistance in getting over some of the rougher places along the mountain trails, which serve as roads. He spurns such tenders and just to show that he is able to care for himself and others as well, he often goes out for walks with a little girl in either hand, and finds real music in their lisping, halting conversation. It seems odd to these little ones that while they address this rugged old man as "daddy" elderly men and women who come to the place, call him "grand-daddy."

When he is not farming or tending his stock he finds much to do looking after other business interests as he owns stock in several banks and practically owns the Bank of Hindman. He is called into consultation in all the important affairs of the county and his judgment is considered of the greatest importance by his neighbors. Many a dispute has been adjusted through acceptance of his advice and counsel, thereby avoiding litigation and ill-feeling which in the interest of peace must be discouraged in the mountain counties.

When Uncle Bob celebrated his 98th birthday and invited the whole county to come to his party, his eldest son, who has turned 80, led the procession to the house and was able to get about with as much alacrity as his sons, grandsons and great-grandsons. When he picked up his baby sister, but 4 years old, the picture was keenly enjoyed by all of the mountaineers who are nearly all noted for their large families and longevity. Notwithstanding the stories of feuds and brushes with "revnoos," Southeastern Kentucky is noted as the most healthful place in the State and henceforth the mountaineers will point to Uncle Bates as well as Uncle Shell and his 130 years. Uncle Shell's home is in Leslie County, which lies just west of Letcher.

The Bates family of which Uncle Bob is such a virile member, produced another wonder, who for many years was a stellar attraction in the circus world. This was the late Martin Van Buren Bates, who was one of the biggest men in the world, and as a giant made a decided hit in his many tours. He died not long ago at Seville, O. He made many visits to Rockhouse Creek, but as tall, gaunt men were quite common there, he did not attract so much attention as he did in the show business.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson's Logic Is Too Deep for England

Gilbert K. Chesterton, the English essayist, expresses himself in this manner concerning "Pussyfoot" Johnson, the American dry leader now in England directing the campaign to abolish alcohol in that country:

THE gentleman whose name seems to be utterly extinguished under the rather mysterious title of Pussyfoot appears to have been making some interesting remarks. It is due to the victim of this metaphor to say that they show rather the claws of candor than the velvet glove of cunning. He is reported as saying that he does not care what men want, because they are too weak to know what is good for them. He seems to accept the obvious deduction that all freedom and citizenship are in their nature nonsense; and that if America is a democracy, it must be also an absurdity. For he is also reported as saying that there is no such thing as personal liberty, except in a wilderness.

It would be far truer to say that there is no such thing as personal liberty except in a high civilization. But in any case, the image he selects is a very unlucky one for the cause he supports. By suggesting that liberty can only live in the wilderness, he only manages to remind us that his own type of tyranny did come, and could only come, out of the wilderness. The tyranny of teetotalism originally arose because men cannot drink wine in the desert. Wild and wandering tribes out of the wilderness of Arabia tried to impose their own more or less necessary negations upon happier tribes sitting under their own vine and fig tree.

And I will add, with all respect, that these vetoes have only reappeared in lands recently reclaimed from the wilderness; such as America and our own colonies. For America really has an excuse for prohibition which Europe has not. The prohibitionist will find something entirely different in England, and still more in Europe. But I did not refer to him for the purpose of raising the particular discussion about drink, which he naturally denounces; but the general question of liberty, which he denounces much more decisively.

And I repeat that it is due to him to say that his denial of liberty has all the American virtues of simplicity and sincerity. It is something to get a man to say, in so many words, that freedom is nonsense and that men must not have what they want. A great many muddle-headed people mean that; but they have not the moral courage to say that. In this sense America is justified of all her children. He displays some of the advantages of being a democrat in his effort to destroy democracy. It is this which interests me; as expressed in his other alleged observation—that men's wishes do not matter, since they are the wishes of men too weak to know what is good. Now, there is only one little logical flaw in this lucid argument; which seems for some reason to be always missed by those who advance it.

Let it be granted, as the first part of the syllogism, that all men are weak. It must also be granted, as a second step, that all American prohibitionists are men. And the final deduction of this syllogism is so startling, and even shocking, that I almost hesitate in having to write it down. Many, however, will draw the deduction without the least delicacy, and certainly without the least difficulty. It is that American prohibitionists are weak; some will probably say weak in the head; I will confine myself to saying weak in their arguments.

And the weakest of all their arguments is this primary one about weakness. If men cannot know what is good for them, obviously teetotal men cannot know that teetotalism is good for them. But the fallacy is found in connection with many other things besides teetotalism, and in problems quite apart from the problem of drink.

Weird Mysteries of Animal Life

phrynin, inflames the olfactory membrane if we sniff it, yet there is no smell.

Musical Instruments of Insects.

BUZZING or humming is mainly due to rapid vibrations of the wings, which often strike the air more than a hundred times in a second, but there is sometimes a special quivering instrument near the base of the wing. Chirping or trilling is due to some sort of "stridulating" organ, one hard part being scraped against another, as the bow of the fiddle—it may be leg against wing.

Wholesale Murder in the Bee Hive.

THERE is autumnal tragedy in the beehive, for some time after the queen has been fertilized the workers unite to destroy the now useless drones, either murdering them directly or driving them forth to perish.

In the fall, too, there is preparation for hard times to come, as is illustrated in the automatic vegetative storing of starch and the other reserve products by plants, in the instinctive storing of honey by hive bees and of grain by ants, and in the half-instinctive and half-intelligent storing of nuts by squirrels and of earthworms by moles. There is the making or collecting of blankets against the winter's cold, as is illustrated by the nonconducting scales around the buds, by the sleeping sacks which caterpillars fashion before sinking into their chrysalid lethargy, by the soft quilts gathered into their winter resting place by door mice and other true hibernators. The blanching of mountain hare and ptarmigan is also a protective preparation.

Education of the Young Otter.

ONE of the admirable qualities of the otter is the intensity of the parental, especially the maternal, care. The young ones—blind and downy—are born in a soft-lined nest under the shelter of an inaccessible bank; the mother will at first hardly leave them save on feverish rushes after food necessary to keep up the supply of milk. To guard them she sleeps, like many a human mother, with at least one ear awake. When they open their eyes she cautiously carries them to bask for a while in the winter sunshine, for their birthdays are often in January.

When they can clamber she teaches them the woodcrafts of the immediate vicinity of the "hover" and the complete alphabet of the sounds that mean danger. With her teeth she punishes disobedient foolhardiness—especially on the part of the male cubs—yet she shares in their frolics when all sensible danger is distant.

When they are a little over eight weeks old and able to follow her afield, she takes them to a quiet pool and teaches them to swim, supplying by a gradual widening of experience the liberating stimuli that are needed to arouse their instinctive endowments. In about a week they can swim like fishes—a week which seems more like play than school, for the otter is one of the animals in which is profound playfulness in youth—a period of irresponsible and apparently joyous apprenticeship to the future business of life.

Auto-Amputation of the Legs.

A STARFISH, seized by one of its arms, surrenders this to the captor and escapes with the other four, regrowing the missing part at its infinite leisure.

A starfish may jerk off each of its five arms seized in succession; it may cast off an injured or parasitized arm; in rare cases there is multiplication by division. Sea cucumbers discharge their viscera in the spasms of capture, and may thus escape from an astonished foe. The replacement of the food canal is sometimes accomplished in 10 days, though it may take as many weeks.

Ants That Make Biscuits.

ACCORDING to recent studies of the common Mediterranean ant, the seeds which are collected are kept for a time dry and are eventually put out in the rain, so that they begin to germinate. This has the advantage of bursting the hard seed coats, and in some cases of starting processes of fermentation. At a certain stage, however, the ants kill the embryo plant by biting off the radicle or other parts, and the seeds are dried again in the sun.

According to Nager the dried seeds, of some leguminous plants for instance, are taken back into the nest and chewed into dough. This is dried once again in the sun in the form of biscuits, which are eventually put into the cupboard.

Amazing Architects Are Solitary Wasps.

THE solitary wasp, called Eumenes amedei, attains great excellence alike in the chase and in the craft of building; it is "a Nimrod and a Bitruvius by turns." With minute pebbles and salivated mortar it builds a fine-finished cupola about three quarter of an inch in height, the outside of which is covered with glistening grains of quartz or sometimes with tiny snail shells; the orifice at the top is "like the mouth of an amphora, gracefully curved, worthy of a potter's wheel." After the mother wasp has placed an egg in her well-fashioned nest, she adds five to 10 small caterpillars, and it is remarkable that the egg in the nest develops into a female wasp, while that in the meagerly provisioned nest becomes the much smaller male.

It appears that the stung caterpillars that form the living larder inside the wasp's cells are but imperfectly paralyzed, and toss about when touched. Now the least pressure would crush the delicate egg. So it is hung by a thread from the roof of the cupola, and after the Eumenes grub hatches, it makes the cast shell of egg into a flexible staircase so that it can reach the caterpillars and bite them, yet retreat if they are too vigorously recalcitrant. This is perfection.

Darkness Makes Goldfish Blind.

OGNEFF kept goldfishes for three years in absolute darkness, taking care to give them plenty of room and plenty of food. The result was total blindness; even the rods and cones of the retina disappeared.

Seahorses With Prehensile Tails.

QUEEREST of queer fish is the seahorse, Hippocampus, often seen in aquaria, which hangs itself from, or supports itself on, seaweeds by means of a prehensile tail, which moves dorsoventrally, not laterally, as in other fishes. It has a rapidly vibrating unpaired fin on its back, and the peculiarity of rolling its large eyes independently of one another. Now, it is curious that the far-removed chamelion, which is a quaint arboreal lizard, should show the same sort of prehensile tail as the seahorse, only more so, and the same independent rolling of the eyes.

Mother Monkeys and Their Babies.

ALL mother monkeys carry their babies in their arms, nursing them "in very human fashion," as Sir Richard Owen said. The fathers, too, have repeatedly been seen carrying the young on their arboreal journeys. Now, the fact that the simian parent has to carry the very immature baby about implies an intensification of the family relations; it must surely have favored the growth of gentleness.

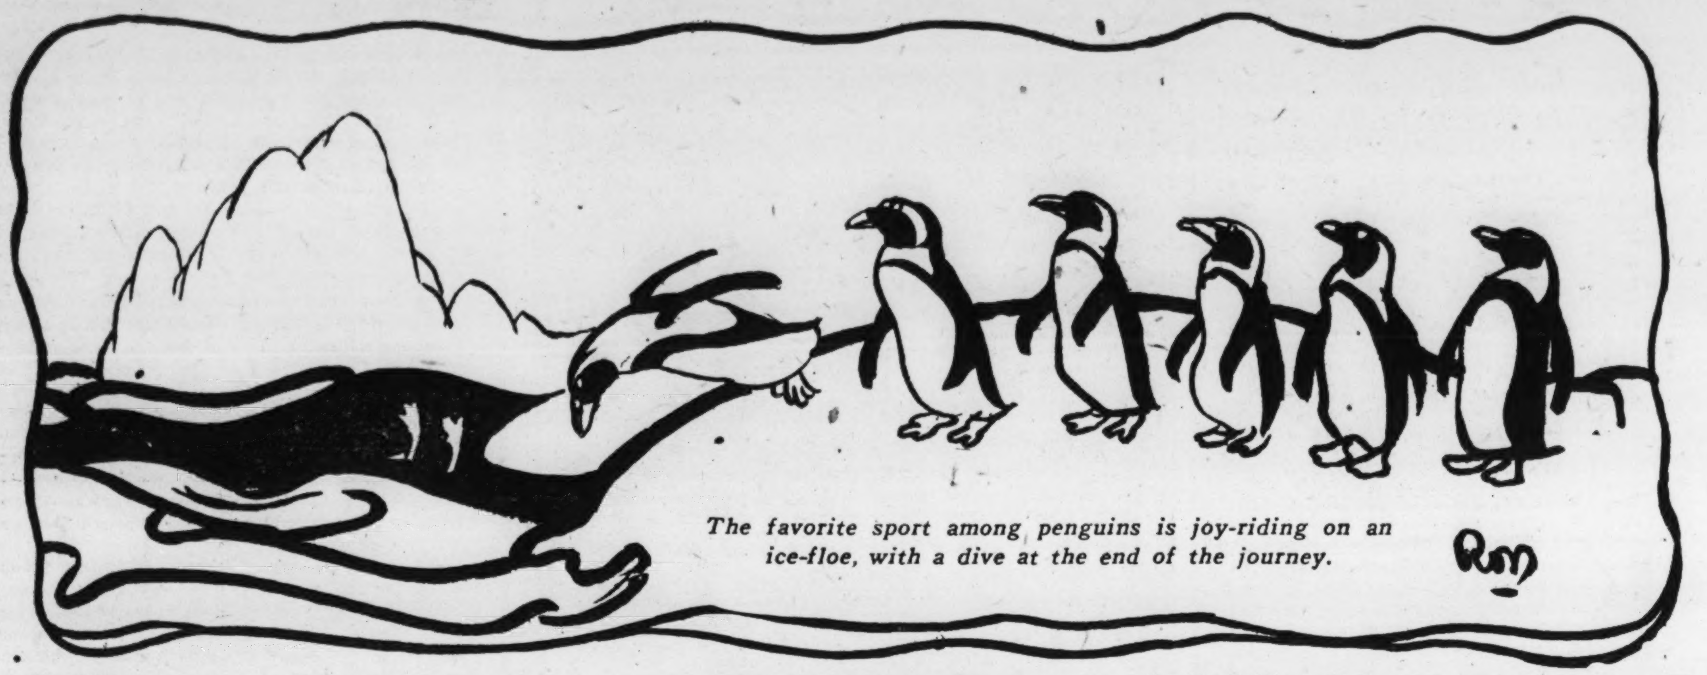
Weird Mysteries of Animal Life



The favorite sport among penguins is joy-riding on an ice-floe, with a dive at the end of the journey.

Scottish savant gives examples observed from nature which seem to show that instinct does not explain everything, and that even lower organisms apparently display intelligence at times — Homing sense of sea swallows, games played by penguins, slave raids of Amazon ants, butterflies that distill perfumes and insects which bake biscuits

INSTINCT is a word one uses so easily when trying to explain the behavior of animals, but when one reads the records of the observations of deep students of nature, he feels that instinct explains very little and is tempted to exclaim that even the lowest of living creatures are intelligent. One may confess that instinct makes certain insects and birds prepare elaborately for the welfare of their young, whom they will never see, and collect stores of food for use in a winter of which they can have no foreknowledge, but it takes something more than instinct to account for the winter sports of the Adelie penguins or the careful education the cub otter receives from its mother. Can we explain the perfectly organized monarchy of a beehive on the theory of instinct alone?

These are a few of the reflections aroused by a reading of "The Secrets of Animal Life,' by J. Arthur Thomson, regius professor of natural history, University of Aberdeen, and scientific editor of the Home Library (Henry Holt & Co.). The following are a few brief extracts from this fascinating book:

How Do They Find Their Way Home?

TERNS are able to return from Galveston, more than 800 miles away, over a body of water which apparently does not offer any basis for controlling flight direction. Some returned in about six days, some took nearly 12, some did not return at all. Many of the return journeys from distances greater than 500 miles did not require more than three to five days, but sometimes as long a time was required to come from Key West to Bird Key, which is only about 65 miles.

Naturalists have appealed to magnetic sense, topographical memory, registration of movements, telepathy, and so on—at least nine theories have been advanced—but the solution of the riddle is still in the future.

How Penguins Feed Their Young.

NOT until the eggs have been laid does either parent go to feed. Then one of them goes off to the water and stays away in many cases for seven to 10 days, after which it returns and gives the other its leave. The shortest period of total abstinence from food is about 18 days—a good instance of the parental sacrifice so characteristic of many of the finest expressions of animal life.

When the chicks are hatched, the parents relieve one another at frequent intervals, and their shape, always quaint, becomes grotesque when they return so heavily laden with crustaceans that they they have to lean back to keep their balance. Sometimes they try to carry so much that they lose it all. The chicks feed, as young cormorants do, by thrusting their head into the parental gullet.

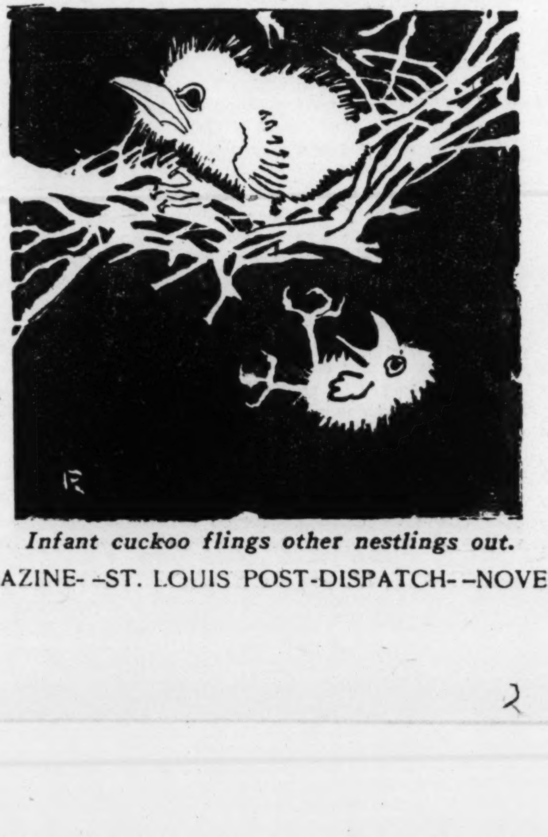
When the hen is sitting, nothing, not even a wrangle with her next-door neighbor, will induce her to move until her turn comes; but the cocks are easily led astray by their combativeness, and often do a lot of harm in the crowded rookery in spite of the protests of adjacent birds, who are seen trying to make peace.

There is a lighter side to the life of the penguins, for they have developed a taste for certain primitive games, which they play on the sea ice on their way to and from their bath. There is the diving, in which the succession is so rapid "as to have the appearance of a lot of shot poured out of a bottle into the water;" there is the "porpoising," the leaping out of the water, and the game of "touch-last" on the sea ice. A favorite play was to board an ice floe till it would hold no more, and get carried by the tide to the lower end of the rookery, where every bird would suddenly jump off and swim back against the stream to catch a fresh floe and get another ride down.

Foist Their Young on Other Birds.

WORDSWORTH called the cuckoo a "mystery," and its behavior certainly presents many puzzles. The central one is the mother's evasion of brooding. As is well known, she usually lays her egg on the ground, takes it in her beak (sometimes under her tongue) and flies with it to the previously selected nest of another bird. Sometimes when the nest is suitable she lays her egg directly in it, but this is often impossible. All is done quickly, cautiously, surreptitiously. There is considerable evidence that each cuckoo keeps as a rule to one kind of nest.

Unless some big mistake is made the foster-parents incubate the intruded egg, and rear the young cuckoo, who sees to it that they are not distracted by any rival claimants. The parent cuckoos are not known to take any interest in their progeny, and they leave our shores for the South a month or six week before the young birds are able to travel.



Infant cuckoo flings other nestlings out.

What Jenner observed so carefully in 1788, several naturalists have confirmed, that the blind and naked young cuckoo manages to get its body underneath an egg or a nestling, and by moving convulsively backwards, ousts it from the nest. It is a prodigious effort for a puny infant, and is followed by great exhaustion. After a rest, however, the eviction may be repeated, if necessary.

Slave Hunting by the Amazon Ants.

IN THE summer of 1911, after scouting had continued for some time, Emery noticed one afternoon a growing excitement and the issue of a platoon of 60 Amazons. But they only went a couple of yards or so and then returned. About an hour afterwards there was another sally, which made straight for a colony of brown ants and came back laden with prisoners (babies and children as usual). Going and coming several times the Amazons got over 450 prisoners that evening.

It is rather a despicable business—this kidnaping of children for slaves—but the Amazons do it well. In one raid, which began about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, over a thousand prisoners were taken before 6:45, when Prof. Emery's son stopped counting.

How the Whales "Blow."

THE blowing or breathing-out of hot air occurs half a dozen times or more in rapid succession, and the "spout," consisting of water-vapor condensed into drops, plus, it may be, a little spray carried up by the nose-opening blast, may rise to a height of 15 feet. Since Aristotle did not think of a whale as a fish, Milton was not very happy with his "And at his gill draws in and at his trunk spouts out, a sea." After a longer or shorter period of forceful breathing the whale dives (almost perpendicularly, so that the flukes are the last parts seen), and remains under the water for 10 to 20 minutes. The right whale is a dainty feeder, as far as quality goes, for it depends mainly on small crustaceans. These are engulfed in the yawning cavern of the mouth, strained on the frayed inner edges of the baleen plates, collected by the slow raising of the fat and flabby tongue, and then passed down into the narrow gullet. Whatever a chachalot may have done, no right whale ever swallowed even a minor prophet.

Where Oysters Get Their Food.

THE main food of oysters and other bivalves is vegetable dust, "which is found, either in suspension in the water or deposited as the thin upper layer of the bottom itself, lifting and spreading at times in stormy weather, but only to be precipitated anew later on."

Butterflies That Make Perfumes.

PECULIARLY transformed scales on the wings, or tufts of hairs on other parts of the body, exude an aromatic secretion, the secondary significance of which is that it appeals to the female insects. Some of the scents produced by the male Lepidoptera are pleasant to the human olfactory sense, resembling musk, mint, vanilla, honey and the like; others are suggestive of mice and bats. It is interesting to notice that in some cases, though glandular scales are abundantly present, we cannot smell anything, which probably means that the aromatic substances lie outside our range of olfactory stimulation, just as many rays of light lie beyond our range of vision.

It may be that the volatile poison of toads, known as

Keeping Up With the "Flapper"

By HELEN ROWLAND

"IT'S no use 'bluffing,' Archie! I know too much about men!"

The words floated out, above the music, in the fresh, young voice of a dewy-lipped, baby-eyed flapper, as she twinkled by in the arms of her callow dance partner.

"I verily believe she does!" murmured the Bachelor, meeting the Widow's amazed eyes with his amused ones.

"Nonsense!" The Widow picked up her salad fork with a little shrug. "No girl CAN know too much about men, Mr. Cutting. Besides, if she really knew anything about them, she wouldn't tell them so. She would know that, above all things, a man likes to be regarded as a 'deep, dark, inscrutable mystery!' Telling a man that you understand him doesn't flatter him—it merely frightens him. It is the first sign of a tyro."

"Still," persisted the Bachelor, "you must admit that the flapper of today is not exactly an unsophisticated little thing."

The Widow shuddered.

"I must!" she acquiesced, sorrowfully. "She makes me blush!"

"At her vast stock of worldly wisdom?" inquired the Bachelor, smiling, "or at her advanced ideas"——

"Neither," and the Widow shook her head emphatically. "At my own childish simplicity, Mr. Cutting—at my crude antediluvian notions of life and love and marriage. She makes me feel like an 1830 model flying machine in a 1919 aviation contest. I simply collapse and drop to earth, the minute the flapper begins to flap! She has all the latest wrinkles, theories and modern improvements. Keeping up with her is out of the question—for a simple, innocent, unsophisticated widow. I ought to stop trying and take to bombazine, bonnets and pepsin tablets!" and she sighed pathetically.

"Poor girl!" sympathized the Bachelor. "Have some French pastry. It's the worst thing for you."

"Positively," resumed the Widow, selecting a wicked-looking cherry tart from the waiter's delectable tray, "when I think of what an unmitigated, little 18-carat fool I was at 17, and of how implicitly I believed everything anybody told me"——

"You must have been soul-satisfying to talk to—then," murmured the Bachelor, wistfully.

"And how I used to read Keats," went on the Widow, and Mrs. Browning and Thackeray and Dickens"——

"Instead of Ellen Key, and Freud, and Elinor Glyn," suggested the Bachelor.

"And how I used to write poetry, about love and moonlight, and broken hearts; and how I used to dream of Prince Charming; and of being kissed and engaged"——

"Instead of planning to be a divorcee and to go into the movies," grinned the Bachelor, appreciatively. "You WERE a cavewoman, beside the modern flapper."

"Yes, and wouldn't she have pitied and scorned me!" sighed the widow enviously. "The young girl of today may thank her stars that she is not brought up in a satin-lined box and covered with illusions and fairy dreams and sentimental cotton batting, as most girls were 10 years ago! Of course, she doesn't know half as much as she THINKS she does"——

"Heaven forbid!" murmured the Bachelor fervently.

"But at least she has a theoretical knowledge of life," pursued the Widow, "and an academic knowledge of men and love and marriage. She faces the world with her eyes wide open, instead of going at life as though it were a game of blind man's buff, and its only subject to catch a husband! She is allowed to think, and to be herself"——

"Yes," retorted the Bachelor, with a touch of scorn," and LOOK what she becomes!"

"She becomes a personality, Mr. Cutting—not just 'a sweet, young thing.' She goes to work or to college and studies law or art or journalism, or economics or house decorating or something useful."

"Sometimes," admitted the Bachelor, wryly, "and sometimes she goes to the movies and studies Kitty Gordon's gowns and poses. And sometimes she goes down Washington Square and bobs her hair and studies Socialism, Sudeman, eugenics and soap-box oratory."

"And sometimes," rejoined the Widow, "she has her hair permanently waved and her eyebrows 'fixed,' and studies nothing but the style and dermatology"——

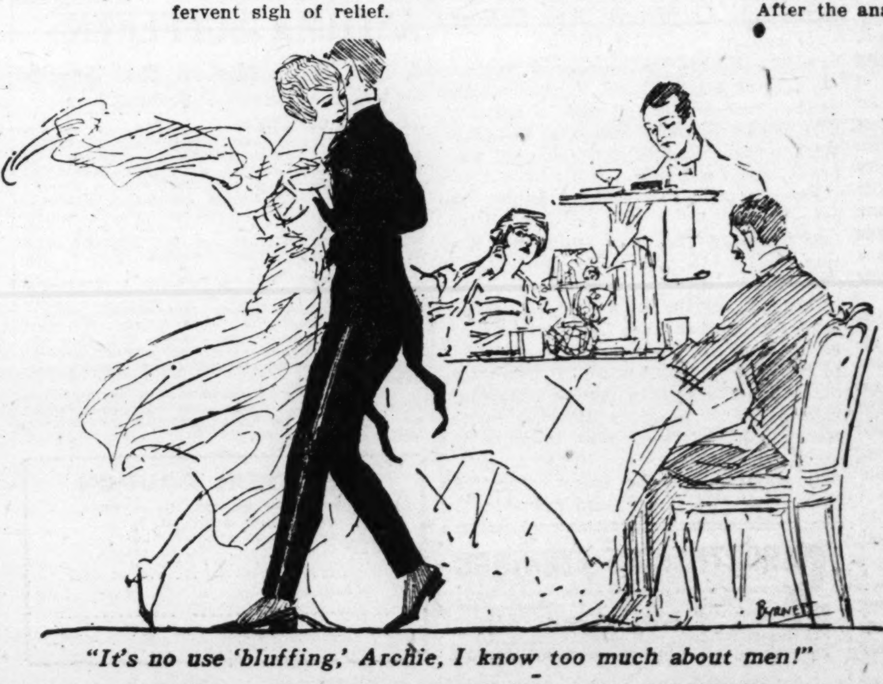
"And won't let a man hold her hand until she has looked him up in Bradstreet's," finished the Bachelor. "Oh, she's wise, all right. She knows a lot more than her mother and has her grandmother backed off the map!"

"Perhaps," and the Widow sipped her coffee complacently. "But, whatever she is, she's a personality, and I envy her! She doesn't go at life blindly. She always has a PURPOSE, whether it's to be a reformer or a milliner—and she knows exactly what she wants, whether it's a career or a husband! And sometimes I wonder if I shouldn't have been spared a lot of hard knocks and disappointments and heartaches if I had started out with her equipment of worldly wisdom. I shouldn't have expected half so much of life or love or Santa Claus, or of the high gods who deal out destinies. I should never have DREAMED of finding a perfect man or perfect happiness"——

"That's it!" exclaimed the BACHELOR, exultantly; "you'd never have DREAMED! And, after all, there's nothing half so sweet in life as the 'dream' of it. Would you really exchange your dreams and your illusions and your belief in Santa Claus and in me, and all that, for a little useful knowledge? Do you REALLY want to know as much as a 19-year-old girl?" And he regarded her fearfully.

"Oh, not—not quite as much!" confessed the Widow, turning to the wall mirror and pulling her silver and violet turban a trifle closer over the red-gold curls. "I still enjoy playing blind man's buff and make-believe and watching for Santa Claus. I still love the glitter on Christmas trees, and the glamour on love and the shimmer on life in general—even though I know they aren't real!"

"Thank heaven!" ejaculated the Bachelor, with a fervent sigh of relief.



"It's no use 'bluffing,' Archie, I know too much about men!"

"But I don't wait for Destiny any more," finished the Widow. "I go out and buy my own Christmas tree and hang things on it for myself, marked "To Molly—from Santa.' I've learned that much from the modern flapper."

"To know just what I want in life—and not to wait for fate, or a man, or luck, or accident to supply it. To make my dreams come true!"

"But you do still dream—of love and all that! You still have your illusions," pleaded the Bachelor.

"Yes," admitted the Widow, with a wistful little smile, "I haven't yet got my eyes wide open, and I'm still wrapped in sentimental cotton batting—and I don't think I'll ever catch up to the flapper, or give up wishing on the new moon, or falling in love, or believing all the silly sweet things a man says to me. I don't think I'll ever grow up and be sophisticated, Mr. Cutting!"

"You won't," murmured the Bachelor sotto voce, "if I can HELP it!"

WAS THE BEDBUG RESPONSIBLE FOR THE INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC

A RATHER surprising hypothesis concerning the "flu" is advanced by Dr. A. G. Friedman, in the Medical Record. The bedbug is accused of causing the disease as the only bug who could do the trick.

Insect transmission in influenza may seem startling and absurd, as we are accustomed to regard influenza as primarily and essentially affecting the respiratory tract. However, during the epidemic there was obtained sufficient evidence that the disease may also attack primarily the gastro-intestinal tract. Cases were also noted by the majority of physicians in which vomiting, diarrhoea, severe abdominal pain, or a combination of the three, was present without the slightest affection of the respiratory tract.

After the analogy of typhus, in which the infection occurs through the medium of the body louse, we must look for an insect carrier of influenza.

The transmission of influenza by an insect must be in accord with the chief features of the epidemiology of the disease. (1). The insect must be able to exist in all seasons of the year. (2). It must be able to gain access to rich homes as well as to dwellings of the poor.

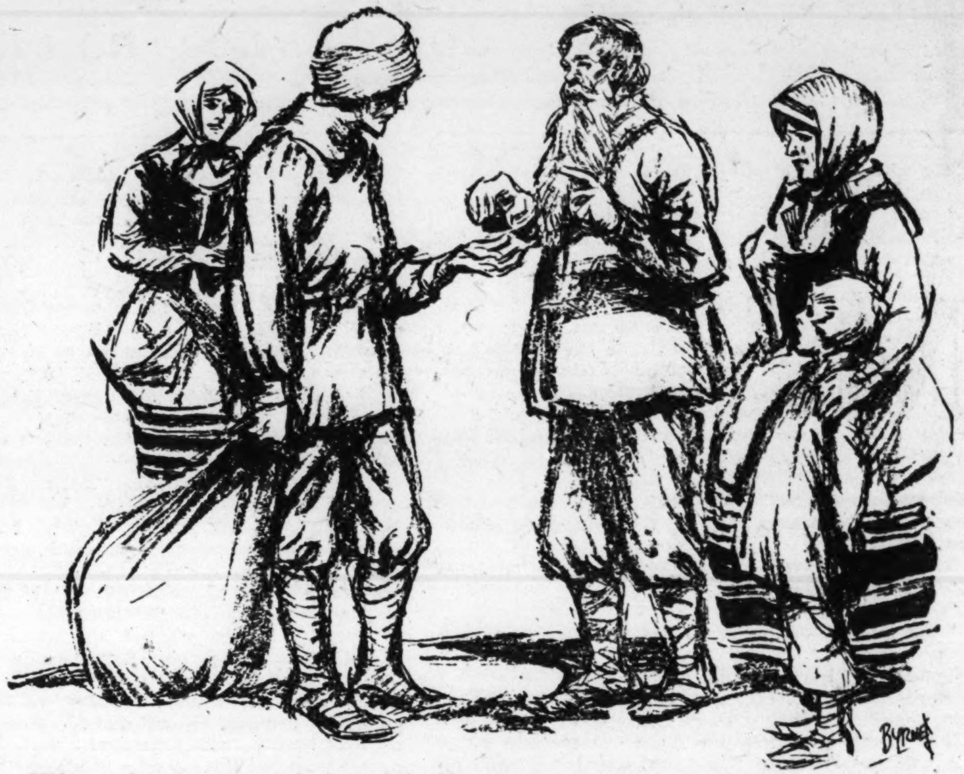
There is no need to dwell upon the fact that bedbugs are almost always present in the dwellings of the poorer classes, and it must be also admitted that bedbugs in good homes are frequently beyond the control of the best housekeeper. They may be brought in with the laundry or in clothes of servants.

It is believed by some people that the iron bedstead, which has so rapidly replaced the wooden ones, has done away with the bedbugs. This is a mistake.

In towns and cities where houses are built closely together the bedbugs will migrate from one house to another along the walls and pipes.

The Pretty Stone on an Omaha Mantel Shelf Which Proved to Be World's Biggest, Finest Ruby

How John Mihok, a poor furniture polisher, had great wealth in his home and did not know it—The "luck stone" for which he had refused $5 while on his way to this country in the steerage which is worth at least $75,000 banishes poverty and places a family in the wealthy class—Money to be spent for a home and Liberty Bonds ::



When the young emigrant left Hungary to take up his home in this country, his father, when he said good-by, placed the "pretty stone" in his hand.

A LITTLE more than a month ago John Mihok, 1943 South Twentieth street, Omaha, was a poor man, toiling daily as a furniture polisher and earning just enough to keep the wolf from the door of his old house that sheltered himself, his wife and five children.

Today he is "worth" at least $75,000.

Yet he has no more today than he had a month ago. But today he knows the value of what he has.

For he has discovered that the "good-luck stone" which he has carried in his pocket for years is really the largest flawless pigeon-blood ruby in the world, weighing 23.9 carats.

Gustav Gillmann, lapidist, 1134 Webster street, Chicago, who cut and polished the "Great Mihok," as it has been called, estimated its value at $100,000.

John Mihok was born in the village of Nagy Koros, on the extreme eastern border of Hungary. There he grew up and as he grew he decided to go to America to seek his fortune.

But he had his fortune with him already—though he didn't know it.

For his father had picked up a pretty stone one day by the side of a small stream and had brought it home. It rested on the mantel in the little home where the family lived.

It had wonderful, deep, clear, carmine red colorings. It was, indeed, a pretty stone. And it lay on the mantel there for several years.

"Maybe it will bring you luck in the great country across the water, John," he said. "And maybe it will make it so you earn a lot of money and send it back to us."

John took the stone and said: "Maybe it will bring me good luck."

John traveled by the steerage on a ship sailing from Trieste to New York. The great ruby was in his big canvas bag with his other possessions. John showed it one day to some of his fellow passengers. Another day a first cabin passenger saw it and offered him $5 for it. But John said he would keep the stone that his father had given him. It might bring him good luck.

At Ellis Island, New York, the customs officers who went through the immigrant's poor belongings passed over the curious stone, little dreaming that it was liable to heavy tariff duties.

After he landed John drifted to Scranton, Pa., where he added a wife to his possessions, and then on to Cleveland, O., and finally to Omaha, where he has lived for six years.

He landed in New York in 1903 and 16 years were to elapse in hard toil and struggle with poverty before John discovered that he was the possessor of an unknown fortune.

His family grew faster than his income and when he had five children and was employed as a furniture polisher and the cost of living was high, John was often at his wit's end to know what to do. A few weeks ago he read of a man finding a ruby by the side of a stream.

"Ah, if only my luck stone would be a ruby!" he said to himself.

An idea came to him. He took the stone off the mantel shelf and went to Rev. Father S. J. Rigge, scientist at Creighton University. Father Rigge was astonished at the evidences of the stone's value, but was unwilling to raise the man's hopes too high. He sent him to Joseph Frenzer, jeweler, 101 South Fifteenth street.

Mr. Frenzer nearly had heart failure when he held the stone in his hand and had applied a few tests and realized what it was. He told his caller that he probably had one of the most valuable rubies in the world and advised him to take it to Chicago to have ruby experts examine it.

Mihok remembered a friend of his, a lawyer, Edmund H. McCarthy, 628 Bee Building. To him he went and explained what he wanted. He offered him one-fourth of the proceeds of the sale if he would finance the trip to Chicago.

The lawyer promptly accepted the offer.

"We didn't sleep a wink that night on the train," said McCarthy. "We kept guard over that stone. I won't say where we had it, but it surely was in a safe place.

"In Chicago we inquired for the name and address of a precious stone expert and in due time came to the establishment of Gustav Gillmann, 1134 Webster street.

"Our hearts nearly stood still as we handed the stone to him. What if the Omaha jeweler had made a mistake! What if the stone was nothing but a 'pretty stone!'

"The expression on Mr. Gillmann's face was not encouraging. He smiled a little as he took the stone from Mihok. He was accustomed to such scenes. But the moment he held the stone in his hand, his expression changed. His eyes seemed to bulge out and his mouth opened. He gave an exclamation and immediately began applying tests, talking all the while most excitedly.

"Then he told us we had a wonderful ruby. He could not tell how pure it was before cutting, but he said it was one of the most remarkable gems of its kind in the world."

Mihok and McCarthy took turns remaining with Gillmann while he cut and polished the stone.

His wonder grew as he worked and when the work was completed he told them in a voice shaking with emotion that the ruby weighed 23.9 carats, that it was flawless, that it was 8.5 hard and has a specific gravity of 4.05.

"We didn't celebrate at all," said Mihok. "When you have a gem worth $100,000 in your possession you can't rest easy till it is in a safe place"

And, after paying the lapidist, the two men took train for Omaha, sitting up all night to guard their great possession, scarcely daring to talk in the fascination of having a comparatively small object in whose translucent depths there was the fascinating play of carmine red lights, a small object worth $100,000.

The two men arrived in Omaha safely with the "Great Mihok," as it has been named, and they went directly to the United States National Bank safety deposit vaults, where they rented a box and saw the ruby safely locked therein.

Then Mihok went home and told the news to his wife. He had not telegraphed to her from Chicago and the news was completely a surprise to her.

"She wouldn't believe me at first when I told her we would not have to work any more and that we could move in a nicer house, where we will have electric light," he said. "But now she believes me and we will have comfort in life.

"We will buy a new home. I know a nice one, just what we want, for $4000. And we are going to buy a Ford automobile.

"The rest of the money we will put in Liberty Bonds, I think. There it is safe. We are no fools. We won't spend it all, and we won't try to get rich quick. We will put it away for our old age and for our children's education. The oldest boy, who left school last year, will go back again and maybe we make a doctor out of him. All the children will now get a good education."

Rubies of inferior grades and with flaws run to much larger sizes, but those of the pigeon-blood variety are more valuable than diamonds.

Steps are now being taken to market the ruby.

The Twenty-Six Clues

from her for three long months. Then there came a pitiful little note. She was at home with her guardian in New Orleans; home and heartbroken.

"When I went home for the Easter holidays she was gone again and her guardian told me only that she was visiting up the river. He never knew that I had been in her confidence, but he had aged 10 years in a few months. When the summer vacation came Evelyn had returned, but she was desperately ill and for a long time her life was despaired of. She grew slowly better, however, and one day she told me the whole dreadful story.

"Leonidas Hoguet had taken her up the river to an obscure landing, where they had been married by an itinerant preacher, and at first she had been wildly happy, but it only lasted for a very few weeks. He tired of her soon and used to leave her alone on the yacht for days together while he drank and dissipated in river towns. At last he deserted her in a hotel in Memphis and she made her way home.

"Her guardian forgave her and kept her secret, but he searched the country for Leonidas Hoguet. He never found him and when spring came, poor Evelyn forgot her pride and everything else, and ran away a second time, to go to him. How she found him I never knew, for she would tell me little about that time. She could never bring herself to speak of it except to say that he was dead. She had managed to reach him and had been with him when he died.

"I think you know the rest; how she shut herself away from everyone for more than three years. She could not bear to come to my wedding and I quite understood, but later I persuaded her to put the past behind her and take up her life again. I had her with me a great deal and it was here that she met Oliver Jarvis, who knew my husband at college.

"He fell in love with her at first sight and I was so happy when I saw that she, too, had begun to care. She wanted to tell him the truth, but her guardian forbade it and she married him without speaking. He took her away and I have never seen her since. At first her letters came regularly, each one telling of her great happiness, but after a time they gradually ceased and with the death of her guardian I realized that she wanted to put me and all her life down here out of her thoughts, like a chapter that is closed."

Mrs. Sawtelle drew a deep sigh and brushed her hand across her eyes.

"There, Mr. McCarty, I have told you everything! If Leonidas Hoguet is dead—and Evelyn would never have married Oliver unless it were true—who could have known her secret? Who could have killed her, and why?"

"I can't tell you that now, ma'am." McCarty's face was very grave, but his eyes gleamed with a steely light. "There's a lot of work to be done on the case still and we're dealing with no ordinary criminal. We've got to go slow and take him unawares, but if he's alive a week from today I'm thinking he'll be under lock and key and no power on earth can save him from the chair."

He turned and bounded up the porch steps to where Mrs. Sawtelle stood in the doorway, and there ensued a brief, hurried interchange of words. To Dennis it appeared that McCarty was eagerly questioning, the lady replying in evident surprise but affirmatively, for her interrogator nodded emphatically and a broad smile lifted his stubby, sandy moustache as he bade her a second farewell.

He was still smiling as they jerked forward and lunged out upon the driveway to the gates.

"What was it hit you at the last minute?" Dennis demanded curiously. "You were a bold lad with your brag that the murderer would be under lock and key in a week!"

The smile vocalized in a chortle, and McCarty responded:

"'Twas no empty brag! The thing that hit me at the last minute is the last proof I needed to put him there; the last little link between that blackmailing devil and the death house! We've got him now, Denny; got him at last!"

CHAPTER XXI.

SIGNED, "VICTOR MARCHAL."

CALVIN NORWOOD was seated in solitude before the hearth in his library on Saturday night, trying to shut his ears to the occasional murmur of voices from the drawing room where Joan and her lover were making plans for the future. He was trying hard not to listen, too, for another familiar sound—the light, halting step of the blind secretary.

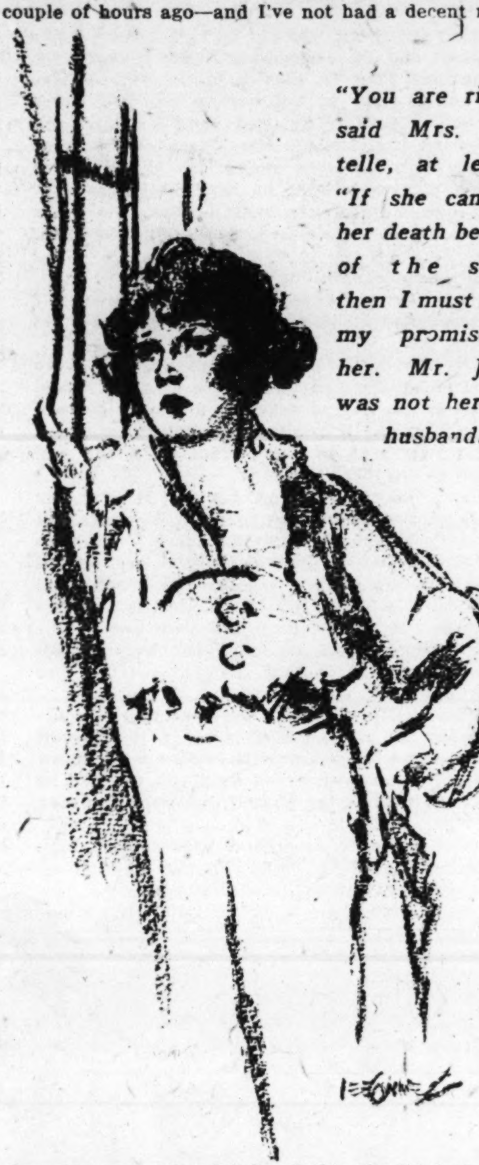
No light save the glow of the fire lifted the shadows of the room and in a far corner the silent, shrouded typewriter loomed, a tangible reminder of the brave spirit which had sought to carry on through the darkness and fallen only when reason failed.

So deep was Norwood in his mournful reverie that he was oblivious to the ringing of the front door bell and glanced up only when Billings appeared on the threshold.

"Mr. McCarty, sir."

"My dear fellow!" Norwood sprang up and extended his hand. "Where have you been for the past week and more? I've tried twice to see you."

"Have you, sir?" McCarty shook hands and dropped a trifle wearily into the chair his host indicated. "I've been out of town—only got back a couple of hours ago—and I've not had a decent night's sleep but one since I left. I thought I'd look in on you and hear the news."



"You are right," said Mrs. Sawtelle, at length. "If she came to her death because of the secret, then I must break my promise to her. Mr. Jarvis was not her first husband."

"There is none." Norwood seated himself once more and sighed gloomily. "Since poor Victor's death I seem to be losing my grip on things. I cannot help a feeling of hopelessness about the investigation of Mrs. Jarvis' murder, and it is my belief that it will never be solved."

He spoke with a shade too much eagerness, and McCarty asked:

"Has Inspector Druet been around, sir?"

"Yes. I've stood by and watched the department make blunder after blunder for 20 years, but your Inspector has surpassed any of the others for sheer idiocy in this case; first, by trying to place the guilt on Oliver, and now by nosing about after that Hoyos wallet of which I told you. I suspect you must have mentioned it to him, but his efforts to connect it with the murder are preposterous.'

"Yes, sir," agreed McCarty equably. "Have you found it yet?"

Norwood stirred impatiently in his chair.

"No. I haven't looked!" he snapped. "It's there somewhere, of course. I tell you, these tragedies following one upon another have made me shudder at the very mention of crime! I shall never interest myself in such work again and I feel like making a bonfire of my whole collection in the yard!"

McCarty, remembering Joan's description of her uncle's frenzied, night-long search of the museum after discovering the disappearance of the wallet, smiled to himself at the tirade.

"What is Mr. Terhune doing, I wonder?" he queried.

"Terhune! Don't speak to me of him!" snorted the other indignantly. "He has rested his case completely on poor Victor's suicide, smirching the name of a dead man to hide his own incompetence, and more than all, he has managed to half convince Oliver of the truth of his damnable theory! Once let a man believe that another was secretly in love with his wife and he will be ready to believe anything else of him! Victor felt only a chivalrous and grateful admiration for Evelyn, that I know. In spite of Terhune's sensational successes in the past, it is my opinion that the man is a bluff, pure and simple. The case has baffled him, just as it will everybody in the end, and he has taken the easy way out by thrusting the blame upon a man who is no longer here to defend himself. If Victor were only alive I would never cease my efforts to learn the truth, for that is the only way his name can be cleared. But I am an old man and I recognize the inevitability of defeat, as Inspector Druet will in time. Mark my words, McCarty, the mystery of Evelyn Jarvis' murder will never be solved."

"Perhaps not, sir. There's many another that hasn't been, like the Hoyos case." He rose. "Well, I'll be getting on back to my rooms. It's strange not to see Capt. Marchal here, and his typewriter still there in the corner and all!"

"Yes!" Norwood groaned. "I find myself constantly listening for his step and the click of the machine. I'm going to get rid of it at once; I cannot bear to have it about!"

McCarty hesitated.

"I wonder would you lend it to me, sir, for a few days?" he suggested at length. "I've got a lot of letters to send out and I'm not handy with a pen. I'll take good care of it and bring it back safe."

"Of course you may take it. Keep it, if you will; I never want to see it again!"

"No, thank you, sir. It's just the loan of it I want, and if it's all the same to you I'll get a taxi and take it right along with me now."

"By all means." Norwood, too, had risen and now he pressed the bell. "Billings will send for one for you. I don't know what condition the typewriter is in after its fall. However, if you will telephone on Monday to the office of the company who manufacture it they will send a man up to fix it for you."

"That will be all right. I'll manage," McCarty assured him. "Good-night, Mr. Norwood, and thanks for the loan of it."

Travel-worn as he was, the next day found McCarty once more upon a train speeding southward, but this departure was of a comparatively brief duration. He emerged again from the Pennsylvania station at nightfall and this time he was not alone. A tall woman of majestic figure accompanied him, clad in a black, fur-trimmed cloak and smartly quilled hat and the two appeared to be on excellent terms with each other.

McCarty escorted her to an address far uptown, then returned to his rooms and uncovered the typewriter which stood upon the place of honor on his desk. Next, he inserted a sheet of paper and tested the keys to his satisfaction.

Thereupon he opened a lower drawer in his desk and after some fumbling produced a package which he regarded with an expression of mingled disparagement and respect. Unwrapped, it disclosed a small but powerful microscope.

Through the long hours of the night, while the coals died upon the hearth and the penetrating chill of a wintry dawn crept in at the windows, McCarty sat tirelessly at his desk. With the aid of the magnifying glass he studied a single sheet of paper before him upon which appeared to the casual eyes merely the signature of Victor Marchal. The fruit of his examination was a series of strange and seemingly incomprehensible hieroglyphics which he painstakingly noted down. Then turning to the machine he touched a key here and there, erasing and altering the result in conformity with his notes. The typed sheet spun out from the roller at last and as he read the message which he had evolved an expression of grim joy stole over his face.

Despite his sleepless night he was up betimes and 9 o'clock found him once more at headquarters.

"Mac, you old rascal, where have you been?" the Inspector greeted him with obvious relief and pleasure. "I don't mind telling you that I'm stumped; the Jarvis case is one too many for me!"

"Is it, now?" McCarty asked solicitously. "How did your man make out in New Orleans?"

"He drew a blank!" The Inspector smote his desk in exasperation. "One of the best boys we have in the department, too. He interviewed everyone who was in a position to know anything about Evelyn Beaudet or her family; the Mother Superior of the convent where she was educated, the attorneys who settled her guardian's estate, old business associates of her father, friends of her mother and several people who came in touch with the girl herself socially before her marriage. There isn't the slightest evidence of any secret connection with her, and yet we know she was paying blackmail!"

"And the female operative you've had working among her acquaintances here," McCarty probed. "Did she find out anything?"

"Nothing whatever. I've even given your theory a tryout, but old Norwood claims that the wallet is only mislaid and I can't find any trace of the woman who

STACKED CARDS

By COURTNEY RYLEY COOPER

Those who play the game, one of the greatest games in the world, take risks, work in the dark and come up against very queer personages—but it pays, all pays, for "things go good in the secret service."

MLLE. LORETTE LaBLANC, far better known to a certain brownstone building of Berlin as "Die Lotze," or "The Pilot," than to the boulevards of Paris, turned from her game of solitaire, raised her carefully arched eyebrows and allowed her rouged lips to part in a half cynical smile.

"The Chief, eh?" she asked as she looked at the card the servant had handed her. "His calls are becoming more frequent. We shall be informal. Show him in here."

The servant bowed and started toward the door.

"And Augusta."

"Oui."

"Just what I was going to tell you—use your best French accent."

The servant smiled.

"Oui," she answered, then, bending closer: "Fraulein."

Mlle. LaBlanc repressed a laugh. A moment later she half turned in her chair and extended a hand to Big Bill Mullane, chief of the United States Secret Service.

"A thousand pardons I beg," she began, with that little snap so necessary to the French accent, "but, oh, I am so tire. All day I work, firs' here, there, someplace else. Red Cross, the what-you-call-it, dressing station, the War Stamp Committee — altogether, I am exhaust!"

"See where you're right," boomed Big Bill Mullane. He had squeezed his tremendous Irish frame into a Louis XIV chair, and sat, uncomfortably mountainous, compared to the dainty, piquant being at the table before him.

"You are always to make laugh!" she chided. "You are always so what-you-call-it different!"

"Maybe that's how I got this job," chuckled Big Bill Mullane. "I might still have been a harness bull if I hadn't taken a different slant on things. Anyway, it's a good form of variety. That's a swell deck of cards you've got there."

He nodded toward the playing cards spread out on the table, and picking one up, snapped it between his fingers. The Pilot arched her brows again.

"They were a present from my Jimmee."

"So," Big Bill grinned, then suddenly sobered. Silently he fingered the card, staring at the blank face of the knave which embellished it, then laid it back on the table. "You're talking about my operative, aren't you—Jimmie Barstow."

"Of course."

"No." Mlle. LaBlanc looked at the secret service head quickly. "Why—is anything wrong with my Jimmee?"

A quick jerk of the thumb and The Pilot was silent as the servant passed through the room. Then Big Bill Mullane hunched his chair closer.

"How often have you seen him lately?"

"Jimmee? Why, ever' day. We"——

"Yeh, I know. You're in love with him. That's why I came to talk with you. Haven't gotten engaged or anything like that?"

"I don't un'stand." A sudden look of fright had come into the eyes of Mlle. LaBlanc. Big Bill aimlessly picked up a card again and thumbed it.

"Well, it's kind of hard for me to tell just what I mean," he said at last. "Have you noticed anything queer about him lately?"

"You mean"——

"I mean like he was doing something he oughtn't to do," came sharply from the lips of the Chief, "like he might be—well, like he might be stealing information and selling it to the enemy!"

A half-cry broke from the lips of the woman. An arm swept across the table, sending the cards in a swishing stream to the floor. She rose from her chair.

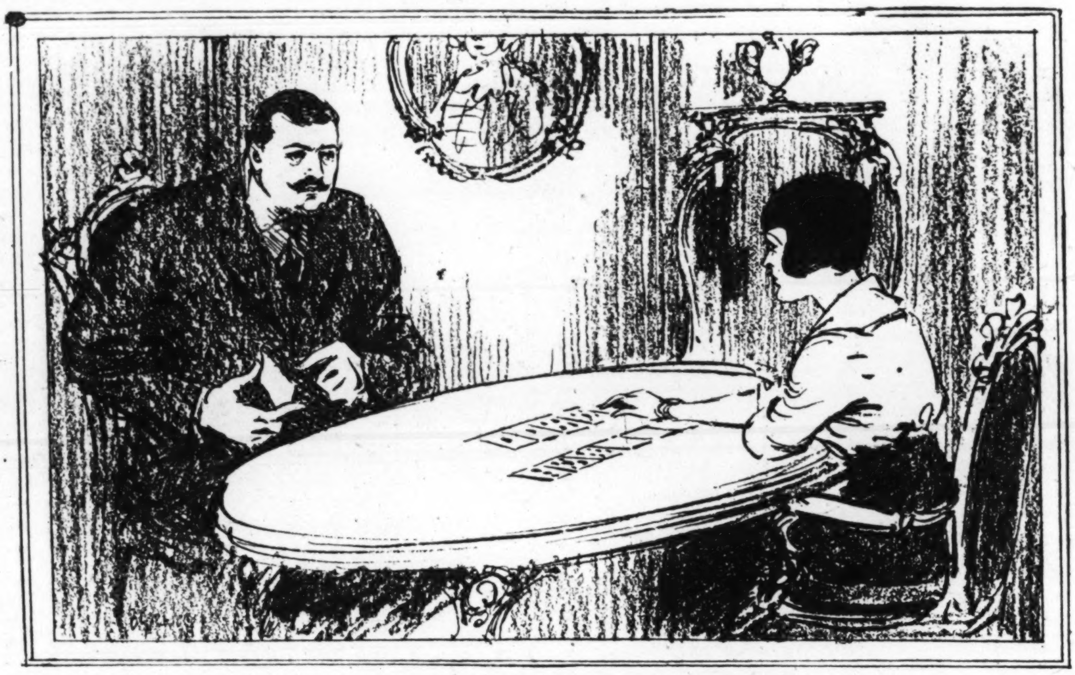
"No—no!" she broke forth. "Not my Jimmee! Not my Jimmee!"

Big Bill Mullane, puffing slightly, had bent forward and was slowly reclaiming the cards from the floor.

"Funnier things have happened," he said at last. "Two or three bits of dope that were only known to my operatives have reached the enemy. And I'm not playing any favorites. Somebody in my office is giving the leak to information. It may not be Jimmie—I'm not saying. But it's somebody—and I'm checking up on them all. Now," and his sharp eyes bored into hers, "which comes first with you, your country or some man you think you're in love with?"

Mlle. Le Blanc pressed tight her lips.

"La Belle France," she said quietly. Big Bill tapped a finger on the table.



"Have you noticed anything queer about him lately?"

"Well, just remember that when things go wrong for America they go wrong for France, too. Now, what I want to know is whether you're willing to play a game—for the common good?"

The woman spread her hands.

"I am yours, M'sieu l'Chief!"

"Good enough. We're hep to each other now. Jimmie's got something on his mind. I've seen it. He's different. Remember how he used to laugh and joke? Remember how he was always pulling something funny, or cracking something he'd heard on the stage or around town? Well, he don't do it any more. He's a sorehead, and a man don't get that way unless something's bothering him—like a conscience. I've tried to nab him. I can't. There's one person he'll fall for—and that's you!"

"And I"——

The Chief's fingers were tapping the table again.

"You've got to forget that you've ever loved this guy," he said shortly. "If he turns out to be all right, nobody's lost anything. If he turns out wrong—you've saved America and your country from a dangerous enemy and yourself from a bum husband. Isn't it worth the try?"

Mlle. LaBlanc, weeping in her handkerchief, did not answer. The Chief rose and placed a hand on her shoulder.

"Nix on that stuff. You've got to play the big game. I want to know if Jimmie's peddling any information to the imperial German spy system. I leave it to a woman's intuition to find out."

And as abruptly as Big Bill Mullane had come—he had departed. Mlle. LaBlanc listened until she heard the door close. Then she rose swiftly and hurried to her writing desk. There, from a locked drawer, she brought forth a physician's prescription—one of 20 that lay scattered there, already signed and filled in—a bottle of colorless liquid and a pen. With quick movements she scribbled on the prescription blank with the colorless fluid and allowed the writing to dry. Then she turned.

"Augusta!" she called.

The servant appeared at the door. Mlle. LaBlanc pushed the prescription toward her.

"My favorite cosmetic is exhausted," she said, with a slight smile. The servant reached for the prescription and bowed.

"Yah, fraulein," she answered—and disappeared.

A half-hour later The Pilot took a package from the hands of her servant, and looked anxiously for the salesbill. "The iodine," she ordered, but the servant already had left the room, to return a moment later with a small alcohol burner. The flame of burning, the pungent odor of the evaporating caustic cut through the rooms as The Pilot held the salesbill in the direct path of its fumes. Then, turning to the light, she read the message which had come forth seemingly from nowhere.

"I have sent word to Karlrene to have his wireless ready day or night," she volunteered, "in case of valuable information."

"And Karlrene?" the maid asked.

"Has replied that he will be ready."

A sound from the hall of a tinkling bell. The servant grasped the alcohol lamp and disappeared. Mlle. La Blanc crushed the salesbill, flipped it into a vase and then, gathering up the scattered cards, stepped into the next room, closing the door on the tell-tale fumes of iodine. A moment later, when Jimmie Barstow of the secret service, walked into the presence of Mlle. Lorette LaBlanc, she was engrossed in her seemingly endless occupation, solitaire. Jimmie stared at her sullenly.

"Can't you quit that game long enough to kiss me?" he asked. The Pilot laughed and rose.

"My Jimmee—he never joke any more," she cooed, kissing him on the eyes, the cheeks, then lingering at his lips. "My Jimmee—he is always what-you-call-it glum! He never say funny things—Jimmee," she half stormed at him, "don't you like any more your babee?"

Jimmie Barstow laughed, but there was something mirthless about it all. He shrugged his shoulders, and, picking up the playing cards, shuffled them absently from one hand to the other.

"It isn't that," he answered. "It's—it's something else."

"You are not happy?"

"I—I guess maybe that's it. To tell the truth," Jimmie scowled at the floor, "I'm in bad down at the office."

"For what?"

"I've been picking up a little money on the side. I think they've gotten on to me." Then, with a sudden jerk of his jaw he stopped, shuffling the cards again. Mlle. LaBlanc edged close to him. Her smooth hands sought his shoulders, then his cheeks. French accent was gone—"I know what you mean."

His eyes widened.

"What?"

"Is there any need for explanation—when one is

The Twenty-Six Clues (Continued)

"She was not shut away. She merely preferred her quiet home and devoted herself to her guardian. After a year or two she began going about more, and frequently visited my niece at her home on Lake Pontchartrain. Indeed, it was at South Point that she met Mr. Jarvis. But as I told you, I have absolutely no information such as it appears he desires. Except for the unusual and most unfortunate circumstances I should not have discussed the lady at all with you. I know nothing concerning her with which her husband is not already fully acquainted; her life was simple in the extreme, and if he will let me know personally the nature of this document which he has found I will be glad to satisfy him upon it."

"I'll tell him, Mr. Messager." McCarty rose and signaled to the absorbed Dennis with a glance. "Thank you for seeing me, sir. I'm sorry to have bothered you, but Mr. Jarvis could think of no one else who had known his wife so long and so well. You'll hear from him soon, no doubt. Good-day, sir."

"Phew!" whistled Dennis, when the house door had closed behind them with a dignified thud. "The drinks are on you, all right, for even though we didn't get thrown out by the scuff of the neck, we was told to make ourselves scarce if ever looks could do it!"

McCarty's lips moved, but no words came and he walked as if in a trance, staring straight ahead of him with eyes that were round with wonder.

"All right! Keep mum if you want to!" Dennis remarked sourly. "It's little you got from the old one that'd make conversation. Whatever that murdered dago was to her or her family, you'll get no word of it from the likes of him."

"He told us more than a word, if you'd been listening for it." McCarty found his voice at last, "According to young Jarvis, his wife was 27. That would make her 16 or 17 when she left the convent. Did you get when that was, Denny? Eleven years ago next spring!"

"And what then?" asked Dennis vacantly.

"Oh, nothing! Nothing at all except that 'twas 11 years ago come spring that our friend Hoyos got his, that's all!"

"Mac! And she was sick for a long time afterward. Overstudy, the old fellow called it!" Dennis' mind had started to work. "She wanted to take the veil and then when her guardian wouldn't let her do that she shut herself away from everyone! Sixteen or 17 is no babe in arms; I wonder if that Hoyos was ever in New Orleans? He seems to have had a taking way with women, but the back of my hand to him for a thoroughgoing blackguard, dead or alive!"

"Don't be getting yourself worked up about it till we know where we're at," McCarty counseled. "We've nothing yet to bank on, remember. If Messager knew anything he'd not tell it, and we've got to have the straight dope on this."

"Where'll you get it?" Dennis demanded. "Chartrand's dead and if there was anything that he didn't tell young Jarvis when he married her, he'd not have breathed it now."

"Who is it, do you think, Denny, that young girls tell their secrets to?"

"How should I know? I've steered clear of them, young or old!" Dennis asserted warmly. "But I do remember home in the old days whenever Molly had a girl friend staying with her they'd be forever whispering and buzzing"——

"You've said it! Old Messager said his niece was Evelyn Beaudet's best friend, if you recollect; I'm thinking we'll pay a little call tomorrow on Mrs. Peyton Sawtelle of South Point."

Accordingly, the following afternoon, after a brief journey by rail, they reached their destination, and discreet inquiries on McCarty's part elicited the fact that the Sawtelles lived some three miles out on the road which bordered the lake. Further inquiries, accompanied by a display of Northern prodigality, placed at his disposal a small battered car with a ragged negro driver and as they alternately plunged and crawled along the palm-fringed road Dennis observed:

"And this is November! Will you look at them lawns, as green as the sod in the old country? She'd have wanted to come back to it all fast enough in the long, cold winters up North unless there had been some memory she was trying to put behind her."

McCarty nudged him savagely and there was silence thereafter until they turned in between two tall gateposts and up a broad driveway to a venerable Colonial house whose massive white pillars gleamed like shafts of marble among the trees.

A dusky-hued housemaid admitted them with some suspicion and ushered them into a dainty, chintz-hung sitting room, where presently there came to them a tall, slender, young woman with gold-bronze hair and soft, brown eyes which gazed at them in gentle inquiry.

"I am Mrs. Sawtelle. You wish to see me?"

"Yes, ma'am. My name's McCarty and this is Dennis Riordan. We've come from New York to have a little talk with you, if you'll be so good."

"New York!" she faltered, and her eyes darkened with appreciation. "Oh, I—I remember reading about you in the dispatches! You were both there when"——

"When the body of Mrs. Jarvis was discovered," McCarty supplemented quietly as she hesitated. "We were, ma'am, and it's because of that we're here now."

"Have they found out who did it?" Her voice was a mere whisper, and she clasped her hands convulsively.

"No, ma'am. That is, they're pretty well decided who the guilty party is, but they've not laid hands on him yet." McCarty ignored Dennis' stare and went on earnestly. "Since Mrs. Jarvis' death some papers have come to light among her things which show there was something in her life before ever she'd met and married her husband that she never told, something that she'd have gone any lengths to keep secret."

Mrs. Sawtelle dropped limply into a chair.

"This—this is not possible!" she stammered. "I knew her well and I cannot believe it! But how did you hear of me? Why have you come?"

"To learn the truth, ma'am. You and she were girls together at the Convent of the Blessed Name. You know why she left so suddenly and why she was sick for so long, and then shut herself up like a nun and wouldn't even go to your wedding, though you were closer to her than a sister"——

"Oh, stop! Stop!" She put her hands over her ears as though to shut out the sound of his voice. "I do not know what you are talking about! We were friends, yes, but it was just a girlhood companionship. She left the convent because of illness and was a semi-invalid for a long time. That is why she did not appear at my wedding and why"——

She had spoken eagerly, quickly, but beneath McCarty's calm, incredulous gaze she wavered and her voice died away in her throat.

"No, ma'am." His tone was deprecatingly respectful, but there was a note of finality in it. "You'll excuse me, but we know better than that. We know you were in her confidence and only you can tell us what happened that spring of 1907, and who the man was"——

"You are mistaken!" She spoke with studied hauteur, but her lips were trembling. "I have no knowledge of any secret in Mrs. Jarvis' girlhood such as you intimate. Who sent you to me?"

"Mr. Jarvis himself. The papers that he found mentioned your name," McCarty fabricated boldly. "He asked us to come to you quietly, rather than do anything that would bring you into notoriety, ma'am."

"What are these papers?"

"Well," McCarty hesitated and then plunged, "there's a bit of an old diary"——

"A diary!" Mrs. Sawtelle clutched the arms of her chair. "I thought it was destroyed!"

McCarty concealed a start of triumph.

"Only partly, ma'am. There's enough of it left to tell Mr. Jarvis that his wife had lived a lie with him these five years; that she hid from him something he'd a right to know. Mrs. Sawtelle, who was the other man and what was he to her?"

She rose to her feet slowly and the brown eyes flashed.

"If I knew, do you think that I would betray her confidence?" she said. "If there were any secret which she did not tell her husband do you think I would speak now? She is dead and whatever she may have had locked in her heart must die with her."

"Not if it helps her murderer to go free." McCarty's tone was suddenly stern.

"Her—murderer!" Mrs. Sawtelle gasped. "You don't mean—it cannot be! She told me he was dead!"

An irrepressible gurgle emanated from Dennis' throat, but McCarty remained seemingly unmoved.

"Dead he may be, but there's another knew her story. Another who has blackmailed her out of thousands in the past year and who finally killed her"——

"Oh, God! the young woman breathed. "What shall I do?"

"Tell us the truth, ma'am, and help us to find him," McCarty urged. "You can do your friend no good now by keeping still and if she could know she would want you to speak. 'Twill be on your soul if her murderer escapes, and as for her husband, half the truth is worse for him than the whole of it."

Mrs. Sawtelle paced slowly to the window, where she stood for long gazing out over the rolling lawns to the blue waters of Lake Pontchartrain, while McCarty and Dennis waited in silence. At length she turned and her face, though pale, was composed and resolute.

"You are right. If she came to her death because of the secret which she has guarded, then I must break my promise to her. Mr. Jarvis was not her first husband. She ran away, eloped over the convent wall with a fascinating stranger, after a month of as tempestuous and romantic a wooing as ever a girl had. This was in the autumn of 1906, when she was only 16.

"The convent is situated on the bank of the Mississippi, about 50 miles above New Orleans, and a month before, a beautiful yacht had dropped anchor within sight of our school windows. Sometimes a small boat came ashore and we caught glimpses of a tall, handsome, dark man in white flannels. We made up all sorts of silly, sentimental stories about him and the yacht, which seemed to us like a floating fairyland.

"One afternoon in recreation hour I happened to be in a far corner of the garden when I heard someone laughing softly above me and looked up. Evelyn was sitting on the top of the wall and I heard a man's voice on the other side. That night in bed she told me it was the stranger from the yacht; that he was a Frenchman named Leon Hoguet and that he had the most wonderful eyes she had ever seen.

"It was the beginning and before I knew it she was slipping out every night to meet him, but she never crossed the wall until the night she went away with him for good. I could have stopped it by going to the Mother Superior, but it did not enter by head to betray her, although I blamed myself a million times in the years that followed. I was a year older than she, but the romance of it thrilled me and we had both been kept like children, ignorant of the world.

"I shall never forget the night when she whispered to me that he had asked her to marry him. I was frightened and begged her not to run away, but she would not listen, and the next night I stole out with her to the wall, kissed her and handed up her little bundle of clothing and heard her drop from the top down into his arms. The next morning the yacht was gone from the river.

"Of course, there was a frightful time when she was missed, but I would not admit that I knew anything and her guardian and the Mother Superior both hushed it up for fear of scandal. I heard nothing ready to help—and pay?"

"I don't know what you are talking about." Jimmy Barstow was swinging his head slowly, doggedly, now. He slid away from the touch of the woman. His hands had clenched. "So you're not French, eh?"

"No—but I may be American."

"Checking up on me, is that it?"

Mlle. LaBlanc smiled. Again she went forward, and her hands touched Jimmie's cheeks.

"Jimmie boy," she said quietly, "we mustn't quarrel. We may be working along entirely different lines. But somebody must always be right in every difference. Now, between us—who is it?"

A crooked smile came to the lips of Jimmie Barstow. His eyes narrowed, his head went forward.

Read Genesis chapter 7, verses 5, 17 and 13," he answered enigmatically, "and John, chapter 1, verses 14 and 26."

The Pilot raised on tiptoe that she might kiss him. For, applying the numerals to the alphabet, Jimmie Barstow had spelled the name of the land of the Hun, the password of imperial Germany's spy system! Then he laughed—for the first time in three months.

"And I've been afraid of you," he whispered, as he held The Pilot tight in his arms. "I've loved you—loved you, yet been afraid of you. You were so Frenchy!"

"I'm a good actress, Jimmie."

"And I'm a bum American, I guess," Jimmy Barstow's old look came back for a moment. "But why not?" He turned from The Pilot with a gesture almost of hatred. "What've I got out of America? Didn't I work my head off in the service? Wasn't I faithful? Day in and day out, year after year—and then—then I see an ex-policeman shoved over my head, a mullet headed, flabby harness bull put into the swivel chair on the inside office to tell me what to do? I'd counted on the money for the job. When it didn't come, I played the market. I lost. Somebody had to make up those margins—and I only had one thing to sell—information. So I sold it." Frowning, glowering, his eyes beady and snapping, he stood before the woman, defending himself like some cornered animal. "It turned me!" came angrily. "It turned me—and I'm not ashamed of it!"

The Pilot smiled.

"He was here this afternoon."

"The Chief? What for?"

"To ask me to spy on you!"

Jimmie Barstow's hands clenched again.

Then he stood watching her for a long moment.

"And give you the password, too?"

The accusation hit. The eyes of Mlle. LaBlanc flashed.

"Must we prove everything to each other?"

"It's not a case of proof now." Jimmie Barstow still stood at bay. "I'm in your hands. And do what you please—I don't care. If Fluehr ever confesses, I'm done for anyway."

"Fluehr?" The pilot laughed. "Heinrich Fluehr—who went to Fort Oglethorpe? And Jimmie—you're worrying about him? Fluehr never even told me anything, Jimmie!"

A deep breath whistled into Jimmie Barstow's lungs. He swallowed, like a man relieved from some great choking.

"What was his serial number?" he asked.

"Fleuhr's? He had two. In Nauen, his wireless number was 45. In the Berlin office it was 16547 The last was the one you knew him by."

Jimmie Barstow swallowed again. Then he came forward quickly, picked up his hat, started toward the door—and turned.

"There'll be a story in the papers tomorrow," he said sharply. "More stuff about the U-boats. They'll quote the Police Commissioner—saying that the Germans are carrying seaplanes, that there's danger of aerial attack on New York, and that all lights will be extinguished in the city and the harbor tomorrow night."

"Well?" A queer sharpness had come into The Pilot's voice. "What's the real reason?"

Jimmie looked down the hall.

"How about that servant?"

"My messenger. She's safe. What's the real reason?"

"Transports."

"How many?"

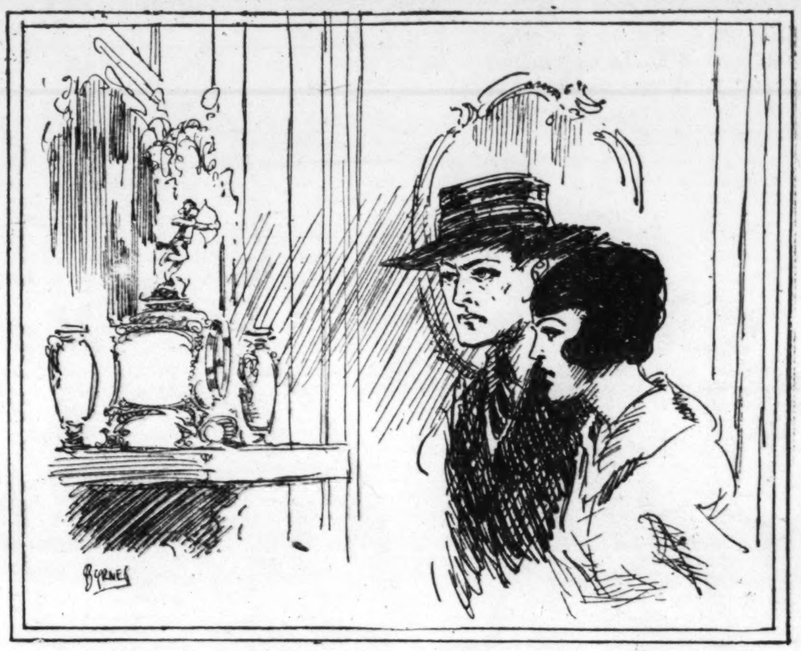
"Thirty."

"What average of men?"

"Thirty-eight hundred and up to the boat."

"How many in the convoy?"

"That's it!" Jimmie Barstow turned to her with a cold smile. "They've been sending 'em over too fast for the warships. There's no convoy!"



"A quarter of an hour yet," he said nervously. "The minutes drag, don't they?"

The white hands of The Pilot trembled slightly.

"So?" Then she smiled. "And the lights go out—to allow them to get into the open ocean without our men on the water front being the wiser?"

Jimmie Barstow nodded. Again he looked down the hall.

"They're figuring on sneaking out. One is to show a light at Brooklyn Bridge—another at Sandy Hook. That's all." He looked at his watch. "It's after 5. I'm due at the office. The Chief'll"——

"Wait!" The hand of The Pilot, white and strained, was on his arm. "What time?"

"They're due at Sandy Hook at 3 in the morning."

Then Jimmie Barstow took a cigarette from his case and lit it. Mademoiselle noticed that his hand shook slightly as he held the flame to the tobacco tube, that his features were old and haggard.

"My poor Jimmee!" she cooed, lapsing again into her accent. Jimmie kissed her, coldly, almost absently.

"I've given you my big bet," he said, jerkily, "now play it!" And he was gone.

Forty-five minutes later The Pilot looked at a message she had just deciphered in the iodine fumes—and smiled. Thirty-four hours more, and she stood with Jimmie Barstow, watching the clock.

"A quarter of an hour yet," he said nervously. "The minutes drag, don't they?"

They turned nervously at the sound of steps in the hall. But it was only Augusta.

"I have been to the pharmacist's," she announced quietly.

"Yes?"

"The light was burning in the back room."

The Pilot smiled.

"Waiting for the code from the submarines."

"Off Sandy Hook?"

Jimmie Barstow moistened his lips.

"How many are there?"

"Submarines? Seven."

Mlle. LaBlanc drew forth a sales sheet and held it to the light.

"U-54—U-234—U-112—U-8—U-87—U-93—U-71," she read. "Twelve torpedoes. Well equipped with shells. Will lie off Sandy Hook. Can sight transports against skyline. H. K."

"Who sent it?"

"The pharmacist. He took it off the wireless—in the back room of his drug store. The antennae run up the chimney."

Jimmie Barstow's tongue scurried about his lips.

"We've got to watch ourselves," he almost whispered. "This might mean death for us—if they got hold of it. I've got a taxi waiting in case"——

"Jimmie!" The Pilot's hands were at his breast. "You're playing the wrong game. You're not going to run?"

"Me?" Jimmie Barstow laughed coldly. "Not unless something happens that"——

He stopped. His jaw dropped. On the mantel the little gold clock was chiming! Three o'clock!

And with the stroke there came from far away the sullen boom of a great explosion, bellowing sullenly against the early morning noises of the city, seeming to echo and reverberate through the room like slow crashing thunder. Mlle. LaBlanc touched a dainty finger against another.

"Number one," she counted quietly. Jimmie, talking through his teeth, faced her unsteadily.

"You've got more nerve than I have"——

Again a roar from the distance—and again. Then a sudden succession of tremendous, crackling barks, a steadily rising crescendo, followed by a rumbling bass which broke intermittently into the continuous, far-distant bellowing. From outside came the sound of shouts, of screams, as New York scrambled and seethed, to crowd the streets, to seek in the darkened skies, some explanation of the rising roar of the distance. Within, Mlle. LaBlanc looked again at the clock.

"There will be good news for Berlin soon," she mused.

Then she whirled at a clanging of the bell—a bell that usually no more than tinkled. The hurrying form of Augusta flashed down the hall. The hoarse voice of a man—hurried steps—the face of a haggard being in the doorway. The odor of drugs—it was the pharmacist.

"Something went wrong!" he gasped. "I—I just caught it off the wireless!"

"Wrong?" Jimmie Barstow had leaped forward, caught him by the throat—held him, like some savage animal with its victim. "You're lying!" he rasped. "You're lying! I tell you—it couldn't go wrong"——

With a great wrench the pharmacist freed himself and pawed at his reddened throat.

"I caught messages," he replied. But they weren't from the boats!"

"You're insane!" The Pilot was before him, her eyes wild, her hands extended and clenched. "If not from the U-boats, then they were from the transports, you fool! Calling for aid! Go back to your wireless and listen in!"

But the pharmacist only stood there, staring.

"The messages were from the United States warships," he announced dully, "signaling Sayville that our submarines had been surrounded—and that four of them had been sunk after five minutes of fire!"

The last words were shaken from between his teeth by the frenzied hands of Jimmie Barstow. The Pilot had turned and was impotently beating her fists against the wall. The white face of Augusta appeared at the doorway. Barstow nodded.

"Get that taxi down the street—in front of the fruitstand," he ordered. Then he whirled to the woman. "Quick! Throw some things into a grip—we've got to make a run for it! They outguessed me!"

"Outguessed you!" wailed LaBlanc, "out-tricked you—you fool! Why couldn't I see it—why didn't I know that the Chief never would have let you have that information, when he already suspected you? Why couldn't I have known"——

"Well, don't stand there moaning about it!" The haggard Barstow was shouting now. "Throw some clothes into a grip—and hurry!"

The chugging of a taxicab at the door. Four forms that hurried forth, into the blackness of darkened New York, to mingle with the scurrying, frightened crowds on the street, to hear again the booming of the guns in the distance, then to glide into the open doorway of the cab. Jimmie halted, only for a second.

"Grand Central," he ordered, "and hurry!"

The door clanged. Lightless, dizzily, the taxicab hurried through the black streets. Cramped in the corner of the taxicab, the pharmacist chattered and moaned to himself. LaBlanc, The Pilot, was silent. Jimmie Barstow, silent, too, sat beating one hand into the cupped palm of the other. Then they all straightened. The lights of New York had flashed on again, bringing a dull glow where only night had been before. The taxi veered a corner, swerved, rushed over cobblestone streets, then came to a chortling stop beneath a great archway. The white face of The Pilot sought the window.

"Oh, I beg pardon," said Jimmie Barstow, and for some reason he was calm and smiling again, "this is the only grand central I know. Grand central crook headquarters—commonly called the Tombs. Step out, please—you'll find a perfect cordon of gentlemanly policemen to escort you to your cells!"

It was the next day that Jimmie Barstow sat in the back room of a saloon with a probationary operative, lecturing on the arts of the game.

"It isn't so much when you get on to it," said Barstow. "Take, for instance, that case of The Pilot. The first dope we got was that the servant made a good many trips to a drug store—and every time she had a prescription filled there a German U-boat nailed a freighter leaving New York without a convoy. What was the logical conclusion? Invisible writing on a prescription blank, with a message to some guy operating a private wireless. So I managed to meet the lady of the house and made love to her. When we

A NEW, INTENSIVE DETECTIVE STORY

BY ISABEL OSTRANDER,

Author of "The Clue in the Air," "At 1:30," Etc.

THE STORY FROM THE START.

The beautiful Mrs. Oliver Jarvis has been mysteriously murdered. Police Inspector Druet and Wade Terhune, an unofficial criminologist, aided by the practical ex-Roundsman McCarty and his fireman friend, Dennis Riordan, found the body of the victim strangely hidden in a grewsome private museum of crime kept as a hobby by the elderly Calvin Norwood. These five men, with Oliver Jarvis, husband of the murdered woman, are engaged in systematically working out a number of contradictory clues, which point alternately to various likely and unlikely persons, only to end in futile entanglement. One of these clues, however, McCarty and his friend Dennis have succeeded in linking up with positive evidence that blackmail had preceded the crime of murder, and this evidently in connection with the bygone case of the notorious Hoyos, who disappeared under sinister circumstances 10 years before.

The two detectives are now in New Orleans following up this clue, and tracing the girlhood history of the unhappy Evelyn Jarvis, who was known to have lived in the Southern city before her marriage.

CHAPTER XX.

FROM OUT THE PAST.

ON A BRIGHT, balmy afternoon in late November the Planters' Bank of New Orleans was about to close its doors for the day when two men, obviously strangers, entered and approached the paying teller's window. One was tall and lantern jawed and moved with the lithe ease which told of perfect muscular training; the other heavy set but not bulky, with a stubby, reddish mustache on the long upper lip and keen, smiling blue eyes.

"You've a director at this bank named Justin Messager. I'd like to know where I can find him, please," announced the heavier of the two strangers.

"Mr. Messager never comes to the bank and rarely to a meeting," he replied coldly. "Is there anything we can do for you?"

"No, it's him I've got to see. Where did you say he lived?"

"I didn't say!" the teller snapped. "Mr. Messager is very feeble and does not permit himself to be annoyed. What is the nature of your business with him?"

"That's his lookout!" The blue eyes narrowed and glinted gray. "We've been sent from New York to see him and if you want to make a secret of his whereabouts, I suppose there's a directory or two in this town! Come along, Denny!"

"Oh, from New York?" The teller's manner underwent a change. "Mr. Messager lives out on St. Charles avenue; I'll write the address for you. The first vice president is here, if you would care to see him instead."

The stranger declined, and receiving the proffered slip of paper, he departed, followed by his companion.

"Look here, Mac, you've not told me a word of what we're after!" the latter complained. "Who is this Justin Messager, and what for are we trailing a feeble old man that'll likely have us thrown out for intruding on him?"

"He was a crony of Pierre Chartrand, and Chartrand was the guardian of Evelyn Beaudet as was, Oliver Jarvis' wife," McCarty responded. "Is it beginning to get through your thick head? Chartrand was the only one belonging to her and he's dead, but his most intimate friend is our next best bet."

"Thick I may be," Dennis conceded in some resentment, "but not being a mindreader, it's not clear to me why a pal of the old man would know a secret that was kept from the girl's own husband. Have it your own way, but when we pick ourselves up after being chucked out, it'll be me that heads the next expedition, and that to a place where you can get one of the fizzes that put this burg on the map. My throat is like a drydock after that train."

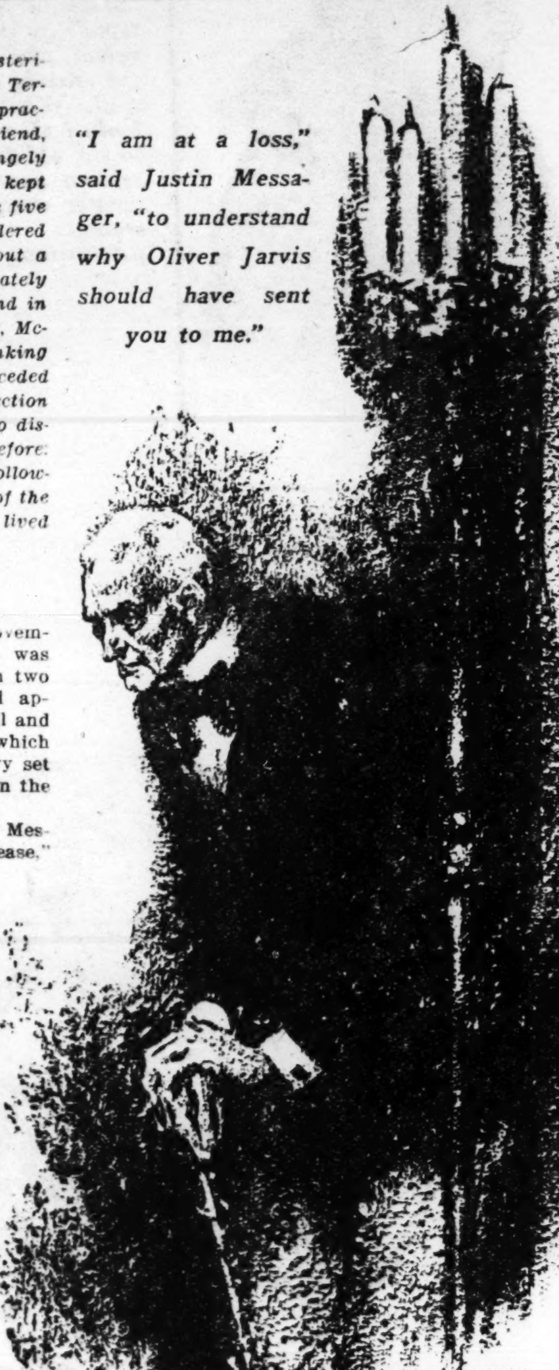
The business section of the city once passed, St. Charles avenue revealed itself as a thoroughfare of stately homes, and before one of the most imposing of these they alighted and then paused, scanning the house with speculative eyes.

"Look at the shades all down," Dennis commented.



"I am at a loss," said Justin Messager, "to understand why Oliver Jarvis should have sent you to me."

"'Twould be just your luck, Mac, if he'd died on you! From what that Willie boy at the bank said"——

"Come on!" McCarty interrupted firmly. "Now, remember, we're sent here by Mr. Jarvis, and don't act as if you'd come to lift the silver!"

The aged negro butler who replied to their ring bobbed his wooly white head obsequiously as he took the note which McCarty produced, but seemed dubious as to his master's reception of them. However, he ushered them into a huge drawing room, where massively carved furniture was arranged stiffly against the wall and the pendants of the antiquated crystal chandelier tinkled to the vibration of the ex-roundsman's heavy tread.

Dennis seated himself gingerly in the nearest chair and looked about him with professional interest.

"'Twould make a grand firetrap!" he remarked. "With the floors all oily and that gallery around the hall out there to act as a flue, if you'd give two seconds' start and a lick of wind, 'twould go up like tinder."

"Is it a fire we're here for, or information?" demanded McCarty sarcastically. "Whist, now, somebody's coming."

Slow, shuffling steps sounded upon the stairs, accompanied by the stumping of a heavy cane, and a thin, querulous voice exclaimed:

"Easy, Robert, easy! Ouch!—No, don't drag! There!"

He peered with curiously bright, searching eyes at his visitors as they rose, but did not speak until the servant had deposited him in a chair and withdrawn.

"Mr. McCarty?" He looked from one to the other of them, and the ex-roundsman bowed. "In this note which you have brought to me from Mr. Oliver Jarvis of New York he requests me to give you any information at my disposal. I presume he means concerning his wife, of whose tragic death we have all heard here, but I am at a loss to understand why he should have sent you to me."

"Well, sir, he thought you, being Mr. Chartrand's friend, would likely know more than anyone else about Mrs. Jarvis," McCarty explained. "This is my assistant, Mr. Riordan. You've heard, of course, that Mrs. Jarvis was murdered; strangled to death in a private museum belonging to an old friend of her husband?"

Mr. Messager nodded.

"A frightful affair! She was a lovely child, a charming young girl; I watched her grow to womanhood under my old friend's care." He checked himself suddenly, and added: "Have they found the assassin?"

"Not yet, sir, but the police are working on it and Mr. Jarvis has hired a celebrated private detective, the greatest in the country, to investigate the crime for him. We're here on a different matter entirely." McCarty paused. "Could you tell me, sir, what you know of Mrs. Jarvis' family?"

"She had none," Mr. Messager responded, his bright old eyes fixed shrewdly on the questioner's face. "Her parents both died before she was 6 and in her father's will Pierre Chartrand was named her sole guardian and executor of the estate. But why have you come to me? What sort of information does Mr. Jarvis seek; and why? He knew all that I can tell you of the Beaudet family at the time of the marriage."

"Well, sir, in going over his wife's old letters and private papers, he came upon something which made him anxious for further information," McCarty remarked truthfully enough. "Had neither of her parents any relatives living at all?"

"None. Like herself, her mother was an orphan from childhood, and her father, Felix Beaudet, lost his parents in a railroad disaster a few months after his marriage, just before Evelyn was born." The querulous voice reiterated. "But Mr. Jarvis knew this!"

"Mr. Chartrand was a bachelor, wasn't he?" McCarty persisted. "Can you tell me who the young lady's friends were as she grew up?"

The old gentleman crossed his hands on the top of his gold-headed cane and straightened himself in his chair.

"She was a very quiet, studious girl and cared little for society. After she left the Convent of the Blessed Name, where she was educated, she wished to join the order, but Mr. Chartrand opposed that, and she submitted to his wishes, although she took very little part in the social life about her, shutting herself up with her books and flowers and music. When my niece, Loretta, was married to Peyton Sawtelle, she would not even attend the wedding, although they had been inseparable at the convent."

"She's been married to Mr. Jarvis for five years," McCarty observed. "How long before that did she leave the convent?"

"Let me see. Bless me! It is 10 years now; no, 11 next spring. She had always been a frail, delicate child and broke down from overstudy. I remember that she was ill for a long time." He moved impatiently in his chair. "But what is there in all this that can interest Mr. Jarvis now? What was the nature of the letter or document which he found?"

"That is not for me to say, sir," McCarty replied, respectfully but firmly. "You'll hear all about it from Mr. Jarvis as soon as he can pull himself together, I've no doubt. I was just sent here to find out what I could of Mrs. Jarvis prior to her marriage. Did she stay shut away like that from everybody all the four or five years before she met Mr. Jarvis.

The old man hesitated, still regarding his visitor fixedly. At last he spoke, but slowly, as if choosing each word with care.

THE SECOND GENERATION

Character Sketches by W. E. HILL

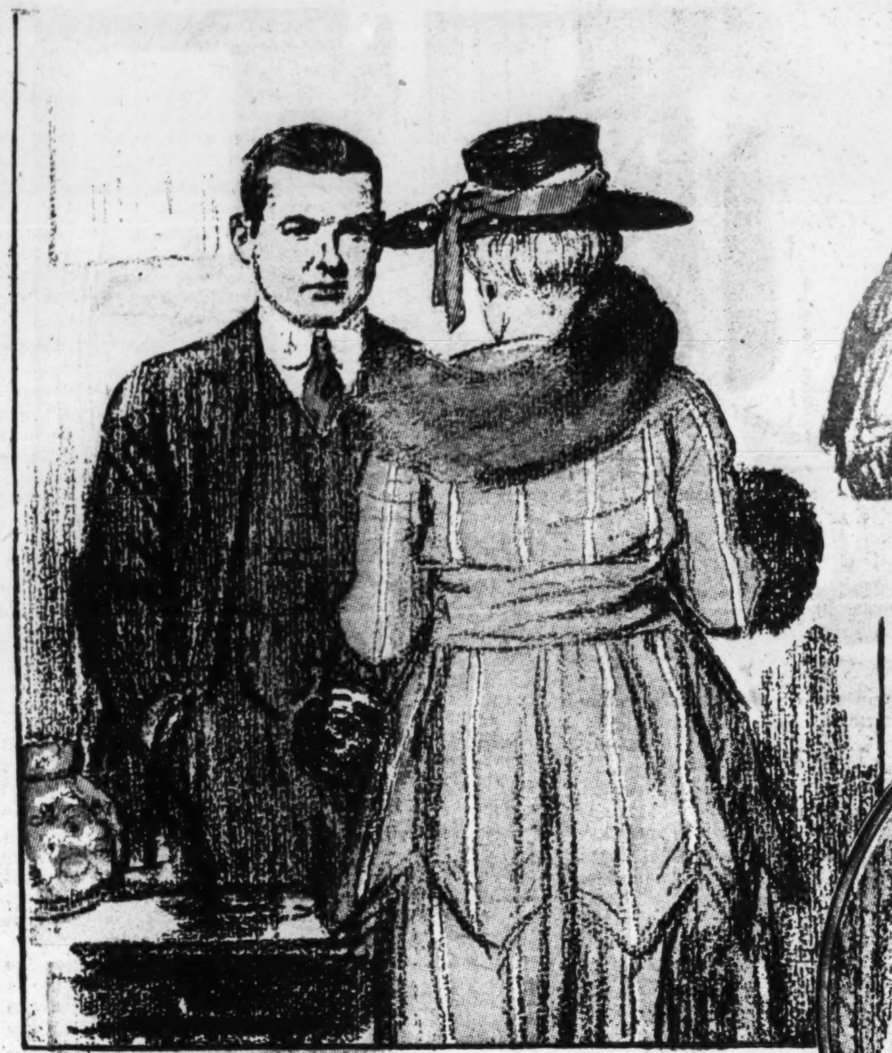
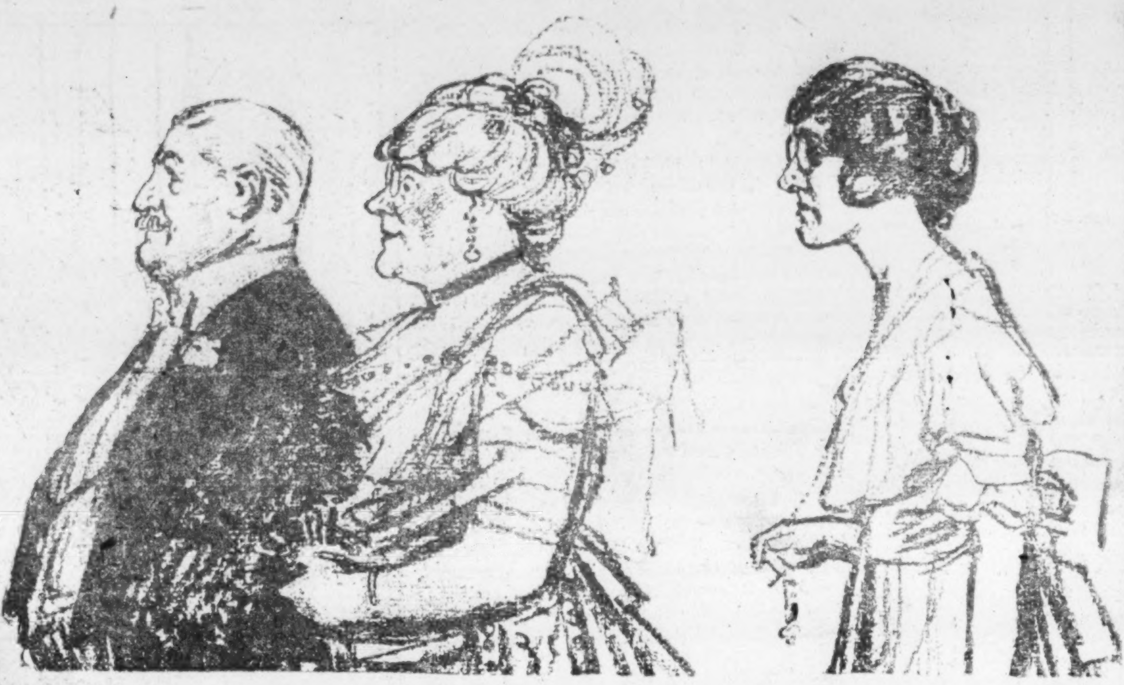
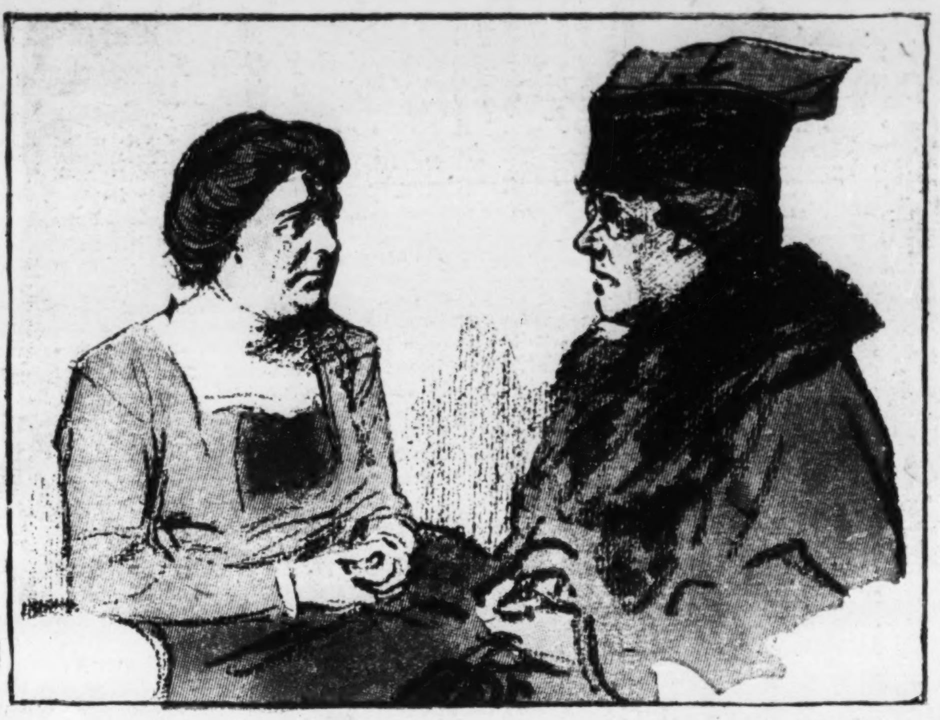
"Oh, it might be all right on a young girl; not on a woman of your age." It was the proud boast of Waldron's mother that she was going to stay young for Waldron's sake, but the frankness of the second generation proves somewhat of a damper on the lady's efforts.



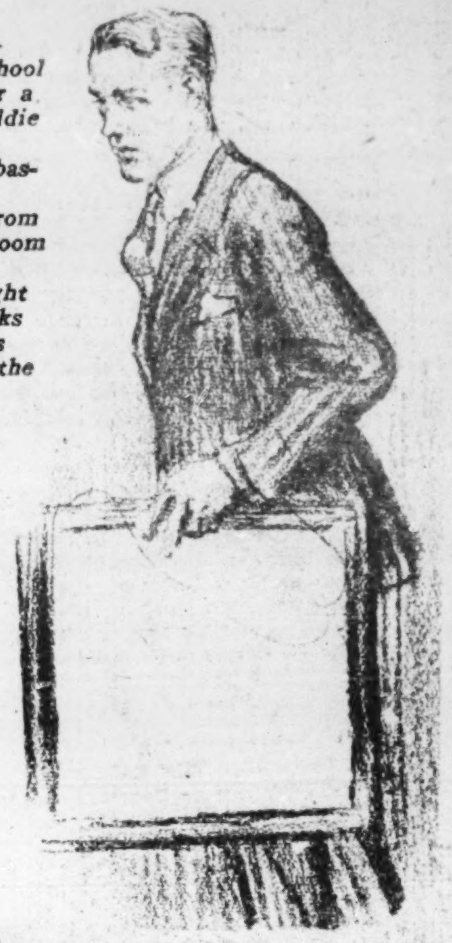


Pity the sad plight of Addie, who loves books and whose ambition is to live on a farm and raise chickens and pigs. Addie's papa and mamma, however, love the gay life, and Addie seems doomed to be forever carted around from one swell hotel to another.

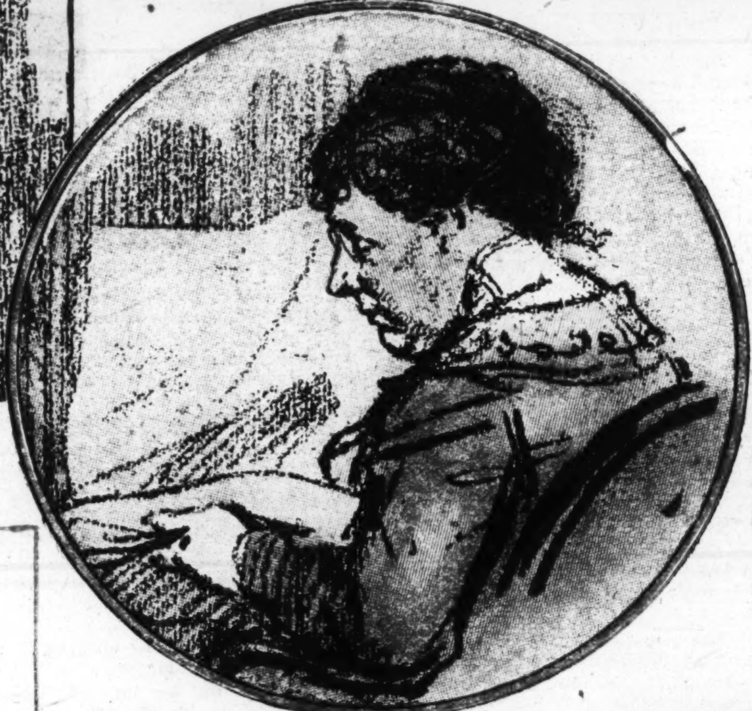


"The things they talk about and the plays they go to see! Why, if our generation had acted the way girls and boys do nowadays! And, my dear, if you object they just tell you they have their own life to live—whatever that means!"

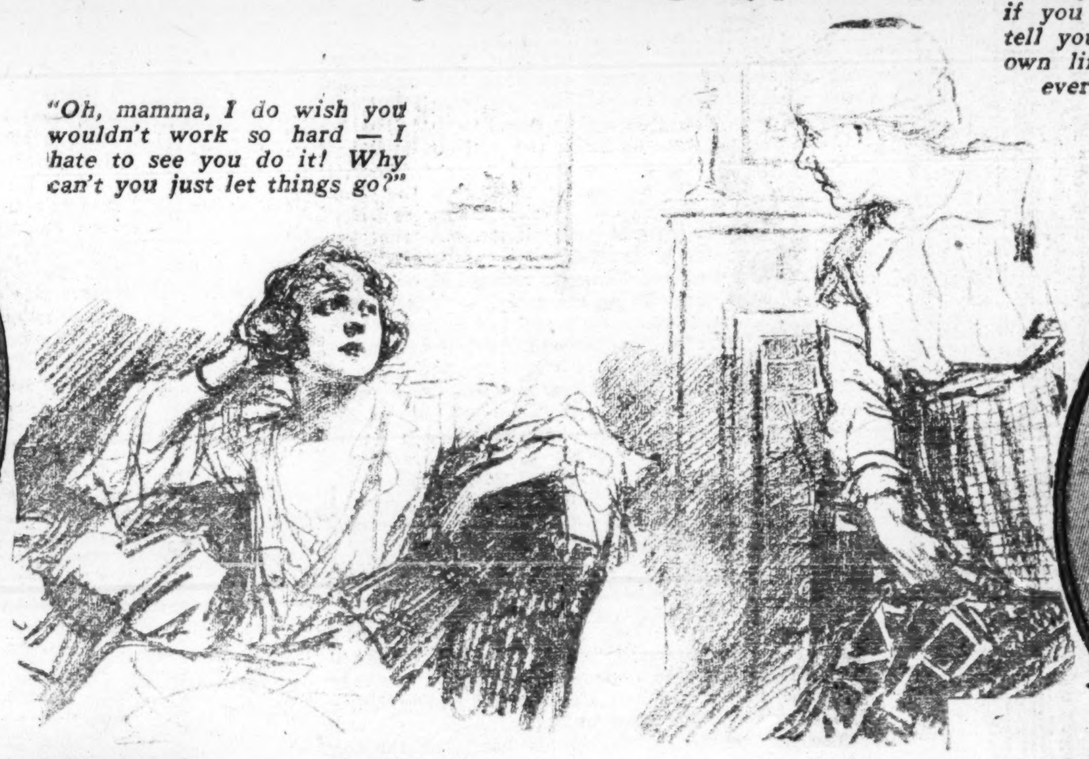
Eddie's roommate from school being due for a week-end, Eddie removes the "Siege of Sebastapol" in the velvet mat from the sitting room wall. What looked all right to the old folks seldom passes muster with the second generation.

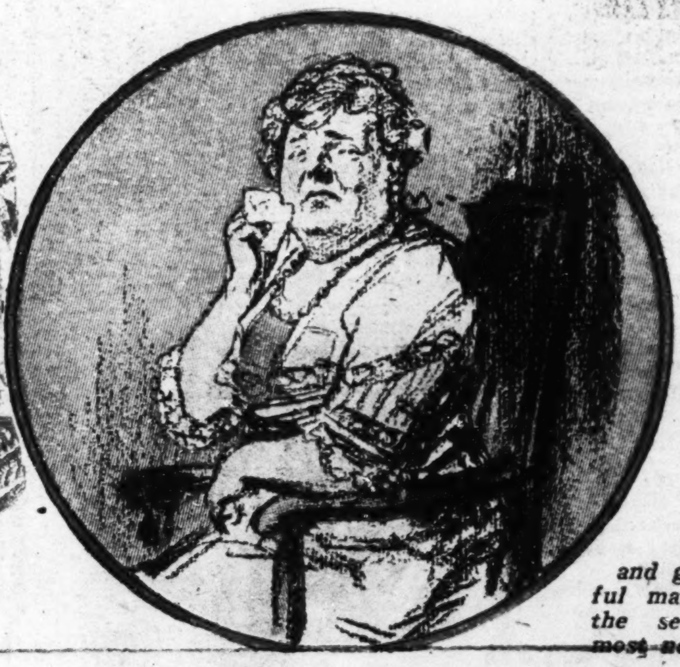


"The trouble with your religion, Pop, is that it's out of date—it's had its day." The second generation of the minister's family hands his father a few ideas on religion.

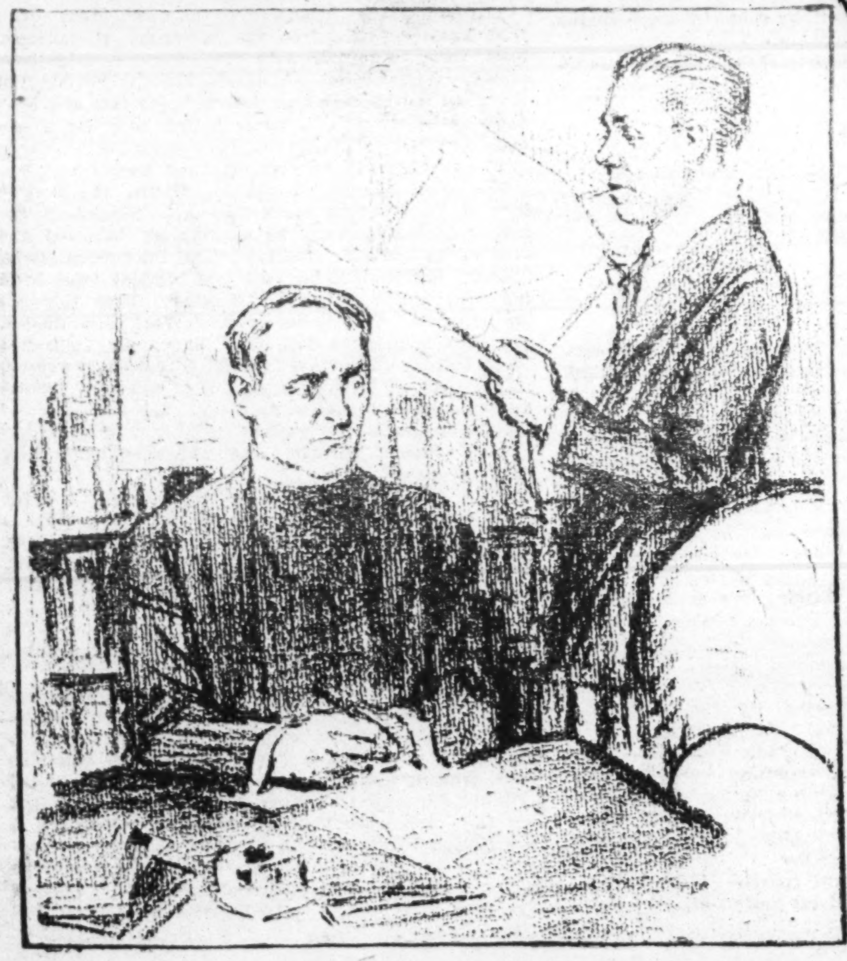


"Oh, mamma, I do wish you wouldn't work so hard — I hate to see you do it! Why can't you just let things go?"



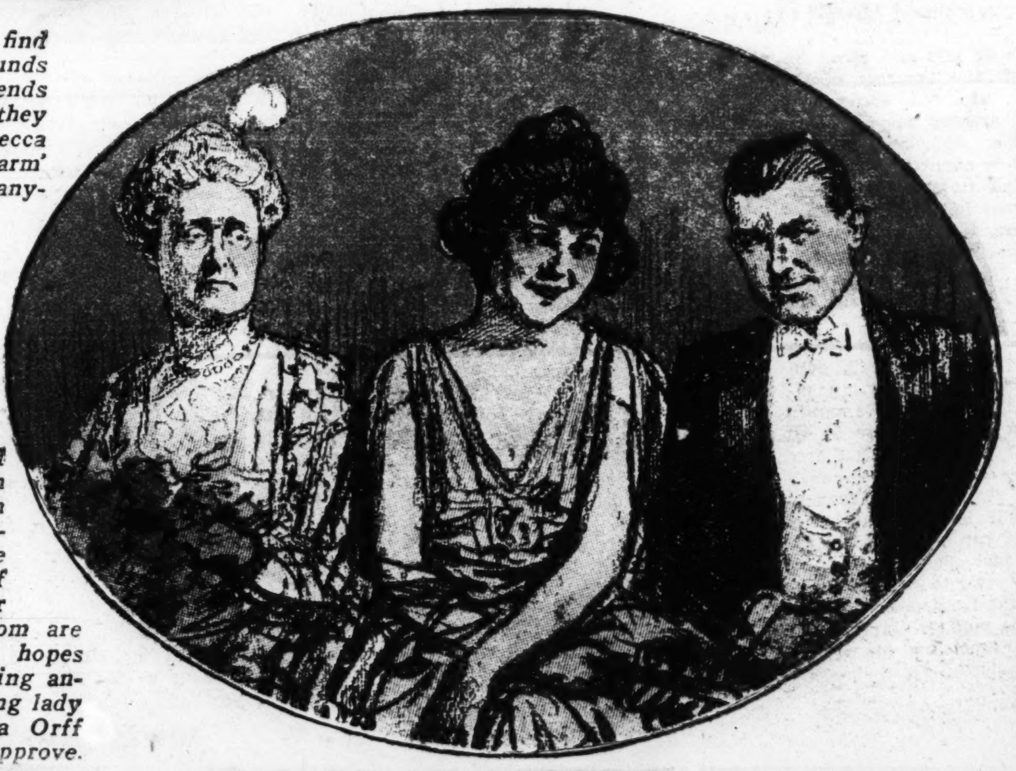


"You never told me you were going out this evening! You'll be awfully sorry when you look back years hence after I am dead and gone!" The tearful mamma, who finds the second generation most neglectful.



"Oh, dear, I can't find any play that sounds fit for Mabel's friends — I do wish they would revive 'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm' —you could take anybody to that!" Getting up a theater party for the young people is not the easiest thing nowadays.

Mrs. Orff, a fond mamma, has been asked to chaperon the second generation at a college prom. Mrs. Orff is watching her only son, in whom are centered all her hopes and ambitions, being angled for by a young lady of whom Mamma Orff does not quite approve.



Trying to get an inside track on the young folks' conversation is no simple matter these days, what with snatches of Froude, Karl Marx and Havelock Ellis being handed back and forth. At least so Mr. and Mrs. Rutt find it, with three very modern offspring to keep up with.

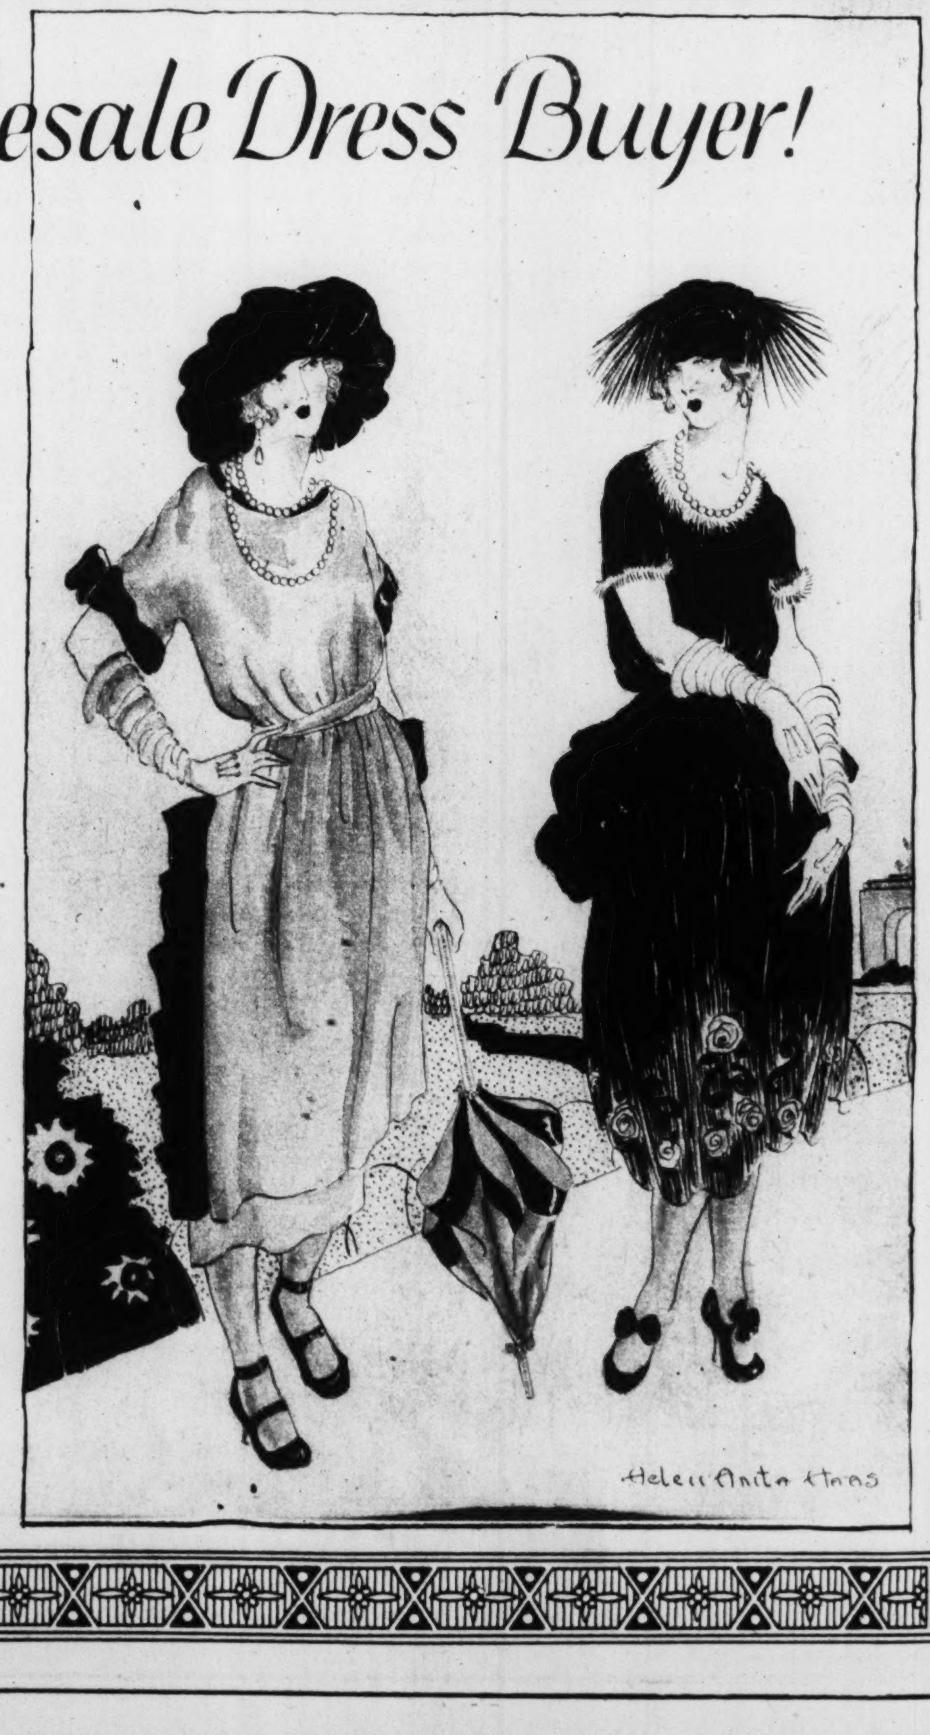
The Première Parisian Exhibition of DRESSES FOR SPRING

Is Acclaimed by the Better Shops of America



THOSE representatives of America's leading retail shops who already visited our New York showrooms during the past week, came away with a deeper appreciation of what we have accomplished for them by creating our line in Paris. It is our first presentation for Spring, 1920, of Parisian dresses transposed to American needs, and is now in full sway.

The spirit which our designers in Paris have inculcated in their conceptions of the Parisian Spring silhouette is a natural result of their intimacy, their personal contact, with the Parisian style market.

Our showing will gain added momentum as fast as the styles are released by our designers permanently employed in Paris.
